"I say here now that if this commission had not been appointed by the late government that the death knell of public ownership in this province would have been wrung," said Mr. Doherty. "The greatest enemy of hydro in Ontario has been those who went around the country giving the loudest hurrahs for it. This expenditure of $500,000 on thise report will safeguard public ownership for ever and bring back ten fold returns to the province. We have this report now to guide us in the greater St. Lawrence development."

"Do you mean to say that the motive of the late government in appointing this commission was to save hydro?" asked the Premier.

"Yes," replied Mr. Doherty.

Commission Expenses

The Premier gave the House's statement showing the cost of the commission. The commissioners were paid: $104,680 as follows: W. D. Gregory, chairman $26,320; M. J. Haney $22,090; L. Harris $11,820; J. A. Ross, $10,700; R. A. Ross, $3,750. For the engineering services was paid $120,266 divided as follows: the late W. J. Francis $56,678; staff $30,566; F. B. Brown, $26,491; C. H. Mitchell, $3,925; F. L. Stuart $2,606; Accountants, $87,515; general staff, $65,615; incidental and office expense $126,724 including $39,697 expense to the Ontario Hydro electric power commission.

Had Nothing to Say

Neither Sir Adam Beck nor former Premier E. C. Drury would comment on report of Gregory commission when interviewed over long distance telephone last night. Both reserved any remarks thy might wish to make until such time as they had had an opportunity of examining voluminous document which commission had bequeathed to legislature.

"I may make statement after I have seen and examined report," said Sir Adam from London, "but in meantime I have nothing to say. I had heard that findings had been tabled in legislature, but I know practically nothing of their tenor. It would be neither wise nor fair for me to comment on either boquets or brick bats without having seen entire report. And, in any case, there is no particular hurry about statement Report or no report, commission will continue operations as usual."

"Do you think findings are worth half million dollars," he was asked. Chuckle came over the wire. "That's not for me to say just now. You had better ask that of some one else."

From his home at Crown Hill, Mr. Drury, listened to brief summary of report, but, although he seemed to be very much interested he refused to discuss item mentioned. "I a glad to hear that report has been tabled," he said, "but I have not seen it, nor do I know anything of its contents."

ITEMS OMEMEE AND DISTRICT

OMEMEE, March 14. — A good good representation from all the churches in Omemee, assembled on Wednesday evening in the Presbyterian church. Many tokens of appreciation were expressed for the splendid programme presented by Rev. F. A. Robinson, of Toronto, and his helpers, Miss Grunert, of Chicago, who was dressed in the costume of a Bethlehem maiden and who opened with a piano solo. Later in the evening she sang, "At Eventide," illustrated with sunset views, which was heartily encored.

Mr. Koffend, of Toronto, dressed as a Mohammedan priest, sang, "Still, Still With Thee," while the programme was varied later on by Mr. Robinson, who sang with great effect, "The Lost Chord." The views illustrating this showed an organist in the choir loft visited by visions of angels and needy human beings.

The lantern slides took the audience through Greece, Asia Minor, Palestine, Egypt and ended with scenes about the Cross of Calvary.

The effect of the views and lecture was most inspiring to the audience.

Mr. Robinson carries a display of work in pottery, representing kitchen utensils in an eastern home. These were made by Syrian children in the Orphans' Home. The proceeds from the sale of these souvenirs are applied to the support of the Home.

The proceeds of the evening amounted to $43.85.

Womens' Institute.

The regular monthly meeting of the Omemee branch of the East Victoria Womens' Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. J. Nichols. The president, Mrs. T. E. McPherson, occupied the chair and a short but interesting programme was given.

The roll call was responded to by a home-made remedy and many helpful ideas were exchanged.

Miss Lila Parsons read a short story entitled, "Listening In," which was thoroughly enjoyed, as did also Mrs. L. Mahood on "A Message for Somebody."

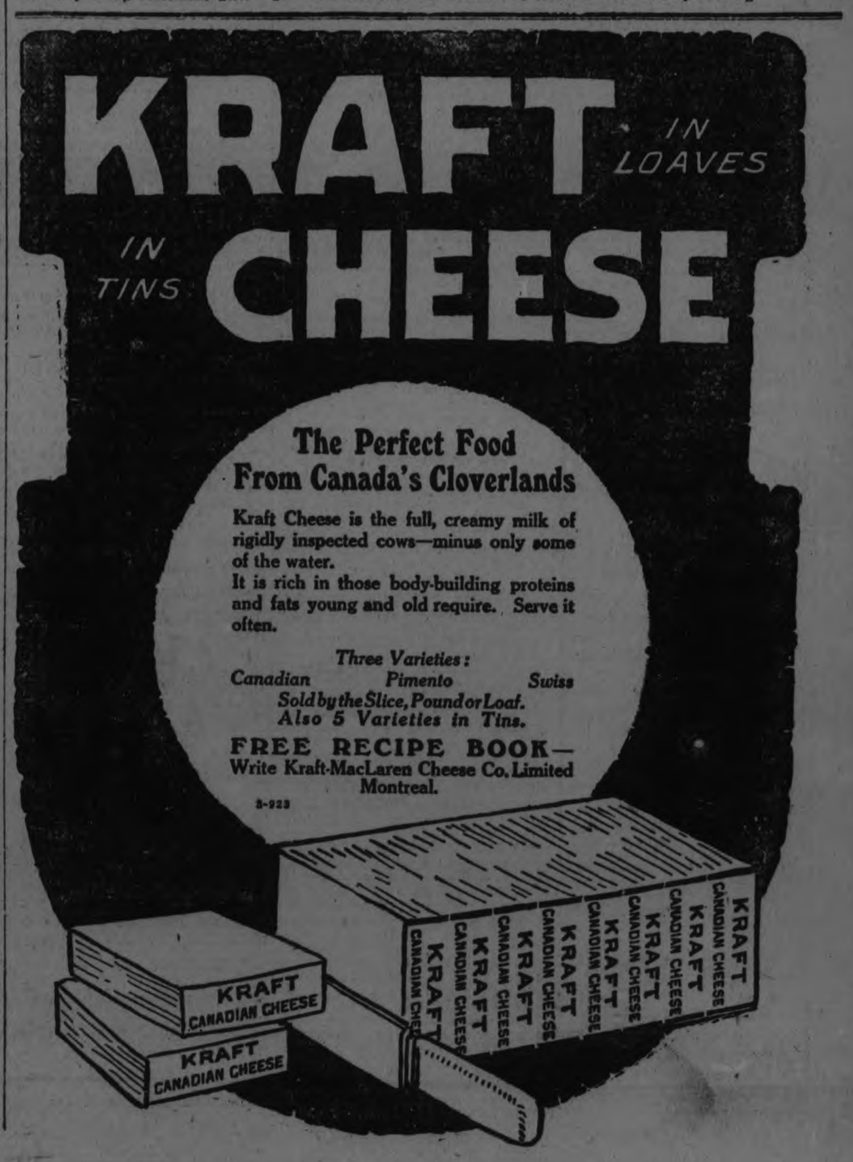
It was unanimously decided to extend an invitation to the district president, Mrs. Adams, of Coboconk, to visit the April meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Sloan. Since the February meeting a campaign for new members has been on with the result that the membership is rapidly increasing, with renewed interest towards the work which is being accomplished through the Institute.

The hostesses were Mrs. E. MacPherson and Mrs. L. Mahood.

Mrs. R. Cornwall and Mrs. H. McGinness, were appointed a programme committee for next month, the roll call to be answered by helpful hints on either gardening or house-cleaning.

Injured by Tree.

Mr. Gordon Bradley, who had the misfortune to be struck on the back by a falling tree which he was sawing down in the woods on Wednesday afternoon, is reported as being somewhat better to-day. It was at first feared that his injuries were of a more serious nature as he had to be removed to his home, but after consulting the doctor, no bones were found broken, and a speedy recovery is looked for by his many friends, as he is an important character in the play, "The Dust of the Earth," to be given in Coronation Hall on Monday evening.



Doukhobors Defy the Government

SECT WON'T STUDY, FEARS ACQUIRING CITY'S WAYS.

NELSON, B.C., March 14.—The Doukhobors are on the warpath.

Yet the world always has known them only as a quiet, peace-loving people. But now they are aroused.

Their warlike efforts are directed at the Province of British Columbia—its educational authorities in particular.

No longer will they send their children to the public schools. For the schools, they say, teach their children to "make war—to kill"—and killing, even animals, is abhorrent to the several thousand Doukhobors colonized here.

And the schools teach their boys and girls "city ways," to "leave the farms and go into the cities and stay out late at night."

Parents Arrested.

The Doukhobors dont' want their children to leave the farms because agriculture is the very foundation of the Doukhobors' lives.

The provincial authorities decided the Doukhobors, members of curious Russian religious sect, must send their children to school. The Doukhobors refused.

A number of parents, from the colony at Outlook near here, were haled into court. They ignored the summons. In their absence, they were fined $50 each.

They declined to pay the fines. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police seized some of their property.

Then came the Doukhobors' most strategic move. The Doukhobors—men and women—staged a nude parade cross country from Outlook to Grand Forks, where the courthouse is located. There, after lively tussles, they were placed in trucks and shipped back to the colony.

To regain confiscated property the Doukhobors paid fines.

The government's victory, though, was short-lived. A teacher, residing in the school building at Outlook, was aroused one night by a man breaking in through a window. She fled, but he set fire to the school.

Four Schools Burned.

Neighbors extinguished the flame. Next day, when police attempted to arrest a suspect, a miniature battle developed.

Alexis Maskioff, the bishop at Outlook, an aged, tall, and dignified figure in flowing white robes, walked nearly 40 miles from Outlook to the mother colony here. Gaining an interview with the magistrate, he demanded the release of the man taken into custody, following the Outlook school blaze.

Meeting with refusal, he threw a roll of bills to the floor and immediately started to disrobe. He was adjudged insane and committed to an asylum.

Meanwhile three more schools were burned.

Russians entered the school at Brilliant, and, in Russian, urged the children to throw down their books.

There are some who think the provincial officials have been too lenient with the Doukhobors. But the Doukhobors, according to Premier Oliver, "are a thrifty people, successful farmers and good citizens."

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Two Funerals in Campbellford Today -- Personals.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 13.—Mrs. Chas. Bedford, Sr., of Seymour, River Road, died on Wednesday morning after a long illness. Her death has been expected for some time. The funeral service will be held in Christ Church Friday afternoon, leaving the house at twelve o'clock and the service about about one o'clock.

Miss Ida M. Muffitt died very suddenly at her sister's home in Lindsay on Tuesday night. Miss Muffitt, who used to live here with her sister, Miss May Muffitt, at Mr. Thos. Pope's, was ill for some time about a year ago and after getting better, went to Lindsay with Mr. and Mrs. J. Wenman last October. Her remains were brought to Campbellford on the noon train on Wednesday, and will be buried on Friday afternoon, service in Christ Church at three o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Wenman, of Lindsay, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Vanblaricom, of Guelph, arrived on the same train, and will remain till after Friday. The late Miss Muffit spent two weeks here at Christmas time.

Born.—In Seymour, on Tuesday, March 11, 1924, to Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCullogh, a son.

The Girls' Auxiliary of Christ Church had their regular weekly meeting on Tuesday night. Ten members were present. The special feature of the evening was a visit from Miss Veitch, the provincial nurse. She gave a demonstration in bathing and dressing an infant.

Miss Marion McCannan, of Peterborough, spent the week-end with her cousin, Miss Dorothy Bullen, Rear Street.

Miss Eva Bullen, R.N., is spending a few days with her brother, R. J. Bullen, before leaving for Rochester, Minn.

Staff Captain and Mrs. Cameron, of Toronto, will conduct the services at the Salvation Army citadel Monday evening next.

Personals

Mrs. H. O. Richardson, Queen Street, went to Toronto Thursday morning to spend a week with her sister, Mrs. Milburn McCarty.

Mr. Thos. Johnston, of Peterborough, spent Wednesday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. Johnston. Mr. Chas. Haig, principal of the public school, has been away from school for a few days on account of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyer, Frank Street, entertained a large number of young people with a dance on Tuesday night.

MODERN MARRIAGE BRANDED FAILURE.

Flapper Is All Wrong, Also, Declares Irish Novelist—Raps American Divorce.

CHICAGO, March 14.—"Modern marriage is the world's greatest failure."

This is the opinion of Shaw Desmond, Irish novelist and lecturer, expressed in an interview here. Desmond, author of "Bodies and Souls," "Passions," and other works, is happily married and the father of two children.

"The modern marriage is a constant battle between spiritual and physical love. It can be made a success; but, of course, there is no short cut to paradise. The proportion of marriages that are unhappy, passively or actively, is enormous. The way to make happy marriages is to begin with the boys and girls—give children a proper education in sex and life in a clear, beautiful way. You have to start with children—adults are hopeless—most men are dead from the neck up after 40, anyway—they don't think.

Desmond bitterly assailed the "flapper" as a contributory cause to the failure of marriage.

"The flapper is all wrong from her head to her feet," he declared. "I know your American flapper, and don't mistake me; I like her immensely, but she is crazy for excitement. She indulges in petting parties—the very rottenest preparation for a happy marriage. But this condition is a result of the misplaced puritanism of fathers and mothers—this constant formation of anti-societies which lead to suppression.

"I do not believe in early marriages," Desmond continued. "I believe a man should marry at 33 and a woman at between 27 and 30. A woman should be in the fullness of her beauty at 40, but she is usually faded out."

FINELY TUCKED.

The finely tucked tuxedo bosom blouse is the most fashionable type to be worn with the tweed suit. For tailored suits of serge or kasha a more feminine type with frills or embroidery is permissible.

Constipation lays you wide open to other diseases—relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Don't take chances with constipation! This terrible ailment can send poisons into your system which may lead to serious diseases. The longer those poisons accumulate, the more dangerous they become. Begin at once to free your system from them.

Eat Kellogg's Bran. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to relieve the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer will return your money. It is nature's own way to make the intestine function naturally and regularly—for Kellogg's Bran acts exactly as nature acts. It makes forever unnecessary the use of habit-forming drugs and pills.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, has proved successful when all else has failed. This is because Kellogg's is ALL bran. Doctors everywhere agree that only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective—they recommend Kellogg's Bran.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases with every meal. You will like it. You will enjoy the delicious nut-like flavor—the exclusive Kellogg flavor.

Eat Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in wonderful bran muffins, bread, griddle cakes and other recipes given on every package.

Kellogg's Bran is the road back to health. It is made in Toronto, Canada and is served in individual packages at the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. Ask for it at your restaurant. It is sold by all grocers.

IDLE

Germany announces she has 15 million people living on charity, and 5 million able-bodied men without jobs.

Any move to untangle the European situation must be based on providing work for every German able to work. Reparations, in the long run, are paid by human labor converted into cash, rather than by financoal juggling. Some fool economists think it's mainly a matter of bookkeeping.

COBOURG, March 14.—Capt. and Mrs. Murgatroyd, of Toronto, have been appointed to the work of the Salvation Army here, succeeding Capt. Dankley and Lieut. Burrows, who have been removed to Toronto.

Successful Euchre.

A euchre held by the Sons of England, at their lodge rooms on Friday evening, proved very enjoyable There were twenty tables. The prize-winners were Mr. C. Taylot and Miss Whinsett.

Fractured Leg.

Mr. L. C. Bell, who was formerly employed with Mr. Fred Roberts, Provincial Road West, had the misfortune to fracture his leg while at work in a factory at Scotia, California. He left here last summer with a harvesters' excursion, and after spending some time in the Canadian West, went on to the Coast and later to California. He is a young man, who made a number of warm friends here.

Late Rev. James R. Mann, B.A.

In the death on Monday, at Cobourg, of the late Rev. James R. Mann, B.A., a former resident of Baltimore, has been removed. Mr. Mann was taken ill with pneumonia some four or five weeks ago, and this was followed by complications. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Mann, Baltimore, and married Miss Jessie Haig, a daughter of the late Mr. David Haig of that place. who died twenty years ago. Mr. Mann had occupied charges at Port Elgin and other places, going to Cobocank as his last field of work. He is survived by two sons, and also by seven brothers and five sisters—Rev. A. J. Mann, B.A., Presbyterian clergyman, David of Bowmanville, W. H., George, Robert, Charles, and Henry of Baltimore; Mrs. Moffat, Saskatchewan; Mrs. Fred George and Miss Margaret Mann, Baltimore, and Miss Agnes Mann, who resided with her deceased brother at Coboconk. Another brother—John—died a few years ago. A service was held on Wednesday afternoon in Baltimore Presbyterian Church

Mrs. M'Coll Gets $100.

A case that is of interest, as it came up at the January session of the County Council of Northumberland and Durham, was settled at the last meeting of Murray Township Council. Mrs. M'Coll, of Wooler, asked for damages because of injuries received on an alleged defective bridge at Wooler. The counties disclaimed any liability, and the matter was brought before the Murray Township Council, which appointed a committee, consisting of Reeve Hartt and another member, to take the matter up with Mrs. M'Coll. They did so, and she is to receive $15 a month for six months and $10 the seventh month, or $100 in all.

Address on Nigeria.

On Friday evening the members of the Baptist B.Y.P.U. were privileged to hear an address by Mr. H. C. Wilkinson of M'Master University, who expects to leave Canada next summer to go to Northern Nigeria as a missionary. Taking the work in that far-off African country as his theme, he gave an address that was listened to with much interest. Mr. Mr. Fred Black, president of the organization, presided, and a much enjoyed musical programme added to the pleasure of the evening.

Passes at Fourscore.

The funeral of Mr. John M'Mann, who died at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. Robert Mason, Baltimore, took place on Saturday. Had Mr. M'Mann lived another month he would have been ninety years old. He was a life-long resident of Hamilton Township. His wife died some fifteen years ago, and surviving him are five sons—John, Alexander, Thomas, Albert, and Charles, of Hamilton Township; and three daughters—Mrs. George Parker, Mrs. Fred. Woods, and Mrs. Robert Mason, all of Hamilton Township. Another daughter, Mrs. Robert Foster, predeceased her father. The interment was in Baltimore Presbyterian Cemetery.

Bowmanville Won.

In probably their last game of hockey for this season, the Cobourg Ladies' Hockey team were defeated by Bowmanville Ladies by a score of 2—1, reversing a victory gained by Cobourg some time ago.

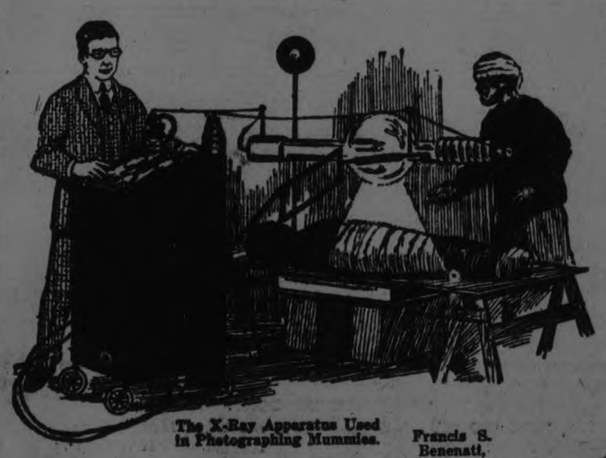
How the X-Ray Is Bringing to Light Mummy Mysteries

Science's Search of Tombs Centuries-Old for the Long-Lost Secret of a Process for Perfect Preservation of the Dead.



The X-Ray Apparatus Used in Photographing Mummies.

Modern Electrical Apparatus for Mummifying the Dead.

At the Right, An X-Ray Picture of a Peruvian Mummy Whose Size Corresponds to That of an Average Man of To-day.

Francis S. Benenati, of Syracuse, N. Y., the Inventor of an Embalming Fluid Which He Claims Is the Equivalent of the Method Used by Ancient Egyptians in Mummifying Their Dead. Mr. Benenati Is Shown Holding the Body of an Animal Mummified by His Process.

EXPLORATION of the tomb of Tut-ankh-amen has awakened throughout the world intense interest in all matters pertaining to the ancient Egyptians, and particularly to the methods these wonderful people employed in preserving their dead over a period of nearly sixty centuries. Since the Egyptian process of mummifying the dead became a lost art thousands of years ago, it is now hoped that modern science, aided by the penetrating X-ray, will reveal the secrets of the mummy and restore this knowledge to the world.

When a person of importance died it was the custom among the ancient Egyptians to start the embalming process by making an incision with a stone knife—for some reason metal knives were never used—and then drawing out the viscera. The brains, too, were removed. The organs were preserved in jars, which were inclosed in a box and put into the tomb with the mummy.

Strong embalming fluids were poured into the body, which was then steeped in natron and left for seventy days. After this it was washed and bound with strips of the finest flax, strong gum being using to secure the wrappings.

The mummy was first placed in a wooden coffin. The latter was deposited in another coffin, which in turn was inclosed in a third shaped in the form of a human being.

The idea was that the soul was free to wander through the abodes of the dead for a period of about ten thousand years, after which it was supposed to return and look for its earthly body. Transmigration was imagined to have taken place if the body decayed or was disturbed.

How effectively the X-ray is being used in solving the secrets of the mummy was shown at a conference of doctors recently assembled in Minneapolis to determine whether Lady Tesha, daughter of the doorkeeper of the Golden House of Amon, dead 3,000 years, had been done to death, after an inquiry had proved that she had hardly a whole bone in her body.

The mummy, wrapped in yards of linen, painted with gum, covered with a plaster case gayly painted, is in the Minneapolis Institute of Arts, where it was brought in 1916 after having been taken from her tomb at Thebes, Egypt, several years previously.

X-ray photographs showed Lady Tesha's head had been severed from her body and that several bones in her arms and thorax were misplaced and broken.

First it was thought this condition pointed to execution or murder, but the counsel of physicians advanced the theory that in the collapse of tissues within the mummy case the bones had fallen from their original positions and probably were fractured in transit.

The excavators of the tomb of Tut-ankh-amen are equipped to carry out a special radiographic examination of the mummy, in collaboration with Dr. Derry, of the Kasreleini Hospital, Cairo, reputed to be the greatest living expert on mummies.

The plan for X-raying the mummy of Tut-ankh-amen, as described in Science and Invention by Joseph H. Krauss, includes the setting up of a chemical laboratory in a chamber of his tomb. A gasoline engine, mounted on a truck outside the tomb, drives the power generators. The cables from the generator pass down the stairs through the first and second chambers, where they supply current not only for the lights of the motion picture photographers, but for the X-ray apparatus. Having examined the sarcophagus by means of a fluoroscope to determine whether or not it would be safe to disturb the body, it is moved from its position while the dust of centuries falls from its sides. With great care it is placed across some adequate support and the X-ray pictures are taken in full size.

The long lost art of preserving the human form after death in nearly lifelike aspect, has apparently been achieved in a scientific method developed by an expert embalmer who, as a pioneer in this field, has devoted years of thought and patient investigation to the work. The method, according to R. C. Folger, writing in Popular Mechanics, not only promises to afford a means of perpetuating the illustrious dead more successfully than the Egyptian mummies, but offers possibilities for the disposition of the dead in sanitary ways that introduce none of the objections of ordinary burial methods nor of cremation.

As in many other modern inventions, electricity plays the leading part in the apparatus wherein the body is sterilized and dehydrated beyond the point where the organisms that cause decomposition can exist.

The apparatus has the outward appearance of a sarcophagus and consists of a chamber which receives a rolling copper table upon which the body is placed. This table forms one terminal for the contact with the body and the other terminal consists of a number of contacts made on the upper surface of the body. When the circuit is closed an electric current passes through the body at many different points, setting up sterilizing action due to the heat produced by the resistance offered by the body, and an electrolytic action that reduces the moisture. It is possible that the sterilization is assisted by the breaking up of saline solutions into chlorine and caustic soda, both active sterilization agents. Electric-resistance units placed below the table in the chamber supply additional heat, and an exhaust fan changes the atmosphere in the chamber at regular intervals. The electrical-control devices provide for regulation of the temperature of the current by means of red signal lights and an alarm bell, as well as recording instruments.

The success of the method is attested by experiments performed upon dogs and cats and by a test upon the body of a man who was the victim of a bullet. The test upon the man was witnessed by persons of authority, and they were surprised to note the absence of any discoloration due to the method, and that the form showed so little apparent shrinkage, although there was a loss in weight of about one-fifth.

Francis S. Benenati, of Syracuse, N. Y., recently perfected a fluid which he calls Balsam San Rocco, which which he claims he can treat and mummify animals.

The fluid is said to be practically the equivalent of a series of drugs used by the Egyptians in the preservation of their mummies. Specimens treated and mummified by this process may be restored to their original color, size and plasticity. Cells and muscles also may be returned to their normal state so as to facilitate studies with a view to the diagnosis of disease.

How the Honey Bee Hoodwinks Man

HOW the honey bees hoodwink man is shown in the manner in which they succeed in building their honeycombs with such remarkable geometrical accuracy as to rival even the greatest of human engineers.

The bees' cells are hexagonal in form. A great naturalist named Reaumur, noticing this, asked an equally famous mathematician to calculate the angles, and so on, which would give the most space with the greatest economy of material in the construction of a cell similar to that of the bees. The mathematician gave the figures, which Reaumur then compared with those for the bee-cells and found that the latter were exact. In other words, if man endeavored to construct a cell such as the bees build, and wished to use the smallest amount of material and secure the greatest amount of space possible, he could not do better than the bee.

How have bees succeeded in solving, with such marvelous accuracy, this geometrical problem? Many explanations have been put forward, but according to the latest theories of various naturalists, the bee does not deserve so much credit as it is given. The fact is that bee aims to make its cells circular in form, but by the laws of Nature the cells become hexagonal.

The bees take the little pieces of wax they have manufactured in their bodies and pack them into circles with little more method than a child exercises when making mud pies. In the course of his work the bee keeps going into the cylinder to press the sides flat. If there were only one cell, the pushing out of the sides would make a cylinder; but there are other bees close to this making other cells, and it is this pressure on all sides, with not the slightest intent or skill on the bees' part, which makes the hexagon.

That bees do not make their cells hexagonal is evident from a glance at the queen bee's cell. This is always built alone and is always circular.

Though science has thus shown that the bee is not so clever after all, it is yet very ingenious, particularly in the making of wax. To make the wax, a few bees climb to the top of the hive and there hang motionless. Others follow, clinging to the first arrivals, till there is a great festoon of bees hanging from the ceiling. They remain thus for from ten to twenty hours. In that time the heat of their bodies has set to work, and from the eight segments of the abdomen exudes a whitish substance, which forms in scales. This substance is the result of honey and a little pollen being digested in the stomach under the influence of heat.

When the exudation has reached its limit one of the bees will detach itself from the mass and climb to a spot high on the roof. Suspended by two legs it uses the others to collect the scales from one segment and convey them to its mouth. There it chews and mixes the wax until it is of the proper consistency, after which it presses the tiny bit of wax, so small as to be almost invisible, to the roof, flattens it out, and moulds it firmly into place.

Each of the other seven segments of the bee's abdomen are thus cleared and it goes back to resume the business of wax-making with the hundreds of other bees.

How Oil Smooths Troubled Waters

THE surface of all liquids is more or less in a "state of tension." In simpler words, each tiny particle of water wants to stick to all the particles touching it. The truth of this can be seen by placing, very gently, a perfectly dry, light needle into, or rather on, to quite still water, when it will remain on the surface, because its weight is not sufficient to break apart the different particles of the top layer of the water.

This "tension," however, varies with different liquids, and whereas with water it is slight, with oil it is strong. Oil is a viscous fluid, its particles "stick together." So, poured on to water, being lighter, it fails to sink, and remains like a tightly stretched elastic skin over the surface of the water, so, of course, steadying it.

This fact (known centuries ago) was accidentally brought to practical use when, in a violent storm, a whaling ship was wrecked and its escaping cargo of oil calmed the sea in the whole neighborhood.

To-day oil is regularly carried on ships for the express purpose of spraying the sea in case of a storm.

PHOTOGRAPHS Made in RELIEF

A WOMAN inventor, Josephine Denkholl, of Sausalito, Cal., has newly patented a method of making photographs in relief—converting them, in effect, into cameo likenesses.

She takes an ordinary photographic portrait and pastes it on a small sheet of tinfoil. Then, with the back side up, she goes over the picture with a stylus, applying pressure to the various parts of the likeness so that they may stand out in relief. To the nose, cheeks and chin she applies, for obvious reasons, more pressure than to the areas around the eyes.

There is produced a portrait in cameo. Next, the tinfoil is removed, and the paper around the head is cut away with scissors—leaving, however, a margin.

The picture thus prepared, when turned face down, presents to view a shallow hollow of irregular depth, which is thereupon filled in with paraffin or fluid plaster-of-paris—the latter to be preferred, because it will not melt if exposed to heat.

When the filling has hardened the above-mentioned paper margin is slit all around at intervals, and folded back over the filing. This being neatly accomplished, the picture is thus reproduced into a cameo, described by the inventor as "quite attractive."

Why GREAT SINGERS Must Be PHYSICALLY Powerful

THE next time you go to the grand opera observe closely the great singers and you will see that they are fine examples of health and physical fitness, which are prerequisites to musicians in general and vocalists in particular, the appeal of the vocalist to his or her audience being generally dependent upon the magnetism of a personality abounding in vigor. The languid, other-worldly charm that suggests a pre-Raphaelite painting has hardly a chance in competition with the buoyant Viking maid of opera house or concert hall. In other words, says R. M. Kneer, in Musical America, the singing profession is one for giants, and it is significant that the great singers of the past for the most part towered above their fellows in grace of stature and vigor.

For the instrumentalist muscular "condition" is fully as important. Much of the superb power and effectiveness of the great piano virtuoso's most inspired playing depends upon correct development. The wonderfully agile and sensitive fingers of the string players are trained during years of patient exercise. Powers of memory and spontaneity of interpretation owe much to a vigorous condition of nerves and digestion.

"Simply to push a key to the bottom on a modern piano without sounding any tone," states Leroy B. Campbell (backed by scientific authority)in his book, "The True Function of Relaxation in Piano Playing," "requires about two and one-quarter ounces of power; to make a pp tone requires three and one-half ounces; to make the usual mf tone requires from five to eight ounces." In this statement Mr. Campbell refers to tones produced by finger action alone; he does not state what poundage is required to play fortissimo, with the weight of the whole arm from the shoulder.

Much more power is released by the weight of the hand from the wrist; still more by the forearm from the elbow; and infinitely more by the whole arm from the shoulder. In each of a Beethoven sonata, a Liszt rhapsodie or a Chopin polonaise there are tens of thousands of notes to be played. Multiply the notes of a dozen or more such concert numbers by varying degrees of the poundage referred to, and one will have some idea of the colossal energy that is translated in terms of music by a master pianist at a recital.

Some of the methods resorted to by prominent artists to keep in good physical condition are outlined in Musical America. From the popular tenor who has his own Swedish masseuse to the struggling student who hikes for health the objective is the same: the increase of efficiency and the prevention of indisposition. The advice of a dozen opera and concert stars regarding health is summed up as follows:

No cigarette smoking, because it roughens the throat.

No alcoholic beverages.

No midnight parties during working season.

Early rising, because the mind is free and more keen for concentrated study.

Lots of fresh air, because oxygen is a nerve calmer.

Walk briskly on account of the good stimulation.

No loud talking or laughing on the day you sing.

Rest, because it is very vital for poise.

Keep away from annoying, troublesome conversation on the day you sing.

Keep your mind carefree, bright and happy.

Eat dark bread. It is more wholesome and digestible than white bread.

Avoid sweets, rich pastries; ice cream is also bad.

Light supper three hours before singing; choose easily digested food.

Do not mix milk and acids.

Avoid speaking on train because of coal dust.

If not damp and raining when on tour, take brisk walk on platform when train stops long enough.

If possible, ride backwards, for it is less trying on the eyes.

Keep your mind off the length of the trip: it has to be done!

Instead of Coue, if he does not suit your case, try common sense or any science which makes you forgetful of self and your cares.

Be sane!

Why a Red Cross Is the Symbol of Nursing

THE duty that humanity owed to soldiers, who were wounded in battle was first pointed out to the world by a Swiss gentleman, Monsieur Henri Dunant.

In the course of a holiday, Dunant found himself behind the scene of the Battle of Solferino, in 1859, and he was so struck by the plight of the wounded, that he afterwards brought out, at his own cost, a booklet in which he vividly described the terrible manner in which the wounded suffered.

This booklet was translated into many languages, and led in 1868 to a conference on the matter, which was held in Switzerland partly as a compliment to Dunant and partly because that country was regarded as neutral ground aloof from the turmoil of European politics.

Various resolutions as to the humane conduct of future warfare were passed, and it was decided that the Swiss ensign of a white cross on a red ground, reversed, should be the standard of the new humanity. So the emblem of the Red Cross of mercy came into being.

How the Earthworm Thinks with Its Stomach

EARTHWORMS have a memory and may be trained, but their brains are not in their heads, but in their abdomens. Professor L. Heck, of the University of Prague, has announced this discovery as the outcome of experiments with a collection of 500 of these curious little worms.

They were introduced into a passage shaped like a capital T and carved from a block of wood which was covered with a glass plate so that the movements of the small creatures might be observed. When they came to the junction, about half of them turned one way and half the other.

It was then arranged so that those that took the left-hand passage received a mild, but presumably disagreeable, electric shock. The worms at first did not know just what to make of this, but after they had been through the experiences about 200 times, nearly all were converted to "safety first" and took the right-hand turn.

The worms, when the electrodes were moved to the right-hand passage, learned to shift to the other after only sixty-five mistakes, evidently showing more aptitude.

The professor states that earthworms, in the human sense, have no brains; their nervous systems consist of a series of little ganglions, or nerve-centres, on the under side of the worms and connected with each other by nerve fibres.

The fragments, if the worms were cut in two, still showed the ability to distinguish between the safe and the unpleasant road to travel, showing that the earthworm remembers in every one of his ganglions and is able to learn and profit by experience.

CANADIAN PRODUCE IN THE FOREIGN MARKETS

Interesting Review of Convention Held in Montreal — Lime Used in Rancid Cream.

By JEANNETTE.

At the twelfth annual convention of the Canadian Produce Association, held recently in the city of Montreal, an interesting review of conditions in the produce markets of the United Kingdom, with especial reference to opportunities for Canada in these markets, was given, from the observations of the President of the association, resident in England.

Prefacing his remarks with a reference to the changes which have taken place in markets, both domestic and foreign, since the war, and to the different and varied routes, with uncertain ultimate destination, now taken by produce, the speaker emphasized the fact that quality takes precedence, "because the finer qualities give a minimum of trouble and adjustment to the importer, the wholesaler and the retail shop. Progress, or improvement in quality, is not determined by comparison within one's own country, but by comparison with other countries whose goods enter into competition with ours in the world's markets. The necessity of making a living has led many people in various countries throughout the world to start producing butter, cheese eggs and poultry, and those countries are offering larger quantities in the British markets.

"If Canadian cheese sold at a comfortable premium over all others in the past, does it enjoy that position today? If Canadian butter sold on a parity with others ten years ago what position does it occupy now? If Canadian eggs sold at a fixed differential as compared with English, Danish or Irish, has the position altered within the last decade? If there has been any improvement made by competitors, with which we have not kept pace, what have we sacrificed in markets? Lastly is the standing of Canadian produce relatively good in comparson with that of other countries as it was ten or fifteen years ago? If not, is the position a satisfactory one and is the showing worthy of Canada?"

Referring to the poor quality of much Canadian butter shipped to England in war time, the speaker said: "Some experiences are still remembered. Repeated instances in irregularity in salting, color and texture, as well as flavor in any butter, creates a condition where it can be sold only after examination, but dealers may not be disposed to take the trouble of inspection when other brands can be bought with safety by telephoning. In 1922 and 1923 some considerable quantity of special brands of mild, salted, light-colored and mild-flavored Canadian butter reached this market direct from the manufacturers and has made a favorable impression, but those brands, although admittedly almost, if not equal, to the highest type of butter, were still Canadian, and past experience had its effect on price. Those particular manufacturers may not have gotten the relative value of their goods, and this doubtful condition is likely to obtain more or less until through time and experience we can demonstrate from the standpoint of regularity of workmanship and uniformity high quality flavor that our products can be depended upon. Rightly or wrongly, I am disposed to the view that Canadian exporters would improve their prospects for future export business if official certificates accompanied the shipping documents."

With regard to cheese export conditions, the speaker said: "Instances have been cited by numerous provision dealers in the United Kingdom of the premier place held by Canadian cheese within the remembrance and experience of us all. Our cheese sold at some shillings above the best of the same variety from other countries. Canada got a lot of splendid advertising from the grocery counters because of sales signs exhibited for Canadian cheese. We were then shipping the greater portion of Great Britain's imports, and meeting with a minimum of competition. While frequently basking in the thought of worthy success, a more or less 'let well enough alone' method proceeded from year to year with respect to production, manufacturing and marketing. Canada is making, I believe, cheese equal in quality to that of any previous time, but if competition is keener it is because very noticeable improvement has been made by other countries. Canada is still making large quantities of fine quality cheese, but its uniformity in package, workmanship and fine quality is being superceded by some of her competitors.

"We enjoy a rather good reputation in eggs. One hears of instances during the war when discreditable shipments landed; in fact, some disputes here are still before the courts unsettled. A few shipments of such a character operates as an injustice to all Canada, and a multiplicity of minor transactions invites or necessitates official regulations to protect the industry.

"Quite recently my attention was brought to the condition and quality of 1,000 cases of fresh eggs arriving on the London market after six or seven weeks under journey. It was only the second trial lot, and the quality was quite unknown and had to be sold on sample. The lowest price realized was 22s and the highest 24s. At the same time some Canadian eggs bought and shipped as fresh in October were selling at 16s 6d to 18s 6d.

"Continental eggs, fresh and pickled, English and Irish fresh, Australian, New Zealand, South African and Argentine fresh and storage, as well as Egyptian, Moroccan and Chinese eggs are our competitors. Our volume will be enlarged, our price advanced, and consumption increased by improving the quality. Heavy cases, good and clean wood—no sunburnt or knotty stripe—neat, uniform and legible branding and marking, strong fillers and flats, and six excelsior pads in each case, are all worthy factors, and add very materially to the general appearance of large shipments piled in large or small lots at the dock or in the warehouse."

The Canadian Grocer of a recent issue made the statement in an editorial that the use of rancid cream in many of the creameries, necessitated the liming of the cream before it could be made into butter, and thus affected its keeping quality so that it could not command as good an export price as the butter of Denmark, New Zealand and Australia. It quoted the answer of the Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Mr. Motherwell, in Parliament, when he replied to a question: "Why Eastern Canadian butter is not in demand in the British market," by saying frankly: "It is due to the fact that a lot of cream is over-ripe or over-fermented, whichever you like, before it gets to many of the central creameries in Ontario, and that tends to injure the whole reputation of the country."

The treating of such cream with lime, the Minister characterizes as a big evil, and admits that butter made from such cream cannot successfully compete with butters on the British market. In Australia and New Zealand the dairy laws forbid the use of such over-ripe cream for making butter for export as is done in Canada, and in Denmark, lime is not used at all in butter-making.

With regard to cheese conditions, the same trade journal in a February issue records a perplexing cheese market in wholesale circles, with prices in England continually declining, and the news of the arrival of 600,000 cheese in England from New Zealand this month to further complicate matters.

On the other hand, a prominent retailer of Montreal reports that the Canadian public is gradually developing its liking for cheese, and the demand is growing in a satisfactory manner. However, although he has a certain amount of sale for Canadian cheese, much of the demand is for the imported variety, and he reports the handling in his store alone of eight kinds of English cheese. "I do not think," he says, "there is a much atention paid to the handling of cheese in Canada as in the Old Country, nor do we get the same variety."

With regard to another product that is getting more attention of late in Canada, the manager of the Ontario Honey Producers' Co-Operative, Limited, who recently returned to Toronto from a three months' trip to the Old Country, says: "Prospects for Canadian honey in the Old Country are very promising." He went on to say also that Canadian honey in England and on the Continent had to meet the competition of the world, although the greater part of their imports of honey were from California, New Zealand and Cuba. The imports of honey into England during the past year totalled nearly six million pounds, but Canada did not to any extent paritcipate in this business. As a general thing honey is not used in England and France for eating in its natural state, and eighty to ninety per cent is used in manufacturing purposes and therefore a large part of the honey is going there is composed of buckwheat and other grades other than white clover.

Honey bottling plants will likely be established in London, Manchester, Liverpool, and also in France, Belgium and Holland, in an effort to stimulate the consumption of honey as a table food. Approximately 95 per cent of honey used in eBlgium at present is for honey bread and cakes.

SNOW

A remarkable machine for removing snow from city streets in invented by Mrs. Slater, of New York City The snow is scooped up, dropped into a hopper and there melted by intense heat. The water flows out the side of the machine and down the sewer.

Such a device, perfected, would save millions of dollars for cities which now have to shovel snow into wagons and haul it to the outskirts of town. Observe that a woman is the inventor.

TROUBLE.

The most unfortunate man in the world probably is in a military hospital at Sydney, Australia.

He was a soldier in the World War. His nerves were shattered so fearfully that hot water is the only thing that can relieve his agony. For four years he has virtually lived in a hot bath, even sleeping in the water.

Reading about him, many who have been complaining will decide they are lucky. Nothing is ever so bad but what it might be worse.

HIS ONLY DESIRE

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., March 14—"All I want in this world is just to live—just to live and chew tobacco, I reckon, and maybe buy a stamp when I want it."

Gustave Salome, shifted his hat to the back of his head, leaned back in his chair and thought.

"Before people found out that I had a million dollars coming they wouldn't think of me" —his eyes grew moist—"hardly pay any attention, but now they just pester around Gad, they'd even carry me if I'd let them.

"I've hid for 32 years and, if people don't quit this a-bothering, me I'll pull out and hide for another 32."

Couldn't Kick a Dog

Salome, 71, former inmate of the Middlesboro poorfarm, has fallen heir to a million dollars worth of French and Canadian real estate. Positive identification was established through a peculiar Vshaped tatoo under his arm —a family mark. He has been known here as" Steve White."

"Sure, I knew I had it coming all the time," says Salomez. "But-ah-ah—I don't want it. I think more of real friends than all the money on earth.

"Old John Brown over there is the only friend I ever had," and he nodded his gray wrinkled head in the direction of an old negro who has been his inseparable buddy for 25 years.

"Yes-s-s," trembles the darky's voice, "Steve here has been living with me for three whole years. When I see he was getting old and couldn't get around much, well—what's mine was his.

'You know, it's like if a man goes 'long and makes friends with a dog and the dog follers him home and you take him in and give him some thing to eat, well—you aren't going to have the heart to kick out the dog. What's the use of living without a heart?

"Oh, for a Thousand"

"I met Steve when he was across the street painting, years ago. He came in the store where I was clerking and got something and we talked a while and we have been friends ever since. He didn't seem to want to be around anybody else.

"He's always welcome at my place. The wife washed his clothes right along with mine and he eats what we have. Then they come and took him away to the poorhouse."

But when Middlesboro heard Steve could have a million for the asking they let him leave the poorhouse and he went back to John Brown.

"He never said anything about his business," Brown continued. "Talked of Canada but never until this thing come out did he show me the mark under his arm.

'Never talked of his money, but, boy, if I had just a thousand dollars, I'd think I had all the money they was in the world!"

TO CLEAN SILVER.

Table silver that is badly tarnished may be cleaned by putting in a pan of water covered with a strong solution of borax, washing soda or potash and bringing it to a boiling point. Let it boil for about 20 minutes and stay in the solution until cold. Then rinse and wipe with a soft cloth or chamois.

DIAMOND WOMEN HAVE SOLD HOME

Attitude of Neighbors Force Bank Slayer's Mother and Sisters to Move--Women Innocent But Must Pay By Disgrace.

NEW YORK, March 14.—Bowed down with sorrow because of the attitude of neighbors and former friends, the mother and four sisters of Morris and Joseph Diamond, doomed to death as the Brooklyn bank messenger murderers and bandits, have fled from their former home at No. 1954 Eighty-Fourth Street, Bensonhurst.

The mother, Mrs. Dora Diamond, removed the entire contents of the home, and the house, a three-storey dwelling for three families, has been sold to Algernon Nova, lawyer for the Diamond brothers. The five women, accompanied by David, the little son of Morris Diamond, slipped quietly away to Ossining, N.Y., to be near the brothers while they await the final penalty in the Sing-Sing death house.

As from time immemorial, the women of the family stigmatized by disgrace, though personally innocent, must pay. Broken in spirit by the strain of the trials and since, by the side glances, whispered comments and innuendos of a cynical world, the mother and sisters secretly fled last week and on Thursday last visited the condemned brothers at Sing-Sing prison.

Mrs. Diamond has remained in Ossining, heartbroken, and distrait, it was ascertained, but the whereabout of the sisters was said to be uncertain.

GRATEFUL PARENTS POUR OUT THANKS TO TANLAC

MR. & MRS. JOSEPH E. KAAKE and Family

The value of Tanlac as a family medicine and tonic is again very forcefully demonstrated. This time in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Kaake, 2436 Kirby Ave., West, Detroit, Mich., where father and mother and every member of the family have been benefitted by the wholesome and helpful ingredients of the famous preparation.

Recently, in speaking for herself and children, Mrs. Kaake said: "For more than a year our three little ones—John, age 6, Elwyn, 4, and Maragrite, 2—had been so peaked and lifeless that we were seriously worried about them. Their stomachs were upset, appetites poor, the color had left their cheeks, their nights were restless, and during the day they would just mope around, taking no interest in play or anything else.

"They began to eat and sleep better almost from the first dose of Tanlac, and have picked up now until you couldn't find three healthier or more active children in all Detroit. They eat ravenously, the color of health has returned to their cheeks, and they just want to be on the go all the time. I have also taken Tanlac to build me up, and it never seems to fail."

"As to my personal experience with Tanlac," said Mr. Kaake, "I simply can't express in words the great help it gave me. About a year ago I was a victim of boils, actually having fifty-one on me, and was so played out that I couldn't do a little bit of work for weeks. My suffering was almost unbearable. I cared little for food, suffered with several headaches and stomach pains, and got so weak and nervous that I felt discouraged.

"Tanlac corrected my stomach disorders, woke up my appetite, cleansed my blood and toned up my system so that the boils went away, and nothing of the kind has bothered me since. I have gained 28 pounds, and I eat, sleep and feel like a brand-new man. We have given Tanlac a fair trial and found it wonderful, and if anyone doubts our statement they can write personally. We wouldn't think of being without Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Wife of Dr. T. H. Hassard Was Former Well Known Resident of Community.

MILLBROOK, Mar. 14.—Emma L. Shaw, beloved wife of Dr. T. H. Hassard, of Toronto, whose death occurred a few days ago, was the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw who predeceased her by several years, the former coming to this country from Ireland and settling in Cavan township. The late Mr. and Mrs. Shaw were among the pioneers of the township, clearing the land on the farm at Carmel where the large white brick homestead now stands. The brick house was built by one of the sons, Robert Shaw, who succeeded his father on the homestead, the original log house being still on the property though unfit for use except as an outbuilding.

Eight children were born on the homestead at Carmel, two sons and six daughters. Of these, two sisters, Mrs. J. Mulligan, of Orono, and Mrs. Joseph Fallis, of Brandon, Man., still survive. Two brothers, Robert, of Millbrook, and William, of Otonabee, and three sisters, Mrs. V. Elliott, of Chesley, Mrs. Cromer and Mrs. Dobbin, of Owen Sound, predeceased Mrs. Hassard.

Previous to her marriage deceased taught school on the Fallis Line, the 4th Line, Cavan, and also at Mono Road. About thirty years ago her marriage to Dr. T. H. Hassard, then of Millbrook, who is known throughout the province as a noted horseman, took place. About twenty-five years ago they removed to Markham to reside, and for the last two years have made their home in Toronto.

Two children comprised the family of the deceased, Miss Molly, who has been teaching school in Toronto but was home with her mother during her last illness, and one son, Jack, who spent last summer at the Paterson homestead south of the village assisting with the care of their famous Clydesdale horses, and of late has been with his father in the city.

Deceased won many warm friends during her girlhood, and early married life, spent in Millbrook and vicinity, and will be keenly missed not only by her immediate family but also by a large circle of relatives and friends.

Mrs. S. Donnelly, of Millbrook, is a sister-in-law of the deceased, Miss Luella Shaw, and Master Bob, are neice and nephew, and Mrs. Norman Henry, of Peterborough, is also a neice. Robert Shaw, of Otonabee, is another nephew.

The funeral took place from the C. N. R. station, Millbrook, on Wednesday upon arrival of the 12.35 train, Rev. Canon Allen having charge of the service at the graveside. The pall-bearers were Messrs. W. T. Wood, G. Fowler, H. Paterson, John Allen, H. W. Johnston, and J. R. Eakins.

Quite a number of former neighbors, and those who in earlier years were pupils of the deceased, attended the funeral. Interment took place at St. Paul's cemetery, 4th Line, Cavan.

Masquerade Dance

The masquerade dance held in the town hall on Monday evening, under private auspices, was well attended and proved an enjoyable occasion. Excellent music was furnished by Carley's orchestra, Mrs. Oliver presiding at the piano, B. F. Carley playing the violin, and S. Gilmour the traps.

The gallery was filled to capacity with interested spectators, those coming in costume causing considerable speculation as to identity. The judges were: Messrs. J. A. Vance, J. N. McGill, and G. W. Sayles. Prizes were awarded as follows: For best dancers, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hunter, the former impersonating a fairy and the latter a cowboy; Bonna Robinson, as "Miss U. S. A." received the ladies' first, and Mrs. G. W. Sayles as "Coming and Going," the ladies' comic; J. Guthrie, as a most natural "Cat," won the gentleman's comic, and J. Kinsman, of Bailieboro, who has a fine costume representing a Mexican, carried off the first. Basil Richards, dressed as a Turkish Lady was also given a prize.

Others in costume were: Wilfrid Johnston as Sir Walter Raleigh; Arthur Thorne, Infantry officer; Alex. Johnston, Cadet officer; Fred Wells, clown; S. McCorry, Miss Canada; Sherwin Brown, lady's maid; Mrs. B. Richards, ballet dancer; Ross Carr, Uncle Sam; J. Kellet and Geraldine Morton as bride and groom; Jessie Pallister, Night; G. Thirtle, clown; Phyllis Brown, Phyllis Richards, Amy Brock, boys' costume; B. Guthrie, comic; M. McCorry, summer girl.

Special Sermons

Rev. S. T. Tucker began his series of special sermons for the Lenten season, on Sunday morning, the subject dealing with the impact of the Holy Spirit, and the direct influence of Pentecost upon the community.

The power received through the coming of the Spirit, the consequent obligation to witness, the development of the community spirit when dire need within the ranks of the followers of Christ called forth an expression of the real spirit o brotherhood, the understanding of the principle of Christian stewardship that service, not accumulation, is the rule of the Kingdom, Barnabas being a type of this in practical experience, while Ananias and Sapphira, supremelycovetous, are types of an opposite character, some of the dangers which may follow a white heat of revival and religious ecstasy, were among the points developed by the speaker. Next Sunday morning the ordination of the deacons and the responsibility of the laity in church government and labor will be taken up.

The sermon at night on "The Inspiration of the Bible," was considered by many in the congregation, competent to judge, the finest discourse yet delivered by Mr. Tucker in his pastorate here. Mrs. G. W. Sayles contributed a solo which was much enjoyed.

The Navy League

Rev. Charles Adams, who has been connected with the work of the Navy League for the past five years, is in town this week in the interests of the widows and orphans of the merchant marine, and addressed the pupils of the continuation school on Tuesday afternoon. Since the conclusion of his pastorate at Havelock Mr. Adams has given his time as chaptain for the Navy League, his district extending from Ottawa on the east to London on the west, $85,000 being the objective in view for the current year. The league cares for the families of the man of the merchant marine who lost their lives in the great war.

Mrs. W. Gray, who has been seriously ill for the past week, is improving somewhat in health. Nurse Reynolds is still in charge.

Mrs. A. C. Darling, of Peterborough, was the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. E. L. Burnham, on Wednesday.

R. Shaw, of Otonabee, and N. Henry, of Peterborough, were among those who attended the funeral of the late Mrs. (Dr.) T. H. Hassard, of Toronto, on Wednesday. Dr. Hassard, and his son, Jack, also accompanied the remains from the city, interment taking place at St. Paul's cemetery, 4th Line, Cavan.

Mrs. J. R. Eakins went to Toronto on Wednesday for a brief visit with her sister, Mrs. J. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Whyte, who has been in the city for the past month expects to return with Mrs. Eakins on Saturday.

Mr. H. Blue is moving his family to Peterborough this week, having secured a situation in that city. Mr. Blue has been employed with Mr. F. W. Smith in his garage for the past three seasons.

Miss M. Needham, who has been visiting Mrs. McIntyre in Peterborough, for the past three weeks, returned home on Tuesday.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—We see by the press of recent issue, that A. Brethen, M.P. for East Peterboro, is very much alarmed about a tubercular calamity from the use of raw milk, and is about to introduce an act in the Federal House to prevent the use of it.

Now, I would like to draw Mr. Brethen's attention to the fact that at the World's Dairy Congress held at Syracuse on October 10, 1923, that it was brought out by Dr. Price, the secretary, that only one per cent of the deaths by tuberculus could be traced back to bovine tuberculous. Also by Dean and A. Moore, of the New York State Vetinary College, that the tuberculin test is not always reliable, and the time will come when public opinion will not approve of State or Federal interference as the only remedy is prevention. If Mr. Brethen's herd is tubercular, the only solution is to eliminate the herd not to destroy the God-given food for the rising generation. Now, if Mr. Brethen would spend a little time in introducing a bill to reduce his sessional indemnity from $4,000 to $3,000 it would be more in keeping with the demand for retrenchment and economy. Thanking you, I remain, yours, etc.

W. H. MERRELL.

CANON PLUMPTRE'S LECTURE.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—The following report of Canon Plumptre's lecture is a clear and definite confession that Modernism is a rejection of the old faith. As such it is well worthy of perusal. It will be observed that he treats Christ as a man, and makes no reference to salvation or a future life. Think of the scorn forced upon people in the past by the clergy for just such talk as this. But Modernism can rise no higher than its source, and when its source gets back again from this present-day self sufficiency and absurd bombast, we may look for something better—but no thanks to the clerical betrayers of their calling and their trust, and their abject followers.

J. H. BURNHAM.

The time is ripe for a religious advance, according to the declaration of Canon Plumptre, who opened the series of lectures on "Religion and Life" at the Margaret Eaton School last night. In speaking on "Authority in Religion," Canon Plumptre showed how there had been conflict all down through the ages, and as a result we had the 300 Protestant sects of to-day, each claiming to have solved the enigma of religion and authority.

The latest, the Reformers, "went over the top," as Canon Plumptre put it, but instead of advancing, they "dug themselves in," and since that time the world has not been able to dig itself out again.

"The revolt against authority is one of the characteristics of the time," the speaker went on. "The war did more than shake our temples. It shook our schools, our hospitals, our legislatures. The rising generation see that a "civilization" which led up to such a giant debacle of slaughter needs fundamental reordering. The general spirit of discontent and distrust is nowhere more in evidence than in the attitude of men towards religious authority. Where, then, is authority to be found? The authority of the church to speak as of Divine Right has been generally abandoned by Protestants. An authority which has been responsible in the past for the tortures of the Inquisition, the inhuman treatment of witches, and the upholding of slavery, and which has opposed the emancipation of women and the use of anaesthetics in surgery, and has done so little for the abolition of war, seems to need some revision.

"The authority of the Bible is an authority much more true to type among Protestants. But the historical criticism of the Bible in the last fifty years has shown that its history, like its science, is not free from error. Far from exhibiting an impressive verity in all its parts, as our fathers believed, the Bible is now seen to be a record of the gradual evolution of religion from primitive beginnings up to the final religion in the person and teaching of Jesus Christ. It can never be possible for us to use individual texts in the way that out fathers did. The ultimate authority, then, is to be found in the mind, spirit, teaching and example of Christ. No criticism can ever take that away. The tired minds of men return with increasing hope to that life of lives as the panacea for our many ills. Men are longing for religion, but they ask for a religion divorced from those claims to authority which have proved so disastrous in the past, and which are generally rejected by educated people to-day."

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

MARRIAGE AND HEALTH

The real education on the health of the marriage state should be started in early life by parents. If home, health and happiness are to have their true meaning in the coming generations, then sensible, heart-to-heart talks should be carried out between parents and children.

Not only should parents do their part to advance the ideas of the marriage relation in its bearing on proper health, but other urgent methods should be advocated.

The vicious, satirical jokes that seem to be such a proper theme for many public amusement places are a decided menace to public health measures and against the perpetuation of the better elements of the race. They should be banished as unlawful.

If marriage should be disregarded as a law-abiding condition, and the nobler concepts that now prevail regarding it be given up, think what a loss in health conditions and increase in loathsome diseases would result.

The creative impulse that links man and woman together for the necessary perpetuation of the race is the highest duty of mankind. Nature does not provide her richest health returns for celibate habits. The creative spirit arouses in the sexes a desire for strength and fitness that means highest health conditions.

Another strong pull for health in the marriage state is the great gain that results from increased happiness and ideal home life. If the American home, with its up-to-date sanitary ideas, its provisions for lightening the woman's work and the conditions that prevail for light, heat and ventilation, is not a healthy institution, where will you find one?

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

(Unless otherwise specified, these recipes are planned for four persons.)

WAYS WITH EGGS.

Now that biddy-hen is realizing her duty again many delicious between season dishes can be concocted with eggs.

Canned vegetables reduced to a smooth pulp are combined with eggs to make intriguing souffles that are something very different from plain canned corn or peas.

These dishes are most nourishing and should be used in place of meat.

Custards and whips as well as omelets and plain eggs are welcome and wholesome for this time of year.

Pea Souffle.

One cup pea puree, 3 eggs, 4 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup milk, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk. Add pea puree, salt, sugar and pepper. Beat yolks of eggs until thick and lemon colored and add to first mixture.

Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry and fold into yolk mixture. Turn into a well buttered baking dish and bake about half an hour in a moderate oven. When firm to the touch the souffle is done. Serve at once.

Egg Souffle.

Four tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, 4 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1 cup cream sauce, with ¼ cup finely chopped cooked onions.

Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk. Cook slowly, stirring constantly for three minutes. Add yolks of eggs beaten until thick and lemon colored. Remove from fire and add salt and pepper. Fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry.

Turn into a well buttered baking dish and bake in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven until firm to the touch. It will take about forty minutes. Serve at oncewith sauce.

THE SINKING OF THE HAMPSHIRE

A recent despatch from Philadelphia credits Heinz Hiekmann, a German patient in the hospital there, with giving information as to the manner in which the British cruiser Hampshire, on which Lord Kitchener died, was blown up. This man claims that the Hampshire was sunk by a submarine; whereas Mrs. J. C. Morell, 126 Kent Street, Lindsay, who has just received word that her brother, Leading Seaman Charles Walter Rogerson, had died in New Zealand on December 5, 1923. The Hertfordshire Mercury, England, makes the following announcement:

"We sincerely regret to announce the death of Leading Seaman Charles Walter Rogerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rogerson, of 75 Cromwell Road, Hertford, which occurred at Auckland, in New Zealand, after undergoing an operation. Rogerson, who was a Bengeo boy, was 33 years of age, was in the Royal Navy, and was one of the twelve survivors of H.M.S. Hampshire, in which Lord Kitchener went down on June 5, 1916, near the Orkneys. The survivors were saved by being strapped to a raft and floating ashore. After leaving the Navy, in which he had served for about 13 years and seen service in various parts of the world, Rogerson went to Canada, but later returned to England, and a few months ago went to New Zealand."

Mr. J. C. Morell, brother-in-law, gave The Examiner the information that Seaman Rogerson came to Canada in 1921 and stayed one year being forced to change his location on account of ill-health gained through his hardships in the North Sea disaster. He returned to England and shortly after, in August, 1922, he set sail for New Zealand where he decided to remain and later married. In December he underwent an operation from which he never recovered, dying on the fifth of that month. He is the last of the twelve survivors of the Hampshire disaster, an outline of which is given below.

On June 2nd, after the Battle of Jutland, the Hampshire, on which was Seaman Rogerson, was ordered to report to Scapa Flow to take on provisions and fuel and make ready for Lord Kitchener who was to come on board. On the night of June 5th, 1916, the ship set sail (with Kitchener on board) for Russia and was escorted by two destroyers. When at sea about an hour the two destroyers were ordered back, and the Hampshire went on alone in the heavy seas which were running close to eighty feet high.

Seaman Rogerson was down below making ready for bed when a loud report was heard and the ship was heavily shaken, tossing him to the floor. The ship went immediately dark and there was a scramble for the stairways leading to the main deck, which were very difficult to locate without lights in the plunging vessel. Finally by a whim of fate he was thrown close to the foot of the stairs where he spied the light from the top, and after much trouble he reached the deck and made for the lifeboats. There, on the starboard side of the ship, on the main deck, he noticed Lord Kitchener and two of his officers talking. The boat's crew, those who managed to reach the deck, were endeavouring to free the lifeboats, and Capt. Saville was standing on the bridge giving orders through the megaphone. Seaman Rogerson could find no lifebelts, but saw two Carly floats which had been thrown overboard, and he was successful in reaching one of these. He had not been there ten minutes when the ship went down by the head and he saw no more of Lord Kitchener.

There were about seventy men on the raft at the start, but there numbers quickly dwindled from cold and exposure. Seaman Rogerson's rugged condition stood him in good stead for he was afloat nine hours and finally washed upon the rocky coast of the Orkney Islands. He clutched the jagged rocks and climbed beyond the reach of the sea. Later, reaching the top, he crawled on his hands and knees to an old barn where he fell unconscious. Some kind farmers found him and he was given every attention, but he never actually recovered, and seven years later passed away at Auckland, New Zealand.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, March 14.—An exchange of pastorates that is of interest to many people in the district is expected to take place next July between Rev. W. G. Clarke, an overseas padre, now stationed at Trenton, and Rev. Dr. E. C. Laker, pastor, Bell Street Methodist Church, Ottawa. Both are former pastors of Port Hope Methodist Church, although Dr. Laker was only for a few years a member of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

Mr. Clarke has been pastor of Wesley Church, Trenton, since 1919. He spent his boyhood and early manhood in East Northumberland, and when war broke out his call to the colors seemed a natural one, as he was the grandson of a man who saw twenty-three years service with the famous Enniskillen Dragoons in Europe and India. He served for a time as a recruiting officer in Military District No. 3, and then went overseas, where he saw service as padre of two Canadian units, and was also with the Army of Occupation beyond the Rhine.

Auction Sales.

Auction sales still continue to be numerous. Charles Smith, who resides two miles north of Frankford, sold his stock implements and household effects on Monday.

Harold Foster, another resident of Sydney Township, had a similar sale yesterday.

Rotarians and Boys at Trenton.

The Boys' Work Committee had charge of the programme at the week-end luncheon of the Trenton Rotary Club, when action was taken to provide a bathing beach. The Rotary Club will co-operate with the Parks Board. The total cost of fixiug up the beach is estimated at $1,500. The dumping of 2,800 yards of sand is the equivalent of ninety carloads, it is believed will be the biggest item of cost.

Good Prices Realized.

At an auction sale in the Quinte district one day during the week, pure bred cows sold up to $125, with grade cows averaging from $60 to $70. Horses sold around $125.

YOU

Every one pays taxes. Many think they escape, because they do not pay directly. But all pay, indirectly, many taxes passed on to them as additions to the prices of things they buy.

An illustration: The wrangle among congressmen, about tobacco taxes, reveals that the buyer of a package of 20 cigarets pay six cents tax. All play. Few know it. It's concealed in the selling price. After all, indirect taxation is the less painful form of extraction.

Even the child buying a penny stick of candy pays tax.

Do you pay taxes on your furniture and other property to the extent of its full valuation?

From Washington comes a government report showing that the assessed valuation of all property in the United States, for taxation purposes, is about 125 million dollars.

That's approximately half of the "national wealth."

So taxpayers, on the average, are 50 per cent truthful in reporting property for taxation.

MARMORA WOMEN SUGGEST IDEAS OF IMPROVEMENT

Planting of Trees, War On Weeds and Other Practical Methods Brought Out at Institute Meeting — League Meeting Programme.

MARMORA, March 14.—The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute of Marmora met at the home of Mrs. Clarence Gladney on Wednesday evening.

In answer to the roll call each lady was asked to give ideas on how to improve Marmora streets. The first suggestion was planting trees especially by the cemetery.

A discussion as to the best kind of trees, when they should be planted and how to proceed took place.

One suggestion was that each person be responsible for the street adjoining their own property with regard to weeds, raking, etc.

Another suggestion was that seats be placed on the hill opposite the Presbyterian church where such a beautiful view of the river valley is obtained.

How to get rid of the weeds in vacant lots was also discussed.

Mrs. (Dr.) Jones gave a reading on "Is the World to be permanently 'on edge'? or why we have so many nervous people in the world today."

Many suggestions were made but the writer claimed the cure was that man had to know himself—that the study of mind and its possibilities and workings was what was needed.

A short stoy was read in which the work of the British laborer was said to be very much superior to the work of the French laborer, because the Englishman ate roast beef. When the Frenchman was given roast beef, his work reached the standard of the Englishman. This was followed by a discussion based on other articles read regarding meat. One writer thought that in future years, the meat supply of the world would not at all meet the demand and we would have to use substitutes.

Then followed a game. Each lady was fiven paper and pencil and asked to make as many words as possible out of the word "measurements". Ten minutes were allowed. Mrs. D. R. Clare won the prize as she had 63 words.

A very dainty lunch was served by the hostess and the meeting was adjourned.

League Meeting.

On Wednesday evening the regular Young People's League of the Methodist Church met under the leadership of Miss Bessie Sweet, missionary vice-president.

The program consisted of a paper on Africa by Miss Ila Bonter; talk on subject of worship by Miss Margaret Clare; recitation by Miss Florence Clare; exercise, Watchman of the Night by Mrs. Myrtle Loveless, Miss Alma Osborne, Miss Vietta Vandusen, Miss Ida Clare.

Instead of the regular contest charades on missionary words were played. The four words enacted were: missionary, hospital, idolatery and accidents.

A splendid missionary collection was given amounting to over $6. The white side under Miss Effie Knox is ahead in the contest but this contest is proving more interesting than the last as the race is closer.

Don't Squeeze Blackheads—Dissolve Them

Squeezing and pinching out blackheads make the pores large and cause irritation. Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dust and dirt and secretions from the skin, and there is only one safe and sure way and one that never fails to get rid of them—a simple—way, too—that is to dissolve them. Just get from any drug store about two ounces of peroxine powder—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—wash off, and you'll be surprised to see that every blackhead has disappeared, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition.

Republican Defeated By Candidate of Dail.

DUBLIN, March 13.—In a by-election held to-day in the south division of Dublin for the seat in the Daily Eireann made vacant through the death of President Cosgrave's brother, the Government candidate, Mr. O'Mara, won. O'Mara received 17,193 vote to 13,942 for Mr. Lomas, the Republican candidate.

French Senate Firm On Poincare Measure.

PARIS, March 14.—The clash between the Poincare Government and the Finance committee of the Senate over fiscal measures designed to balance the budget and restore the franc in the exchange market began in the senate yesterday, and when the first skirmish was over it was found that only one of the adversaries had taken a clear position.

The opposition, through M. Berenger, secretary of the Finance committee, uncompromisingly refused to grand authority to the Government to "make laws."

Premier Poincare, in replying, evaded the issue and spoke lengthily on the necessity of stemming the adverse tide against the franc.

ARE YOU ALMOST A NERVOUS WRECK

Stop Worrying! Be Restored by a Home Treatment Costing Only Few Cents a Day

Nerve exhaustion is the result of using up the body's nerve power—the energy that keeps you vigorous, strong. Without vital nerve force the body becomes deadened; the mind becomes tortured with worry and fears; your worn out nerves seem actually to cry out in agony.

Women with overstrained nerves grow thin, pale, haggard and are prematurely old. Men who have exhausted their nervous systems find their way to success blocked by their own weakness.

There is no magic way to restore the nerves. Nerve power—the vital force of life—is created only within our bodies. When the body is so worn out that it can not store up nerve strength then it must have a restorative. Just as soon as we begin to restore our bodies so surely will we begin to regain nerve power and vitality.

There is a safe home treatment for nerve exhausted men and women; a treatment that is absolutely harmless and costs only a few cents a day. Get from your druggist at once a generous size bottle of Wincarnis, the restorative for sufferer from weakness and nerve failure. Take this Wincarnis treatment for twelve days and you will understand what it means to regain nerve power and vitality.

EDMONTON, Alta., March 14.—The Church Union bill has passed the committee on private bills with one clause, dealing with the manner of congregational voting, left over for the legislature to consider, the committee taking no action on that particular point. The final sitting of the committee on the Union Bill was held Thursday morning and will report favorably on all but one of the thirty clauses, approving also the schedule for a model trust deed.

Taking Your Hat Off to Spring

Take off the old and put on the new. It's great sport when Spring Hats are as attractive as they are this year. We take particular care to see that the Hat you buy is the most becoming style for you and that it is shaped to fit comfortably. There are many styles in soft greys and tans with contrasting bands.

MEN'S SHOP.

Spring Has Made Her Curtsey

WITH queenly grace and glorious color in her favorite fashions. So many and such fascinating costumes and accessories this store has gathered for Milady's adornment. Spring has declared for color, soft browns and greys, such as tortoise shell, terrapin and cinder; and vivid blues, reds and greens, which may compose the entire garment or adorn a dark background. Spring favors simplicity, too, as these Frocks, Suits and Coats, just received, testify. They are graceful, straight and slim, the tubular silhouette often varied by ripples and tiers. Satin and other lustrous silks, shining twills and fleecy woollens, fashion stunning boyish Dresses, three-piece Costumes and three-quarter Coats.

In the Men's Shop

Men will be interested to know that the new spring models in Suits and Coats have arrived. You will do well to make your selection early. We insure the three good qualities of clothes—good fit, good quality, good workmanship.

Drop in and see for yourself.

Staunton Semi-Trimmed Wall Papers

Now, indeed, is the time to re-paper your home. Thousands of rolls of bright new Papers are here. Staunton's Semi-Trimmed Papers save time and expense. The selvege is partly cut so that all that has to be done is tap the edge of the roll and its trimmed.

What's What in Shoes

Our new Spring Footwear modes, creations of expert craftsmanship, denote most discriminating taste and clever designing. There are numerous styles to choose from, whether you are looking for a street shoe, an afternoon slipper or a dancing pump. The newest suede shoes come in all of spring's loveliest shades of tans and greys.

These Topcoats

Know They Are Smart

That is why they swing such a jaunty capelet, some of them, or toss a scarf-collar so nonchalantly back over the shoulder. They are of fleecy woollens, often tiger-striped. Light reds are among the newest colors, but a combination of black and a vivid hue is popular also. These swagger Topcoats for spring may be chosen full or three-quarter length. Priced, $19.50 to $52.

Sleek, Smart Coats

Show the Tube Silhouette

Straight and slim, they convey an air of distinction to the wearer. Often they are trimmed with self material—navy twill, suede surfaced woollens in tan, almond green or black. If fur is used, it is a soft, short-haired fur appropriate to the season, with leopard a favorite. Discriminating women will like the exclusive models we are showing in Poiret twill and tricotine. Priced at $35 to $85.

Smart Whims of New Hats

They are like the whims of a charming woman, unexpected but delightful. Lustrous taffeta and pliable satin are combined, in many cases, with new silky straws. The sweeping lines of a black tricorne have for sole adornment a lace veil which winds around the throat. Embroidery in Spanish shawl pattern makes vivid a rather large picture Hat. Crowns of petit point are seen on the newest cloches, and faille ribbon is cunningly fashioned into skull-caps and turbans. Colors are vivid or delicate, and sometimes have a black background.

The Tailored Woman Comes Into Her Own This Spring

To be tailored is to be modish this season, whether one choose the mannish O'Rossen type of suit or the less severe box coat style. Twills, repp, covert cloth and men's wear serge are superbly cut and show soft new shades, and black with white. Each Suit here has its touch of individuality; here contrasting stitchery and a wide hip-belt; there a wrap-around skirt with a contrasting flange of silk in the opening.

In materials of charmeen, picotine, tricotine, and tweeds. Priced $35 to $85.

"FEEL IT HEAL" Mentholatum COLDS BURNS BRUISES

Death of J. L. Aunger.

One of the most highly esteemed citizens of the district passed away March 1st, in the person of John Laskey Aunger. He might well be called a grand old patriarch, because as well as being an example of a model man he was left in the midst of his friends and family until the advanced age of 92 years.

He had lived in this section for about 60 years, coming from England when but 19 years of age. His birthplace was near Cornrocket, in Cornwall, and naturaly he turned towards mining as an occupation. Starting to work in the mines of Cornwall at the age of 12 his hobby has always been minerals and rare stones.

He remained at the mining industry until his health and age would no longer permit it. During these long years of work he became an expert at judging rocks, and also of explosives. He was often called upon to use his skill in these things when others failed and he has saved mining companies time and money in this way.

Collections of Minerals.

He was famous for his mineral collections of which he had several. His first collection consisted of notive copper, curios, and curious shaped stones. He sold this to P. T. Barnum for his museum in New York city. He again made a collection which was noted for its beauty and the number of specimens.

Part of this selection was sent to the Chicago World's Fair, and then sold to Mr. Sawyer of Acton, Ont. Other smaller collections were made for his sons.

As a judge of ore he was in big demand, especially before the scientific way of analyzing it was so fully developed. He worked in the copper mines of Lake Superior, and helped to remove the largest copper nugget that the world has ever known.

Later in life he moved to Blairton where he was foreman over the Blairton Iron Mines. During this time he crossed the Atlantic seven times in quest of mining experience, and to see his parents.

In minerology Mr. Aunger often puzzled professors by the expert way in which he could judge rocks.

A Church Worker.

In church work Mr. Aunger's life was most notable. He was a superintendent of the Sunday school for more than 40 years. He was first married in Seymour township to Catharine Stanbury, and six children were born to them. They are Edwin, now in Los Angeles, California; Mrs. D. F. Young, of Moosejaw, now deceased, John Albert, deceased, Mrs. Dr. Sprague, Barkers, N. Y.; Mrs. H. M. Moxon, Picton, Ont, and Mrs. F. G. Zier, Oswego.

Mr. Aunger was again married in 1906, and the children of this marriage are: Frederick, of Edwards, N. Y.; Harry, of Smith Falls; George at home; Lilian of Washington, D. C.; William, at home.

The funeral was held on March 4, proceeding to the Blairton Methodist church, where service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Lovelace, of Centreton, Ont., whom Mr. Aunger held in the highest esteem.

The funeral proceeded to Maple Grove cemetery, where interment took place under Masonic honors.

In Mr. Aunger's death a highly respected citizen has passed to his reward.

GAINED WEALTH BUT DIED POOR

Teamster Realized Dream of Fortune, Handled Big New York Contracts — Left Estate of $500.

NEW YORK, March 14.—Only an estate of "less than $500" left out of a fortune of millions.

This was officially named the other day as the heritage of the widow of William Bradley, who with two sturdy arms and a horse, built the nucleus of the wealth accredited to the one-time famous Bradley Contracting Company.

A very humble beginning had the builder of subways that connected counties and of tunnels that connected States. It was as the driver of a squeaking brick cart, behind a sorrowing nag, that the future owner of the speediest trotting and race horses in the world dreamed that dreams that brought him fame and fortune.

Some day he would drive a cart of his own. He would own a sturdy horse, a gray Percheron, or none. So he waited. One day he entered the horse mart of Fiss, Doerr & Carroll, where the best in horse flesh was to be had.

Gets His First Horse.

He bid as was the custom. But against him there were other bidders and when his slender savings were almost at their limit he got his grey Percheron.

That was fifty years ago, but from that time forward William Bradley was his own master. He carted bricks and collected all the profits. But the day was too short for him. His horse, he explained, shared his ambition. Four hours rest was all one needed, particularly if one had a sturdy gray Percheron.

So together the partnership, horse and master, conveyed sides of beef from abbatoirs in Manhattan to retailers in Brooklyn. The master thrived, other horses were bought, and the first gray Percheron rested more and more as their prosperity increased. But not Bill Bradley. In between the day shift, when bricks were to be carted, and the night shift, when the meat was to be taken to the Brooklyn stores, Bradley dug cellars.

Always A Percheron.

Always he would be seen behind a stalwart gray Percheron. When asked why he preferred this type and color steed, he replied:

"Because they're courageous and because if they are not treated well they are quick to show it. Some day I'll have others driving horses for me and I'll know how they are being treated when I look at them."

Bradley's prophecy came true. Soon he was operating under contracts for the removal of snow for the city. Casually, he bought a small share in the horse-selling establishment where he had bought his first steed. Before many years he was its principal stockholder. And then he began buying the famous speed sires of the day. Major Delmar, Guy Axworthy, Todd and George G. For Todd he paid $30,000.

Was Worth Millions

Then came the subways. Bradley planned to bid on the subway digging. This, he explained, was only a case of digging cellars, but on a larger scale. Bradley was sneered at at first, but he put in his bid. He built a large part of the Interboroug subway. Then came the tube of the Pennsylvania system, the Bergen Hill tunnel, which bores its way through the lower Palisades, and other big enterprises. Bradley had surrounded himself with a partner by this time, his son Frank among them.

His wordly possession were counted in billions. On one tunnel job he had employed 8,00 men and 2,000 horses, every one a gray Percheron.

Then came business troubles, strikes, receiverships, bankruptcies and death.

The petition accompanying the will filed yesterday in the Surrogates' Court disclosed that with death has come poverty.

An estate valued at "less than $500," says this document, was the sole heritage of the widow.

THE AIRPLANE AND AUTO-CAR.

Will Soon Be in Popular Use When There Are More People to Buy Them.

By ISRAEL KLEIN.

The saturation point in automobile use, according to Henry Ford, will come when there are no more people to buy them.

Even when airplanes come within the buying and flying power of the average citizen.

For, instead of becoming a competitor of the automobile, the popular airplane is expected to furnish simply a faster and an auxiliary means of travel and transportation.

The purchase of airplanes for popular travel is expected to start within a few years. Experiments and actual flights have been going on lately to prove the efficacy of this means of travel to the public.

Cheap Transportation.

The late Lawrence Sperry lost his life recently in an attempted flight across the English Channel, in the tiny "messenger" plane he had been trying to perfect for every-day use.

Recently an airplane contest in England included two midget planes, costing $1,000 on an average, which flew 75 miles and more on a gallon of gasoline. The engines on the planes were restricted to 7½ horsepower and a wing spread of 10 feet.

According to young Sperry, the safe, small airplane is only a few years off. It will cost only about $150 and will be produced in quantity lots. Ford has prophesied, in this connection, that airplane engines in large numbers will be built for $50 each.

If this comes true, and it is expected within a few days, we may soon have to provide landing stations atop buildings to receive the fast increasing number of airplanes that will travel the skies. Business men will be going to work in them, their homes much farther away from city life than they are now. Cities, as residence areas, will be practically obliterated, for even the poorer people will have their much cheaper automobiles to take them to the outskirts.

Auto Will Stay.

But the automobile will never be replaced. The airplane hangar will be set up alongside the automobile garage. Long distances will be flown over. But short trips—to the grocer's, to a friend's, and other comparatively nearby spots—will still be made with the automobile.

By "short trips" is not meant "from here to the corner," but those comparatively shorter than would be taken by the airplanes.

Automobiles will still be kept by those using airplanes, each for its own purpose. And there will continue to be a group of people to whom even the automobile will be an innovation in their lives.

SPEAKER SEES A BIG FUTURE FOR DOMINION

Captain Milton State Says Canada is Standing on Threshold of Glorious Future.

THE KIWANIS CLUB

A tribute to the ability and efficiency of Sir Henry Thornton and a request for a square deal for the Canadian National Railway, in which all Canadians are 100 per cent. shareholders, concluded an able address by Captain Milton State at to-day's Kiwanis Club luncheon.

Captain State has travelled from one end of Canada to the other in the interests of the Canadian National Railway, and he assured his hearers to-day that Canadians have no grounds for pessimism. The federation of Canada was brought about through the railways. If the railways were built ahead of the people it was because such a course was necessary to the proper and speedy development of the country. When the burden of operation became too much the Government accepted the onus of responsibility and unified the great railway systems of Canada into the Canadian National Railway. Linked up with the railway is a vast telegraph and express service and the merchant marine. There is not an ocean or sea where ships of the merchant marine do not travel with cargoes from all ports of the world. There is no need for pessimism, said Captain State. We are standing on the threshold of a glorious future. At the present time we have a trade balance in our favour of $150,000,000.

Social Hygiene Council.

Miss Estelle Hewson, Ontario secretary for the Social Hygiene Council, addressed the meeting on the subject of the social hygiene exhibit that will be held in Peterborough all next week. The first three days of the week will be for men and the last three days for women. On Monday the Kiwanis Club will assist in the presentation of the exhibit, and on Tuesday the Rotarians will perform a similar service. On Wednesday the exhibit will be in charge of the Knights of Columbus. The value of good health to the individual and the community was stressed by Miss Hewsen. Prominent speakers such as Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Chief Officer of Health for Ontario and Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst will be here during the week to assist in the work.

Male Voice Choir.

The coming Male Voice Choir concert was endorsed by the club, and the members urged to support the organization in its musical efforts.

To-day's booster was Kiwanian Wilfrid Huycke, who described the difference between solicitors, barristers and also shyster lawyers. The latter kind are unknown in Peterboro. The prizewinners were Kiwanian Charlie Cook, who seldom fails to win a prize, and Kiwanian Max Yelland. Miss Ina Allen contributed a solo, and responded to an encore. The accompanist was Mrs. M. C. Mackinnon. Miss Allen was presented with a bouquet of carnations.

President John R. Marshall presided at to-day's meeting and put a lengthy programme through in good time.

Canadian Stock Exchange and Mines | New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

TO-DAY'S QUOTATIONS AND OPINION AND REVIEWS OF THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 14—(United Press).—Further impetus to recovery in the general list was imparted at the opening of the stock exchange by Paris confirmation of the belief prevailing in Wall Street that the big credit extended to France meant that Poincare had acquiesced to the Dawes reparation plan.

Another construction feature was the weekly statement of the Federal Reserve Banking System, which while setting forth unimportant shading of the reserve ratio showed another increase in gold holdings and note circulation was at the lowest of the year.

Steel reached a new high on the move at 103 1-4 and corn products at 180, while other leaders displayed a strong tone, Southern Wailsy first common dividend in 30 years continued to be reflected in activities of the stock at record levels and in other medium priced rails like Wabash preferred A, which made a new 1924 high at 45 1-4, on the belief that the directors would soon follow the example of the southern board.

Market street prior preferred was an exception breaking 3 to 45 on the elimination of the $6 dividend by the board of directors. Copper shared made a better response to steps toward stabilization of the franc which is expected to be followed by an agreement on reparations which will result in heavy purchases of the heavy metal for export. The Compagne general Trans-Atlanticue has obtained from the French Chamber of Deputies an increase from 5,900,000 francs as in 1913 to 21,000,000 francs in an annual subsidy. The senate must still approve. A report to the Bankers Trust Co. says that French steel production in 1923 was 4,976,869 tons against 4,471,275 in 1922. Pig Iron production was 5,299,586 tons against 5,128,68 in 1922. While production in Alsaie Lorraine in 1923 not included in the compilation was 1,576,059 tons of steel and 1,867,164 tons of pig iron.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Banquet in the Presbyterian Church -- Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 14. — The banquet held on Thursday night in the Presbyterian church was a great success. The tables were loaded with all sorts of good things to eat and at six o'clock they were quickly filled. Everyone did justice to the splendid supper provided.

In a very short time after the first table had been served, they were ready for the second. While the people were eating they enjoyed the music on the piano by several of the young people.

During the wait upstairs, Mr. E. C. Dolman and Mr. F. Wigglesworth played several selections on the pipe organ.

Rev. C. F. McIntosh, pastor of the church, was the chairman for the evening and after a few remarks announced the programme. He said he was glad to have Rev. D. A. Thompson of Hastings and Rev. J. J. Black of Burnbrae. The opening number on the programme was a solo, "Tick Tock," by Mr. Wigglesworth; (2) A reading by Mrs. J. H. Bell; 3, A solo, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," Miss L. Ballantyne; 4, an address, "The Gift of Humor," Rev. Mr. Thompson of Hastings; 5, Euphonium solo, "The Holy City," Mr. George T. Salter; 6, Vocal solo, 'Lullaby,' Mrs. J. E. Glover; 7, Instrumental duet, Mr. Wigglesworth on the organ and Mr. E. C. Dolman on the piano; 8, Solo, Selected, Mr. Rollo; 9, An address, Rev. J. J. Black, of Burnbrae; 10, Reading, accompanied by Mr. Wigglesworth on piano, Mrs. Bell; 11, Euphonium solo, "Addah Polka," Mr. Salter; 12, solo, "A Flower Pure and Sweet," Mr. Wigglesworth.

The musical part of the programme was splendid and the addresses full of humour and wit, made the evening's entertainment an enjoyable one. The proceeds amounted to between two hundred and fifty and three hundred dollars.

The accompaniments for the evening were played by Miss Hawley and Mr. Wigglesworth.

MADE $100,000 IN BOND SALES

Member of Toronto Brokerage Firm Admitted Profit of $50,000 Each on Two Transactions With U. F. O.

TORONTO, March 14 (Canadian Press). — Douglas K. Ridout, of Ridout & Strickland, Toronto brokers, gave evidence before the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature this morning relative to the sale of two Treasury bills of five millions each of the Province of Ontario, in April, 1923. He admitted that he had made a profit of $100,000, or 1 per cent. on the sale.

In each of the two transactions his profit was $50,000.

"Did you suggest to the Government of the time that it could make money itself on the exchange?" asked the Hon. W. H. Rice.

"I did not."

Both Treasury bills were payable in Canadian funds in New York and repayable in Canadian or American funds.

Out of $100,000 profit Mr. Ridout paid personal and other expenses, including $1,200 for legal services.

All the early negotiations were with the then Treasurer, Hon. Peter Smith.

Mr. Ridout was asked concerning his bank account, and asked to produce it so that the committee could find out where the $100,000 profit went.

W. Finlayson, chairman of the committee, said that Mr. Ridout had put himself in a very false position in his careless way of treating the matter.

Sam Clark, M.L.A., protested against this statement.

Mr. Price said there was an interest where money went because the transaction was made right before election time, and described the transaction as very peculiar.

'Not peculiar at all," replied Mr. Doherty. "A very ordinary transaction, and done all the time."

In reply to a question, Mr. Ridout said that he could not tell when he sold the Treasury bills how much profit he would get, but he was positive of some profit.

Mr. Doherty said that his profit could be no concern of the Province as long as the Province got what it was entitled to.

GOLDIE MILLING COMPANY FINED FOR SUNDAY LABOR

GUELPH, March 14.—The Goldie Milling Co., Ltd., pleaded guilty at yesterday's Police Court to a charge of "carrying on the work of its ordinary calling" on Sunday, February 4, contrary to the Act to prevent the profanation of the Lord's Day. The firm's representative pleaded mitigating circumstances, claiming the company was behind in filling orders on a contract. A conviction was registered, and the company was fined $25 and costs. In commenting on the case, Crown Attorney J. M. Kearns stated that under no circumstances was the firm justified in working on the Sabbath Day.

CHURCH NAMES FOR BLOSSOMS

In the country districts of many European lands not a few plants and flowers are known by other names than those given them by botanists and florists. In ancient days, religion entered into many of the daily things of life, and garden blooms received their titles from the church calendar. Our marigold was then, because of its blooming about the time of the Annunciation, Mary's Gold; the common primrose was Mary's Pink; the varlegated ribbongrass of the present was Our Lady's Laces; and so forth. The glistening buttercups were known as Mary Bride, and the periwinkle was in France the Virgin Flower. The snowdrops are called Fair Maids of February from the legend that they sprang up in Mary's footsteps when she carried her Son to the Temple; fumitory was Our Lady's Glove; stonecrop, Queen's Cushion, and the fragrant honeysuckle, Lady's Finger. In Ireland, the sanicle, formerly reputed to have healing powers, is still called Lady's Mantle. Other flowers were named in honour of saints or of some religious feast. The aster had of old the prettier name of Michaelmas Daisy, and the purple l'ac that of Whitsun Flower. The yellow daffodil, which appeared about the middle of March, was Joseph's Lily, and the autumnal flowering golden rod, Joseph's Staff. Whitsun alleluia was the ancient name of the wild sorrel and Canterbury Bells were Beckett's Bells, as these beautiful bell-shaped flowers grew plentifully in a field near the site of his martyrdom. The white narcissus was Lenten Lily, and the crosswort was the name of the polygala, because this flower was carried on wands in processions on Rogation Days. In the English Midlands the scepire lily was Healing Lily, and the pansy Trinity Herb. St. John's Wort still retains its olden name; one legend says that the red spots on its leaves are the marks made by the saint's blood. The roots of the plant known as Solomon's Seal are said to bear the mark of the wise king's seal; and a poultice made from its leaves was formerly used in knitting together broken bones. — The Ave Maria.

10% REDUCTION

On everything in our store with the exception of Oilclothes, Linoleums, Congoleums, Rugs and Window Shades

On March 17th., one year ago, we opened up our store to the public introducing a new idea in store management. "The Factory to Home Proposition" of selling goods direct from the factories at a very small margin of profit. This makes it possible for Peterborough citizens to buy at home and get better values than from the mail order houses. We have been more than satisfied the way the buying public have taken advantage of our low prices under this selling system, our turn-over being so large that we are able to continue business with the same low margin of profit that prevailed in our goods all last year.

CHAMPAGNE QUART MAN FACES BILLION VOLT EYE

'Twas a Rare and Precious Accident Mused Colonel Otter—Seven Days C.B.

ORDERLY room, Stanley Barracks in the late eighties. Smith Spudd, full private, late of Somerset, up on a charge of being swizzled on parade. Usual formalities: Sgt.-Major—"Left turn, quick march; halt; front."

Colonel—now General—Otter, with the record of Smithy's checkered military career before him, gravely reads the charge, calls the sole witness, Sgt. Peters, to detail the well-known symptoms, then fixes Smithy with a glass eye charged with a billion volts of hypnotic power and asks if he has anything to say. Smithy explains:

Sir W. D. Otter

"Ah was wi' tha squad i' tha stable yard sir as the sargent says sir an' Ah deeged ma stunt sir whur tha ould stebble stud sir an' Ah deeged an' deeged sir an' Ah stroock summat 'ard wi' ma pick sir an——"

"Ah," said the Colonel, "——hard."

"Ay sur, hard, an' Ah routed un out wi' ma spedd an' 'at's wot un was sir (pointing to exhibit A—a bottle of generous size) an' Ah gouged tha stopper wi' ma knife sir an' Ah deeged un an' deeged un sir an' pop she went like a goon sir an' that stopper flied sir an' she smoked like a cannon sir an' Ah tasted un an' 'twas champagne sir 'at summun had planted in tha ould dahs when the ould stebble stud there—so it been ould sir——"

"Very old," said the Colonel. He glared fiercely at Exhibit A, assisted by the sergeant-major, the witness and the escort. The late contents of Exhibit A were silently and unanimously voted very ould.

"Too ould fr tha likes of i sir" went on the prisoner, "Ah tuk a swig sir an' Ah tuk another swig sir—an'—an'——"

"Well, and what?"

"An' she's naw stopper ta hould un sir an' Ah doons 'er."

"You what?"

"Ah doons it all. 'Twas bellke an accident sur."

"Rare and precious accident," mused the colonel. A twinkle had usurped the place of the billion volts. "You drank a whole quart of champagne?"

"Ay sur."

"And your dry comrades all about you—and a dry sergeant to command?"

"Ay sur."

"Well, you're one hog. Seven days C. B."

Bled to See Royalty Saw Only 'Old Doc Brett'

DR. R. G. BRETT, lieutenant-governor of Alberta, is one of the real pioneers, having settled in Alberta in 1883. Dr. Brett says that at one time he knew practically every person in the province and was known by all. At the annual medical banquet recently, J. H. Woods, editor of the Calgary Herald, in proposing the toast to Alberta, which was to be responded to by Dr. Brett, told the following story:

Governor Brett, after his elevation to the lieutenant-governorship, decided to make a tour of northern Alberta. News of his coming was spread throughout the north, and the populace gathered along the route to see the distinguished visitor. One old trapper traveled 20 miles through undergrowth and across swamps. He said he had never seen royalty, and he was going to have the privilege of shaking hands with royalty before he died. Finally, he came up with the lieutenant-governor's party at Spirit River and succeeded in making his way through the crowd to where the governor was being introduced. The mayor of the town, who was performing the amenities of the occasion, began to say to him, "This is the lieutenant-governor," when the trapper looked up in surprise on seeing who it was, and exclaimed, "Governor, h—l, it is only Doc. Brett." Then, withdrawing to the rear, he whispered to his neighbor, "I have had his bill this forty year."

Hon. Dr. Brett

Dr. Brett, when his turn to speak came, said that the tale was true in the main but not in the details, and he gave the following version: "I do not deny that the man came a long distance, but the meeting was in this wise. It was a delightful Sunday morning, and we had gone out on a hill at the back of Spirit River to view the country when we saw a man coming along the street in a zig-zag fashion, swinging his hat. He came up to the party, and, as is the custom in the new parts, someone began to introduce those present. 'This is Judge White.' 'Is that so, glad to meet you. Put it there, judge.' I was standing in the rear of the group and I noticed that the man's face looked as though someone had been combing his face with a curry comb. It was scratched and the blood was oozing from a number of scratches.

"Then they introduced us. 'This is the governor.' 'Governor, h—l; why, it is old Doc. Brett.' Then he threw his arms round my neck and wiped his face first on one shoulder and then on the other of the new grey tweed suit I had had made for the trip. Then he stood back and asked, 'Well, Doc., how much is it? Is it $144.17 or $147.14?'

"I replied, 'If you send me enough to buy a new suit I will forgive you the bill.' "All right, Doc., I'll do that the first time I have the money to spare,' he said, and ambled off."

Curzon's Last Blow for Old Order Bad Joke on Ramsay MacDonald

Appointment of Sir Esme Howard as British Ambassador to Washington Riles Labor — Trained in Old School of Secret Diplomacy

New British Ambassador Assumes His Duties

SEATED at the desk, in the above photo, is shown the new British ambassador to the United States, Sir Esme Howard. Behind him is Henry G. Chilton, counsellor at the embassy.

SIR ESME HOWARD, the new British ambassador, has arrived at Washington, and already, according to the reports, he has won even the hearts of the toughest democrats. He came protesting his strangeness. With the innocence born of thirty-eight years of distinguished diplomatic service, he candidly threw himself upon the mercy of the press. They made up for the welcome letter that probably was not waiting at his residence on Connecticut avenue from Premier MacDonald.

The joke, they say, is against the new British premier. Since the jokester is Lord Curzon, it is probable that even Mr. MacDonald, although possessed of a real sense of humor, scarcely appreciates it. The flavor of autocracy pervades it too strongly.

With the appointment of Sir Esme, even while the handwriting on the wall spelled the doom of the Baldwin administration, Lord Curzon struck a last "dirty" blow for the regular diplomatic service against the interlopers. What was said in Labor circles about the foreign minister of a moribund administration just about to quit office who had the audacity to rush through an appointment so important as the representative of the king's constitutional advisers at Washington has yet to be told.

But, after Lord Curzon was done, it did not matter what anybody said. In reality, he had chosen Mr. MacDonald's most important ambassador for him, and he had taken care that he was an aristocrat of the aristocrats, a champion of the old school of secret diplomacy against which the new Labor premier has given his fiat.

Thus the appointment of Sir Esme has been touched by drama. The prospect of a Socialistic budget was sufficiently alarming, but in the foreign office over which the Marquis of Curzon presided as high priest, as a distinguished British journalist has described it, a Labor cabinet appointing defeated communists to vacant embassies was an unutterable nightmare. After wild appeals to King George, similar to those made to Louis XVI of France, to stand by his class, had been made in vain, it was decided to save at least 1300 Connecticut avenue from the wreck. The resignation of Sir Auckland Geddes was accepted promptly, and within a couple of hours, with unprecedented haste, the name of his successor was announced.

All this does not mean in the least degree that Sir Esme is not probably the best man that could have been appointed to the job. Earl Balfour, a diplomat of the old school if there ever was one, "put it over" to a surprising degree at Washington. Among even the most democratic of Americans there seems to be a particular fondness for the British aristocrat who knows how to mix.

Nobody will question Sir Esme's ability in that respect. Like his wife, the most complete example of Anglo-italian nobility, he is an aristocrat to his finger tips.

The American press may well contrast the present ambassador to the late James Bryce.

He is an Englishman and not a Scotsman. He is a noble by descent and not a commoner. He is a man of the world and not a scholar. He is a Catholic and not a Protestant. He is a trained diplomat, which Bryce was not. And the only point where he closely resembles Bryce is his politics. In 1892 he stood for parliament as a Gladstonian Liberal, but was defeated.

It was to win his wife that he entered the Roman church in 1898.

Now 60 years of age, Sir Esme can look back on strenuous years of service since he began to "read" for the diplomatic service even as a boy at Harrow.

Not only did he pass his written examination, but he emerged successful from that severe test, the oral inquiry into social position, private means and personal accomplishment, which ushers the candidate into the sacred hierarchy of the British foreign office.

His elder sister had become the second wife of the fourth Earl of Carnarvon. And when the Earl was appointed by Lord Salisbury to be Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, young Howard, then 23, accompanied his brother-in-law to Dublin as a private secretary.

In 1894-5 Howard was a private secretary to the Earl of Kimberley, then foreign secretary, after which experience he began to travel. First he served in the British embassy at Berlin. Then he joined the Imperial Yeomanry and fought in the South African war, winning the medal and clasps. When that little business was concluded, he acted as Consul-General of Crete, in the Mediterranean, where he lived from 1903 to 1908. Thence he was promoted to be counselor of Embassy at Washington, where he lived until 1908. After that he had three years at Budapest; two years in Switzerland, where he was minister; six years in Sweden, where he succeeded Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, who had been promoted ambassador to the United States; and finally Sir Esme Howard found himself ambassador to Spain. His has been, indeed, a varied career. He has lived less in England than abroad and he comes to the United States as a seasoned cosmopolitan.

HAD GOOD LUCK WITH FITS SAID FORBES GODFREY

Ontario Minister of Health Prided Himself on His Luck With First Patient

THE Hon. Forbes Godfrey, minister of health for Ontario, now, wears his responsibilities easily, but there was a time when as young Dr. Godfrey he looked out of the window at a new shingle and waited for his first patient. The suspense was terminated by a distracted father whose infant was having a fit.

Dr. Forbes Godfrey

"I'll be ready in a minute," the young graduate assured him, shutting himself in an inner room and hastily opening a medical text book. There was an appalling range of fits to choose from and the remedies were equally varied but he seized on the most plausible and the child recovered.

Only a day or two after came the next nibble when some one asked him to see a grandfather who was very sick—pneumonia, like as not.

"You don't think it is fits?" the young doctor found himself enquiring hopefully. "I have awfully good luck with fits."

WHY THOMAS MEIGHAN WENT INTO TRAINING

WHEN I was cast for the sailor-man, "Matt Peasley," in Cappy Ricks, I knew I just had to get at the proper atmosphere, or the film would be a wash-out. So I spent nearly two weeks at sea learning all I could and trying to soak up the real salt into my blood.

I thought I'd taken in all the extra knowledge I wanted by the time work started, but I was wrong. In the story Matt fights a certain "All-Hands-and-Feet-Petersen"; and when I read about the fight in the scenario I didn't give it a second thought, as I knew I was fairly fit.

Came a day, however, when there appeared a vast specimen of humanity—225 pounds in weight, hands like young hams, ears beautifully decorated with cauliflowers, and a 30-inch neck.

"Tommy," said the producer to me, "meet Ivan Linow, the Russian wrestler and prize-fighter." When I regained consciousness the following duologue ensued:

Myself: "Are you to be All-Hands-and-Feet-Petersen in this film?"

Friend Ivan: "That's the idea. I quit fighting when I accidentally killed Bill Downing in Bangor, Maine; but I can still put up a decent scrap if I have to."

Over to the producer I went. "When do we shoot the fight scenes?" I inquired.

"To-morrow, if it's fine," was the answer.

That decided me; and I got the producer to alter his plans.

Then I got really busy with the punching ball at 7 a.m. each morning for many mornings. And when at last I faced friend Ivan before the camera, that fight wasn't such a nightmare as it might have been, after all!

Scholar's "Spoonerisms" Addition To the Mirth of Merrie England

Slips of Speech Such as "Beery Wenches" for Weary Benches, "Shoving Leopard" for Loving Shepherd, Attributed to Warden of New College, Oxford

ENGLAND is taking a few days off from consideration of the Labor party and socialism to pay amused yet respectful homage to the inventor of "Spoonerisms." He is the Rev. W. A. Spooner, who in July of this year, when he will attain the age of eighty, will retire as warden of New College, Oxford. And his friends say he is not responsible for "Spoonerisms" at all.

Nevertheless, his name has passed into the English language as imperishably as has the name of Colonel Boycott or of MacAdam. "Spoonerism," as explained by the Oxford English Directory, is "an accidental transposition of the initial sounds, or other parts, of two or more words." And it is an insidious habit.

One man could hardly have achieved all the brilliant "Spoonerisms" credited to the venerable scholar, who gained fame among his peers by his edition of Tacitus and by his "Life of Bishop Butler." The majority of them certainly are apocryphal; yet Dr. Spooner can no more hope to escape from than can Lord Curzon hope to live down the jingle beginning:

"My name is George Nathaniel Curzon.
I am a most superior person——"

Indeed, Dr. Spooner himself is said to have declared that most of the transpositions attributed to him were due to the "woolish fit" of Oxford undergraduates. However that may be, thousands of people believe that Dr. Spooner spoke of the time when "a cat popped on its drawers" before him—meaning, of course, when a cat "dropped on its paws." He is said to have spoken of going down to Portsmouth to see the "cattleships and bruisers" (battleships and cruisers); to have advised the "beery wenches" of a mothers' meeting to take more interest in his address—much to the scandal of the "weary benches"; to have asked a class of undergraduates whether they had ever "nursed in their bosoms a half-warmed fish"; to have transformed the Biblical "loving shepherd" into a "shoving leopard"; to have reproved one of his scholars for idleness, telling him that he had "tasted a whole worm"; to have remarked mildly that he thought it was "kisstomary to cuss the bride."

Other Spoonerisms accepted as genuine are "well boiled icycle," for "well oiled bicycle"; "town drain" for "down train," "camels passing through the knee of an idol," "my wife is stealing at the doors," for "my wife is dealing at the stores" "occupewing my pie," for "occupying my pow;" "two bugs and a rag," for "two bags and a rug," and a "blushing crow" for a "crushing blow."

It is, as the Manchester Guardian editorially remarks, "a curious fate to have overtaken a most esteemed scholar."

GOZINTER

ALTHOUGH the one and only Jackie Coogan has now turned eight years old, and it is no longer necessary to take his chocolate from him when filming a pathetic scene in order to bring tears to his eyes, he is still very much of a boy.

Like other boys of his age, too, he has to go to school, and thereby hangs a tale.

Said a friend to him recently:

"What are you studying now, Jackie?"

"Gozinter," replied Jackie.

"What's that—a new language?"

"No, just gozinter; one gozinter two, two gozinter four, three gozinter six, and so on."

A Fine Game, Cricket But Sir John Winked

Philadelphia Team and Ottawa Public Always Wondered Why Sir Charles Sloped Second-Day Match

SIR CHARLES HIBBERT TUPPER, now of Vancouver, was the youngest cabinet minister who ever graced the "round table" at Ottawa. He was also an athlete. At Harvard he broke his arm playing football, but pluckily insisted on taking his exams and dictated his answers and passed triumphantly.

Sir Chas. H. Tupper

When a minister at Ottawa he was captain of the Ottawa Cricket Club. On one occasion they had the swell Philadelphia Cricket Club down for a Friday and Saturday match. The Governor-General, the band and many ladies were there. On the Saturday morning, Sir Hibbert Tupper remarked casually to Sir John A. Macdonald: "I hope you'll excuse me this afternoon, Sir John, from attending the cabinet council. You see I'm captain of the Ottawa Cricket Club, and we have the Philadelphias here for a two days' game."

Sir John replied: "Certainly Charlie. Fine game—cricket; splendid game; it's done more for the British Empire than anything I know. By all means go to the game—but—" (and then he added that proverbial wink to the eye) "but—you needn't come back to the cabinet."

The Philadelphia team and the Ottawa public never knew why the dashing captain of the home team did not turn up on the afternoon of the second day.

BEGGAR MEETS RIVAL IN WORKING STREETS

Kirkland Millionaire Makes It Plain That He Knows All the Tricks of Gentle Art

MR. W. H. WRIGHT, the Kirkland Lake millionaire, walking downtown in Toronto a few days ago, in earnest conversation with a business associate, was rudely interrupted by a professional tramp, who requested a loan. Mr. Wright, annoyed at the interruption, and sizing up the fellow at a glance, ordered the beggar to the other side of the street. He told him that they were themselves working this side.

Mr. Wright is very human. He is known in the north as "Bill." He had a certain gravel pit where he was accustomed to practice golf. If he lost a ball, the reward was twenty-five cents to the boy or girl who was lucky enough to find it. One morning early the door-bell of his home rang. The door was opened. A little girl about four years old, barefooted and very dirty, was there. "Is Bill in?" was her request. She was told he was not at home. She said she would call again. But when she was being asked whether there was any message, she produced a golf ball," which she was holding for the reward. The quarter was immediately given her.

DEWAR'S WITTICISMS

THERE are few more witty speakers than Lord Dewar. Recently he made these commentaries on things in general:

A child is born into the world without his consent, and always kissed without his approval.

If he grows up rich he is a profiteer, if he is poor he is a failure. If he goes to church on Sunday he is a hypocrite, if he does not he is a sinner.

Eve collaborated with a serpent over a sour apple and then hankered for fig leaves, and men have been paying dressmakers' bills ever since.

Teaches Bachelors Marriage Secrets

"HOW TO PICK YOUR WIFE (THE RIGHT KIND)" might is the title of a new course of six weeks which has just been inaugurated at the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A. by Carroll M. Gibney, director of educational activities at the "Y." Officially it is called a course in preparation for married life and earnest young bachelors will be taught the fundamentals of the economic, physiological and psychological aspects of marriage, as well as the care and training of the children. Among Mr. Gibney's maxims are—Don't: Marry for sex attraction only, fail to run on a budget system, put off marrying until you are making $4,000 a year.

SERVICE WROTE POEMS ON OLD WRAPPING PAPER

Caldwell, Resigning Himself to an Amateur's Poems, Sat Up With Start at First Line

FRANK CALDWELL, a Kansas writer of nature stories, is claiming the honor of being one of the first to recognize the striking literary ability of Robert W. Service, Canadian poet of the Yukon, whose fame has been world-wide for many years.

In search of material for his wolf and dog stories, Mr. Caldwell, accompanied by his wife, was mushing through the Klondyke. Shortly after nine o'clock one evening, along "the trail of '98," they came to a small log cabin.

R. W. Service

Night was falling. Uncertain as to their whereabouts the Caldwells sought enlightenment at the cabin. They were invited in by a young man who introduced himself as Robert Service, and explained he had come north as a bank clerk, not as a gold seeker.

Service insisted on his guests remaining overnight. Month in and month out, his log cabin sheltered many prospectors and trappers, but it was the first time he had ever been host to a writer, and he was determined to make the most of it.

Mrs. Caldwell bestowed extravagant praise on the biscuits the young man served for supper, and laughingly suggested that he would make an excellent professional cook.

"That is not my ambition," said Service. "I would like to become a literary man."

"Have you written anything?" asked Caldwell, politely.

"I have written a few poems of the gold rush," answered Service. "I'd like to read you one or two, if you don't mind."

Caldwell said he would be delighted, and resigned himself to whatever the fates had in store. He had heard amateurs' poems before, many, many times.

The author's fears were intensified when he saw Service bring forth a great stack of wrapping paper, neatly cut into squares. Each square contained a poem, written in pencil.

"The Law of the Yukon" was the first to be read.

After the first few lines Caldwell sat bolt upright. He realized he had made a momentous literary discovery, and this conviction deepened as Service read poem after poem, losing himself in the sheer enjoyment of reciting to a critical and appreciative listener for nearly three hours.

When his voice finally gave out, the American inquired whether any of the poems had ever been published.

"No. I haven't offered them to anyone," said Service. "I wasn't sure they were good enough."

"You need have no worry on that score," Caldwell assured him. "I don't think there's a publisher on the continent who'd dare turn them down. . . . By the way, what's the idea of writing on wrapping paper?"

Robert Service grinned.

"I do a lot of polishing after the first draft," he explained, "and there's nothing will stand the wear and tear of the rubber eraser as well as this tough wrapping paper!"

CALLS PRINCE "SONNY" AND BEARDS THE CABINET

Bluff George Lane From Alberta Teaches Ottawa Politicians a Lesson in Etiquet

GEORGE LANE, the millionaire cattle-rancher of Alberta, whose fame has increased tremendously since the Prince of Wales became his next door neighbor, is a shrewd, bluff, good-natured, typically western character, one of the few survivors of the school made famous by the late Alfred Henry Lewis in his Red Dog and Wolfville stories, as told by the Old Cattleman.

In his own words George Lane doesn't "give a hoot" about etiquet. If the Prince of Wales cares to masquerade as "Lord Renfrew" that makes not the least bit of difference to the bluff old rancher. He calls the prince "Young Fellow," "Sonny" and "Me Lad," just the same, and he is not at all backward in pointing out the mistakes he considers his greenhorn neighbor is making.

The Prince of Wales doesn't mind this a bit, but it would make no difference if he did.

Some years ago George Lane was called to Ottawa by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who desired his advice concerning western land settlement and immigration.

After a number of appointments had been made and broken by the premier, George Lane reached the parliament buildings one afternoon to find he was again being put off, this time because the cabinet was in session.

"Where is the cabinet meeting?" he asked.

Having been told, he brushed the doorman aside and stalked in.

"I am George Lane from Alberta," he announced. "You sent for me to learn my views on immigration and land settlement, but if you think you're going to keep me hanging around here day after day to suit your convenience you're darned well mistaken. My time is too valuable for you to waste it in this fashion. If you want me to tell you anything now's the time. This other business you are discussing can wait. I'm leaving for home on to-morrow morning's train."

He had his interview then and there.

The Only Way

JENNIE was a good servant, and Mrs. Wanderfarr never wished for better. But in the matter of pictures Jennie was weak. There was one in particular, which showed the leaning tower of Pisa. Every day Mrs. Wanderfarr hung it straight, and every morning Jennie put it crooked.

So Mrs. Wanderfarr watched.

"Now, look here, Jennie," she said one morning, "you've hung that picture of the tower crooked again. Just look at it!"

"That's just what I say, mum," returned Jennie, dolefully. Look at it! The only way to get that blessed tower to hang straight is to hang the picture crooked!"—Tit-Bits.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Prudence Page, a charming country girl, falls in love with

Bert Traymore, a fascinating philanderer, whom a chance meeting brings into her quiet life.

Janet Mercer, Prudence's dearest friend, an older woman, plain but clever, is masseuse to the delicate child of Mrs. Vansittart, a pleasure-loving woman-of-the-world, owner of Winston Towers, a beautiful summer home, which she fills with visitors.

Virginian Dale, Mrs. Vansittart's ward, is a blase beauty who counts Traymore among her many swains. She is deeply interested in Peter Armstrong, a brilliant young inventor, clever, ambitious and reliable. He is already fond of little Prudence whom he has met once.

Traymore fails to keep an engagement with Prudence, and later the same evening, she hears him making love to Virginia. She cries herself to sleep. Virginia, in the meantime has come to realize that she really loves Peter, and she is resolved to capture his heart.

Virginia's beauty is preserved at the cost of much time and effort.

Traymore makes a lame excuse for breaking the tea date, but Prudence is too relieved to be skeptical. She is invited to a ball at Winston Towers.

At the ball at Winston Towers Prudence finds herself a wall-flower, neglected by Bert, who has pretended to love her—so she slips away into the darkness.

Peter, coming late to the ball, stops Prudence in her mad flight, assuring her that she can, if she will, chase away his "blues."

Peter speaks bitterly of a love that has proved false, and Prudence says, shyly, "You love Virginia Dale?"

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Lion And The Lamb.

"What's that you say?" Peter Armstrong wheeled round on the seat. He had not caught her murmured words, and, indeed, no man would have been more amazed than himself if he had heard the statement.

But shyness took Miss Prudence, and a great shame at her own boldness. How dare she pry into his affairs?

"It was nothing at all." She flushed uncomfortably. "I—I just thought—the verse was so beautiful and so sad—that you'd once loved someone, and she hadn't been too kind?"

He grinned almost sardonically, with an odd twist to his well-cut lips.

"Kind? What woman is ever kind, unless she has some end to gain?"

(So he had 'seen through' Virginia, despite her beauty and cajoling ways!)

Prudence stammered:

"There are lots of nice girls in the world——"

"And who wants 'lots of nice girls'—milk-and-water misses? Child, you haven't lived yet, and you don't understand a man's urge for the one woman in all the wide world, who, to him, is like the oasis in the desert—and then at last he thinks he's got her, then he finds out to his bitter sorrow that she's nothing but a mirage of his own imagination——"

He buried his face in his two hands and almost groaned aloud.

"I am sorry——" Prudence forgot her own pain and disappointment in her anxiety about him. (Wicked Virginia!) "Perhaps things may be right themselves, if you will give them time?"

If Virginia would only leave Bert Traymore alone, then he would come back to Prudence's banner.

But—she mustn't only think about herself; wouldn't it be better for Peter Armstrong if he cured himself of loving Miss Virginia Dale? Could the latter ever really make him happy?

Against her former judgment, there was something very likeable about this Peter person.

Janet Mercer—plain, downright Janet—had felt his magnetism, and she wasn't easily impressed.

And Virginia, even if she had trifled with him, had seemed awfully keen about his company on the day of the garden-party, when he hadn't turned up as she'd ordered, and she'd found him fishing in the trout-pool. He had been cool, even casual, with Virginia then. Odd, that this burst of feeling should have come to him tonight, when she—Prudence—had felt her own heart breaking.

He raised his head, straightened his broad shoulders, and suddenly rose to his feet.

"I'm a selfish brute, and I ought to be kicked for coming whining to a woman—no—a child! And you have your own private worries, too." His voice grew suddenly gentle and compassionate. He put out a hand and drew Prudence up until she faced him, standing. "What do you say that you and I cast care behind us, and go up to the ball and make merry, just to cheat fate?"

Prudence shrank back. A return to the scene of her defeat and humiliation was the last thing on earth she wished.

"Oh, no. I couldn't. They—no one wants me there!"

"Nonsense! We'll show 'em——"

"I—if you only knew—I hadn't any partners—and—and no one spoke to me—and I was simply praying that the floor would open and swallow me up!" she broke out, like a little hunted creature. She put out her other hand and caught him imploringly by the arm.

"So they made you feel like that, did they? I'm not surprised. None of them are sensitive, and they expect others to be equally rhinerocerosshided! Bur, surely, Mrs. Vansittart had the decency to introduce you?"

"No; oh, no." Prudence's cheeks burned anew. "My frock isn't right. We—we made it at home—mother and Miss Jiggs and I—and—and—I can't talk cleverly, and say sharp, witty things; I'm not used to parties. They—none of them—had any time to spare for me."

"And what about your friend, Mr. Traymore?" asked the young man, bluntly. The wound must be cauterized quickly, if this child were to make a quick recovery from her woe. "Where was he?"

"Too busy to—to talk to me. He knows I haven't learnt the new steps——"

"So that's the extent of his friendship, is it?" Peter Armstrong's voice was now as brisk and bracing as a breeze from off the sea. "Well, what do you say that you and I show them what we can do? I was bidden to this party, also; but when I met you so unexpectedly I couldn't resist the temptation to 'give it a miss,' for dances aren't in my line. All the same, although I haven't any social graces, I certainly could take you to the ball!"

A sudden thought came to Prudence. He had volunteered to go entirely for her sake, to restore her lost self-confidence, and make her feel happy again.

"It's awfully kind of you, but I'd sooner slip off home," she began, when he cut in with:

"Wouldn't that be—cowardly? Just think how vexed your mother, and Miss—er—Biggs——"

"Jiggs," corrected Prudence, with a wan smile.

"The Miss Jiggs who made the frock, would be," he went on, reassuringly. "Why, they expected you to be the belle of the ball in your new gown! And you will be, mark my words, if only you'll pluck up a little courage."

"Oh, no." She had failed once, and didn't want to court a second disaster.

"Listen, child, and don't accuse me of being vain when I say that this time the lamb is going back accompanied by the lion! Yes, just because I've made a small success in my profession, and am rather in the public eye, they look on me as a lion to be exhibited and to be made to roar! Laughable, but true, young lady! You needn't be afraid of any one of them when you're with me, for the lion is a sturdy animal, and——'—he grinned as though amused—"he's ready to do battle for you, teeth and claws!"

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Begin Taking Salts if You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Weakness.

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoon in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and make a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means, drink lots of good water every day. Have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

EVERYONE DRANK IN DAYS OF YORE.

Raised In This Atmosphere of Universal Drinking, Barnum Drank Until He Was 37.

By ALBERT APPLE.

Barnum, the circus man, in his old age made a speech in which he gave his description of the popularity of liquor when he was a boy, along about 1820:

"Everybody had barrels of cider in their cellars and drank cider spirits called "gumption.' Professors of religion and the clergy all drank liquor. They drank it in all the hat and comb shops, the farmers had it at hay and harvest times. Every sort of excuse was made for being treated. A new journeyman must give a pint or quart of rum to pay his footing. If a man had a new coat he must 'sponge' it by treating. Even at funerals the clergy, mourners and friends drank liquor. At public vendues the auctioneer held a bottle of liquor in his hand and when bidding lagged he would cry, 'A dram to the next bidder.' The bid would be raised a cent, and the bidder would take his boldly and be the envy of most of the others."

Raised in this atmosphere of universal drinking, Barnum drank more or less until he was 37. Then he signed the pledge, went to his cellar and emptied his bottles upon the ground, according to his biography by M. R. Werner. Thereafter Barnum was a temperance worker, until he died 54 years later. Numerous times he took the platform to lecture.

* * *

Barnum summed up his ideas about liquor this way: "We must kill alcohol, or alcohol will kill us, or our friends." At one of his lectures a man in the audience, while Barnum was orating about alcohol as a poison, interrupted with: "How does it affect us, externally or internally?" Barnum answered: "E-ternally!"

Barnum was one of the first employers to refuse to have a drinker on the payroll. His contracts with performers and other employes had a clause prohibiting the drinking of any kind of hooch.

* * *

Werner tells this interesting Barnum story: When Jumbo the elephant was brought to New York from London, his keeper celebrated his safe voyage by giving Jumbo a quart of whiskey.

Barnum shouted, "I object to my elephant drinking whiskey."

But Jumbo downed the quart and followed it with a bottle of ale, having become a hardened drinker in England. Barnum raged. Years of prohibition work had made him fanatical.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

IN THE BAKERMAN'S KITCHEN

"And now," said the bakerman in Beanstalk Land, "I shall ice this nice big birthday cake I have just made for Bouncing Billy, and put his name on it in pink and green gumdrops. Never had there been so fine a cake in all Beanstalk Land!"

So he put on a kettle of sugar and water and boiled it, then whipped up the whites of four eggs until they looked like a snow drift, and then he poured the hot sirup into the eggs and beat and beat and beat until the icing was just right. After that he stirred in vanilla and a drop or two of almond flavouring, and it was all ready to spread on the cake.

Everything he did was watched carefully by four eyes. Two of them were Nancy's and two of them were Nick's, and if you would try from now until next Christmas, you never could guess where they were.

They were on the screen door, hanging on for dear life, like two little flies. They were skipping by when they smelled all the delicious smells coming out of the giant bakerman's kitchen. So they stopped. And as a giant's screen door is as easy for children to climb, as your screen door is for flies to climb, up they went.

"Um yum!" said Nick. "I wish we could lick the bowl!"

"Look here, Nick, here's a hole," said Nancy. "Let's crawl through."

Quick as a wink they ducked through the hole in the screen door, and there they were right inside the bakerman's kitchen.

Curiosity was too much for them and they climbed up on a chair and thence onto the big table. They were just in time, for the bakerman was spreading and spreading and spreading the thick white icing all over the cake with a great silver knife.

After that he cut the pink and green gum drops into slices and made a posy of pink flowers with green leaves. All around the edge he wrote "Bouncing Billy."

Nancy and Nick were perched up on the edge of the icing bowl by this time, and when the last bit of gum drop was stuck on and the cake set in the window to cool, the same idea occurred to them both at the same time.

Why not lick the bowl now!

They always did at home, and there was a hundred times as much left in this one. And it smelled so very, very tempting!

"Come on," whispered Nick, pinchint Nancy's sleeve.

And as Nancy didn't have to be coaxed, the two of them jumped right down inside the bowl and began to gobble icing as though their lives depended on it.

And they ate and ate and ate until it was just too dreadful to talk about.

So they crawled to the top of the bowl and gave a jump. But the bakerman had put a piece of flypaper right there! And they landed in the middle of it.

How they got off I cannot tell you, but it must have been the magic shoes.

Anyway, there they were, sick inside, and all sticky outside, and in a dreadful condition.

"I don't like Beanstalk Land so very well," said Nick faintly.

"Neither do I," agreed Nancy.

But it was all because they were such pigs.

PETROGRAD TO BE CALLED LENINGRAD

Soviet Honors Name of Dead Leader of Reds

MOSCOW, March 14. United Press—The Soviet authorities have informed the Postmaster General that the name of "Petrograd" is henceforth officially "Leningrad."

The Petrograd Soviet voted this change in honor of Lenin, following the leader's death. c

COST OF RUNNING THE CHEAP AUTO

Five and One-Third Cents a Mile Is the Average Cost.

By ALBERT APPLE.

It costs five and a third cents a mile to own and operate a popular-priced auto. This is shown by an extensive check-up of three of the cheaper makes of cars, according to the Wall Street Journal.

Five and a third cents a mile is the average figure. Some cost more, others less. Depends a lot on the driver and the care devoted to the car.

How does the record of your own bus tally with this average? In making comparisons, you'll note that to drive even a cheap car costs about twice as much as a trip by railroad. Street cars give much cheaper service. But the auto driver has the satisfaction of ownership, privacy and the pleasure of going wherever he desires instead of following steel tracks.

* * *

The average family drives a car 5,000 miles a year or about 14 miles a day, the investigators decided. It's estimated that $266 a year ($5.11 a week) operates the family bus and provides money for its replacement by a new car at the end of seven years.

The investigators figured gasoline at 20 cents a gallon, 20 miles to a gallon, or $50 a year.

Oil at 20 cents a quart, 250 miles to a quart, $4 a year.

Tires $60 a set for 15,000 miles, or $20 a year.

Repairs, striking a seven-year average, $50 a year.

Insurance against fire and theft, $15 a year.

Depreciation is estimated as being one-seventh of the original cost, each year, or $55.

Garage rent is entered at $72 a year. This is the largest single item of costs of operation and ownership.

The "cost per mile" is dropping each year, the Wall Street Journal claims. It quotes auto engineers as predicting that before long all cheap cars will be stored "in the open" and a large part of the item of garage rent eliminated.

Five dollars or so a week for running a car doesn't seem much in these days when a dollar is worth only 60 cents in buying power compared with what it bought before the war. But if any one had predicted such an expenditure 20 years or more ago, the average person would have gazed reflectively in the direction of the poorhouse.

6 Daring Tests

you should make before you buy any roofing

1. HEAT TEST: Lay sample of Vulcanite on hot radiator for 12 hours. See if it will melt or dry out.
2. ICE TEST: Lay sample on ice for 12 hours. Then pour boiling water on it. See if extremes of temperature affect it.
3. WATER TEST: Soak sample in water for 12 hours. See if, by weight, it absorbs any water.
4. ACID TEST: Immerse sample in hydrochloric acid. See if it is affected in any way.
5. FIRE TEST: Lay white-hot coal of fire on sample. See if it sets the roofing on fire.
6. "SCUFF" TEST: Lay sample on floor; scuff it hard with your shoe. See if any of the slate-surfacing will come off.

If Your Roof Had to Hold Up the Walls—

You would see that the roofing materials were tough, sturdy and capable of a lifetime's service. While it does not bear the strain and weight the walls do, the roof has just as great a duty to perform — to combat year after year the wearing, tearing, grinding effect of rain and wind, sleet, ice and snow—to protect your home in its most unprotected part against flaming embers which may be carried from near-by fires.

Select your roofing material as you do those for the foundation and walls — for permanent satisfaction as long as the house stands. Vulcanite Hexagon Slabs will give you sealed-tight, fire-resisting protection for the life of the house. Their patented construction gives you double thickness everywhere. Each slab automatically spaces itself. Resist fire and the wearing effects of weather. Finished in green, blue-black or red crushed slate — giving a beautiful tile-like appearance which adds immensely to the attractiveness of your home. Made to withstand the six daring tests listed here.

Learn all about these sturdy, modern shingles which cost less in the end. Write for free sample and our free book on roofing.

Vulcanite Roofing is also made in Doubletite Slabs, Four-in-One Slabs, Self-Spacing Shingles, Jumbo Hexagon Slabs for re-roofing and in rolls. Approved by National Board of Fire Underwriters.

CROWN BRAND
Corn Syrup
Is the Real Standard of Purity

We introduced this brand nearly 30 years ago; and today both in quality and flavour, it is better than ever.

We believe CROWN BRAND is purer and better than any other Corn Syrup in the market because of the purity of the materials used and the care exercised in its manufacture.

It is one of the most wholesome and digestible of Sweets, and children get genuine nourishment from it; for CROWN BRAND CORN SYRUP contains a large proportion of the essential food element "dextrose", which supplies energy and vitality to the body. Physicians and Dietitians realize this today.

Moreover, this Syrup is one of the famous and therefore shares their reputation and carries their guarantee of quality. You will find them in all up-to-date grocery stores.

Not like a clam

CLAMS live to themselves. You can't. You link lives with your neighbor across the street, across the state, across the continent. You are influenced by what he wants, buys, uses, enjoys.

When enough of your neighbors want, buy, use, enjoy the same thing, you begin to see advertisements about it — advertisements to arouse you to similar use and enjoyment. They paint glowing, truthful pictures . . . try to get you interested in what will really interest you.

Convenient, courteous information is yours at a minute's glance. Style, variety, price, where obtained. That minute's glance may mean the difference between buying unworthy wares and the best.

You don't want to be like a clam—even in your judgements. Read the advertisments to be guided by others' choice. When they choose something again and again, it must be good.

Each advertisement is written to you—to help you choose—to save you money

"——Lightly, she touched spur to horse, wheeled and was lost in the night. He was alone. All that was left of her was that delightful fragrance he had learnt to love. That he might live the longer beneath its spell, he followed slowly in her wake.——"

Quebec Makes Over Five Million Dollars Each Year Through the Selling of Booze

The Number of Arrests For Drunkenness Goes Up in Summer When Tourists Arrive.

By HAROLD B. MATSON.

MONTREAL, March 13.—How has Quebec's law, placing the Province in the liquor selling business, worked out?

"Nobody talks liquor here," declares George Simard, Chairman of the Liquor Commission. "It is the accepted thing. The people are satisfied."

"I am glad I gave my support to the law," comments Bishop Williams. "I seems to work well."

"The law represents the will of the people, and we have obedience and satisfaction," says Premier Taschereau.

The general belief in Montreal is that the law has brought temperance, minimized graft, reduced drunkenness, cut taxes and brought about respect for law.

On the other hand, a group of prohibitionists is vigorously opposed to the law. They charge the law gives arbitrary powers to the Liquor Commission and that it has not reduced the consumption of liquor.

The new law has not stamped out drunkenness. Police in Montreal arrest an average of 10 intoxicated persons a day. The number of arrests, however, goes up in summer when American tourists flock to Quebec and down in winter when they are not here in numbers.

But the American is a welcome guest. His money buys about 80 per cent. of the Province's liquor, thereby building new roads and new schools. Then too, the people of Quebec are tolerant because they have sympathetic understanding for their American neighbor. A few years ago Quebec had its own 'bone dry' prohibition experience.

The law had come during the emotional days of the war. It brought graft and corruption, bad liquor and a lower standard of community morals.

Province in Control.

In 1919 the people by a 3 to 1 vote, legalized light wine and beer, hard liquor being available for medicinal purposes. Bootleggers thrived. Hotels and restaurants sold "hard stuff" to their guests. Conditions were little better than they were before.

In 1921 the "act respecting alcoholic liquor" was passed, placing the entire liquor trade under state control and ownership.

Arrests went down and the police force was reduced under the new law.

Death rate in Montreal in 1920 was 17.16 per 1000; in 1922 it was 13.19. Infant mortality rate dropped from 192.2 to 159.4.

The lower death rate, Dr. S. Boucher, Director of the Montreal Board of Health, says, cannot be considered a result of the liquor control.

No Poison Booze.

"Moral conditions improve immediately," he declares, "but health statistics are only valuable or accurate when they cover a period of years, say 20. Then we will have had a chance to study conditions, and to have determined what percentage of deaths may be rightly attributed to your so-called poison booze."

Convictions for drunkenness in the Province dropped from 12,000 in 1920 to 7103 in 1922. In Montreal, with approximately 700,000 population, the arrests were 7618 in 1920 as against 3732 in 1923.

The visitor would never suspect that liquor is available at comparatively low prices. It is true the police are ever vigilant to pick up any intoxicated man.

Even so, with the workingman able to buy his beer, wine or hard liquor if he wants it, there is an impressive lack of street disorder.

In the hotels, where wine and beer are served with meals, there is an unmistakable atmosphere of cheer, but disturbances are rare.

May Pay Quebec Debt.

In the taverns, Montreal's prototype of the saloon, one can buy beer to drink on the premises. But when the customer shows effects of his imbibing the tavern-keeper refuses him any more drinks.

Hard liquor, any brand, may be purchased from the stores conducted by the Quebec Liquor Commission—one bottle a day.

Every sale is for cash, and the price is stamped on the bottle.

Within 12 years the Government's profits on liquor selling are counted on to pay off the entire Provincial debt.

Sales for 1923 are conservatively estimated at $24,000,000. Profit amounts to about 25 per cent. Subtracting $1,000,000 for handling, the Government clears approximately $5,000,000 to spend on new roads, new schools and to deposit in its general fund.

THE ENGINEERS HAD A MEETING

E. L. Miles of Lindsay Gave Interesting Address on Good Roads.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Peterboro branch of the Engineering Institute, Mr. E. L. Miles, M.G.I.C., F.R.S.A., engineer and road superintendent for Victoria County, was the main speaker, and his address on good roads was very interesting. The meeting was under the chairmanship of Roy H. Parsons, City Engineer. In discussing present-day road problems, Mr. Miles said that the subject could be approached from many angles. He said the history of road building dates back thousands of years, and in fact about 1,000 years before the reign of Tutankhamen, when at this time the best and most enduring roads were built. If the roads are built in the right way and of the right kind of substance, and a motorist has an accident, it is some fault of his and not the fault of the road. In Persia the first surface roads were introduced, and shortly after the Carthaginians started building roads constructed of flint, stone and sand. These roads proved very serviceable, but drainage was not thought of, and this was their only fault. In those days roads were built very cheap, and most of them were made by slaves and criminals. To-day road building is very costly, but if a road is built that will stand the wear and tear it will soon pay for itself. Good roads cheapen transportation and raise the value of property a great deal. The speaker said it was interesting to note that the Moors were the first practical bridge builders, and that London Bridge, which is now so famous, was first built of timber and kept in repair as such for over 215 years before it was built of stone. He said Paris was first paved in 1184, and that China had pavement in 1271. London was first paved in the reign of Henry VIII., and that from then the progress has been steady up to the time of the introduction of motor cars when the boom for road building really started in earnest. Roads are now built for comfort, ease in riding or driving and prosperity for all classes. During this year England will spend $40,000,000 in road building and France will spend $32,000,000.

Good roads lower the cost of hauling and transportation, decrease the cost of the upkeep of vehicles used on them and increase the price of lands and buildings near them, and by them everyone is benefited. The speaker said the average cost of hauling a ton over dirt roads with a team of horses for a mile is 37 cents, while on the present-day up-to-date roads the cost is 25c per mile. The average cost of hauling grain over unimproved roads and improved roads is 4c per ton per mile cheaper, thereby the farmer is saved that much which means a great deal in a year's time. Gasoline and oil used in heavy trucks is reduced 50 per cent. on good roads, while in the lighter car a reduction of 35 per cent. takes place. In Southern Ontario there is 50,000 miles of roads, and the traffic on these are estimated at 50 per cent. from farm to town or city and return, 30 per cent. from county to county and 20 per cent. by tourists and people going straight through. He also said that about half the price of our food is taken up by transportation, and the better the roads are the cheaper the transportation and the cost of food.

Hill Cutting.

In referring to hill cutting, Mr. Miles stated that there was a definite economic value derived from it. He said that if 4 horses can operate on a 6 per cent. grade, it takes 9 to operate on a 15 per cent. grade with the same load, so that the actual difference in the cost is 2¼ times. He said that to reduce the Ops-Fenelon hill near Fenelon Falls it would cost $5,123.00, and that this cost would be wiped out in three years' time. The cost to reduce Crawford's Hill would be $10,857, and that this would be entirely wiped out in 6½ years.

Construction of Roads.

Mr. Miles, in a short talk on the construction of roads and the better substances to use, stated that roads made of run gravel did not prove very satisfactorily, and that the round stones soon worked to the top and was thrown off the road by fast running vehicles, causing holes that soon grew large and created mud holes. He said that roads built of crushed gravel are more suitable for heavy traffic, but that they would not hold up for more than six years, and that during that time they had to be looked after very carefully. The value of this type of road is limited to the range of haul from the pit and the amount used. This type of road is becoming more and more popular because of its smooth-running surface. This kind of road has to be re-shaped about every six years, according to traffic.

Other types of roads that are classed under the heading of pavements were also discussed very briefly by the speaker, who said that they all made a good substantial road when used in the right proportions.

Mr. R. H. Parsons stated that in the State of New Jersey a law had been passed that trucks were only allowed to carry a certain amount of merchandise. He said that police were stationed along the highways and that if a truck looked to have an overload it was weighed, and if overweight the amount over was dumped on the side of the road and another truck was sent for to take it away. This scheme proved very successful, and the roads are not being destroyed nearly so quickly.

Alderman Stocker asked Mr. Miles whether it was better to have such work done by day labor or by a contractor, and Mr. Miles replied that he thought it better to be done by contract. Alderman Stocker did not agree with him in this case, and a discussion took place in which Mr. Stocker pointed out several jobs that had been done in this city by contract that had been much more costly than if it had been done by day labor. Mr. Stocker referred to the sewer which is being laid on Park Street South. He said that the price set by a contractor was $55,000, while the work is now two-thirds finished by a day labor gang under the supervision of Mr. Parsons, the City Engineer, and the cost will not run over $30,000, which is saving the city $25,000.

Alderman Morrison said he was in favor of having a highway built from Lindsay to Peterboro.

J. Mackintosh moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Miles for coming to Peterboro and delivering such a splendid address. He also stated that he hoped that Peterboro would some other time be able to get Mr. Miles to speak to them and show slides of some of the roads be referred to in his address.

The following were nominated for next year's Executive Committee: R. B. Rogers, P. L. Allison and R. L. Dobbin.

P. Ottewell, A.M.E.I.C., was appointed representative from this branch of the Engineering Institute to the Teachers' Institute banquet to be held on Saturday evening. A resolution of condolence was also passed by a standing vote to the family of the late president of the Institute, Walter J. Francis.

GREECE ISSUE A BAN PHOTOGRAPHS

King and Queen Must Be Left Out National Anthem.

ATHENS, March 14. — (United Press).—The new government today issued an order prohibiting the display of photographs of the King and Queen in public places or mention of their names in the Royal anthem of in church services.

At the same time, it was reported that the cabinet already had started work on a new constitution which would make Greece a republic modelled on France, with the rights of the President restricted in favor of the president of the Council of Ministers or premier.

Proclamation of the republic within a short time is expected.

ASKS CONGRESS TO INVESTIGATE BECK

Chicago District Arraigns Canadians Who Protest Diversion of Michigan Water.

CHICAGO, March 14.—(Canadian Press).—The sanitary district of Chicago, through a formal resolution yesterday, demanded a Congressional investigation of the alleged lake waters powers at Niagara Falls by Canadian power interests and Sir Adam Beck, head of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

With a spirited arraignment of the Canadian factions seeking to interfere with Chicago's present diversion of Lake Michigan water for sanitation purposes, the way was paved for the resolution.

CANADIAN WOOLLENS SOCCER MEETING

Unanimously Turned Down Flat Proposed Midland League.

The Canadian Woollens F.C. held a special meeting, last night, in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms which was well attended.

The Club is looking forward to the opening of the season with much satisfaction, most of last year's players are available, and good players will be made welcome.

The president brought the matter regarding a proposed Midland League before the members; and after discussion the proposal was unanimously turned down flat and confidence expressed in the P. and D.F.A.

New outfits will be purchased but the club will still adhere to the old colors. The secretary stated that ways and means are now in operation to start out in a strong healthy condition, financially and otherwise.

TIMMINS MURDERER TO FACE HIS TRIAL SOON

COCHRANE, March 14.—(Canadian Press.)—A. Primak, foreigner, now confined in the North Bay gaol on a charge of murdering two miners at Timmins, will face trial at the spring assizes April 8th.

Primak has been examined at North Bay by alienists connected with Ontario Government institutions and it is understood that they have reported him sane and fit to face trial on the crime.

Primak was thought to have lost his reason when he used a shovel to beat up another miner, whom he killed and then attacked a second man who attempted to interfere. The latter was also killed.

BIG SISTERHOOD IS NEED OF SUPPLIES

The Big Sisterhood, who have been pursuing their charitable endeavors in a quiet way throughout the winter months, are now facing a larger call on their efforts and resources. A certain amount of unemployment during the cold season is beginning to mak... the pinch of want more apparent in many homes, and women who have been eking out the family incom... by going out to daily work, are flagging under the strain. In several families, there are children without proper underwear and boots to take them to school.

Two little boys made a call on one of the ladies this morning with very inadequat... clothing and with bare feet sticking through broken rubbers. In five known families at present, there are children ranging in years from two to thirteen, who need boots, underwear and warm clothing. Sickness in many of the homes is another contributing factor to want and distress. A room for distribution purposes during the busy spring months, when calls for assistance become more numerous, is badly needed by the ladies in charge.

Anyone having clothing available of any description is invited to donate it to a good cause. Clothing for children of school age, both boys and girls, in outer garments, underwear, shoes and stockings could be used to advantage in several homes. Telephone 788W.

JURY TO HEAR CHARGES AGAINST CONGRESSMEN

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Action on the resolution of the House of Representatives, adopted on Tuesday urging him to hasten investigation int... charges made befor... the Chicago Grand Jury, that two members of Congress accepted money improperly Attorney-General Daugherty today rushed the case before a Grand Jury of the District of Columbia. The fact that the House yesterday decided also to investigate the charges affecting two of its members on its own account, and appointed a special committee for the purpose did not deter the Attorney-General from ordering an immediate Grand Jury proceeding.

NEW SECRETARY FOR U.S. NAVY IS CURTIS WILBUR

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14. — (Canadian Press.)—Curtis Wilbur, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of California, announced last night that he had received a telegram from President Coolidge tendering him the office of Secretary for the Navy and that he had accepted.

Former Senator Kenyon, now Judge, yesterday refused the post, and President Coolidge's summons to the California Jurist was terse: 'You seem to be the man I need for the Navy,' he wired. 'Am drafting you to-day. Please answer.' Within ten minutes Justice Wilbur had sent his reply accepting the appointment.

HYGIENE EXHIBIT DRAWS BIG CROWD

Ottawa and Toronto Rushed to View the Educational Exhibition --Peterboro is First to Follow.

During the week beginning March 17th, an unique social hygiene exhibit will be shown in Peterboro, under the auspices of the local Social Hygiene Council. Peterboro's is the first of the newer Councils to follow Ottawa and Toronto, the initiators in presenting such health exhibitions.

Coming directly from Toronto, where it has been attended by nearly eighteen thousand men and women during the past month, the exhibit consists of series of vivid posters, picturing right and wrong ways of living, with the results of each to the individual; of wax models from Paris demonstrating with realistic accuracy the ravages of venereal diseases on the human body; of lantern slides and remarkable films showing the processes of life in plants, birds, animals or humans; of much informative literature to be given away or sold, and of daily health talks in the hands of experts.

A special private view by invitation will take place on Saturday afternoon and evening, the 15th of March, where the medical men of the city, clergy, heads of industrial plants, executives of men's clubs, and other influential citizens will be given an opportunity to see the exhibit, which opens to the general public on Monday the 17th, in the Public Library Auditorium.

With a nominal charge for admission (10c, which will go towards expenses), the exhibit will run for the first three days, from Monday until Wednesday night, for men only, and from Thursday until Saturday for women only, no one under sixteen years of age being admitted to either showing. Hours will be from 3.30 to 6 each afternoon, and from 7 to 9.30 every evening.

Dr. N. H. Sutton, District Medical Health Officer, the president of the Social Hygiene Council, assisted by fellow physicians and helpers from various men's and women's local organizations, as well as members of his own Council, will be in charge. He will receive able help during the showing for women from Miss Estelle Hewson, Ontario Secretary of the Social Hygiene Council, and Mrs. Pankhurst, the staff speaker, who will address audiences daily during the showing for women.

The remarkable films, "The Gift of Life," "Menace of Life," and others will be in charge of Mr. E. Jones and Miss Edna Moore, of the Provincial Department of Health for the men's and women's exhibits respectively.

Hours for the private view on Saturday will be from 4 to 5 in the afternoon, and from 7 to 9 in the evening.

C.G.E. HAS A BIG VOLUME BUSINESS

Report at Annual Meeting Will Show Record Year for New Business, Save One.

TORONTO, March 14.—The annual meeting of the Canadian General Electric has been called for March 26. In accordance with its custom the company will not issue its annual statement until the meeting, and consequently nothing definite is available at the moment.

It is known, however, that in some respects the company will make a better showing than it did in 1922, when earnings were only $532,791 net profits only $104,564. Operations during the year were, it is understood, at a little better than 25 per cent. capacity and, generally speaking, the business done was not particularly profitable. The same is understood to apply to present operatiug conditions. A director sums up conditions with the remark: "The manufacturer has no easy row to hoe just now, for not only is the general cost of doing business particularly high, but the burden of taxation is excessive."

One favorable feature will be that the company will show plenty of business on its books; in fact, new business obtained last year is greater in volume than for any year in the company's history, save one. Quite a percentage of this business, however, is believed to be that turned over towards the end of the year by the American General Electric, after it was known that Canadian shareholders had accepted the proposal which placed the United States company in control. Quite a percentage of this business is said to be for export account.

ONTARIO LUMBER CAMP USES SHINGLES FROM B.C.

RENFREW, March 14.—Shingles from British Columbia mills, for use at the depot of the Gillies Bros. Lumber Company, on the Coulonge River limits, are arriving. They are laid down at the company's depot at a lower rate than they could be purchased at mills in the townships surrounding the station where they are taken off the cars. After coming over half way across the continent by rail, they ar... placed on sleighs and hauled a distance of about 100 miles, into a region where only timber fish and furs are produced. Men watch shingles unloading, and, knowing their cost delivered, ask what stands in the way of coal being transported from Alberta.

REFUSED DIVORCE TO ... STILLMAN ON APPEAL

NEW YORK, March 14. Canadian Press. — The court affirmed the findings of the lower court, and of the referee, that Mr. Stillman was guilty of adultery, and not entitled to the judgment of divorce, according to the evidence, and that Baby Guy Stillman had not been proved to be illegitimate, as the former banker had alleged.

ROSS HAMILTON ("MARJORIE") IN "THE DUMBELLS," AT THE GRAND TO-DAY AND SATURDAY.

INJURED IN TRYING TO SAVE MAN FATALLY HURT

TORONTO, March 14.—(Canadian Press). — One man was killed and another was hurt, when he attempted to assist the man fatally injured in an accident last evening in the yards of the Toronto Iron Works at the foot of Cherry Street. John Barr, aged 27, Belmont Street, was killed when crushed beneath a ton of boiler plates. John Hill, aged 35, Highfield Road, is in St. Michael's Hospital with head injuries sustained when he tried to save Barr.

TEN BODIES ARE STILL BURIED IN A UTAH MINE

CASTLEGATE, Utah, March 14. —(Canadian Press.)—A search in all quarters of the Utah Fuel Company's mine, No. 2, has failed to reveal the bodies of ten of the 173 men entombed last Saturday.

Search of the previously flame-swept south wing early to-day, brought the bodies recovered to 163. Fresh crews have been ordered to search anew for the ten unaccounted for.

THEATRES

DUMBELLS GIVE NEW SHOW TO-NIGHT.

Captain M. W. Plunkett and his world-famous soldier-entertainers, "The Dumbells Company," including Canada's premiere stage stars, Al. Plunkett and Ross Hamilton, will present an entirely new musical revue here tonight.

This latest Dumbells offering is called "The Second Edition of Cheerio," and it is all new and entirely different from anything this clever organization has given here before.

The new show opens with a scene at the seaside, wherein Stan. Bennett sings "No Wonder the Waves are Wild," prompted perhaps by the sight of the chorus of bathing beauties and otherwise, who are playing in the sands at the time.

As the action progresses Al. Plunkett sings "Everybody Slips a Little" and "She Must be a Wonderful Girl."

Ben Allen and Jack Grace start a minstrel show of their own. Jim Foley practices the wiles of a heathen Chinee and Pat Rafferty does a bit of Alpine mountain climbing to music.

Ross Hamilton again evidences his right to the title of the greatest impersonator of beautiful women, by putting over three new production numbers as only "Marjorie" can. His new songs are "When the Sun Goes Down," "Flirting," and "Lonesome for Someone," the last named having been written for him by Fred Trencer and Barry Anderson, two of the splendid musicians with Captain Plunkett's Overseas Orchestra.

The new revue was first staged out on the Pacific Coast, and the verdict from Vancouver to Montreal is that it is the brightest and most entertaining vehicle in which The Dumbells have appeared.

A capacity house should greet the genial Captain and his joyful veteruns tonight.

AT THE CAPITOL

RUTH ROLAND IN "THE HAUNTED VALLEY" AT CAPITOL SATURDAY MAT.

The third episode of Ruth Rolands' latest serial, "The Haunted Valley" will be shown at the Capitol Theatre, Saturday matinee. This serial is making a real hit in Peterboro, because of its novel plot and rapid-fire action.

GLORIA SWANSON TO CAPITOL, MONDAY

Gloria Swanson in her latest feature, "The Humming Bird" will be the feature at the Capitol Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. In this picture, the famous star appears as gorgeous cafe butterfly of Paris, and, in many scenes lays aside the beautiful clothes she is famed for, to wear the trousers and checkered cap of the Parisian apache. This is Miss Swanson's first appearance in a dual role, and is said to be one of the most remarkable and entertaining features she has yet been seen in.

A big picture with the principal actor a woman who masquerades as a man, and does it well, has an odd and effective setting on the African veldt, in "Ponjola," the feature at the Capitol Theatre just now, filmed from one of Cynthia Stockley's famous novels. It is an intriguing and unusual picture, with Anna Q. Nilsson at her best in the dual role, in a departure from her usual characterization of distinctively feminine parts.

With the guardians of English law pursuing her on a charge of double murder, Flavia, Countess Tyrecastle, flees to Paris and there decides to end her troubles by throwing herself into the Seine. Rescued by an unknown stranger, a happy youth on his way to South Africa with money for his gold mine and prospects of a speedy marriage, she decides also to disguise herself as a man and find a refuge on the veldt. The two part with identity undisclosed, but as the youth "Desmond," she meets him later at Wankelo, in Rhodesia, drinking himself into forgetfulness after his fiance has married the man who is his partner, and who has double-crossed him in the management of the mine. How "Desmond" finally rescues Druro from the curse of "ponjola," becoming involved meanwhile in another murder trial, is told in dramatic fashion. Scenes from the bare African veldt and one episode flooded with the strange blue of an African starlight, add color and atmosphere to a stirring picture.

James Kirkwood does some splendid acting as the hero, Lundi Druro and Joseph Kilgour is as satisfyingly hateful as ever as the villain of the piece. Conrad Lippiatt. The authoress' flair for peculiar names runs riot in this picture. Ruth Clifford is Gay Lippiatt, the unscrupulous beauty who marries a richer man, and Claire Macdowell is Mrs. Hope, who superintends a private hospital in Wankelo. Bernard Randall is Eric Luff, whose wife, Loochia Luff (Claire du Brey), adds a touch of genuine comedy to the story by her unavailing attempts to vamp "Desmond." Frederic Vroom is "Desmond's" solicitor, fighting for the life of his client, and winning a peculiar verdict from the impressionable Rhodesian jurymen.

Quite out of the ordinary, like Cynthia Stockley's novels, and acted in an extremely satisfying manner by a well balanced cast, with a novel background, and an unusual story, "Ponjola" provides a very fine evening's entertainment.

The Capitol's new programme of a double-comedy offering gives its patron an extra quantity of laughs. Stan Laurel is the ingenuous youthful hero of "Postage Due," in a hilarious affair set in a post office, where he pursues with relentless vigor, while chased by a private detective, the post card on which he has forgotten the proper stamp. His adventures with the chutes and the mail bags involve him in a series of ridiculous situations.

The second comedy is "Flying Finance," a Mermaid brand, with the love affairs of Milton Millbank, a rich, soft, young man, pictured in a whirl of events that ends finally in a cyclone in a western town, in which the landscape and its occupants go through some queer stunts.

AT THE ROYAL

"POTASH AND PERLMUTTER" GEM OF HUMOR AND PATHOS

Samuel Goldwyn Production of Famous Play Declared to Be one of Year's Greatest Pictures

Once in a while this reviewer sees a picture that makes him want to throw his hat into the air and shout, exuberantly: "Hurray!" On some occasions he has found it difficult to resist the impulse to act thusly, and one of those occasions came last night at the Royal Theatre, where "Potash and Perlmutter," a First National picture, began a three day engagement.

"Potash and Perlmutter" is a sparkling gem of humor and pathos a photoplay that, in our judgment, will take rank with the greatest pictures within memory. It is a picture that makes you ask yourself: "What would we do without the movies?" And the only answer is a shudder.

For fear that we may be considered unduly enthusiastic we hasten to add that the audience of which we were a part yesterday agreed unanimously with us regarding this production. There was now continuous roar of laughter, now a happy ripple, now a tremendous cresendo. We left the theatre feeling weak from the unprecedented exercise of our risibilities.

But there is much more than merely humor in the picture. It is a human story all the way through, and interspersed among the laughs are pathetic sequences which quickly stifle the grins and all but bring tears to the eyes.

A picture which can achieve such results is not produced by some streak of fortune. It must possess a background of talent, and in this respect "Potash and Perlmutter" is not lacking in a single respect.

Producer Samuel Goldwyn has spared no expense in cast, settings and story.

Montague Glass, the creator of the characters of Abe Potash and Morris Perlmutter, whose popularity has grown as they passed from magazine to book form, thence to the stage, assisted in filming his story.

Leading the cast are Barney Bernard and Alexander Carr, who created the roles on the stage, with Vera Gordon, as co-star. In their support are such notable players as Martha Mansfield. De Sacia Mooers Ben Lyons Eduard Durand, Hope Sutherland, Lee Kohlmar and Jerry Divine. And Clarence Badger directed it.

With such a combination it was a foregone conclusion that the picture would be a 'hit" in every respect. But mere words cannot describe just how good "Potash and Perlmutter" is.

AMATEUR NIGHT A BIG SUCCESS AT ROYAL.

Last night the Royal was crowded and although the whole programme was good, no doubt the added local talent had something to do with the extra large turnout. The acts taking part were all fairly good and well received by the audience. Mr. Edmunds, a clever blackface comedian, now at the Royal, announced the amateurs, and incidentally kept the audience in good humor.

The local talent presented was as follows: Katherine Cooney, songs, "The Little Red Schoolhouse," etc.; Kenneth Jarvis, song, "In the Garden of My Heart"; George Gatfield, violin solos; Willis and Miss Bates, English character songs; Tom Staziker, baritone solo, "Absent"; J. S. Mullen, violin solo, Intermezzo from Cavalera Rusticanna; T. Williams, baritone solo, "Because."

GOOD VAUDEVILLE AT ROYAL.

Two of the best vaudeville acts that anyone could wish to see are now playing at the Royal for the balance of the week. Ethel Vaughn and her three serenaders is as classy an offering as it has been our good fortune to see in some time. Miss Vaughn sings character songs in a manner all her own to the accompaniment of her "Serenaders," two violins and harp. The act consists of songs, recitations, violin duets and harp solos, and is high-class in every respect. Edmunds and Lavalle have a clever blackfact act with a very humorous line of talk. The lady member (we did not know that it was a lady until the very finish) does a good buck and wing and several songs are introduced. It registered a hit with last night's audience.

AT THE REGENT

VIVID ACTION AND DRAMATIC POWER IN FARNUM'S NEW FILM.

Dustin Farnum has one of the most picturesque roles of his career as John Buckner, in the William Fox picture 'Kentucky Days,' which opened last night at the Regent Theatre. Buckner is a romantic Kentuckian who ventures into the gold fields to recuperate his fortune, leaving his bride in the care of Gordon Carter, a cousin, whom he trusts implicitly. Carter, who is in love with the woman, presses his attention. He tells the girl Buckner has died in the West, but the husband returns suddenly, to find his wife in Carter's arms.

A duel puts Carter out of it. Buckner burns the home and takes his wife into the West, treating her as chattel property. But in the long, hard wagon trail she proves her fidelity and their early love is revived. Thrilling fights, a desert storm and picturesque scenery combine to make this an effective drama.

Margaret Fielding plays the role of the wife and Bruce Gordon portrays the cousin. Their work is accurate and extremely dramatic. Farnum is even better than usual. An excellent piece of character work is done by William P. DeVaull as Scipio, the old darkie servant in the Buckner mansion.

CANADIENS TO PLAY ONE TEAM

Montrealers Decide That Western Idea Came Too Late — Stand Firm For Two-Club Playoff.

MONTREAL, March 14 (Canadian Press). — Canadiens will not agree to a four-game series with Ottawa, Vancouver, and Calgary to decide which team shall hold the Stanley Cup and the world's professional hockey championship honours for the next year.

Yesterday President Frank Calder, of the National Hockey League, received a communication from the Patrick - Richardson combination agreeing to the original proposal of the N. H. L. for a four-club series between the four clubs mentioned above.

President Calder and Manager Leo Dandurand of the Canadiens were in conference yesterday afternoon, and decided that the acceptance of the four-club proposition, which was offered some time ago as an alternative to the Westerners' three-club play-off idea, had come too late, inasmuch as Canadiens and Ottawa had played off for the N. H. L. title, and the four-club plan had been offered on the understanding that the play-off for league titles would be incorporated in the four-club series for the Stanley Cup.

To include losing teams of the league play-offs in a Stanley Cup series would be disastrous, according to the local hockey heads.

With the Easterners standing firm for a two-club play-off, the next move is up to the Western officials, who have been asked by President Calder to place their case before Trustee Foran of the Stanley Cup.

The intention of the Easterners to hold out for a two-club arrangement those who saw in a possible three-as under the existing agreement is meeting with the general approval of local hockey enthusiasts, especially those who saw in a possible three or four club play-off a scheme for possibly greater financial gain.

The decision of the Canadiens to meet only one club has placed a quietus on these suggestions.

SOFTBALL MEETING ON MONDAY NIGHT

Representatives of last year's softball teams are urged to attend a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce on 18th March at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of organising for this season.

Umpires, scorers and any others interested in the fostering of softball in the city are invited to attend.

SOCCER NOTES

The regular monthly meeting of the P. and D.F.A. will be held in the Chambers of Commerce rooms on Monday evening at 8 p.m. prompt. Directors and representatives are requested to attend.

None of the local soccer teams considered the question of a Midland League and was only sponsored by a few. They threw it out on the same principle as the Association.

The Thistle F.C. are holding their annual dance to-night in the Victoria Hall. It is taking the form of a masquerade.

Many friends of Billy Williams, the local G.W.V.A. player, who was injured last year, is making rapid progress to good health, and injury is now perfect.

In all probability the entry fee and application of the G.W.V.A. and C.G.E. teams will be made at the meeting of the executive on Monday evening.

A very prominent local soccer player, James Sharman, who played with G.W.V.A. and C.G.E. for many seasons, is leaving the city on Monday to accept a very lucrative position in Chicago. Best of success, Jim.

The Thistle executive are losing the services of a very valuable member in the person of Mr. Duncan, who leaves Monday for Sudbury.

Limestone City Get Infielder Attends Queen's

Kingston baseball officials are keeping a line on material for the coming season. The Kingston Standard says:

Roy Smith, better known to the local hockey and football fans as "Smitty," but well known to Port Arthur fans as one of the greatest infielders in the Western circuit for the past couple of years, has decided to remain in the city this summer and cast in his lot with the Kingston Central Ontario League team. Roy is a student at Queen's University, and during the summer months it has been his custom to go West, but this year he has changed his plans and will be available for the local team.

Although little is known in this city from actual experience of his baseball prowess, those who have seen him in action say he is as near an infielder as any amateur team would care to have on their roster.

"Smitty" will, at any rate, give added strength to this summer's Kingston team, and his advent into their ranks will be heartily welcomed by local baseball fans.

RAN BASES BACKWARD

Unusual Procedure on Part of the Late Germany Schaefer Causes Rule to Be Changed.

BY BILLY EVANS

Often it requires some fool stunt to convince the rule makers that a certain section of the playing code needs revision.

Stealing first base after having reached second, as pulled by the late "Germany" Schaefer, startled the baseball world some years back and caused a change in the rule covering the play.

When the rules were written, no one for a minute thought any player would be crazy enough to run the bases backward, yet that is what Schaefer did and it created quite a rumpus.

Schaefer at the time was playing with Washington and Chicago was the opposing team. The game was played at Washington.

With Washington a run behind, Milan on third, Schaefer on first, the stage was set for the unusual procedure of running the bases backward.

It was decided to attempt to work the double steal, Schaefer drawing a throw from the catcher that it was hoped would enable Milan to score. Milan at that time was very fast, one of the best baserunners in the American League.

Not desiring to take a chance on the play going over, the Chicago catcher permitted Schaefer to steal second unmolested. After two balls had been pitched to the batter Schaefer startled the natives and players by racing back to first.

No one on the Chicago club seemed certain as to what should be done to properly retire Schaefer. The ball was thrown to the first baseman. Whereupon Schaefer broke for second. The first baseman touched the base but the umpire made no ruling. He then threw the ball to second and Schaefer again dashed back to first.

At this stage Milan broke for the plate and was retired on a close play ending the inning, also an embarassing situation.

The moment Schaefer reached second base he became the occupant of that bag. According to the rules the only way he could be retired was by being touched with the ball when not standing on second.

In order to keep players from running backward the rule has been changed and now all that is necessary is to touch the bag vacated with the ball or the player while not standing on the bag.

Never again will a player so startle the populace as did Schaefer.

TENNIS STARS PLAY AT NICE

Tournament At Winter Resort Almost As Important As Wimbledon's —Brookes Among Those Present.

NICE, Frace, March 14 (Canadian Press). — The international tennis tournament now in progress is assumig as much importance, so far as the class of players entered is concerned, as the Wimbledon tournament. It is outshining by far many of the so-called world's championships held in Europe in recent years, and also marks the appearance in international competition of Norman Brookes, the Australian player, after an absence of some years.

Suzanne Lenglen, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, of California, and Mrs. Satterthwaite, of Great Britain, are providing the best feminine play.

J. Washer, of Belgium, runner-up in the world's hard court championship in 1921, represents Belgium.

Henri Cochet and Rene Lacoste, France's premier players, also are entered.

Baron Morpurgo and Count Balbi, of Italy; Gordon Lowe, J. M. Hilliard, and Leighton Crawford, England; Nicholas Mishu, Roumania; and C. F. Asschlimann, Switzerland, are other prominent players who have passed safely beyond the third round.

FOUR GOAL TIE FOR ALLAN CUP

Sons of Ireland and Montagnards Will Play Final Game in Quebec on Equal Footing.

OTTAWA, March 14. Canadian Press. — Sons of Ireland of Quebec, and Montagnards of Ottawa, played a four to four tie at the Auditorium here last night, in the first of a two-game series in the Allan Cup elimination series. The game, which was witnessed by a crowd of about thirty-five hundred hockey fans, was replete with good hockey from start to finish, and the score is a good indication of the play. The visitors shaded Montagnards in the first period, taking a two goal lead to the first half. They continued to hold their advantage for the greater part of the second session, with the Montagnards rallying more frequently and putting more vim into their attacks, but at that the Sons scored goal for goal, and were leading four to two when the second frame ended. Then the locals did their best work of the evening. They swarmed on to the Quebec green shirts, and Turgeon put in a very busy twenty minutes. Two goals were the results of their labors, and full time found them tied with four each.

The second and final game of this series will be played in Quebec on Saturday night.

Billy Evans Says

Showing to advantage when the going is toughest is the supreme test. Coming through with a base hit, when a safe knock means the ball game, is far more difficult than with the bases empty.

The crisis, the pinch as we say in sport, is the tough spot. It calls for the best that is in the athlete. If he has a failing in his makeup it will crop out at such a time.

Psychology plays its part in the old pinch. There are some athletes who are not lacking in courage perhaps, yet who invariably falter when it is up to them to deliver the punch that means victory.

Their temperament is such that they cannot rise to the situation. On the other hand certain athletes regarded as only ordinary in the long run shine in the pinch.

I kow of big league players who seldom hit better than .250 who are more feared by pitchers than men who boast an average of 100 points better.

One of the most courageous exhibitions that has ever come under my observation on the ball field was the no-run, no-hit game Charley Robertson of the Chicago White Sox pitched against Detroit.

In this game Robertson accomplished the unusual feat of not allowing a single Detroit player to reach first base. Each one of the 27 men to face him was disposed of in order.

The remarkable feature of this game was the fact that it was in the spring of the year when pitchers are not at their best and the advantage is always with the batsman; also that it was a recruit pitcher working against the hardest hitting aggregation in the American League.

However, to me the outstanding feature was the way Robertson worked under fire, the Detroit club using every legitimate method to break him down.

The contention was raised that Robertson was doctoring the ball. Trick pitching having been ruled out, such a practice was of course illegal.

Time after time, after a player had been retired, several members of the Detroit club would insist that the umpire take a look at the ball.

It had been raining for several days prior to the game, the ground was slow and heavy, and when the ball struck the black dirt of the infield it soon became discolored.

Neither Dick Nallin nor myself, who umpired the game, could see that Robertson was doing anything illegal, but to avoid possible protests threw out many ball and made Robertson work with new ones.

Through it all Robertson merely smiled, tossed the ball to the umpire whenever requested, without the slightest show of indignation, and tended to his knitting.

During the last five innings the game was delayed a score of times to have the ball examined. And it seemed to me as if Robertson, realizing that he had the Tigers fussed, went through certain unnecessary operations simply to excite the curiosity of the opposition. It was the most courageous bit of pitching I

FORM TWO JUNIOR O.B.A.A. GROUPS BELLEVILLE PLANS NEW BASEBALL LOOP

Last fall when the ball team put away their suits and ball paraphernalia much was said as to ways and means to strengthen the seniors by forming a junior or intermediate group with the surrounding towns as feeders for this team, says the Belleville Intelligencer.

It has not all amounted to talk, for Mr. Robert Colling and Mr. Harry Soanes, who, by the way, was a tower of strength in baseball matters when he was in Picton, got together and formed the nucleus of a fast junior league.

Letters were written to the various towns in the immediate vicinity of Belleville, and replies received would indicate the success of this venture.

These two men have planned two four-team groups, one comprising Belleville, Trenton, Napanee and Picton, the other Marmora, Stirling, Tweed, and Madoc, the winners to play off for the right to advance to the O.B.A.A. play-offs.

This is surely a step in the right direction and should have the support of every baseball fan in Belleville.

Peterborough got untold advertising from its lower rank teams last fall, and incidentally grabbed off two or three championships.

There is a wealth of young material in this city only waiting for some one to take them in hand, and Messrs. Colling and Soanes look to be the right people. Both have executive as well as managerial ability, and the kids should be in for a good season.

Remember, fans, it is only a short time until the umps shall say, "Play ball!" Oh, boy, what a grand and glorious feeling!

U. S. HOCKEY DATES.

BOSTON, March 14 (Canadian Press).—Manager George V. Brown, of the Boston Arena, announced last night that three of the five games to determine the championship of the United States Amateur Hockey League would be played in this city on 26th, 28th, and 29th March.

The other games will be played in the city that wins the Western group title.

HOCKEY RESULTS

Following are the results of games played Thursday.

Junior Northern.

Stratford 7, Paisley 2.
(Stratford wins championship.)

Exhibition.

St. Patricks 8, Hamilton 7.

Bay of Quinte.

Kingston 3, Point Ann 1.
(Kingston wins semi-finals.)

ESCAPED WHITEWASH.

PARIS, March 14 (Canadian Press).— The United States women's hockey team were saved from a complete whitewash on its European trip by winning its last game yesterday from a picked Paris team, 7 to 4. With this one victory, the team will sail for home on the President Harding on 16th March, having been in England and France since early in January.

In Utah persons under sentence of death, if they so desire, be shot by a firing squad.

... WOULD STOP BUYING ...

PARIS, March 13.—Institution of an export tax is being discussed as a means of checking the widespread practice of foreigners who buy up French goods in great quantities because of the devaluation of the franc. Another proposal is to make foreigners pay a higher price for all goods.

Holding fish and frogs' heads in the mouths of children suffering from whooping cough is an oldd "cure" still practiced among the peasantry of western Ireland.

"GREATEST OUTFIELDER I EVER SAW"

Tris Speaker's Comment on Hap Felsch, Baseball Outcast

BY BILLY EVANS.

Hap Felsch is jailed for perjury.

The wires carried that terse message the other day.

What an inglorious finish to the career of one of the greatest outfielders in the history of the game.

Four years ago Felsch was one of the outstanding figures of baseball, vieing with Tris Speaker for the honor of being classed as the game's greatest outfielder.

At the height of his baseball career, in a position to demand a salary in the five figures, on the road to be a wealthy man as athletes go, Hap Felsch is now a baseball outcast.

From his lofty position as one of the idols of the national pastime, a heroic figure of the game, he is now down and out.

Instead of having his name almost daily feature the sport headlines, instead of drawing a big salary for six months' work he is eking out a mere existence as the proprietor of a small grocery store in Milwaukee.

World of Ability.

The glory of Felsch has been forever dimmed by his alleged part in the baseball scandal of 1919, yet I will always remember him as one of the greatest players the game has ever produced.

Felsch had a world of natural ability, he lacked only the color and initiative to have made him as famous as Tyrus Cobb.

"Never saw his equal as an outfielder, unless it is Tris Speaker," remarked the veteran Kid Gleason one day last summer as we discussed Felsch. Gleason was very fond of the big outfielder, and there was just a trace of a tear in his eye as he remarked:

Ruined many a Career.

"What a shame those boys fell from grace. It ruined their careers, and spoiled mine. Why, I could have won three or four more pennants with that club, and perhaps as many world series.

"The scribes would have been calling me the wonder man instead of just plain Kid Gleason."

And now listen to a remark that Tris Speaker made just after Felsch had been barred from any further participation in baseball by Judge Landis:

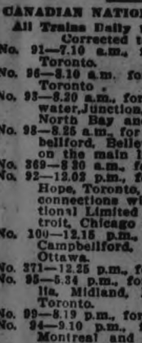
"He's the greatest outfielder I've ever seen!"

Instead of a picture of Hap Felsch stalking off the ball field to the cheers of the multitude for our last impression of that great athlete, we see a couple of policemen taking him to his cell in a jail.

What a shame!

GOLF GOSSIP

BY JOE WILLIAMS.



HUTCHISON.

Not many folks know it, but Jock Hutchison, noted Chicago pro., and one of the game's most remarkable scorers, feared he was through with golf six months ago. Somehow or other the Hutch got the notion that his health was failing him. Particularly was he concerned about his heart. It troubled him at Inwood.

The Hutch confided to at least one star player of the writer's acquaintance that he was through.

"From now on I will confine my work to teaching," he resolved. "This will demand only a minimum of exertion."

Later the Hutch was prompted to consult a specialist. "There is nothing wrong with your heart," assured the specialist. "Maybe it's your mashie."

The Hutch is a marvellous mashie expert. If he eve rloses his mashie shot he might as well lose heart.

Wins Western Title.

Jubilant, the Hutch scanned the competitive calendar, and learned that the Western open championship still remained undecided. It was the one important tournament left on the list. The Hutch forgot all about his "heart trouble," hopped a rattler for Memphis, scene of the bunkered conflict, and blazed away with all his guns.

When the divots had been replaced and the niblicks had cooled off the Hutch was sitting on top of the world again, open champion of the West. His heart was as good as ever—and so was his mashie.

The Hutch is one of the greatest recovery players in the land. He doesn't believe there is such a condition as a bad lie.

Keep Your Poise.

"Play the ball where it lies and don't make excuses," advises the Hutch. "Many fine golfers fail to get low scores because they surrender to misfortune too easily. A bad break in the luck and they are through. Bad shots are part of the game. There is just as much science about playing a bad shot as a good one. Don't forget that.

"Assuming that you are reasonably well versed in the general mechanics of playing from ugly positions, the most important advice I have for the player is this: 'Keep your poise.' Don't let a bad lie upset you.

"Anybody can play a good shot from a good lie. Playing a good shot from a bad lie is the stuff of which champions are made. Learn how to save strokes. That's just as important as learning how to make strokes."

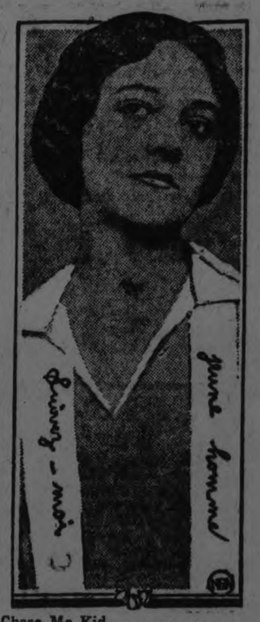
CHASE ME, KID!



Chase Me Kid .....

Say fellows, brush up on your French! You'll need it in these days of "come-on" blouses, such as this young lady, Miss Marguerite Noonan, of Cincinnati, is wearing. On the tie of each is this inscription: "Suivez-moi jeune homme." Translated into plain everyday English, this merely means: "Follow me, young man." And on some of them appears the bid: "Kiss me tomorrow."

HAROLD ARMSTRONG HAS THREE MEDALS

Played With Champion Peterboro Juniors aud Intermediates and With Marlboro Seniors

Some of the Toronto papers are still making the old mistake of saying that Wally Hern of Stratford is the only player in the history of the O.H.A. to hold junior intermediate and senior medals. The dope is wrong. Harold Armstrong the old Peterboro star defence man was on championship teams in all three classes playing with the championship Peterboro juniors in 1901 and the Peterboro intermediate champions in 1902 and latter playing with the Marlboros of Toronto after they captured the senior title.

FANS WILL SEE CRACK BOXERS

Good bouts for Monday night's show at the G. W. V. A. Hall are assured, as St. Helen's Club of Toronto notified the local Boxing Committee last night that good boys will be sent down here. If the fans will turn out and patronize Monday night's bill, the Boxing Committee promise to bring to Peterboro the best boxers to be found in Ontario and outside the Province.

The boxing classes will be held as usual this evening, commencing at 7.30 o'clock. All those who intend to enter for the city championships should take advantage of the training facilities offered.

SAYS EVE WAS 119 FEET TALL.

Northern France Once Had a Man Named Gayant, Reputed to Be 22 Feet Tall.

Eve in the Garden of Eden was 119 feet tall, according to M. Henrion's estimate. He was an expert on giantism. Unfortunately, he left no detailed records showing how he figured the thing out.

"There were giants in those days."

Northern France once had a man named Gayant, reputed to be 22 feet tall. He is a mythological character. But there must have been an actual basis to the myth. Maybe you have seen Gayant's statue in Douai.

Antwerp claims Antigonius, one of ist ancient residents, was 40 feet tall. Gog and Magog, who terrorized the southwestern coast of England, have statutes in London showing them towering above the ground.

Ancient Egypt had the other extreme—a dwarf named Philetas, so small that he had to wear heavy lead shoes to keep the wind from blowing him away.

"Strenuous Jeffrey" Hudson, son of a huge English butcher at Oakham, was only a foot and a half tall. He was served in a pie at a dinner given to King Charles I. Later he became a cavalry captain and fought two duels.

All these giants and dwarfs, of course, were exceptions. It is phenomenal, how nature standardizes us, makes us so much alike in physique, with the giant or dwarf a rare exception.

Nature adapts our bodies to our environments—changes us physically to make us fit in most efficiently in the average every-day life of the civilization in which we live. Life has changed in the last few centuries, and so have people. It has recently been demonstrated, by measuring armor, that people 400 years ago were smaller than we of today.

Nature's alterations of her human blueprints take place only over long periods of time. But gradually she applies to us the same system by which she takes the eyes from fish in underground rivers, which need no eyes. Similarly, the giraffe got its neck lengthened so it could nibble the more nourishing leaves at the tops of the trees.

People 500 years from now undoubtedly will be a lot different than people today. Nature will change their bodies to fit their environments and mode of life. They'll probably run to heads, since mechanical progress is tending to make strong limbs unnecessary.

FRANCE'S FUTURE LOOKING HOPEFUL.

Many Things That to Canadians Seem Revolutions Do Not Strike the Europeans As Such.

By MILTON BRONNER.

PARIS, March 14. — France may be facing many dangers and difficulties, but Louis L. Klotz, many times Minister of Finance and one of the right-hand men of Clemenceau during the war, smilingly declares himself an optimist.

The former Minister, who would be in the Cabinet again if the Clemencists came into power, scoffed at the idea of revolt in France, that might be brought about by the high cost of living, increased taxes and the general dissatisfaction with the Government's management of things at home and abroad.

Said Klotz:

"First and foremost let me stress the point that all this talk of revolution in France is—a mere German hope and a German dream.

Just a Change.

"Many things that to Americans seem revolutions do not strike Europeans as such.

"What went on in Italy was not revolution. Mussolini marched to Rome with his Fascisti, but he accepted the King's invitation to form a Government and is working with the monarch.

"What went on in Spain was not revolution. General Rivera is acting by consent of the King and with him.

"What has just happened in England is not revolution. The accession to power of a Labor-Socialist Ministry was by perfectly constitutional means.

England's Example.

"Second, I may say this: There may happen in France or in any other country what happened in England—a Baldwin may bring about a Ramsay Macdonald."

Klotz did not amplify this cryptic statement. But it was easy to guess its application to French politics.

Klotz and his friends fear Poincare may so muddle things that a coalition of the Radical, Republican and Socialist parties will come into power when the elections are held in spring.

Dictator? No!

Monsieu Klotz laughted at the idea of a dictatorship for either President Millerand or Premier Poincare as advocated by their respective newspaper friends. He said no responsible person took these things seriously.

"I am an optimist as to France," Klotz confided. "We have the 'vie chere'—high cost of living—we have high taxes that are ever getting heavier, we have other difficulties. But in this, France is not different from other great nations.

"Things will come out all right. The resources of France, the industry of Frenchmen, the fundamental good sense and patriotism of the people will bring about happier conditions."

A GOOD TIME YEAR TO BURN HARDWOOD

Maple and Beech Hardwood Cheap at Nine and Eleven Dollars Cord.

This fine weather is creating a brisk demand for our good maple and beech hardwood, cut in stove length and delivered to any part of the city at nine and eleven dollars a cord. Those who are used to handling wood realize that a big saving in the fuel bill can be made by burning wood from now on and conserving what coal you have left for next winter. Besides we have the best wood value in the city. You would never buy a load from transient traders on the market or elsewhere if you once saw the size and kuality of the load we delived at the above prices. Office open to-night to receive orders. Mrs. R. L. Sarginson, of Toronto, is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. Sanderson, 191 Brock street.

The many friends of Miss Annie Coleman, who has been ill in the Nicholls Hospital, will be glad to know she is getting along nicely.

Mrs. Joseph Knox, Gilmour street has returned home after an extended stay in Havelock with her brother, who has been ill.

Mrs. Samuel Knox of Fenelon Falls, who has been visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. Knox, returns home to-day.

A very pleasant time was spent by many of the friends of Miss Nellie Gardiner at her home in the Charlbond Apartments on Thursday evening. Miss Gardiner is leaving on Monday next for Los Angeles, Cal., and her friends took the opportunity afforded to present her with a silver mesh bag and other small gifts. An address was read by Miss V. Hallowell, and the presentation was made by Miss Alma Lewis. Miss Gardiner, who was taken completely by surprise, made a suitable reply, thanking those present for their gifts and good wishes. The evening was spent in dancing, and a dainty lunch was served.

WAGON WHEEL KILLED .... FOUR YEAR OLD GIRL

BELLEVILLE, March 14 Canadian Press. — Four year old Mary Vorson, laying with her younger brother, on the roadway in Point Anne, died almost instantly after being run over by the wheel of a loaded wagon to-day.

The child was running alongside the wagon when she tripped and fell underneath the wheels.

CAPT. PLUNKETT AND BAND OF "MERRY DUMBELLS" HERE

Captain M. W. Plunkett and his merry band of "Dumbells" arrived in the city this morning from Belleville, ready for the opening performance to-night at the Grand Opera House. Speaking to The Examiner this morning the genial Captain said that they were presenting an entirely new revue with the exception of one or two old favorites which the audience demanded be retained.

The Ottawa and Kingston papers give enthusiastic reports of the present "Dumbell" show and the company played to crowded houses in these two cities last week and the early part of this week. While the advance sale has been heavy here there are still good seats available both for to-night and to-morrow night.

DR. KING ENTERED PLEA NOT GUILTY

Illness of Crown Witness Necessitated Remand Until Thursday--Court Room Crowded.

Owing to the severe illness of a material witness for the Crown, the case against Dr. De Courcy King, of a breach of the Narcotic Drug Act, was this morning adjourned until Thursday next.

The remand of Dr. King was asked for by Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., and consented to by J. F. Strickland, who appeared for the accused.

The witness in question is said to be a drug addict, whose heart is so weak that his physician would not aprove his appearing in court, and the Crown was not prepared to accept responsibility for compelling his attendance.

Two charges were read, one of supplying drugs to Alonzo York, and the other of supplying Joseph Collins and the accused pleaded not guilty to both.

The remand was a disappointment to over a hundred and twenty spectators, who crowded the court and hall, standing two deep along the walls, and some evidently prepared for an entire day's sitting. Others crowded the stairways and stood around the street door.

Five men who pleaded guilty to having drugs, were again before the Magistrate, and on request of the Crown Attorney were remanded until March 20th.

Edward Rush, J.P., sat with Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning.

GIRL STAMPED TO DEATH HER PARALYTIC FATHER

TAMPA, Florida, March 14. Canadian Press. — Eva Winchester, aged 18, told Sheriff Spencer yesterday that she had "stamped to death," with her foot, her father, J. C. Winchester, aged 65, as a religious offering.

She implicated her mother, and both were held on charges of murder.

She said that the three had visited a religious sect gathering at St. Petersburg last Sunday, and her father, a paralytic, was so much benefitted by the attendance, that she and her mother decided that they would make the fathering an offering to the Lord for benefiction.

They live in Seffnar, a village, ten miles from Tampa.

OPPOSITION TO SECRETARY FOR NORTH ONTARIO

The Appointment Would Chiefly Benefit Interests of Conservative Party, Said Liberal Leader — "Unnecessary" Was the Opinion of Bowman and Heenan — Premier Declared Office a Link With Government.

Extensive Territory.

TORONTO, March 15.—Although there was considerable opposition from Liberal and U.F.O. groups, the bill establishing a secretary for north-western Ontario passed second reading in the Legislature Friady. The Premier said such an appointment was necessary to bring the people of north-western Ontario into closer touch with the government. The secretary who is F. H. Keefer, will look after creation of school sections, roads, etc., said the Premier.

W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, said there was the danger that the secretary would look after the interests of the Conservative party more than he would look after the interests of the province. Hon. Manning Doherty agreed with the Liberal leader. The bill passed without a demand for a vote.

Will Be Resident.

The Premier said that the north needed a man in close touch with the government to be resident there. A Minister would have to live in Toronto and therefore a secretaryship had been created. The appointment he said would not interfere with or abridge the duties of members of the Legislature. The appointment was made to develop that great stretch of country west of White River which was greater in extent than old Ontario. Mr. Keefer, the new secretary, he said, had lived 40 years in the north-west district.

Should be Minister.

Malcolm Lang (Lib. Cochrane), thought if an appointment was to be made that it should have been an additional cabinet minister. The Department of Lands and Forests could well be made two jobs with a department for colonization being one. He could not understand what the dennite duties of a secretary would be. He certainly could take no authoritative action in anything. Mr. Lang said that Mr. Keefer had been a strong secessionist and wanted that part of the province to separate from Ontario. "However, since getting his new position we have heard nothing from him about secession."

Peter Heenan (Lab. Kenora), said the creation of a secretaryship was unnecessary. The people did not want it he said and he could see nothing but political reasons for the appointment.

Hon. Beniah Bowman (U.F.O.), said the appointment was merely adding a fifth wheel to the department of lands.

Work For Party.

"I am afraid that any good that will come from the appointment will be to the Conservative party and not the people of Northern Ontario," said Mr. Sinclair. He said that the "other duties" rather than those mentioned in the bill would be the main work of the secretary. "We will look to Mr. Keefer more for political results than provincial results," he continued. "His job will be to strengthen the government in the north."

Exempt Small Mills.

The bill licensing saw, pulp and paper mills was given second reading. Some objection was taken to licensing little rural saw mills in old Ontario and these will probably be exempted by the government.

Bills given second reading would make it possible for the reeve of a township to call out residents to fight a bush fire and to remunerate them; would give townships the right to regulate taxi cab fares and give cities the right to lower the assessment on down town vacant lots used as parking spaces for motor cars.

Second reading was also given to a few minor amendments to the superannuation act and the highway traffic act.

Jury to Decide Sanity of Thaw

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Mar. 15. — Common Pleas Court No. 5 late on Friday granted a petition for a jury trial to determine the sanity of Harry K. Thaw. Ten days' notice must be given to his mother, who is "committee of his person," and to the trustees of his estate, before the case can proceed.

ALLIES AGAIN SAVED FRANCE

Financial Operations of Week Her Last Line of Defence, Comments a British Paper—Reforms Are Expected.

LONDON, March 15. — The weekly newspapers, commenting on the assistance given France by the Anglo-American bankers to arrest the fall in the value of the franc, assert that the allies have again saved France from disaster, as they did in the war.

"The financial battle of the Marne" "A Financial Verdun," and similar other terms are applied to the situation, with the general expression of the view that France now must face facts and abandon the policy of Premier Poincare in the Ruhr and the Rhineland, which it is asserted led to the present troubles, and put her financial house in order.

The New Statesman, representing the views of Labor, declares that London and New York have come to the aid of Paris on the understanding that drastic financial reforms are to be undertaken.

"If they are not," says the newspaper, "if there is no retrenchment, then gold will have to be shipped to America and England, and there will be no more credits. The operations which have been carried out this week can never be repeated. In defence of her financial Verdun France has reached her last line of defence."

RAIDERS SHAKEN OFF.

PARIS, March 15. — Financial and banking circles and the public generally appeared this afternoon to be satisfactorily reassured as to the immediate future of the franc in the exchange market. The experts consider that many of the raiders on the franc have been shaken out of the market and are not likely to get in again for some time. Certain financial groups in neutral European countries are said to be anxiously seeking help from the French banks, having sold more francs than they are able to get hold of.

Senate Raises Doubt.

The dollar and the pound sterling are approaching the figures now at which according to the banking experts they ought to stabilize for some time, and the market is expected to calm down. The only anxiety Friday was over the action of the Senate on Premier Poincare's budget bills. In spite of this doubtful factor the improvement continues, a great many holders of pounds and dollars hastening to get rid of them.

CUBA DRAWS MANY AMERICAN TOURISTS

HAVANA, March 15.—(Associated Press).—Cuba has been popular with tourists this year. The traffic so far has been 30 per cent. greater this season than last, and last winter was one of the best on record.

Most of the visitors are Americans who come over from Florida. As a rule they spend their time in Havana, only a few of them going out to some nearby sugar mill or tobacco plantation.

GERMAN ACTORS IDLE IN U.S.

BERLIN, March 15.—(Associated Press).—The Actors' Association has issued a warning to theatrical performers against going to the United States unless they have sufficient funds to tide them over several months. The warning followed the receipt of many hard luck letters from German actors now in the United States and unable to get work.

WAILS OF OPPOSITION INCREASE GOVERNMENT TASK SAYS LAPOINET

Gospel of Gloom Adds to Difficulty of Cleaning Up "Legacy of Ghastly Muddles and Messes" From Predecessors, Asserted the Minister of Justice — Bankruptcies Decreased Fifty Per Cent. Last Year—Trade With France Doubled.

St. Lawrence Scheme.

OTTAWA, March 15.—(Canadian Press).— After a silence of nearly two weeks, the treasury benches yesterday intervened in the debate on the address. Hon. Ernest Lapointe Minister of Justice, the first member of the Government to speak since Premier King followed the leader of the opposition on March 3rd., was listened to by an attentive chamber His speech was largely devoted to answering criticisms of the Government made by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Opposition Leader, during the recess. From the outset he turned his guns on the official opposition. The Conservative campaign was a "citadel of misrepresentation" and the speech of Mr. Meighen on the address had been filled with "dismay and bitterness."

Make Task Difficult

The spreading of gospel of gloom and whispers of death throughout the country had been the occupation of the Opposition Leader during the recess Mr. Lapointe asserted. Apparently Mr. Meighen was making it as difficult as possible for the present Government to clean up "the ghastly muddles and messes" which had been their legacy from their predecessors in office.

St. Lawrence Scheme

Of the St. Lawrence deep waterways scheme and the proposal to investigate the question thoroughly Mr. Lapointe said that the scheme had its enemies as well as its supporters. It was the plain duty of the government to make every possible scientific test before entering into any definite agreement with the United States on the proposal. No such agreement would be entered into unless it were clear that the level of the river would never be altered as a result of the work and that the rights of all provinces would be protected. Incidentally Mr. Lapointe condemned the action of the late government in removing from the board of the international commission Quebec's only representative (Mr. Justice Mignault) and substituting therefor an Ontario man (Sir William Hearst.) Quebec was left without representation on the commission.

Mr. Lapointe elicited Conservative interruptions right at the outset by declaring that the speech from the throne had got a very favorable reception and went on to say that he was glad to have criticism from certain sources. His obvious reference was to the Conservative opposition, but a Conservative pointed across the house to the Liberal benches to call attention to the speeches made on that side of the house in criticism of certain features of the speech from the throne.

Not Against Address

"You need not point to any member on this side," immediately shot back Mr. Lapointe. "I am not aware that any member on this side had said that he is going to vote against the address. Quite the contrary."

"The world is moving," said Mr. Lapointe, "and we as a young country must move with it."

"West," interjected a Conservative

"East, west north and south," came back Mr. Lapointe, "we are not sectional on this side."

Fewer Bankruptcies

When Mr. Meighen said recently that bankruptcy was increasing he should have been aware that failures in Canada actully had decreased fifty per cent in the last ear.

"Yet the whispers of death go on," continued the minister of justice. He found the criticism of the opposition ingenious and amazing. Hon. H. H. Stevens has complained that the government had infringed parliamentary tradition by too explicit reference in the speech from the throne to impending tariff changes. In the same breath he had invited Mr. Lapointe to be still more explicit and "turn his speech in the debate into a budget speech."

Mr. Stevens: "I merely asked him to explain an ambiguous passage in the speech from the throne."

Mr. Lapointe said Mr. Stevens had devoted his time and unmistakable debating talent entirely to discussing the tariff and complaining that the government was proposing to cut it. Immediately afterwards he had warned the progressives that there would be no cut on implements and they were being fooled.

Destroy Confidence

Conservatives had publicly announced they were "out to chase from Ottawa this tariff-cutting government," and came back to parliament to vote an amendment to the debate complaining that the Liberals had not kept this pledges to reduce the tariff. "Victory over our national difficulties", said Mr. Lapointe, "will not come to those who merely seek to destroy public confidence in the government and the country's business stability."

He said the Conservative opposition was supported chiefly by men who sought to get greater privileges and found they could not obtain these from the democratic government now in power.

Cost of Parliament

Rallying Mr. Stevens for his anxiety about the vote being prematurely taken on the amendment, Mr. Lapointe said that the press of the country on the other hand was calling for briefer debates and fewer days in parliament, because it was supposed to be costing the country $30,000 a day to run the house. The minister took the opportunity to deny. The actual cost of parliament he said was about $55,000 a month. The rest of the expenses was incidental to the administration of public affairs and was spent whether the house was sitting or not.

The leader of the opposition, said Mr. Lapointe, had carried on a campaign throughout Canada during the recess part of which had consisted of a pilgrimage in the province of Quebec. There he had distributed medals in the schools and convents, and also misrepresented facts in a number of speeches. One of Mr. Meighen's statements was that the net debt of Canada was lower than that of any other portion of the British Empire and that Mr. Lapointe should be asked to explain why the taxes were higher.

Taxes Not Higher

Mr. Lapointe said he could not explain a condition which did not exist. As a matter of fact Canada had the lowest taxation of any portion of the British Empire. He quoted income tax figures covering Great Britain, New Zealand, Australia and South Africa which showed that for all but very large incomes the tax in Canada was the lowest. The tax revenue per head of population, he gave as follows:

United Kingdom $79.50; Australia $43.09; New Zealand $60.97; Canada $36.67.

Hon. H.H. Stevens interrupted to say that the impression given by Mr. Lapointe was quite a wrong one. He believed that the per capita tax revenue in Canada was $250 per head. There were some protests from the Government supporters and, Mr. Lapointe continued his speech.

Trade With France

The opposition leader had ridiculed the French treaty said Mr. Lapointe On the single item of agricultural implements there had been an increase of 100 per cent. in the exports of the Canadian agricultural implements to France since the treaty went into effect.

"I am pleased to see that the Canadian manufacturer of implements can compete with the world on the farming market," Mr. Lapointe remarked, amid progressive cheers.

Press Delegation Are Recognized

OTTAWA, March 14.—(Canadian Press.)—The Russian Soviet trade delegation has been recognized by the Canadian Government after presenting their credentials to the Acting Premier, Hon. George P. Graham, Friday afternoon the delegates returned to Montreal on an early train to continue negotiations with commercial interests there for trade between Canada and Russia. The delegation comprises Alexander A. Yamiloff, official agent of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics; Ivan I. Kulik, assistant official agent and Nicholas N. Kostritzin, acting secretary.

CHURCHMEN ASK GOVERNMENT TO SUPPORT UNION

Representatives of Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational Churches Seek Settlement of Question On Democratic Principle of Majority Vote.

LEFT TO INDIVIDUALS

TORONTO, March 15. — A deputation of 150 representing Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches, met Hon. W. H. Price and Hon. Thomas Crawford of the Ontario government on Friday, requesting that the Church Union Bill go through the Legislature.

Hon. Mr. Price said that the government would not take a stand on the question, and that the members of the House would be free to vote as they saw fit.

The deputation was headed by Rev Dr. S. D. Chown, Methodist; Rev. Dr. George Pidgeon, Presbyterian, and Rev. Dr. W. F. Gunn, Congregationalist.

"We represent here according to the census returns of Canada, residents within the province of Ontario to the number of 685,000 Methodists, 30,000 Congregationolists, and four-fifths of 615,000 Presbyterians or 1,207,000 in favor of Union as against 123,000 opposed to it. The assumption that 20 per cent. of the members of the Presbyterian church, are not in favor of union is based on official returns to the general assembly. We ask no more from you than the recognition of the right we claim to settle this question on the democratic principle of a majority vote constitutionally recorded by the churches concerned.

"We do not want to have to contend for religious liberty in this province. We appeal to you as representatives of free citizens to do your utmost to save us from this necessity."

Dr. Gunn said he had certificates from all Congregational churches in the city favoring union. Dr. Pidgeon said that it was the duty of the churches to consummate union after after having given their word in 1917. There had been 161 preaching points united in the North, while in Saskatchewan there were 447 union churches.

CANADA'S TRADE HAS INCREASED

Statement For Eleven Months Shows Substantial Improvement In Imports and Exports.

OTTAWA, March 14.—(Canadian Press.)—Canada's total trade for the eleven months of the fiscal year ending February was $1,771,351,883 or $103,188,505 more than in the corresponding eleven months of the previous year. Both imports and exports shared in the increase. Imports were up $95,000,000; exports of domestic merchandise inereased $98,000,000.

Of domestic exports in the eleven months, agricultural and vegetable products with a total of $365,000,000 form the largest item. Next come wood and wood products with a total of $245,000,000. Of imports, iron and its products came first, the total being $156,000,000.

Exports during the month of February were ten millions higher than in February, 1923; imports were three millions lower.

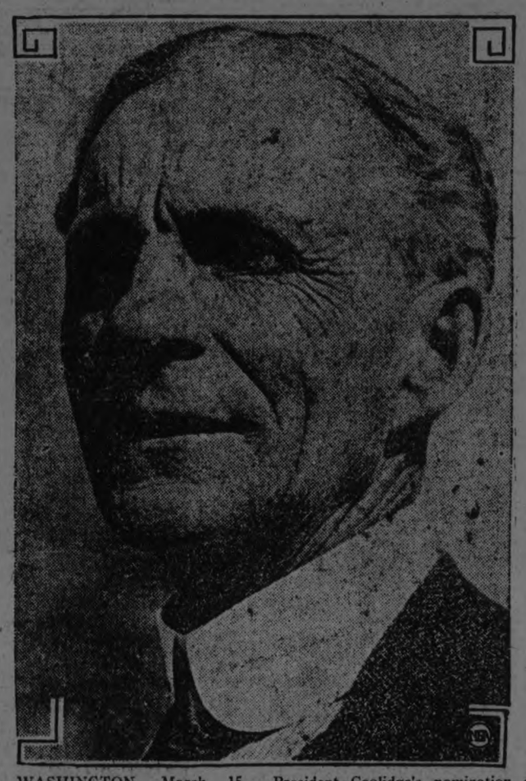
Heavy Tax Imposed On French Field Sports.

PARIS, March 15 (Canadian Press). — Friends of outdoor sports in France feel that the French Chamber of Deputies has dealt their favourite pastimes a severe blow in the passing of a Bill placing a tax of 25 per cent. on the gross gate receipts of all football, swimming, tennis, and athletic meets of all sorts.

The Bill was slipped through unobtrusively during one of the all-night sessions which marked in the French Chamber the long-drawn debates on the voting of the new fiscal measures of economy and additional 20 per cent. taxes on all tax rolls in France.

Followers of outdoor sports are bending every effort to have the measure killed in the Senate.

Mentioned For Secretary



WASHINGTON, March 15. — President Coolidge's nomination of Curtis D. Wilbur, Chief Justice of the California Supreme Court, puts an end to the rumours that Henry Ford was seriously considered for the position of Secretary of the Navy, vacated by Edwin Denby's resignation. Ford recently came out in support of Coolidge, and only the other day again appeared prominently in the despatches that recounted his success in obtaining the lease of the Muscle Shoals hydro and Nitrate project after two years' deliberations and delay.

MINIMUM WAGE MINERS' DEMAND

British Owners Offer Minimum 20 Per Cent. Above Pre-War Standard—Miners Insist on 40 Per Cent.—Government Hopes to Avert Strike.

LONDON, March 15.—In consequence of the tactical defeat of the Labor Government Thursday in the House of Commons on the question of suspending the eleven o'clock adjournment rule to discuss the army estimates, Premier MacDonald yesterday gave notice that he will move in the House of Commons Monday that the Government appropriate the whole time of the House until the end of March. This measure would have the effect of cutting out an important private members' bill, namely, the Miners' Minimum Wage Bill, to which the extreme Left of the Labor Party attaches great importance on account of the special influence the measure might have on the pending dispute in the coal mining industry.

Anticipate Difficulties.

The coal owners had already demanded the withdrawal of this bill, but the miners insisted it should be proceeded with unless a satisfactory settlement of the coal dispute was reached This situation threatened the Government with difficulties with its own supporters and to extricate itself from the dilemma, the Government Friday decided to introduce a measure on the same lines. This will be done at the earliest available time after March 31.

If the Government is able to pass this bill it may help to avert a big strike by the miners, for the mining dispute turns principally on the question of fixing an adequate minimum wage. Negotiations to end the dispute have been protracted. The owners had made an offer more favorable than had been expected, including a concession of a minimum wage thirty per cent. above the pre-war standard, but the miners' executive yesterday rejected this offer, which the owners maintained was final. The miners demand a minimum of forty per cent. above the pre-war standard.

Complicated Problems.

This rejection make a big strike exceedingly probable April 17, when the existing agreements terminate. The whole of miners' wages is complicated by the enormous differences of the productive capacity of the coal mines, it being admitted that many mines are unable to make profits sufficient to pay the minimum miners' claim; as all the mine owners insist that they are entitled to a certain standard profit, some system of pooling the profits seems to be the only solution.

OBSTACLES IN EXPERTS' PATH

Germans Reported to Be Hesitating On the Committee's Plans For Establishing Bank — Transfer of Gold Reserve Involved.

PARIS, March 15.—The Reparation experts who have been studying Germany's financial and economic position appear to have encountered obstacles in connection with their plan for the establishment of a gold bank of issue in Germanly, which are likely to delay completion of their report to the Reparation Commission, it was announced last night.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, President of the German Reichsbank, probably will again come to Paris early next week to be heard once more by the expert sub-committee which has been discussing the plan for the bank of issue. The supposition among those who have been following the experts' deliberations is that the Germans are raising objections to transfer outside Reich territory of the German Gold Reserve, which the experts regard as essential.

Still Optimistic.

The drafting committee, which held a long session again Friday, took an adjournment until next week, having adopted some of the broad outlines of their report which members will work on individually. In the meantime, in spite of the apparent obstacles in completing the bank plan, the experts are still optimistic though less sure than they were, that they will be able to complete their work next week.

Reports Received.

The first committee of experts, headed by Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, held a meeting yesterday afternoon to hear oral reports of the bank sub-committee. The drafting committee discussed some of the leading features of the report. The general opinion around reparation headquarters is that the Allies are quite agreed on all vital questions and that only the Germans are still hesitating. The importance of their agreement with the committee arises from the fact that the Schact gold bank, which he proposes to set up independently, must, according to the plan of the experts eventually be merged with the national bank of issue.

SMALL MARKET THIS MORNING DUE TO ROADS

Large Variety of Produce Offered Including a Bird of Wisdom.

WOOD SCARCE

The open section of the farmers' market showed some bare spaces this morning. A bakers' dozen of carts represented the rural community. Poor sleighing over bad roads kept many of the men at home, but the basket section was filled with women vendors of produce. Butter and eggs were plentiful, the former ranging in price from 42 to 45 cents per pound, the latter from 27 to 30 cents per dozen. Chickens were 30 cents a pound, with the same price for a big turkey. White small beans were 20 cents for a measure of three pounds, and cream was 30 cents a pint. Beet and cabbage pickle in small jars was 20 cents. Downstairs one man had a turkey retailing for 35 cents a pound, a few pounds of butter at 40 cents, and eggs at 30 cents a dozen.

In the entry, the blind man, whose harmonium and guitar music this morning had to do with the "googly oogly eyes" of the immortal Barney had an interested audience of small boys for the gay little tune.

Honey was selling in 10 pound pails at $1 on the open market, and the fish man was doing a rousing trade. Little pigs were $8 a pair. Potatoes scarce in quantity, were selling at $1.85 and $1.95 per bag, pork was 13 and 15 cents, and the few roots on view were selling at usual prices, A few loads of wood were selling from $8 a load for birch mixed, to $11 and $12 for the cut maple.

The auctioneer had the crowd with a select assortment of household necessities, ranging from pie plates at four for a quarter to a mounted owl whose feathers showed the influence of the season. There were no bids for the bird of wisdom.

O.H.A. PRESIDENT SENDS "CONGRATS"

Compliments Petes Upon Splendid Showing in O.H.A. Race.

Mr. J. P. Bond has received the following letter from W. A. Fry, of Dunnville, president of the Ontario Hockey Association:

Will you kindly convey to the Peterboro team and the club they represent my heartiest congratulation on the gallant battle they put up for the John Ross Robertson cup and the Intermediate championship of Ontario. Winning your group and the subsequent battles in the semi-final play-offs was an achievement of which Peterboro might well be proud. While you were not successful in the finals the one goal down proves that you were real contenders. At anyrate you played the game, and there always is another season ahead.

Again, extending the glad hand,
I am, faithfully yours.
W. A. FRY,
President O.H.A.

IRISH TEA AT KNOX CHURCH SUCCESSFUL

The Canadian Girls in Training groups of Knox Presbyterian Church, with Miss Jean McCannon as president gave a pretty Irish tea, with musical programme, in the Ladies' Parlor, of the church last evening. The decorations were in seasonal green and white, and all arrangements were carried out by the girls themselves. The programme, in charge of Miss Mildred Hetherington, included two choruses by the C.G.I.T. girls, instrumental selections by Mrs. M. C. Mackinnon, the Misses Mildred Hetherington, Marguerite Wilson and Alma Gerrard, readings by Mrs. H. M. Hobson and Marion Armstrong, and vocal numbers by the Misses Vivian Miller and Doris Wilson.

THE SPEAKERS WILL INCLUDE MANY OF NOTE

Who's Who at the Coming World Missions Conference in Peterborough.

A GOOD LIST

The World Missions Conference, to be held in Peterboro, March 21st to 24th, is being held under the auspices of the Mission Boards of the various Communions. This makes possible an exceptional list of outstanding speakers, and furnishes an opportunity to the churches of Peterboro of hearing a number of the strongest and most outstanding missionary advocates. Among the speakers who will take part in the programme are:

Rev. J. D. MacCrae—The Dean of the School of Theology in Shantung Christian University, China. Mr. MacCrae is regarded as one of the strongest men sent by the Canadian Presbyterian Church to the foreign field. He has been a close student of the Eastern situation, and knows China intimately. He is a speaker of pleasing appearance, gracious manner and strong appeal.

Rev. Dr. James Endicott—is the General Foreign Mission Secretary of the Methodist Church in Canada. He is one of the foremost and most popular missionary speakers in North America to-day. There will be no dull moments while Dr. Endicott is giving his address, and there will be none who will not carry from the meeting a burning message.

Rev. Canon S. Gould—is the General Secretary of the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada. He served for a number of years as medical missionary in Palestine, from which field he was called home to occupy the position he now fills. He has made a number of visits to the Far East, and has studied carefully the situation in India, China and Japan. There are few speakers who bring a more forceful or challenging message than does Canon Gould.

Mr. W. H. Goodwin—is a successful business man, the head of Goodwin's Limited, Montreal. He was very prominently identified with the Laymen's Missionary Movement, and for years has been closely associated with the various departments of the missionary enterprise. He is a strong earnest speaker, and will bring at the laymen's banquet a stirring message to the men from one who himself exemplifies the truth he seeks to set forth.

Rev. Dr. J. Lovell Murray—is the Director of the Canadian School of Missions in which the various Canadian Mission Boards co-operate in the training of missionaries and missionary candidates. He spent a term in missionary service in India and a number of years as secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement of North America. He is well known as the author of a number of widely read missionary books, such as "World Friendship," "The Call of a World Task," the latter of which has had a circulation of over a hundred thousand copies.

Rev. H. C. Priest—is the Secretary of the Missionary Education Movement for Canada, the agency through which the Mission Boards of the various Communions are co-operating in connection with the World Missions Conferences that are being held in selected centres in Canada. He was for some years a missionary in South India, has served in the home pastorate, and for a number of years has occupied his present position as executive secretary in all such work as the Mission Boards can carry on co-operatively.

Rev. S. Soper—is a missionary of the Methodist Church from West China. Before going to the mission field he supplied for a time the pulpit of George Street Methodist Church. He has specialized in China on industrial mission work, and has a story of very rare interest to tell—a story that he tells with equally rare skill.

Dr. J. M. Waters—is a missionary of the Canadian Presbyterian Church from Central India. He has spent a number of years in Central India in medical work, and is among the most earnest advocates of the missionary cause in the homeland.

Mrs. J. T. Taylor—who will speak at the Women's Mass Meeting, is the wife of Principal J. T. Taylor of the Presbyterian Theological College in Indore, Central India. She has spent a number of years in India, and is one of the most pleasing and effective lady missionary speakers in connection with any of the Boards.

Rev. A. Lloyd Smith—who will speak at the Young People's Mass Meeting, is the assistant Home Mission Secretary of the Methodist Church, with an intimate knowledge of our Canadian situation and its needs, and an eloquence that makes his appeal irresistable.

Mr. Shiro Takizawa—is a young Japanese at present studying in this country. He has a gracious manner, a good knowledge of English, and a most effective delivery.

Dr. F. C. Stephenson—who will have charge of the exhibit in connection with the Conference, is well known not only in Methodist circles, but to very many in the other churches through his long and valuable service as the secretary of the Forward Movement for Missions in the Methodist Church in Canada.

In addition to those above mentioned, there will be a number of other missionary speakers in Peterboro in connection with the Conference, no less than from twenty to twenty-five being expected in connection with either the general meetings of the Conference or the Sunday services.

BRONZE ORNAMENTS.

Bronze ornaments should never be washed. Instead dust carefully and wipe over with a soft cloth moistened with paraffin oil, then polish with a chamois.

A CONFERENCE MISSION WORK IN PETERBORO

Similar Conferences Have Been Held in London, Montreal and Hamilton.

THE ARRANGEMENTS.

Arrangements have been completed for the World Missions Conference which will be held in Peterboro, March 21st to 24th. The local arrangements are in the hands of a strong committee representative of the various churches of the city, with Rev. Dr. C. W. Rose as chairman, and Rev. M. C. Mackinnon as secretary. Associated with the general committee are no less than six sub-committees, all of which are busily at work in their various departments, seeking to ensure the largest success of the gathering. The Mission Boards of the different communions are enthusiastically co-operating, and the conference will undoubtedly be one of the largest and most important missionary gatherings ever held in Peterboro.

Similar conferences have been held in London, Montreal and Hamilton with most remarkable success, the various sessions at each centre having been crowded to capacity and the missionary life of the churches aroused to a new enthusiasm. Indeed, at the closing meeting of the conference held two weeks ago in Hamilton, the spacious auditorium of the large Centenary Methodist Church was filled before the hour of meeting, and an overflow meeting, at which the programme was duplicated, taxed the seating of the Sunday School hall. A similar enthusiastic response is anticipated in Peterboro.

The Programme.

A glance at the programme, and the splendid list of outstanding speakers, indicate how it is that such enthusiasm has been aroused and such a response has been secured. The conference will open with a general mass meeting on Friday evening, March 21st, when addresses will be given by Rev. J. D. MacRae, Dean of the School of Theology in Shantung Christian University, China, and Rev. Dr. James Endicott, the eloquent Foreign Mission Secretary of the Methodist Mission Board.

Children's Mass Meeting.

On Saturday afternoon there will be a great mass meeting for children, when stories of "Child Life in other Lands" will be told by missionaries who have recently come from the field. Children, costumed in the native dress of the countries represented by these missionaries, will add much to the interest of this interesting session.

Laymen's Banquet.

One of the great features of the conference will be the laymen's banquet to be held on Saturday evening in St. Paul's Sunday School Hall. A strong laymen's committee, with His Worship Mayor Turner as chairman, have the arrangements for this banquet well in hand. The committee have been peculiarly furtunate in the speakers they have been able to secure for the banquet—Rev. Canon Gould, the general secretary of the Missionary Society of the Church of England, who has just returned from a visit to the Orient, and who is recognized as one of the strongest and most effective missionary speakers either in the United States or Canada, and Mr. W. H. Goodwin, a successful business man, the head of Goodwin's Limited, Montreal, who has been for years closely related to the missionary enterprise and who is in constant demand as a speaker at men's gatherings.

Sunday Services.

As far as possible, arrangements are being made by the respective Mission Boards in conjunction with the local representatives for visiting missionary speakers to be in all the churches of the city for at least one service on the Sunday. The ministers are being requested to co-operate by emphasizing world missions in a llthe services throughout the day.

Ministerial Conference

Monday's programme will open with the morning session devoted to a ministerial conference on the general theme of "Pastoral Leadership in the Missionary Enterprise," at which Rev. H. C. Priest, Secretary of the Missionary Education Movement in Canada, will lead in a discussion on "Developing a Missionary Mind and Securing Adequate Expression." Rev. Dr. R. P. MacKay, the honored senior Secretary of the Presbyterian Foreign Mission Board, will present the theme of "The Great Essential."

Women's Mass Meeting.

In the afternoon there will be a mass meeting for women, which will be addressed by Mrs. J. T. Taylor, who has spent a number of years in Central India, and who is a most effective speaker, and Rev. S. Soper, of West China, who is well and favorably known to many in Peterboro, having supplied for a short time, previous to his going to China, the pulpit of George Street Methodist Church. There will also be denominational conferences of ministers and laymen, at which the plans and programmes of the various churches will be discussed.

Young People's Session.

The closing session of the conference will be a great mass meeting for young people, the programme for which is of peculiar interest. The first part of the evening will be given over to consideration of "The World Call," when four seven-minute addresses will be given by representatives from different lands. The call from Japan will be voiced by Mr. Shiro Takizawa, a Japanese, who is at present spending some time in this country; that of China by Rev. S. Soper, of West China; the call from India by Dr. J. M. Waters, of Central India; while Canada will have her call sounded by Rev. A. Lloyd Smith, the Assistant Home Mission Secretary of the Methodist Church. To these calls, a five-minute response will be given and the meeting close with an address from Rev. Dr. J. Lovell Murray, so widely known from his connection with the Student Volunteer Movement of North America and as the author of a number of exceedingly popular and widely read missionary books.

Such an opportunity as this conference brings is a rare occurrence. All indications point to Peterboro being not one whit behind other cities World Missions Conferences.

A TIME LIMIT SUGGESTED.

Tom Moore, President of the Dominion Trades and Labour Congress, declared in an address at Ottawa the other day that the Dominion Trade Congress got through as much work in one week as the Federal Parliament does in six.

The Trades Congress President may be exaggerating a little in that statement, but there is no disputing this further declaration that from an efficiency standpoint the elimination of long speeches in Parliament is highly desirable, as it would enable the House to complete its work in two months instead of four and thus effect a considerable saving.

Mr. Moore thinks that speeches of from ten to twenty minutes would be long enough, and scanning the efforts already made by the members who have contributed to the debate, it must be admitted that anything worth while said by these members could easily have been confined to the suggested time limit.

Everybody in Canada but the members themselves seems to favour a cutting down of oratory, and surely there must be in the House many men whose business training causes them to lament the time wasted day after day in speech-making and to sigh for the British method which rarely sees anybody but a party leader exceed twenty minutes in addressing the House, while the leaders themselves very seldom require an hour to deliver their messages.

AN EXPENSIVE REPORT.

The famous Gregory report, comprising many portfolios of statistics and statements in regard to the Hydro-electric Commission in general and the Chippawa proposition in particular, has at last been filed.

Its findings are in the main a vindication of the Hydro system and of the Chippawa enterprise, and to that extent will do much to dissipate any doubts there may have been about these matters.

The feature that will cause the people of the Province to wonder, however, is the apparently excessive cost of this inquiry, which has now reached the total of $505,801.71, with a number of bills still to be settled.

For their services the five commissioners were paid a total of $104,680,00, while the engineers engaged in the inquiry drew the sum of $120,266.84.

With big totals for accountants' services, legal fees and other incidents, the cost amounts to over half a million dollars.

That is a record amount for an inquiry in this Province, and there will be a good many Ontario taxpayers who will doubt very seriously whether the report itself was worthy anything like that much money to Ontario.

No expense seems to have been overlooked, and the commissioners took two years to delve into the Hydro enterprises, with costly effect upon the pockets of the taxpayers.

A SENSELESS MANOEUVRE.

The workless harvesters and other unemployed in Toronto have been very badly advised in their decision to start out from Toronto on a hike to Ottawa to lay their grievances before the Government.

There is absolutely nothing to be gained by such a senseless exploit.

In the first place, the road and weather conditions condemn the hike to failure.

The unemployed would be simply attempting an impossible task to try to walk to Ottawa at this time of the year, and, in the second place, they would be no further ahead if they did succeed in marching their army to the capital.

The hike of the small band of returned soldiers some time ago demonstrated the folly of such procedure, for the marchers merely succeeded in causing considerable suffering for themselves and considerable annoyance and financial loss to the municipalities through which they passed.

There is sympathy for the harvesters who have been unable to find work, but no real friend of these men will stand by and see them embark upon such a crazy scheme as trying to march across Ontario at this season of the year.

They would have a much better chance by remaining in Toronto and keeping a close watch upon opportunities for employment.

THE HUDSON BAY RAILWAY.

A pet project of the Western Progressives is the Hudson Bay Railway, the completion of which every prairie member who takes part in the debate has urged as one of the essential undertakings that should not be neglected by the Government.

The only aspect of the enterprise the Progressive members can see apparently is that the Hudson Bay route would shorten by many hundred miles the distance between the Canadian West and Liverpool as compared with the present route.

The initial cost of the railway, which it is estimated might easily run up to $75,000,000, is ignored.

Furthermore, there seems to be no consideration given to the chances of a railway of this kind ever paying its way.

Few railways on the Continent are yielding even a small return on investment at the present time, despite the fact that they are operating under favourable conditions.

The Hudson Bay line, on the other hand, would be carried on under most disadvantageous conditions, probably the most difficult under which any transportation system has ever been called upon to face.

Canada has no money to throw away in dubious railway ventures, for her hands are full of as many railway problems as any country would care to undertake at the present time, and it is surprising to find the Progressive members vary their demand for economy with a persistent clamour that the Hudson Bay line should be completed.

SPEECHES AT OTTAWA.

Looking over the House of Commons debates as they come in day after day, one cannot fail to notice the similarity between them and the debates of a year ago or two or three years ago, says the London Advertiser.

Here is one speaker who starts in shortly after three in the afternoon, discusses Canadian history from the time of Confederation, turned to that fine old soup bone, the tariff, went on from that to a long talk about the way in which the election in his riding was fought—and wound up about five.

The next speaker started in to show that the present Government had inherited its debts largely from the previous one; he reviewed the way in which horses were bought during the war. After recess he went on about the position of the Maritimes, with references to England's attitude toward the north in the fight against the south over the abolition of slavery; then came the tariff until 9.15.

At that hour a westerner started to discuss conditions in his country, spoke on transportation and the folly of a tariff until 10.15, when the day was over.

There probably always will be speeches in the Commons, because there always have been speeches there, but to what extent have they a definite, formative effect on the business of the country? They do not change votes one way or the other. They represent a lot of action that is many times removed from being a positive force in the planning of policies and making more real and efficient the agencies of a Government in grappling with the actual problems of the people.

Running through nearly every speech is an undercurrent of justification for the past history of the party to which the speaker owes allegiance. That is why debates in the House of Commons have not reached a higher level or become a more potent factor in the making of Canada.

SUPPORTING THE FRANC.

A group of New York bankers has come to the rescue of the French Government by extending a loan of at least $100,000,000 to the Bank of France, and the franc has speedily responded to the support this loan has supplied. The franc opened strong this morning and the serious threat of collapse seems, at least, for the time, to have been checked.

The loan is obviously a strictly business transaction. Proceeds of the advance are to be used not only for direct purchases in the foreign exchange market to stabilize the national currency, but also to meet the sinking fund and interest charges of the French foreign debt. It will be secured in the usual way by the gold reserves of the Bank of France, and in case the French Government is unable to liquidate the advance at maturity (which is fixed at 12 months) this gold will be transferred from the vaults of the French bank to New York.

The immediate result of the issue will be the stabilization of the franc, but the offer of Morgan and Company will have a far deeper and more significant moral effect than this. Continual harping on the statement that the fall of the franc has been due largely to the malevolence of foreign speculators and the desire of Berlin financiers for revenge has somewhat disguised the nature and the predisposing cause of the spectacular decline. Basically, the fall was economic and not sentimental. It was the weak position into which the franc fell that caused the hectic speculation in the national currency of France and not, as some of the Paris writers insist, foreign speculation that caused the decline. Germany could have had no particular advantage in seeing the franc fall and obviously England was the last country in the world to hope that the bottom would drop out of the franc, as it had done out of the mark, even on selfish commercial grounds. The continued selling of French securities in Paris, which hastened the debacle, was merely the outward expression of timidity and nervousness which seized upon the small French investors when the franc slumped. These investors, concerned first with their own self-preservation and the safety of their savings, saw the drastic measures of taxation being pushed through the Chamber and they exchanged their French bonds for investments bearing interest in pounds and dollars.

The basic trouble with France is that her budget does not balance and that she seeks to make up the deficit by inflation rather than by taxation. Such inflation, as Germany has shown, decreases the burden of debt, but it increases expenditure tremendously. Inflation will, of course, increase the collections of ad-valorem taxes, but it is soon evident that expenditures under inflation rapidly outstrips revenue, and a budget which balances to-day with an unstable inflated currency may not balance to-morrow.

During the last four years France has borrowed enormous sums amounting today to about one thousand milliards of marks. France claims that her occupation of the Ruhr shows a credit balance after the year of 500,000,000 francs, but such a sum is ridiculously small when offset by the enormous amount of 118,000,000,000 francs that have been charged to special German account. If the Ruhr adventure shows a profit, it does so at the expense of a depreciated currency. Ever since the Armistice France has been balancing her budgets on the paper promises of Germany. She is beginning to discover that the amounts which she can extract from Germany will be small in comparison with the enormous sums which she has already spent so lavishly.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

One individual at least should consider the Gregory Commission a success. That is Mr. Gregory himself who was paid $26,000 for his services.

It cost Ontario over half a million dollars to find out there is nothing wrong with its Hydro system, as was generally suspected before the inquiry began.

The Belleville Ontario proposes a competition among the Ontario cities in the matter of low fire losses. There is a lot in the suggestion.

The Gregory report is not likely to be one of the ten best sellers of the month.

An explosion in a Detroit restaurant injured thirty people. It was not caused by the prices dropping.

The Toronto unemployed who are contemplating a hike to Ottawa had better wait until the warm weather. The roads are in no shape to warrant "hiking" just now.

Oshawa expects a population of 100,000 at the end of the next twenty-five years. There's no harm in hoping.

The Pittsburg financier who says the man who married five women and supported them all on a weekly wage of eighteen dollars a week should be in Germany helping to balance the budget.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, March 15 (Canadian Press). — Trade in cash grain in the local market showed no improvement owing to the dullness in export department. The condition of the flour market was unchanged. There was no change in the millfeed market and demand for rolled oats was limited. A steady feeling prevails in the market for baled hay. There was nothing new in the egg situation. A fair trade continues in potatoes. Butter prices scored a further decline of 2 1-2 to 3 cents per pound. Trade in cheese is dull.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 15 (Canadian Press). — Corn prices underwent a sudden tumble yesterday, largely as a result of liquidating sales and because of absence of the aggressive rural support which recently had checked declines.

Closing quotations on corn were heavy 1 1-8 to 2 cents net lower, May 77 7-8c.

Wheat closed unsettled at the same as Thursday's finish to 1-4 off, May $1.05 3-4 to $1.05 7-8 and July $1.06 3-8 to 1-2 to $1.06 1-2, with oats varying from 1-8 down to 1-8 cent gain, and provisions at 2 cents setback to a rise of 5 cents.

ODD ACCIDENT TAKES SIX LIVES

TSINGTAO, March 15.—(Associated Press).—Four men were roasted alive in a blazing coach of a moving train on the Tsinan-Tsingtao Railway recently. Two others to escape being burned leaped from the train and were killed.

The train was running at high speed when a carelessly dropped lighted match in a third-class coach ignited a can of alcohol. The accident happened at midnight and the resultant explosion covered sleeping passengers with the burning liquid. A stampede to adjoining cars ensued and in the crush of frantic passengers many were seriously burned and otherwise injured.

CHILDREN CRY FOR "CASTORIA"

Especially Prepared for Infants and Children of All Ages

Mother! Fletcher's Castoria has been in use for over 30 years as a pleasant, harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Teething Drops and Soothing Syrups. Contains no narcotics. We 23,000 Men

Present you the utmost in fine cars

THERE are 23,000 of us building Studebaker cars. Thousands of us are stockholders. All of us, after a certain time, get dividends on wages.

All of us, after two years, get vacations with pay.

The company spends vast sums on co-operative work with us. When we retire we get pensions.

So Studebaker cars represent the best that we, in combination, know how to offer you.

Our fine backing

Behind us is an honored name. For 72 years Studebaker has been the leader in quality and class.

We have $90,000,000 of assets. We have $50,000,000 in model plants. We have 12,500 up-to-date machines.

We have an engineering department which costs $500,000 yearly. That to maintain and develop Studebaker standards.

We subject Studebaker cars to 30,000 inspections. That requires 1,200 men. All told over 70,000 machine and hand operations are performed. In so many operations, though each one is small, there is a great opportunity for economies.

We have a $10,000,000 body plant, to maintain the Studebaker standard of coach work. There sons, fathers and grandfathers are working together, to build such bodies as Studebaker always built.

The open bodies are upholstered in real leather. The closed bodies in Chase Mohair. That is made from the silky fleece of Angora goats.

We pay for those extras — and others — out of savings. Building our own bodies saves you on some types up to $300 per car.

See how Studebaker gained top place

145,167 people last year paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

The sales have almost trebled in the past three years.

Go see the reasons. See the scores of extra values Studebaker offers.

We never stint

The rule here is to give the utmost in every part and detail.

We have 35 formulas for steel. Each has been demonstrated best for its purpose. On some of these steels we pay 15% premium to get the formulas exact.

All Studebaker models are equipped with Timken bearings. There are few cars in America, regardless of price, which equal ours on this point. In our Light-Six, for instance, we put more Timken bearings than are used in any competitive car, within $1,500 of its price.

We give unusual equipment. On some Big-Six models, for instance, we include two nickel-plated bumpers, one or two extra disc wheels with cord tires, a courtesy light, a motometer, steel trunk, etc.

How we do this

We give you these extra values through quantity production. We build 150,000 cars per year—more than any other fine-car builder. Our large expenses are divided by that enormous output.

* * *

The results are these:

Beauty, quality and luxury such as no maker can surpass.

Prices far below the usual. Our Light-Six, built by ordinary methods, would sell for from $300 to $600 more. Our Big-Six can be compared only with the highest-priced cars in the world.

Here are 13 models, from $1445 to $3665. Each of them offers scores of advantages over any comparable car. Go analyze the reasons before you buy a quality car.

A Nervous Wreck

Victim of Gas—After Endless Suffering—Turns To His Old Friend and Is Well

The Fruit Treatment "Fruit-a-tives"

One of the most astonishing recoveries that seems almost like a miracle, is that of Mr. James Dobson of Bronte, Ont., a prominent merchant, a mine owner and one of the charter members of the Dominion Stock Exchange, Toronto.

In 1912, Mr. Dobson was completely relieved of Rheumatism by taking the Fruit Treatment, after suffering for more than five years.

In January of last year, Mr. Dobson was almost suffocated by gas from a furnace in his house. He says, "I had blood tests, analysis of the stomach, X-ray of teeth, had eight teeth extracted and became a nervous wreck. Finally, my wife suggested trying our old medicine "Fruit-a-tives", which I did. Today, I weigh 189 pounds instead of 140 and am completely restored to health. In my estimation, there is no other medicine that will give as good results as "Fruit-a-tives".

Thousands and thousands of people, in the past eighteen years, have come to the same conclusion—that "there is no other medicine that will give as good results as "Fruit-a-tives"—for all troubles arising from a disordered condition of the stomach, liver, kidneys or skin.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the intensified juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes, combined with tonics and form a complete treatment in themselves.

If you are not well, try the Fruit Treatment. Your dealer has "Fruit-a-tives"—25c. and 50c. a box—or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

NATION NEARLY HALF MARRIED

PRAGUE, March 15.—(Associated Press).—Czechoslovakia is said to have fewer bachelors, relatively, than any other country in the world. Forty-six per cent. of the entire population is married.

WAGE INCREASE OF 6.2 PER CENT.

The Pennsylvania Railway Agrees On Advance to About 32,000 Employees In Train Service.

PHILADELPHIA, March 15.—An increase in wages, amounting in the aggregate to 6.2 over the present wage scale, for approximately 32,000 employes in the train service of the Pennsylvania Railway System was announced last night by the company. Agreement on the advance was reached at conferences between the management and employe representatives of the conductors, baggagemen and switch tenders.

Hon. Chas. Murphy Seeks Health in the South.

OTTAWA, March 14.—(Canadian Press.)—The illness which prevented Hon. Chas. Murphy, postmaster-general, from taking any part in parliament so far, may keep him out of the house for anotner month or six weeks. He leaves to-morrow for the south to recuperate and during his absence, Hon. Charles Stewart, will be acting postmaster-general.

RECEIVER ASKED FOR NEWARK CLUB

President Must Reply By Monday to Order Restraining Him From Selling Franchise.

NEWARK, N.J., March 15 (Canadian Press). — Application for a receiver for the Newark Club of the International League, and for an order temporarily restraining President Michael McTighe and his associates from disposing of the League franchise or any other club assets, was made by Vice-Chancellor Church yesterday by counsel acting for Bernard Moan and William Ashton of Baltimore, former owners of the club.

Monday was fixed as the date for Mr. McTighe to show cause why the order for a receiver should not be issued.

Vice-Chancellor Church issued the temporary order restraining Mr. McTighe from disposing of the club franchise

In the petition the complainants alleged that the sum of $50,000 which had been deposited as evidence of good faith by the new owners of the club, had been withdrawn within a few days and was not forthcoming again upon demand of the Baltimore men. They declared that the newcomers had not secured a playing field in accordance with their agreement and had not lived up to other stipulations in the contract.

SAFE FAT REDUCTION

Reduce, reduce, reduce, is the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, be slim, is the cry of fashion and society. And the overfat wring their hands in mortification and helpfulness; revolting at nauseating drugs, afraid of violent exercise, dreading the unwelcome and unsatisfying diet, until they hit upon the harmless Marmola Prescription, and learn through it that they may safely reduce steadily and easily without one change in their mode of life, but harmlessly, secretly and quickly reaching their ideal of figure with a smoother skin, better appetite and health than they have ever known. And now comes Marmola Prescription Tablets from the same famously harmless formula as the Marmola Prescription. It behooves you to learn the satisfactory, beneficial effects of this great, safe, fat reducer by giving to your druggist one dollar for a case, or sending a like amount to the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich., with a request that they mail to you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets.

BELGIAN FRANC NEEDS DEFENSE

BRUSSELS, March 15. — King Albert has accepted a request that he become a patron of a new league founded with co-operation of leading figures in all the Belgian parties and social classes to defend the Belgian franc against the operations of speculators. The organization intends to work upon the public mind by means of posters, literature and lectures.

HEALTHY CHILDREN ALWAYS SLEEP WELL

The healthy child sleeps well and during its waking hours is never cross but always happy and laughing. It is only the sickly child that is cross and peevish. Mothers, if your children do not sleep well; if they are cross and cry a great deal, give them Baby's Own Tablets and they will soon be well and happy again. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach, banish constipation, colic and indigestion and promote healthy sleep. They are absolutely guaranteed free from opiates and may be given to the new-born babe with perfect safety. The new sales tax will not increase the price of Baby's Own Tablets, as the company pays the tax. You can still obtain the Tablets through any medicine dealer at 25 cents a box, or by mail, post paid, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WAILS OF OPPOSITION

vatives with the Canadian Vickers Company after the election of 1921 for the construction of an ice breaker Mr. Lapoint, asserted that the contract was for $1,580,000; but that the ice breaker secured by the present government, including both original cost and repairs, had involved an expenditure of only $437,115.

Dry Dock Sites

He next dealt with the dry dock at Victoria, which, Conservatives had claimed had been started in 1911. Mr. Lapointe stated that what happened in 1911 was an application for the usual dry dock subsidies made by the Esquimalt drydock and shipbuilding company. Nothing came of the application. In 1914 the Dominion government had bought a site for a dry dock at Esquimalt at a cost of $346,221. This site was not suitable and is still unused. On December 24, 1919 a month after the election of Hon. S. F. Tolmie (Conservative, Victoria) another site had been purchased at a cost of $54,388. Up to th, time the present government came into office over a million dollars had been spent on the drydock and it was considered necessary to complete it.

Ordered Four Ships

As another example of the "crushing load" placed upon the country by the late Conservative government, Mr. Lapointe stated that four wooden ships had been ordered by the government and had cost the country a total of $644,059. Only one had been completed and that had since been sold for $22,000, while other materials sold brought the entire salvage up to $32,063. In this connection Ambassador Lapointe read a letter written to Dr. Tolmie by Hon. C. C. Ballantyne when the latter was minister of marine in which the minister of marine stated that he had always been against the construction of these ships and that he could have nothing to do with it.

Dardanelles Crisis

The minister of justice commented on the attitude of Mr. Meighen at the time of the Dardanelles crisis. Mr. Meighen, h, recalled, had said that Canada should have replied at that time "ready aye, ready," although the late Bona, Law had condemned the appeal to the Dominions as "more foolish than wrong." The minister congratulated the premier on his attitude during the Imperial conference in London last summer. Premier King had then acted as a true Canadian, jealous of the rights of his own country but just as keen a champion of th, rights of the other countries within the Empire. Mr. Lapointe dissented strongly from the view that th, decision of such a conference was binding on the parliament of any Dominion or of the United Kingdom . It was not binding where it affected fiscal policy or naval policy. It would be preposterous that the people of Great Britain should be bound to accept a policy which they might have rejected by an overwhelming vote. Canada would resent any such interpretation of the powers of the Imperial conferences and th, people of Great Britain had the same right to resent it as the people of Canada.

TRADE REPORT FOR THE WEEK

Not Much Change Noted In Wholesale and Retail Trade.

WINNIPEG, March 15 (Canadian Press). — The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association states:

Halifax — Wholesale trade normal. Retail business satisfactory and collections fair.

All your Blood must pass through your Kidneys

EVERY three minutes, all the blood in the body passes through the kidneys. They are the blood filters of the body.

Should the kidneys become clogged or inflamed, they cease to function and allow impurities to be carried back into the body. The skin then loses its healthy color, the appetite fails, and usually there is a dull or acute pain in the back in the region of the kidneys. Headaches, black spots floating before the eyes, puffiness beneath the eyes, swollen joints and burning urine are also symptoms of kidney trouble.

Should you have pains of this description, accompanied by lassitude, then you may be certain that your kidneys are not functioning properly, and you should at once take a simple and effective remedy to stimulate and correct their action.

Gin Pills will cleanse your Kidneys

Just such a remedy is Gin Pills. The ingredients of which they are composed get right into the little filtering tubes of the kidneys and cleans them, allowing the blood to flow through them, emerging pure and rich to re-vitalize the whole body.

Do not suffer any longer with your kidneys —get Gin Pills to-day and realize the benefits of a healthy body. At all druggists; price 50c a box.

CAVAN NEWS

CAVAN, March 15.—On Thursday afternoon the Cavan Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. F. M. Staples. There were fifteen ladies present. A very interesting session was held. There was much business to be discussed in connection with the sewing class to be held in May in Cavan Community Hall, also a discussion as to the feasibility of holding another bazaar during the summer months. It was decided to do so in June at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Sutton.

An interesting paper was read by Miss Lillian Syer on "Women as Citizens."

Miss McNeil demonstrated "The Boning of a Fish."

Lunch was served and a social time enjoyed over the tea cups.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Tinney on the third Thursday.

Ladies' Aid Social.

The social evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid will be held in the parsonage, Cavan, on Friday evening, March 21. Lunch will be served.

The programme will be put on by the Rev. R. T. and Mrs. Richards. Every person will be welcome. A small fee will be charged.

Boys' Meeting.

On Tuesday, the 11th, the Cavan Tuxis Boys held their weekly meeting. There were thirteen boys present. The business part of the programme was spent in deciding what should be done with the money made at their fourth annual basket social. After the business an hour of sports was enjoyed. Oakley Carley is Mentor of the Tuxis Boys and Rev. R. T. Richards is Supervisor.

Personals.

On Thursday morning Col. O'Dell, P.S.I., apid an official visit to S. S. No. 7.

Mr. T. A. Kelly was a visitor to Peterborough on Wednesday.

Mrs. A. Kennedy has returned to her home from Dr. Turner's Private Hospital, but is far from being fully recovered.

Died, in Cavan, at the residence of his son-in-law, David White, on Wednesday, March 12, 1924, Valentine Roan, formerly of Manvers.

Boy's Hand Injured.

On Sunday Wilfred, the little son of Mr. Ira Gillis, met with a painful accident. A horse that was loose in the yard stepped on his hand. One finger is broken and the hand injured. Dr. Turner attended to it.

Health—A Live Subject At Afternoon Teas

IT is under such circumstances that experiences are exchanged and women tell one another what treatments have been of most benefit to them.

It is a pretty safe guess that in these tete-a-tetes no medicine is so frequently mentioned as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and there is a very good reason why.

Any physician will tell you that most of the ailments which most bother women are are due to lowered vitality.

In these days of surgical specialists the operation is too frequently the first thing recommended whereas in many cases restored vitality would enable nature to restore the natural functions to the deranged organs.

Lowered vitality may come from the strain of irregular hours, loss of rest and sleep, too much excitement or worry.

It may also result from lack of proper nourishment, from over-eating or from sedentary habits.

When vitality runs low there is no end to the troubles that may arise and you are an easy prey to colds, pneumonia and all sorts of germ diseases.

Restorative treatment is demanded and because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has proven to be the greatest of restoratives of the blood and nerve force is why it is so greatly appreciated by women everywhere.

At this season of the year particularly, almost everybody is in need of such assistance as is found in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Put this popular restorative to the test when you find yourself nervous, irritable and sleepless or suffer from indigestion, headaches or tired, depressed feelings.

You will soon be convinced of its merits and will realize then why so many thousands of women find a joy in telling their friends of benefits received.

You will notice that while the price of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has been increased to 60c. the box now contains 60 pills instead of 50 as formerly.

Likewise Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are 35c. a box of 35 pills, instead of 25c. for 25 pills. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

LOCAL CHILD WELFARE WORK OCCUPIES A BIG PLACE IN CIVIC LIST

In Looking Over the Long List One Wonders How An Underprivileged Child Escapes the Public Drag Net of Social Paternalism—From the Well Babies' Clinic Up.

"We've had the Stone Age. We've had the Iron Age, and the Steel Age. And maybe we've had the Bone Age. But it seems that we're in now for a pleasant little session of the Child Age."—Quotation.

"I have black and blue proof that a good swift kick in the right time and place will give a barefoot boy a good lift."—Jack Miner, in the final paragraph of his book.

To anyone who is interested in the changing pendulum of public opinion and endeavor, it is quite evident that a very apparent trend in good works since the Great War has been that of child welfare effort. Whether in an attempt to wipe out from the minds of the new generation the memory of those harsh days or because the youth of the world fell in appalling numbers before the destroyer at that time, or because as so many authorities declare, the ravages of war breed a contradictory horror of cruelty in the minds of the following generations it is hard to say. At any rate, the child just now is getting an enormous amount of attention.

And the child offers a prolific field for uplift and welfare endeavor of many varieties. Possibly by reason of its accessibility and its inability to fend for itself, it offers a wide range for the social service minded man or woman. Even the modern child with its independent proclivities has a certain amount of parental control exercised over it, and it seems to be on the child, "privileged" or "underprivileged" alike, that community welfare organizations and private individuals expend their surplus charitable-minded energies.

A visiting speaker in the city recently put forth in their behalf, fifty per cent of the babies die before they are five years of age, and that thirty-three per cent of 'teen age boys die before their thirtieth year. However this may be, the child still continues to receive the major portion of the interest of many good people. The ordinary child in the ordinary community has about as much chance of escaping supervision of varied degrees as the Scriptural camel had of getting through the proverbial needle.

A birds' eye view of child welfare endeavors in a city like Peterboro reveals much. Pre-natal care of the child is a well-known factor in modern practice, and immediately after birth, the baby becomes the center of attention. In the home, their various whims and caprices are barometer for domestic arrangements, and at a specially-organized Clinic, a staff of doctors delivers lectures on their proper care and feeding and clothing and makes inspection of their small anatomies. Their weight is a matter for smiles or frowns, and their teeth form the subject of long an animated conversation.

For the children who unfortunately lack parental supervision of the proper sort, a substitute is provided by two orphanages. One of these institutions cost in the neighborhood of $4,000 a year to run, the other probably about the same amount. If the father is dead, and the mother comes within the scope of the Mothers' Allowance Commission, they become wards of this organization, whose workings in Peterboro cost the city during 1923, $10,630. Children of the deceased soldiers also get the benefit of pension awards.

When the children go to school, there is another sort of supervision, besides the mental one, exercised over them. Besides the regular lessons in curriculum, they are taught how to sing and to do art work. Lessons in cooking and sewing and manual training methods are given them. A school doctor at a salary of $1600 a year looks after their physical welfare, a school dentist at $1000 watches their teeth, and a school nurse at about $1200 supervizes their health generally. The dentist also has a part-time assistant who receives a nominal salary. Children's Hours in the local library are organized for story-telling to the smaller tots.

Another factor in the school life is the supervision of the Home and School Associations, which, in few instances, provide milk for the under-nourished, in one, with hot cocoa at noon for the pupils from rural distficts, all, when occasion demands, supplementing their clothing and footwear needs.

Bathing beaches for children, with attendant guards and dressing-rooms, are organized. Supervized playgrounds are a much-vaunted convenience, and at the Jackson Park Camp, maintained by the Peterboro Health Association 26 children were entertained last summer, at a cost of $1,095.

Women's organizations of every church in the city are constantly on the alert in service to needy children, and the Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A. alone spent over $1,000 last year in looking after the wants of dependents of soldiers, many of whom were children. The Salvation Army, the Big Sisterhood, the Business Girls' Club, the King's Daughters, the Graduate Nurses' Association, are among the societies who look after the wants of the poor and their offspring.

Civic relief to families of the city last year, the majority of whom have children, amounted to $9,919.

Two of the most energetic organizations are the Rotary and the Kiwanis Clubs, both of whom make a speciality of looking after children. The Rotary Club maintains a Boys' Camp at Clear Lake where 55 youths were guests last summer, in connection with the Club's own section of "underprivileged" boys, and the members act as Big Brothers to these boys during the remainder of the year. A survey of Crippled Children, with ameliatory measures in view, has also been made throughout the city by this Club. Christmas cheer is provided by both organizations, and by the City Fathers also, who, in addition to special grants to the Children's Aid Society, the Peterboro Health Association, much of whose work is done for children, and the Well Babies' Clinic, make a special grant yearly of $50 for Christmas treats for the wards of the two city orphanages.

The Kiwanis Club has done a great deal of excellent work in its warm-weather help in building up the Jackson Park Camp, and both societies make constant donations, along with private individuals and concerns, to the work there.

The four chapters of the I.O.D.E. make a specialty of looking after children and their needs. Assistance to needy families, to sick infants, education in night school courses for underprivileged boys and girls is a good work of most of them, they make constant donations towards the National Chapter's big educational fund, and three of the local chapters are interested in the adoption and education of two children in the Armenian home at Georgetown, at a cost of $1,000 for each child, spread over a period of five years.

The Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. make special provision for the social and mental needs of children, and the most enthusiastic members of the Social Hygiene Council now advocate the instruction of children in the vital facts of life.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Brought Relief When Other Medicines Failed

Port Mann, B.C.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was tired and run-down. I had headaches and no appetite and was troubled for two years with sleeplessness. I tried many medicines, but nothing did me any real good. While I was living in Washington I was recommended by a stranger to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am stronger and feel fine since then and am able to do my housework. I am willing for you to use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. C. GREAVES, Port Mann, B. C.

COULDN'T SLEEP HEART WAS BAD NERVES A WRECK

Mr. H. A. Reid, Upper Musquodoboit, N.S., writes:—"I am very thankful fro the benefit I have received by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

When I came home from overseas, in 1920, my heart was very badly affected by concussion, and my nerves were a dreadful wreck. I was very short winded, and could not possibly sleep at night, in fact, I was in such a condition I felt as if I did not wish anyone to speak to me. I thought I would try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and before I had taken two boxes I could enjoy a good night's rest as well as anyone.

There are lots of returned men who are suffering the same as I did, and I feel sure that if they would only try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills they will receive the same relief that I have."

EXHIBITION OPENS MONDAY

Leading men's organizations in Peterboro are taking a very active part in the preparations for the unique social hygiene exhibition, which is to be opened at three o'clock Monday afternoon in the Public Library Hall. Monday evening at eight o'clock the Exhibit will be formally opened by his Worship, the Mayor, and it is hoped Dr. J. W. S. McCullough Chief Officer of Health, Toronto will also be present. Dr. N. H. Sutton, President of the Peterboro Social Hygiene Council, under whose auspices the Exhibit has been arranged will act as Chairman. The Kiwanis Club are co-operating with special services on Monday afternoon and evening, when their members will staff the Exhibit and their members are particularly invited on this day. Rotary Club are sponsoring the showing on Tuesday.

The Exhibit which will remain open all week, and first three days for men and the last three for women, consist of a series of wax models from Paris showing the ravages of social diseases, beautifully portrayed posters depicting social, moral and physical health fact, lantern slides, moving pictures and daily health talks, all focussing on existing conditions of community health, and the ways in which these may be radically changed. The hours of the exhibit are from 3.30 to 6 in the afternoon and 7 to 9.30 in the evening. Dr. C. J. O. Hastings, M.H.O. Toronto in opening the Exhibit in Toronto said in emphasizing the value of this educational exhibit, "No parent can sit back and say this is of no interest to them. Everyone is vitally concerned to protect the innocent who suffer with the guilty So far the lamentable and costly penalties of ill-advised, ill-conceived mock modesty in the past have borne bitter fruit. Knowledge is a better way. Let women, as well as men, equip themselves with it and protect the child life of our country. Social Hygiene is just the science of right and therefore healthful living."

Other prominent speakers at the Exhibit when shown in Toronto were Rev. Father Minehan who spoke highly of the assistance of such a display to the Church. It made the people realize, he said, that the human body was the temple of God and that spiritual and moral teachings must go hand in hand with the teachings of science.

James Simpson, prominent Labor Leader, spoke of Labor's efforts to better conditions and especially realized the value of such an exhibit as no group in any community perhaps was so faced with the same necessity of exercising will-power and self-control.

Mr. H. W. MacDonald representing Canadian Manufacturers Association in placing the staunch backing of their organization in this movement, and said, "Apart from the humanaritarian standpoint, it is a matter of dollars and cents to the manufacturer. At one time it was believed that the direct cause of lost time in factories was due to accidents, now we have figures to prove that the great time master is sickness.

Mr. E. Chapman, Physical Director of St. Andre's College says: "In these days of sensational movies, divorce cases, and cheap literature, you must help your boy and steer him straight. Physical exercise through games, will do more to keep your boy morally clean than any talks."

Judge Mott also spoke highly of the exhibit and says child welfare pays whatever it costs, and it was a sound investment for every community.

Doctors will be in attendance at each showing of the men's exhibit and nurses during the women's showing to explain the posters, models and answer many inquiries made.

Free literature on this public health question will be distributed. This literature is from the Provincial and Federal Boards of Health and will be helpful to those wishing to know further scientific facts on this important question. Other literature bearing on various aspects of social hygiene and printed by Council will be sold at cost.

It is hoped that ever broad-minded thinking man and woman and boys and girls over 16 years of age will take the opportunity of spending sometime at this Exhibit during the coming week.

CAMPBELLFORD DRYS PREPARING TO FIGHT

Royal Templars of Temperance Intact and Other Societies May Be Revived For Prohibition Campaign — Town Has Been Dry Since 1907 — A Glimpse of Other Times and Manners.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 15. — The temperance forces in this town are already beginning to talk of organising for the coming plebiscite on the liquor question. At present there is only one organisation left, the Royal Templars of Temperance, one of the pioneer fighters for Prohibition and the one that 19 years ago conducted the first campaign for Local Option. They failed in that effort, but the cause triumphed two years later and Campbellford has been in the dry column ever since.

The Citizens' League and the Social Service Council, virile organisation where a necessity for their efforts existed, have been practically defunct since the last vote on Prohibition although individual members of the latter society did make some showing in the recent municipal election. Just what form the organisation will take for the coming struggle has not been decided, but one thing is certain—the party that deplores the fact that there is water, water everywhere and nothing else to drink, will not have a walkover.

Days of Long Ago.

The County of Northumberland has had experience with all forms of temperance legislation, including the Dunkin Act and the Canada Temperance or Scott Act. These laws were tested out and finally abandoned. The county, before the passing of the Ontario Temperance Act, was almost dry, every municipality having adopted Local Option with the exception of Cobourg and Hastings, places that proved themselves beyond sumptuary redemption. The latter town was for some years a thorn in the side of the temperance people of Campbellford, acting as it did as the supply depot for wet goods.

The Fight Here.

Seymour Township adopted Local Option before the town of Campbellford took the same course, and three rural barrooms were closed, one at Trent River, another at Hoard's Station, and the third at Meyersburg.

At that time there were five licensed hotels and two liquor stores in Campbellford.

In 1905 the Royal Templars conducted a campaign for Local Option, a majority vote only being required at that time The temperance party, however, lost out by a narrow margin.

The fight for a dry town was renewed two years later under different auspices, although the Royal Templars still took a prominent part. The Citizens' League, including all the church societies, was formed with Alex. Winter president and J. P. Best, a prominent business man here at the time, but now of Toronto, acting as secretary. The law had been changed so as to require a majority of three-fifths of the number of votes polled. By the narrow margin of 13 the temperance force won. An effort was made, but without success, to upset the election and the town has remained in the dry column ever since.

No vote to repeal Local Option was ever taken, and in 1919 and two years later the Ontario Temperance Act was endorsed by the voters. Whether there has been any change in the sentiments of the people will not be definitely known until the next vote is recorded.

A short time ago the temperance workers here invited Major Belford, M.L.A., to Campbellford to consult with the ministers and others in favour of Prohibition with regard to the stand they wished their representative to take on the proposed plebiscite. Major Belford was at the service of his constituents, but owing to the recent action taken by the Legislature nothing could be accomplished by the holding of such a conference.

The Ministerial Association meets on Monday when the members are likely to go on record on this question. The W.C.T.U. will also be a factor in the plebiscite voting.

TRADES UNION LAW ENDORSED

Amendment Aimed at Financial Support For Political Objects Defeated in House of Commons

LONDON, March 15.—(Canadian Press). — By a vote of 211 to 129, the House of Commons yesterday rejected the second reading of an amendment to the Trades Union Act of 1913, providing that when a trade union passed a resolution in favor of political action the members of the union desiring to contribute toward the support of the political objects in view should indicate their desire in writing, and should not, as heretofore, be automatically included as supporters thereof unless they declared otherwise.

Company Proposed to Mine Under Lake Bed.

LONDON, March 15.—(Canadian Press).—A British-Canadian group of financiers here proposes to form a company to prospect under the bed of Trout Lake, Ontario, in the belief that the vein which yielded such big results in the Keeley and the Frontier Mines will be found below the lake bed. The net working capital of the new company is expected to be £100,000.

Internal Bathing Removes the Cause of Painful Hemorrhoids in a Natural Way.

When the intestines fail to dispose of all waste matter properly and quickly, poisons find their way into the blood. This poison lowers the general health, causing hemorrhoids, constipation and digestive troubles.

Internal Bathing makes the colon, or large intestine, function naturally, thus the actual cause of 95 per cent. of diseases is removed.

Mr. A. N. Seeley, Cupar, Sask., writes: "I had been troubled with my stomach, piles and constipation for years until I had become very thin and looked 20 years older. A leading doctor in Regina told me that the main canal was badly ulcered. I gradually became worse, until one day, when purchasing a threshing outfit from Mr. Russell of Regina, Mr. Russell noticed my condition, and said: 'I can cure you. Get a J.B.L. Cascade.' Well, I did so, and the first night I used it I slept all night for the first time in weeks, and in a short time felt quite myself again. It also cured my piles, which had troubled me for years."

If you are troubled with constipation, don't drug yourself. Internal Bathing with the J.B.L. Cascade is the only permanent way. This wonderful appliance is the invention of Dr. Chas A. Tyrrell, New York. It is pleasant and easy to use, and will serve the whole family. It should be in every home. See the J.B.L. Cascade at Warne Drug Company, where it will be shown and explained to you. Ask for 32-page booklet all about Internal Bathing, it is free. Or write Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College Street, Toronto, Ont.

HASTINGS GOES IN FOR SPORTS

Baseball Team and Two Lacrosse Teams Decided -- Bill Clapper to Manage Lacrosse, While W. Wellman Leads Ball Players.

HASTINGS, March 15. — Hastings still intends to keep its name in sportdom. A baseball team and two lacrosse teams, one intermediate and one juvenile, will be organized here. Last year year the latter team won the District honours, and two years ago the Junior Lacrosse Team of that year also cleaned up the district.

At a recent meeting held by the Athletic Association, "Bill" Clapper, manager of this season's hockey team, was appointed manager of the lacrosse team. It was decided not to have an extra manager for the Juvenile team but to have an assistant, the latter to be chosen by the manager.

The secretary was instructed to write the following towns to ascertain as to whether they would like to form a Trent Valley League: — Norwood, Campbellford, Havelock, Peterboro, Madoc, Marmora and Tweed.

At the meeting it was moved and seconded by Mr. Wm. Spellman and Irvin Doonan that the Sweaters which were last year presented to the Hastings Athletic Association by Mr. J. J. Masterson, be collected in after each and every game during the summer and given to the manager.

The association has decided not to enter into the O.A.L.A. this year but all games will be played under the rules and regulations of the O.A.L.A. so that if Hastings enters into any of the finals towards the end of the season they will be prepared to do so.

Wellman Leads Baseball.

The electing of a manager for the baseball team took some time; three men were nominated, and a vote was taken resulting in the election of W. Wellman, who has been manager of other ball teams before coming to Hastings. Mr. Welman thanks his friends and made a few remarks as to his intention of playing the game.

The coach for this year appointed was Mr. Alex. Shand.

Walter Burkholder and Irvin Doonan were appointed as delegates to represent Hastings at the annual baseball meeting of Northumberland which takes place in Warkworth in the early spring.

COOLIDGE APPOINTS ST. LAWRENCE COMMISSION

Will Co-operate With the Canadian Commission and Joint Engineering Board—President Asks For Opinion on Advisability of Project at the Present Time.

WASHINGTON, March 14. — Agreement between the United States and Canadian Governments has been reached under which they will create "national" commissions to co-operate with the joint engineering board in planning the proposed St. Lawrence-Great Lakes deeper waterway project.

The United States' Commission, named last night by President Coolidge, will be headed by Secretary Hoover, and include William C. Breed, former president of the New York Merchants' Association; James E. Davidson, of Bay City, Mich.; James P. Goodrich, former Governor of Indiana; James R. Howard, of Chicago, former president of the American Farm Bureau Federation; James Noonan, of the American Federation of Labor; Stephen B. Davis, of Washington, attorney; Charles P. Craig, of Duluth, Minn., and an additional member to be chosen from the commercial community of the New England States.

Get Opinions First.

In appointing the commission, President Coolidge said in part:

"It is my desire that the commission should thoroughly consider the whole project in its economic and national aspects, should solicit the views of the various sections of the community; should be able to express an opinion as to whether or not the project should be undertaken at the present time. If this judgment should be in the affirmative, then I wish the commission to consider the formulation of such projects as might be submitted for international agreement on construction, finance and administration — all of which of course must be of a preliminary nature as a basis for formal negotiations with the Canadian Government and obviously subject to the views of Congress.

Long Treasured Hope.

"The project of opening the Great Lakes to ocean-going ships, and development of the great power resources of the St. Lawrence River on behalf of both the Canadian and United States people has a hope long treasured by many millions of our people and it is the desire that this matter, if it is sound and practicable, should be brought one step nearer to consummation that I am asking you and your fellow commissioners to serve in this matter."

The development of the St. Lawrence waterway as recommended by the International Joint Commission would make it possible for ocean-going shipping to enter ports on the Great Lakes and provide at the same time for the development of hydro-electric power at an estimated cost of $252,728,720.

CAMPBELLFORD CURLERS ARE STILL ON THE JOB

CAMPBELLFORD, March 15. — Yesterday two very good games of curling were played on the local rink. The best and closest game was between S. J. Moore's rink and R. H. Cole's, the former winning by the close score of 10 shots to 9.

W. Wiggins was the high man and his score was 16 which was 7 greater than his opponent, T. A. Brown. The personnel of the rink and their results was as follows:

W. Sarginson	G. Nicol
T. L. Diamond	M. West
L. B. Glover	A. J. Myers
S. J. Moore	R. H. Cole
Skip—10	Skip— 9
R. S. Southworth	T. S. Baker
P. J. Kelly	Jas Gay
H. Lowery	H. Denike
T. A. Brown	W. Wiggins

MACDONALD ON RADIO.

LONDON, March 14. Canadian Press. — A non-political speech by Premier MacDonald delivered at tonight's St. David's day banquet, at Cardiff, was broadcast clearly throughout the countryside. He stressed the view that nationality must be catholic, not exclusive, and that it found its best expression in education.

FATALLY SHOT BY POLICEMAN

Ottawa Constable Was Emptying His Revolver After Coming Off Duty --Victim Lived Few Hours.

OTTAWA, March 15 (Canadian Press). — Barry Wilton McLeod, 48, boarding-house keeper, was accidentally but fatally shot in the head here last night by Police Constable John Lynch, one of the roomers, while the latter was emptying his revolver after coming off duty.

McLeod died in a local hospital a few hours later without recovering consciousness.

Lynch, who surrendered himself to the authorities, is 40 years of age, a widower with four children, and served with distinction in the Great War.

THE ADVANTAGES OF "SEMI-TRIMMING"
The exclusive "Semi-trimmed" feature of Staunton Wallpapers gives them a distinct advantage over other papers. The selvage does not have to be trimmed off with scissors, straightedge, or knife. It is knocked off by simply rapping the ends of the roll on table or floor. This saves time and trouble, eliminates litter and muss, and ensures an evenly butted, perfectly matched job.
OUTSIDE your window—round your doorstep—and far beyond, on mountain, valley and plain, Nature is redecking all her world in a garment of fresh, radiant colour.
Keep pace with Nature—make your own immediate surroundings bright and colourful.
Wallpaper will do it.
Staunton Semi-Trimmed Wallpaper will do it quicker, better and at lower cost than any other wallpaper.
Exquisitely new—in perfect taste—the product of three generations of honest effort on Canadian soil. Ask any good dealer or decorator to show you the designs and be sure you see "Semi-trimmed"—then you'll save time, do away with half the muss and litter, and you can count on absolute satisfaction.

Ask to Hear an Orchestra Number
IF you would hear the greatest marvel of music, listen to a McLagan play a selection by one of the world-famous orchestras. Seventy, eighty or more instruments, each with an individual "voice" of its own, each playing its own notes—violins, flutes, clarinets, horns, harps, piano and all the rest—recorded by almost invisible indentations on a black wax disc!
What a tragedy when imperfect reproduction, false vibrations and needle noises add "blare" and jarring discord. What a triumph of acoustics when you hear a big orchestra through a McLagan!
Ask to see and hear the McLagan. It offers a choice of thirty models in the finest range of period designs in Canada.

WAR MEMORIAL PICTURES

A public exhibition of the I.O.D.E. War Memorial pictures was held yesterday afternoon and evening in the assembly hall at the Public Library. The formal presentation of the pictures to the Public School Board and the Separate School Board of the city was made last evening, by Mrs. E. B. Clegg, Regent of the 57th Chapter I.O.D.E., to the two Boards, which were represented by Mr. A. Mowat and Mrs. G. H.Giroux, both of whom made suitable acknowledgment of the gift. Mrs. Clegg explained the desire of the National Council of the I.O.D.E., in presenting one thousand of these pictures to the schols of Canada, to commemorate the valor and the part taken by Canadians in the Great War, and also to keep alive the memory of the part played by great Canadians in the making of the history of their own land. Miss Hewson of Toronto, here in connection with the Social Hygiene Exhibit next week was present, and also spoke briefly.

The pictures, large and excellent copies of paintings ordered by the Canadian government for the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa, were hung in the Library's assembly hall. Delicately tinted, framed in dark brown wood, with a wide inner mat, they are exceptionally good representations of the Canadians in action. The pomp and splendor of "glorious war" is not emphasized in any of the pictures. The only one that carries a hint of triumph is the presentation of "Canadians in Paris after the Armistice," where the massed troops are shown below the towering Ar. de Triomphe. The note of most of the pictures is one of realism. In 'A Mobile Veterinary Unit in France" is shown in pale hues that suit the subject, the dejected horses and men following the fray. Beneath the stark trunk of a blasted tree lies the body of a dead horse, while its weary companions go up a dull roadway. The mark of the destroyer is in the "Destruction of the Cloth Hall of Ypres," with the shattered ruins of the massive building standing against a grey sky, and there is the atmosphere of suffering in "The Dressing Station on the Field, Arras," where stumps of trees make a jagged line above the stretchers where bandaged men lie, with Red Cross waggons in the background.

There is an odd picture, "War in the Air," where the winged planes show through fleecy white clouds, there is grim fighting in a scene from the Sanctuary Wood engagement, that seem to follow logically the eagerness in "Over the Top," and there is vivid grimness in "Canadian Artillery in Action," where half-naked men man the big guns belching orange fire. "The Landing of the First Canadian Division at St. Nazaire," shows the gallant grey-green men at the side that subdues the brightnes of the flying kilts. A dark hued picture is "Night Patrol, with Canadian M. L. Boats entering Dover," where two searchlight beams pierce the dark sky above the white cliffs.

With the war scenes are various other interesting pictures, such as an excellent portrait of the Prince of Wales, a reproduction of the picture of Joseph Grant, the Mohawk Chief, "The Death of Montcalm," and "The Surrender of the German Fleet."

On the white mat beneath each picture is printed: "Presented by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire in memory of the Men and Women of the Empire who gave their lives in the Great War, 1914-1918," and inset in gold lettering on the brown frames is the inscription: "Presented to the School by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire in co-operation with the Department of Education, 1923."

Of the thirty-six pictures allotted to the schools of Peterboro, twenty-six go to the Public Schools of the city, and ten to the Separate Schools. The thirty six pictures sent here contained two sets, eighteen pictures being duplicated in the lot.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

March 17 is associated in most people's minds with only one saint—St. Patrick—but as a matter of fact it is the day also of St. Joseph of Arimathea, the patron of Glastonbury, many martyrs of Alexandria and St. Gertrude, virgin, abess in Brabant.

Primarily, however, it is Ireland's day. Almost as many countries arrogate the honor of having been the natal soil of St. Patrick as made a similar claim with respect to Homer. Scotland, England, France and Wales each furnishes its respective pretensions, but, whatever doubts may obscure his birthplace, all agree in stating that, as his name implies, he was of a patrician family. He was born about the year 372, and when only sixteen years of age was carried off by pirates, who sold him into slavery in Ireland. Here, legend says, his master employed him as a swineherd on the well-known mountain of Sleamish in the County of Antrim.

He passed seven years in this district, where he acquired a knowledge of the Irish language and made himself acquainted with the manners, habits and customs of the people. Escaping captivity and, after many adventures, reaching the continent, he was successively ordained deacon, priest and bishop, and then once more, with the authority of Pope Celestine, he returned to Ireland to preach the Gospel to its then heathen inhabitants.

The principal enemies that St. Patrick found to the introduction of Christianity into Ireland were the Druidical priests of the more ancient faith, who were exceedingly adverse to any innovation. These Druids, being great magicians, would have been formidable antagonists to any one of less miraculous and saintly powers than Patrick. Their obstinate antagonism was so great that in spite of his benevolent disposition, he was compelled to curse their fertile lands so that they became dreary bogs, to curse their rivers so that they produced no fish, to curse their very kettles so that with no amount of fire and patience could they ever be made to boil, and as a last resort, to curse the Druids themselves so that the earth opened and swallowed them up.

The greatest of St. Patrick's miracles was that of driving the venomous reptiles out of Ireland, and rendering the Irish soil, for ever after, so obnoxious to the serpent race that they instantaneously die on touching it.

This legendary story is gathered from the tales current still in the country districts of Ireland, and is only in its exaggerations different from the history of St. Patrick as recorded in the Catholic Encyclopedia. This work gives official recognition to Kirkpatrick in Scotland, near Dumbarton, as the birthplace of St. Patrick, and Downpatrick, Ireland, as the place of his death on March 17, 493. His parents were Calphurnius and Conchessa, the former belonging to a Roman family of high degree.

His Prayers Prevailed.

While Saint Patrick was fasting and praying on the summit of Eagle Mountain, or "The Holy Hill," this history recites, he was attacked by swarms of demons, which he scattered by ringing his sweet-sounding bell which he at last threw among the demons, putting them to precipitate flight and driving them into the ocean.

Following long days of intercession on the hill, an angel appeared to tell the saint that his prayers were heard, and the following concessions granted: Many souls would be freed from the pains of purgatory through his intercession; whoever in a spirit of penance would recite his hymn before death would attain the heavenly reward; barbarian hordes would never obtain sway in his church; seven years before the Judgment Day the sea would spread over Ireland to save its people from the terrors and temptations of Antichrist; and, greatest blessing of all, Patrick himself would be deputed to judge the whole Irish race on the last day. "Such," the history continues, "were the extraordinary favors which St. Patrick, with his wrestling with the Most High, his unceasing prayers, his unconquerable love of heavenly things, and his unremitting penitential deeds, obtained for the people whom he evangelized."

Legend and authorized history are agreed that St. Patrick was the great disciple of Christianity in Ireland, and both credit him with using the shamrock as a symbol of the Holy Trinity, and the triple leaf and single stem of the shamrock are still worn on St. Patrick's Day in remembrance of the Patron Saint of Ireland.

COTTAGE DISAPPEARED FROM WINTHROP BEACH

WINTHROP, Mass, March 15.—(United Press).— "Have you seen our cottage anywhere?" This was the surprising query put to the police here by Mrs. James Collins when she discovered that her six room summer cottage on the Beach had disappeared.

The cottage vanished during the blizzard that swept New England, this week and it is thought probable that it was washed out to sea. Mrs. Collins found her piano and kitchen stove further along the beach.

GEORGE STREET SUNDAY SCHOOL HELD A BANQUET

One Member Was Arrested Early in the Evening and Later Released.

Last night the intermediate department of George street Sunday School held their annual banquet, when about two hundred scholars, and teachers sat down to a splendid dinner provided by the adult classes and served by the Ladies' Aid.

Mr. Young was in charge of the programme and their was not a dull moment from the time Percy Hetherington was sworn in as "Sergeant-at-arms" and invested with all due pomp and ceremony with the distinguishing badge of office, until the evening closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Early in the evening Ernie Fowler was arrested for eating too fast and too loud and obtained his release after singing a humorous solo; while H. G. Walker was fined fifty cents for telling a funny story at Mrs. Young's expense.

The toasts to the Sunday school and to the C.S.E.T. and C.G.I.T. work were in the hands of the scholars; the toast to "Canada" was ably proposed by Reg. Storey and responded to by Mr. Jim Wallace, who was the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Wallace in a brief and witty speech spoke of the great possibilities that exists in Canada for every boy and girl who is willing to work and he gave his hearers some excellent advice on how to be a success in life.

A milk drinking contest was won by Jack Adair who finished last, and a biscuit eating contest by six of the teachers ended by Reg. Cuffe choking to death, while an exhibition of fancy shooting by Mr. Young convulsed everbody with laughter.

Mr. George Robertson the superintendent of the school who was responsible for the banquet was greeted with cheers and the singing of "for He's a Jolly good fellow" when he rose to speak.

Mr. Robertson spoke of the splendid spirit of co-operation which was so manifest in the school and thanked the scholars for their loyal support.

The orchestra was in attendance and the whole procedings were interspersed with singing led by the "Harmony Four."

The next banquet will be for the junior members of the school.

THIS SOLVES WOMAN'S OLDEST PROBLEM

Users of Kotex: Write Ellen J. Buckland for "Personal Hygiene for Women," by Doctor George H. Williamson. This is gladly sent free

A simple explanation of a recent scientific discovery

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Graduate Nurse

This is to tell you how modern science has solved an old problem in a new way.

It is a way which brings security, immaculacy, peace of mind to the world of women. It has been adopted by 8 women out of 10 in the better walks of life.

The best way to learn all about it is by actual trial, and this is offered free. Just mail me the coupon below.

The explanation

During the world-war a new surgical dressing was perfected—a product softer and more absorbent than anything before known.

These qualities were quickly discovered by the Red Cross nurses, and this new product adopted for personal use.

Now, under the name of Kotex, it offers protection, comfort and practical convenience to women everywhere.

Important facts

Kotex absorbs instantly, 16 times its own weight, and holds it. It is 5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton.

It is pure, white, compact and light-weight. It is most easily disposed of, in a way which prevents embarrassment.

Most important of all, it assures immaculate daintiness at all times, under all circumstances. Think what this means to all fastidious women!

Free sample proves it

The best way to learn what Kotex is and what it will do is to mail the coupon for the free sample. It is sent by return mail in a perfectly plain package, accompanied by a special book. This book was written by a doctor to explain the value of Kotex from a medical standpoint.

As I know professionally as well as personally the overwhelming value of Kotex, I urge you to accept this free trial at once. Your request will be treated in strictest confidence. Fill out and mail the coupon today.

Kotex may be had at all drug and department stores, in two sizes, Kotex Regular and Kotex-Super.

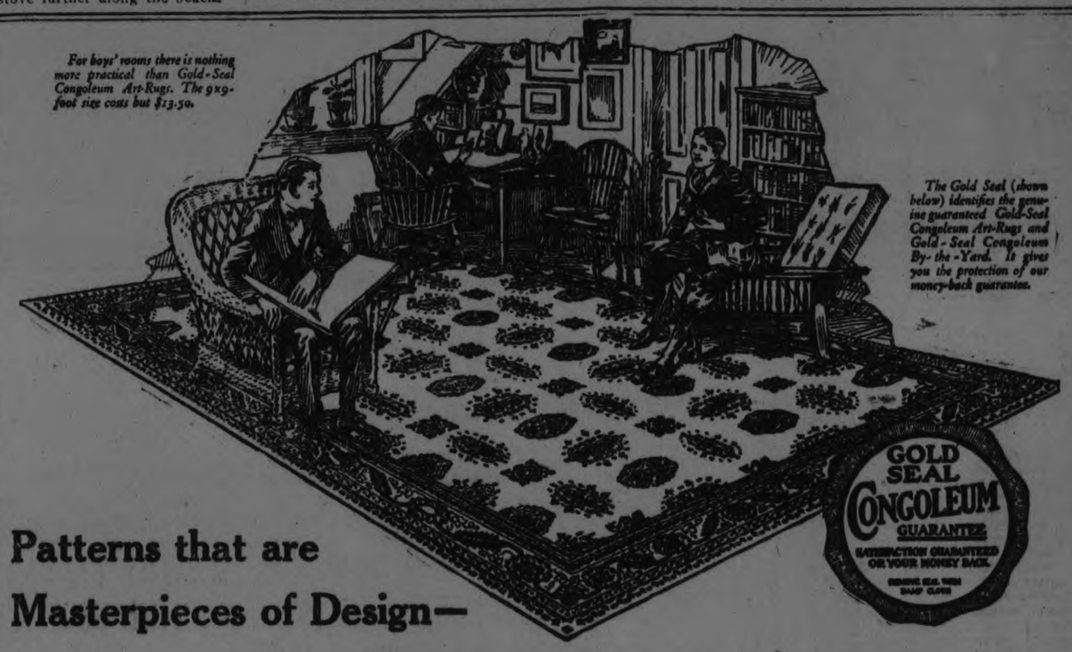
For boys' rooms there is nothing more practical than Gold-Seal Congoleum Art-Rugs. The 9x9-foot size costs but $13.50.



The Gold Seal (shown below) identifies the genuine guaranteed Gold-Seal Congoleum Art-Rugs and Gold-Seal Congoleum By-the-Yard. It gives you the protection of our money-back guarantee.

Patterns that are Masterpieces of Design—

The artistic beauty of Gold-Seal Congoleum Art-Rugs always amazes the person who sees them for the first time. They have rare harmonies of color, and their motifs are true to the best traditions of design. They are made in a variety of attractive patterns so that it is easy to choose a design to suit your taste in any room. And they cost so very little!

Practical—Easily Cleaned—Sanitary

The modern Canadian housewife finds many other qualities in Congoleum Art-Rugs: she likes their durability and waterproofness, and the ease with which they can be cleaned. A light, quick mopping removes in a twinkling any dust, dirt or spilled things and leaves the smooth surface spotless.

Lie Flat Without Fastening

Gold-Seal Congoleum Art-Rugs are made all in one piece—entirely without seams. They are easy to lay—no tacks, no cement, no fastening of any kind is ever needed. Just unroll the rug and in a short time it will flatten itself out and cling close to the floor, with never a turned-up edge or corner to trip unwary feet.

Beautiful—Economical

To appreciate these rugs you should see them at your dealer's. These newspaper illustrations can give you only a hint of their rich designs—and none of their justly famous beauty of color.

CHAPTER XIX.

A Sensation.

Virginia, lovely as a hothouse peach, colorful and blooming, held—literally and metaphorically—the centre of the floor at the Vansittart ball.

Men swarmed about her. Rafts of men.

She had a word for each and all of them. Gay tit-bits, flung apparently at random, but caught up by some eager swain.

"Reminds one rather of the seals being fed at the Zoo," said Janet Mercer, with grim humor, to her employer, who had paused for a moment in the doorway to inquire about Lucia.

Mrs. Vansittart gave a hearty laugh. "Apt! Very apt! Old Cumbermere, with his long drooping whiskers and lumbering antics, is exactly like a seal. She'll fling him another morsel in a minute. Watch him off the deep end!"

It was not an edifying spectacle...

"What fools women can make of men!"

Well, she—plain Janet Mercer, guiltless of art or camouflage—had never had that opportunity.

Not that she really wanted it. Oh no. She was a 'one man' woman. If Will Ogilvie defaulted, then she'd die an old maid.

But——

Wasn't it the irony of fate that women such as Virginia Dale—with nothing in the world to recommend them beyond an artificial sort of beauty, and a certain shallow wit—should be petted and sought-after and made much of, while the 'true blue' ones were overlooked?

Where was the secert of the 'drawing power' of women such as she?

With honest gaze, Janet fixed her eyes upon the siren. She disliked Virginia. But she would like to solve this problem.

Yes . . . Virginia was gay. S was laughing now, with an artificial tinkle in that artificial voice of hers. Men loved gaiety in a woman. Virginia understood that fact. It chased dull care away, and made them temporarily forget their business worries.

Virginia was amusing, too. She had an answer, pat, for everyone. Even if her 'digs' were sometimes rather broad, hadn't most men a touch of vulgarity in their composition, which respouded to the siren's 'kidding'?

And, oh! with what a heavy hand could Miss Virginia lay on the flattery! Becky Sharp, ferreting out the weaknesses of each male character she came across, and then 'playing up' to them and catering to them, was nothing but an amateur compared to her successor!

"Bold young man!" she was cooing now at Cumbermere, who would never see fifty-five again . . . and tapped him playfully with her ostrich feather fan.

Old Cumbermere felt devilish.

"If I were twenty years younger I would run away with you Miss. Jinny! None of these boys would have an innings!"

She flung a killing ogle at him.

"A man's as young as he feels, and I always did prefer men over thirty-five!" (By flattering implication she knocked twenty years from his age!)

"When I look at you, by jove! I feel——"

"Like you did the day your horse won the Kentucky Derby!" supplemented Bertram Traymore, impudently, annoyed at Jinny's lack of interest in himself. "You always do back winners, don't you?"

("Maybe a wrong 'un in this case!" thought Janet Mercer, grimly, in the doroway.)

The band struck up a tango.

Traymore bowed before Virginia, with an ingratiating smile. Here was his innings now. Few men could do that graceful dance with the measured perfection and the ease he had acquired.

He had a touch of Spanish blood in him. The queer, throbbing rhythm got into his veins.

And Virginia's court of swains and hangers-on stood back in a semi-circle, some to admire, and some to frown, and some to smile, and some to sneer.

Watching the couple—Traymore, supercilious and assured . . . his partner with her head thrown back and an ecstatic look upon her face—Janet could have groaned aloud for Prudence Page.

Prudence loved this Traymore fellow . . . this showman . . . this danding puppet of a man!

Where was she now? Janet knew all about the new blue frock, fashioned with oh! such loving care. She knew of Prudence's high hopes for the evening.

But where was the girl?

"Breaking her heart for a cad who isn't fit to tread the ground she walks upon," thought loyal Janet, with a little stab of pain and anxiety.

At that moment Mrs. Vansittart flitted by, pausing at Janet's question.

"The little Page girl? She's rather on my conscience! Haven't seen her in ages. Am afraid she succumbed to a fit of shyness, and ran off home! Poor child, in such a home-made frock! If I'd only known, I'd have willingly offered to give her one!"

"You'd better not." Janet reddened angrily. "Her family's poor, it's true, but proud as Lucifer. Prudence would have died of shame if you had suggested such a thing!"

But Mrs. Vansittart had flitted onwards.

"Where is the child?" puzzled Janet, much perturbed. She was very fond of Prudence, who, since her baby days, had leant upon the older girl's strength.

The tango had concluded, to the applause of the non-participants, and there was a sort of lull, followed by a buzz at the far end of the ballroom. A tall, dark, magnificently-built young man had just come in, and half the people in the room wanted to talk to him, to meet him, to shake him by the hand.

"Why, it's Peter Armstrong, the famous inventor!" gurgled a young 'flapper,' grabbing Janet by the arm, and pointing. "Do look at the pretty girl he's got with him! The woman-hater has succumbed at last!"

With a look that was half astonishment, half satisfaction, Janet saw that Armstrong's 'girl' was Prudence Page!

In Tomorrow's Instalment Prudence is Transformed.

FIREMEN HAD A BUSY TIME WITH CHIMNEYS

This morning the firemen had a busy time answering calls to chimney fires. They were called out three times. The first call was at 9.30 when a call was sent in from 314 Frederick Avenue for a chimney fire. Chemicals were used here, and no damage was done. At 9:35 the Chief answered a call to 338 and 394 Aylmer street. When he arrived at the scene he found some ashes burning in a box. These were extinguished and there was no damage. Again at 11:06 the light truck was called to a very bad chimney and over-heated stove pipes fire at 283 Stewart street. Chemicals were used and no damage was done.

EMILY TOWNSHIP HORSE RAN AWAY THIS MORNING

KINGS WHARF, March 15. — While driving in to Peterborough from Emily township this morning a horse driven by Mr. Patrick Perdue, ran away and was captured near Ennismore by Mr. Herbert Moloney. The pitch holes are very bad and while negotiating one of them the cutter upset, frightening the horse, with the above result. Mr. Perdue received some bruises, but Mrs. Perdue was unhurt.

Canadian Stock Exchange and Mines | New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

TO-DAY'S QUOTATIONS AND OPINION AND REVIEWS OF THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 15.—(United Press).—The weekly mercantile reviews were inclined to complain about the narrowness of the price movement in most lines and of the continued moderation of buyers in placing orders. But it was evident from their description of Unprecedented railway traffic, record structural activity in February and bank clearins running well ahead of the first two months of the year, that consumption is keeping abreast of production.

This prospect stirred up activity in representative industrials at the best levels of the week in the days early trading.

This weakness reflected apprehension regarding the safety of a dividend on 8 per cent preferred action on which is due April 1st. It is expected that the meeting will be postponed until April 15th for last year the company reported a deficit of over $1,000,000 in spite of the fact that tire consumption showed a substantial increase.

Another stock whose market was depressed by dividend fears was Coca Cola which broke to a new 1924 low at 63 3-4 an concern aroused by a slight margin over the $7 dividend rate left out of 1923 net profits.

Selling of the Industrials was checked in the early part of the final hour by the conspicious strength of a number of railroad stocks including Norfolk and Western, which was active at the best levels of the year, and Chesapeake and Ohio, which went into a new high ground on the present recovery at 75 3-8.

Steadiness in the steel stocks was another stabilizing factor.

The whole group was sustained indications of increasing orders the steel corporation having booked con tracts so far this month in excess of the February average of 51,000 tons a day.

BROKEN IN HEALTH

After an Attack of Influenza—Health Now Restored.

"I am writing to tell you what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me," says Mrs. J. H. Oulton, Firdale, Man. "A few years ago I was in a badly rundown condition, so much so that I was subject to fainting spells which would leave me in such a condition that I could hardly go about. Then I was stricken with influenza, which was epidemic at that time, and this still further weakened me and throughout the whole winter I remained in this condition. I was constantly taking doctor's medicine, but as it did not seem to help me, my mother advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I got a couple of boxes to start on. When these were done I seemed to feel an improvement and I got a further supply to continue the treatment. I took in all about a dozen boxes, and by that time I was in the best of health and had gained in weight. My faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is now unbounded, and I keep a supply on hand and take them occasionally if I am not feeling quite well. I often recommend them to others, and cannot praise them enough for restoring my health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are useful in all cases where the blood is thin and watery as their mission is to build up and purify the blood. That is why they give new strength and vigor after an attack of influenza, and it is also the reason why they are beneficial in nervous disorders, neuralgia, rheumatism and that condition generally described as "all run down."

You can get the pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WARLIKE TALK OF A WAR LORD

Admiral Scheer Rattles His Sword in Preparedness Speech.

BERLIN, March 15. — (United News.)—For the coming liberation we must fight as our forefathers fought a century ago, when they were fighting the fist of Napoleon."

That was the warlike declaration of Admiral Scheer, German commander in the battle of Jutland and now candidate for the preseidency, when he urged opposition to France in a speech at Weimar Friday.

He attacked the "unGerman spirit" that had prevaded the country since the revolution and declared that France was trying to enslave Germany as England had enslaved India.

The danger could only be averted he said, by the restoration of military service throughout the nation, combatting the "war guiltlie" and strict subordination to elected leaders.

It will be recalled that Admiral Scheer has been mentioned during the Ludendorff-Hitler trial at Munich as one of the persons who supported the idea of a triumvirate dictatorship in Germany.

MOULDY CLOVER KILLED CATTLE

Claims Dr. Moynihan of Federal Department of Agriculture on Receiving Report of Mysterious Disease in Campbellford.

TORONTO, March 15. — The "strange" disease which depleted the Holstein herd of Albert Stephens, near Campbellford, as reported in a Peterboro despatch is no mystery to Dr. Moynihan, district inspector for the Federal Department of Agriculture, who has received the report of Dr. Marriott. The eight cattle all died as a result of being fed mouldy sweet clover. The malady is not contagious and consequently there can be no epidemic, says Dr. Moynihan.

ALARMED MIXED MARRIAGE PACE

Bishop Takes Steps to Restrict the Number

NOTTINGHAM, March 15 (United Tress). — Alarmed at the preponderance of mixed marriages here, the Roman Catholic Bishop of Nottingham has ruled that no such marriages shall be performed at the Cathedral except those in which his own parishioners are concerned.

Last year there were 315 mixed marriages at the Cathedral, against 228 strictly Catholic.

"Carried away by the ardour of passion," the Bishop declared in a statement, "inexperienced youths and maidens are apt to be impatient of anything that may come to stand between them and the object of their mutual desire, but if only they would pause and consider, they would see that nothing is more sure to breed discord than disagreement upon so vital a matter as religion."

FIRST PARLIAMENT UNDER NEW REGIME

CAIRO, Egypt, March 15.—(Canadian Press.)— Egypt's first parliament under the new regime was formally opened to-day by Bing Fuad.

The streets were crowded for the brilliant spectacle of the Royal procession from the Palace to the House of Parliament.

Premier Said Szawloul Passa rode with the King in the Royal coach.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

CAN BE REDUCED—

Quite recently scientists made the discovery that a special tincture of garlic prepared according to their new method, had the effect of lowering the blood pressure considerably and if faithfully continued would finally eradicate the disease. This new preparation, called "GARLIXIR" H.B.P. treatment, is now obtainable at BOND'S Drug Store at $2.00 per treatment, with booklet of complete instructions.

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

Makes a family supply of really dependable cough medicine. Easily prepared, and saves about $2.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes 16 ounces of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptinese, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

SPRING BAZAAR HELD BY MURRAY ST. LADIES

A very dainty Shamrock Tea and Spring Bazaar was held yesterday afternoon and evening, at the home of Mrs. A. J. Madill, 606 George street, under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Mission Circle, of the Murray street Baptist church. There was a good attendance during the afternoon and evening.

A sale of home made cooking, candy, and sewing in prettily designed booths, and a musical programme added to the enjoyment of the occasion. Decorations were carried out in the colorful green of the season. The booths were arranged with green and white paper and tinsel in a charming effect. Shamrocks studded the fronts of the small enclosures and green and white paper shaded the electric lights. The teatable was centred with a large silver basket of daffodils and arranged with quantities of green shamrocks. Guest were received by Mrs. Madill and Miss Mary Scott, president of the Circle. Mrs. L. J. Pettitt had charge of the programme, and Miss Florence Scott of the tea room. The sewing sale was supervised by Mrs. R. Gavine and Miss Sadie Garrett; the cooking sale by Mrs. W. aBrringer and Mrs. L. Smith; and Miss Sarah Eastwod had the sale of the home-made candy. Tea was poured by Mrs. C. W. Rose, assisted in the afternoon by Mrs. J. Wearing, Mrs. M. Cheu, Mrs. L. J. Pettit and Miss Frances Routley and in the evening by the Misses Evelyn Rose, Louise White, Constance Lewis, Aileen Morgan and Olive Doughty. A very enjoyable musical programme included vocal solos by Miss Florence Scott and Dr. S. J. Graham, a piano duet by Miss Constance Lewis and Miss Evelyn Rose, a piano solo by Miss Grace Reid, and a reading by Miss Aileen Morgan.

UNEXPECTED OBSTACLES IN WAY OF REPARATION

PARIS, March 15th. — (United Press).—Unexpected obstacles in connection with the plan for a german reparations bank will probably delay the completion of the report of the experts committee which is studying German finances.

It is now believed that it will be impossible to submit the report to the Reparations Commission next week as had been planned.

It is denied that there is any serious hitch in the experts plans, however.

MOTHER!

Baby's Best Laxative is "California Fig Syrup"

When baby is constipated, has wind-colic, feverish breath, coated-tongue, or diarrhea, a half-teaspoonful of genuine "California Fig Syrup" promptly moves the poisons, gases, bile, souring food and waste right out. Never cramps or overacts. Babies love its delicious taste.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has full directions for infants in arms, and children of all ages, plainy printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

EVERY MAN AND HIS Son, if any and over 16 years of age, should see the Social Hygiene Exhibit, Public Library Hall, on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday next week. Afternoon and Night. For Men only on those Days and Evenings.

GOOD ADDRESSES AT A "Y" SUPPER

How It Feels to Be Mixed Up in a Stone Fight in Korea,

At the regular weekly supper of the young men of the Y.M.C.A., held last evening, two very interesting addresses on the work of the Association were given by J. Brockman, Y.M.C.A. secretary in Korea, and J. A. Machado, of Ottawa.

Mr. Brockman, who has been located in Korea for eighteen years, states that the conditions there are much improved, and that the people are very much interested in the Association. He said that less than 50 years ago there wasn't a Christian in Korea, and that 35 years ago the missionaries were stoned out of the country. To-day most of the people are Christians. When Mr. Brockman first landed in Korea he started the Association in a very small and dingy room. He soon learned that the young men wanted a place to gather together and have a good time. Money was raised and a larger building was built. The only games that these boys knew of at that time was kite flying and stone fights. The speaker said that both old and young took part in these games, and that about once every ten days two villages would clash against each other in a stone fight that appeared to them to be good sport.

The Association first taught them to play baseball, and later football and other games. The first year that baseball was started there were 17 different cities entered in a league that proved very successful. To-day there are 2,400 young men belonging to the Y. M. C. A., and there are more joining every day. Everybody, both Christians and non-Christians, support the institution, and at addresses that are held on the streets as many as 7,000 people crowd around to listen to the story of Christ, which is the main subject. The only trouble is that there are not enough workers for the number of people, and the speaker said that before he left the members of the Association begged him to try and bring back one Canadian, who would teach them how to play different games and show them the right way of living.

Mr. J. A. Machado, of Ottawa, who has also visited Korea, China and Japan and observed the wonderful work that the Association is doing, said that nobody would believe how much interest and faith the people have in the Y.M.C.A. He said he visited many of the buildings in these places and found them packed to capacity with young men. Chinese people in this country seem to be a little backward, but they are very intelligent and have as much human nature in them as any other race. Mr. Machado said he had witnessed many basketball games, but that the fastest he ever saw was one played in China between two college teams.

The only kind of white people that these races have any faith in are the missionaries and the Y. M. C. A. workers. The greater part of all other white people there are mostly criminals who have been chased from their own countries and who rob and plunder these people every chance they get. Mr. Machado is very much in favor of trying to raise $3,000 between Oshawa, Belleville, Kingston and Peterboro to send another man to Korea to help Mr. Brockman in his work.

L. Brown moved a vote of thanks toward the two speakers for coming to Peterboro, and Russell Pogue seconded the motion.

The boys all assured the speakers that they would do their bit towards raising the $3,000 needed.

POLICE WERE CALLED IN ON HOCKEY GAME

BOSTON, March 15.—(Canadian Press.)—Police were called upon to interfere when spectators attempted to take a hand in the hockey game between the Victorias of Montreal and Boston College here last night.

Montreal completely outclassed local players by the score of 6 to 1. The game grew so rough in the final stages that the players and spectators exchanged blows and some one called the 'cops.'

STRIBILNG STILL LACKING KAYO PUNCH DOES NOT FIGURE TO BE EASY WINNER OVER M'TIGUE

BY JOE WILLIAMS

The Mike McTigue-William Stribling feud is to be resumed in the east this month and it is to be hoped that the citizenry, militia and Ku Klux Klan will be satisfied with one decision this time rather than three, as was the necessity when the two met last fall fall in Georgia.

It will be recalled that on the previous occasion Referee Ertle, an official of some standing in big league fistic circles, brokes all records for generosity in this respect by first giving the fight to McTigue, then calling it a draw and finally awarding it to Stribling.

Mr. Ertle is not miserly by nature and his associates feel that only the physical limitations of the struggle prevented him from giving four, or even five, different decisions. Low, guttural threats of gun-toting Klansmen, and the ominous glint of fixed bayonets have a way of upsetting a fellow.

Lacks Knockout Punch

Stribling hasn't been fighting so impressively of late to warrant the belief that he will exactly run roughshod over McTigue, who poses as the world's light heavyweight champion. To win the title Stribling must register a knockout, since no official decisions are given in New Jersey. The young Georgian, however, does not figure to score a knockout.

It becomes increasingly evident that Stribling is not a puncher, nor does he appear to be developing a punch. He hasn't stopped a really formidable fighter since he has been in the righ, and his number of knockdowns has even been meager. Stribling himself was knocked down by Norman Ghent, a second-rater, in Florida, and more recently he was beaten by Slats Slattery, a young Buffalo dockhand.

STRIBLING

McTIGUE

Needs Expert Handling

What Stribling needs is training under an expert. An old-timer like Jimmy DeForest for instance, would probably make a champion of him. Ma and Pa Stribling undoubtedly have the best interest of their boy—not to mention themselves—at heart, but they lack the experience and the background to handle him as he should be handled.

It is no cinch that McTigue, bad as he is, will prove easy for Stribling. When we say McTigue is bad we mean by comparison. The Irishman's greatest drawback as a fighter is his timidity. He knows his stuff, owns a splendid one-two punch and is an able man on the defense.

The first time Mike fought Stribling he had a bad hand. This time he will be physically right. Moreover, there will be at least one or two Irishment in the crowd who will not be altogether opposed to a conclusion favorable to the McTigue dynasty.

CAMPBELLFORD PLAYERS HAVE SIX SWEATERS

Hastings Athletic Club Claims They Were Loaned--Recover Three But One of Others Had Been on Hunting Trip

D IDN'T FIT ANYHOW

CAMPBELLFORD, March 15. — W. Wellman, the new president of the Hastings Athletic Association, was here yesterday on a still hunt for sweaters that were given, or loaned, to the six boys from this place who played with the lacrosse team of Hastings last season. Mr. Wellman located and retrieved three of the garments.

The Campbellford boys referred to were Jack Cowell, "Lefty" White, Jack Archer, Sam Flint, Percy Sanders and Victor Cochrane. They played for Hastings for the pure love of the game and without any expectation of reward. It is stated by them that the sweaters, worth about $7 each, were purchased for their use by J. M. Masterson and that they were to be their permanent property.

"Lefty" White, a featherweight, was given a sweater that would have been a comfortable fit for a man of about 200 pounds. After the finish of the season, "Lefty," with an eye to thrift, disposed of the garment to a prominent citizen who was leaving on a hunting trip. Mr. Wellman sought to recover this article, but the citizen refused to return it unless given back the money he had paid for it. The sweater has been in use all winter.

Out of the six sweaters Mr. Wellman retrieved three, Cowell, Sanders and Cochrane, turning over theirs. All the boys claim that they acted in good faith and that they understood the sweaters were gifts.

WARSAW WIN CASEMENT CUP FOR SECOND YEAR

Defeated Grove Team For Lakefield District League Championship — Score Was 2-1 With Deciding Goal In Last Minute.

LAKEFIELD, March 15.— The hockey season was virtually wound up last night with the final game for the final cup, which for the second successive year Warsaw won from the Grove school firsts by the score of 2-1. The goals were crowded into the last period and the play throughout was very even. Richard Darling found an opening through the Grove defence early in the third period but Rainnie put the school on even footing with the Dummer boys. With only a minute to play, Hilliard Darling scored the deciding goal. Although the penalties were fairly numerous they were only for minor infractions. The game was clean and very fast. None of the students was seventeen years old, while the Warsaw team is an adult aggregation. Their greater strength gave them the stamina that gradually wore down the school boys.

Warsaw was accompanied by a numerous band of noisy rooters who were joined by friends in the village. Most of the local spectators cheered for the Grove and were proud of their fine effort and good sportsmanship. The personnel follows:

Grove School — Goal, Griffiths; defence, Massie and Christmas; centre, Rainnie; r.w., James; l.w., Fawcett; subs., Little and Barnard.

Referee, Walter Jackson Peterboro.

Both goalers were often in the limelight, and it was their sterling work that kept the score down. The entire Grove defence played a splendid game. Rainnie starred at centre and Fawcett was good. Dutch Bell looked best of the visitors and the Darling boys were exceptionally effective.

Mr. W. H. Casement presented the trophy to the League winners, Mr. Martin Thurston accepting it for the Warsaw team.

President Won.

Harry Fitzferald restored the curling honors to the club presidency by trimming Vice-President Dr. Gibson's cohorts by the aggregate score of 58 to 53, as follows:

PROFITS DOUBLED.

CHICAGO, March 14.— Net profits of Wilson and Company, packers, for the year 1923, were announced to-day at $2,450,566 in a forecast of the annual statement to be issued next Monday. Sales were $300,000,000, which were $100,000,000 more than in 1916, the year the company was re-organized. Net profits for 1923 were double those of 1922. Current assets were cited as two times current liabilities.

MONEY BAGS STOLEN.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., March 15. — Armed bandits yesterday afternoon held up two clerks in the Saucon Valley Trust Company at Hellertown, four miles from here, and escaped in a green automobile with bags of money estimated at between $10,000 and $20,000 taken from a vault. A third man stood guard outside the bank.

BOWLING

STANDING OF THE CITY TEN PIN LEAGUE

The City Ten Pin League came to a close last night when the De-Laval took three straight from the Quaker Oats. The Canadian Packing won the league, but only after an uphill fight. They were given a great run by the Crescents, who finished in second place. The De-Laval was a good third.

The City Ten Pin League was a great success throughout and many a great game was witnessed. The bowlers all seem to have enjoyed themselves and the possibility of a new league seems certain.

The averages of all the players will be published next week.

Below will be found he final standing of he league:

	Won	Lost
C.P.C.	29	13
Crescents	28	14
De Laval	26	16
High Rollers	21	21
C.G.E.	20	22
Lawn Bowlers	19	23
Belmont Club	14	28
Quaker s	14	28

NEW LEAGUE FORMED

A new City Ten Pin League is being formed and it is expected that all the teams will be entered in time to let it get under way this week. Four teams have already entered and the remaining four are expected to enter the first of the week. A single schedule will be played.

So great has been the interest displayed by the bowlers that this new league was necessary. The boys still have in mind some of the great games that were played in Ten Pin League, that they are just raring to go in this new half. From all indications this new league should be a great success.

MERCANTILE FIVE PIN LEAGUE POSTPONED GAMES

Next week will see the completion of the Mercantile Five Pin League for the second half. Everyone of these games are important ones and will decide the winners of the second half. They will meet the Examiner, who were first half winners, for the championship of the Mercantile League.

Following are the games:

Monday at 8 p.m.—Merchants Press vs Western Clock.

Tuesday 8.30 p.m.—Wm. Hamilton vs Nashua Paper.

Thursday at 8.30 p.m.—Bell Telephone vs Red Ferns.

MERCANTILE LEAGUE

Last night at Solomon's Alleys in the Mercantile Five Pin League the Bell Telephone took three straight from the Examiner. The Bell Telephone color scheme of Brown, White and Gray was too much for the Examiner.

Good scores were rolled by the Telephon gang, Lush being high man with a nice score of 687 for his three games. Brown was next with 566. Lush had the high single of 266.

Following are the scores:

BAD BLOOD PIMPLES AND BOILES Banished By Burdock Blood Bitters

Miss Irene A. Matthews, Stayner, Ont., writes:—"I thought I would write and tell you of the experience and benefit I have derived from Burdock Blood Bitters.

Some few months ago I was troubled with bad blood which broke out on my face in the nature of pimples, boils and ring-worm, and I got so bad I really did not know what to do.

I was ashamed to go anywhere, and the itching and burning caused such a terrible sensation I could get no relief day or night.

One day a friend advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I used one bottle and felt quite a relief, and by the time I had taken 3 bottles I was completely relieved.

I cannot praise B.B.B. enough and I hope anyone afflicted like I was will get the same benefit I received."

Burdock Blood Bitters is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

DELANEY KNOCKS OUT BERLENBACH

NEW YORK, March 15.—(Canadian Press).—The sensational knockout streak of Paul Berlenbach, New York middleweight, was abruptly ended last night when he was knocked out in the fourth round of a scheduled 12-round match by Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn. Berlenbach's defeat, after he had hung up a string of 23 knockouts, came decisively and with dramatic suddenness to a crowd of 14,000, the largest that has packed the Madison Square Garden this season. A smashing right to the jaw after Berlenbach had twice been floored ended the battle in Delaney's favor. Delaney's victory came as a result of his superior speed, generalship and hitting accuracy. After giving ground in the first two rounds under Berlenbach's rushing but wild attacks, the clever Bridgeport boxer floored Berlenbach in the third round for a count of four with a right to the jaw. Berlenbach, badly dazed, never really recovered from this blow, the first decisive blow of the bout, and reeled to his corner at the bell. Out for the fourth round Berlenbach seemed shaky. He went down from a terrific right to the jaw, but staggered to his feet and received a rain of blows. He was out on his feet and the referee stopped the bout.

MRS. MALLORY TO PLAY FOR NORWAY

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, March 15 (Canadian Press). — Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, the former tennis champion of the United States, has consented to play on Norway's Olympic tennis team, subject to the approval of the French Olympic Committee.

Upon learning that Mrs. Mallory was barred from representing the United States in the coming Olympic Games because she represented Norway in the last Olympic Games at Stockholm, the Norwegian Tennis Association invited her to join the Norwegian team.

HOME MADE COUGH MIXTURE CONSIDERED BEST

Spreads Over Membrane, Soothes, Heals and Stops Cough Almost Instantly.

COSTS BUT A TRIFLE

Make your own cough syrup in two minutes at home if you want the best.

Simple coughs, or stubborn coughs, it doesn't matter which, this home-made mixture will stop them quicker than any expensive cough syrup you can buy ready made.

It's fine for chest colds too and for acute nasal catarrh.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one-half pint—that's all there is to it, and children like it.

Like a good thing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home-made cough mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

And remember—any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

OWEN SOUND HAS WON FIRST CHAMPIONSHIP

Held by Kitchener Last Night to 5-5 Tie But Won Round by 12 to 7

TORONTO, March 15.— (Canadian Press.)—Kitchener held Owen Sound to a 5-5 tie in the second game of the O.H.A. junior finals at the arean last night, but Owen Sound carry off the championship 12 to 7, having won in London 7 to 2. It is Owen Sound's first O.H.A. championship in any series, though the town has been represented by Intermediate and Junior teams in the Association for years. In fact this is the first time an Owen Sound team got as far as the final round. Owen Sound, though outplayed for the biggest part of last night's game, should prove worthy representatives for the O.H.A. in the game against North Bay Trappers on Monday night, and also if they win that game in the playdowns for the O.H.A. Memorial Cup.

The showing of the Kitchener youngsters was a surprise. They were conceded a chance to make it close for the Greys, but they gave a wonderful exhibition of checking, bottling up Owen Sound so that they could not get going at any stage.

HOCKEY RESULTS

Games played last night:

Junior O.H.A. Final.

LADIES' LEAGUE—Y.M.C.A.

The Rollers took the first two from the Blues in the Ladies' League at the "Y" last night, but dropped the last one. They rolled the second high score for the league to do it in the second game, when they rolled 702, and at that they used a dummy, but look at the other scores. Miss Burgess rolled the high single of the evening with 192.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND
THE DUMBELLS.

Capt. Plunkett's Dumbells, the shock troops of modern entertainment went over the top at the Grand at 8.15 last evening, assisted by a barrage of mirth and music, and by 11 o'clock every objective had been obtained and the ground won thoroughly consolidated. The spirit of our troops is excellent—Official communique.

In other words the Captain and his company of soldier entertainers have put over another big hit in their second edition of Cheerio, which, while retaining some of the most popular numbers of the revue, seen here early in the season, is practically a new production with a wealth of new songs and features. The Dumbells never seem to be at a loss to find something original and Cheerio No. 2 is another proof that the organization is in a class by itself along this line. There is variety and class and punch in the programme, not a dragging moment anywhere, and with the same unbeatable cast as on their last appearance at the Grand, the Dumbells will further tighten their grip upon the affection of local playgoers by their latest effort.

Capt. Plunkett's overseas orchestra is a big factor in the successful programme. Their half hour on the stage is filled with good things and there is a noticeable improvement in the work of the musicians. With the Captain himself wielding the baton and Teddy Reve at the piano, the orchestra contributes the famous "Pilgrims' Chorus" from Tannhauser, their own arrangement of the Barcarolle from The Tales of Hoffman, an effective rendition of the popular "I Love You," the jazz number, "Somebody's Wrong," and a laughable arrangement of "Coming Thru the Rye," with wonderful effect. Capt. Plunkett sings his two hits, "Come Back, Old Pal" and "Winter Will Come" during this part of the programme, and with brothers Al and Morley, scores in "Down by the Old Apple Tree" and "Little Red Schoolhouse." Jack Lougheed contributes an enjoyable whistling novelty and Jimmy Devon a classy dancing act as additional features of this big number. A new setting adds greatly to the effect.

Al. Plunkett has some new songs that are fitting successors to his earlier favourites. "She Must Be a Wonderful Girl" is an instantaneous hit and "Everybody Slips a Little" is put over as only the smiling Al could do it. In addition the favourite "Shuffling" number is repeated by request, with Jack Grace, Ben Allen and T. J. Lilly doing the pantomime.

"Marjorie," as charming and beautifully gowned as ever, sings "When the Sun Goes Down," "The Life of a Rose," and "Flirting," with the usual success. It is difficult to imagine a Dumbell show without Ross Hamilton, whose artistry seems to be steadily improving.

There is comedy galore with John Hogan, Stan Bennett, Jack Grace, Ben Allen and Pat Rafferty all contributing hugely to the programme.

Mr. Hogan's number, "Wait For Me," is a classic, his picture of the British Tommy contemplating a visit to Blighty being a piece of real acting that will remain in the memory when his song itself will long have been forgotten. He is a big addition to the Dumbell forces.

The "dark and stormy knights," Jack Grace and Ben Allen, have a whole flock of new jokes, some of them local in applictaion, and Bens' burlesque song, "O Sole Mio," is a real hit.

Pat Rafferty, the vest pocket comedian, scores in his two numbers, "Then You'll Remember Me" and "Tony the Gay Mountaineer," while his work in the skits is as funny as always.

Stan Bennett, in his usual "Archibald" make-up, got more laughs than ever, while his new song goes over big.

Gordon Calder's Annie number, which is the finale of the production, is cleverly done.

The whole programme is so full of successful numbers that it is difficult to do justice to them all.

Two skits, "A Life-saving Episode" and "Disorderly Room," the latter repeated by request, are most amusing contributions. John Hogan, Stan Bennett and Pat Rafferty are featured in both.

The best advice is to take advantage of the fact that the Dumbells are at the Grand again to-night. If you are a Dumbell fan you'll come away more enthusiastic than ever; if you haven't been one before, you'll be one before 11 o'clock.

AT THE ROYAL

BETTY BALFOUR IN "WEE M'GREGOR'S SWEETHEART" AT ROYAL MONDAY

Betty Balfour, the English Mary Pickford is with us again on Monday next at the Royal. Betty has 'caught on' and is easily the most popular of the English screen actresses. Ever since "Me and My Gal" and "Squibs" the Royal has had no trouble in playing to packed houses, whenever a Balfour film has been shown. "Wee McGregor's Sweetheart" gives this comedienne ample scope to show her talents. Most of the scenes were taken in Glasgow and the Scotch Highlands and it is said to be the best effort to date.

BOXING NOVELTY AT ROYAL ON MONDAY

One of the vaudeville acts at the Royal Monday promises to be out of the ordinary. Two French champions now touring Canada offer a novelty act, finishing with a 6-round exhibition boxing bout. Bobby Diamont bantamweight and Chas. Raymonde, featherweight. Still another act features Mlle Florence Mauclaire late star of "Houses of Clay" in a vaudeville offering entitled "Dance."

AT THE CAPITOL

JACKIE COOGAN COMING IN MAMMOTH CIRCUS FILM

Jackie Coogan is coming to town in "the greatest show on earth!" No, gentle reader, don't get excited, Jackie hasn't left the films to join a circus, but his latest First National picture, "Circus Days," which opens at the Capital Theatre next Thursday Friday and Saturday is a circus picture.

"Circus Day" is a free adaptation of James Otis' world famous story, "Toby Tyler, or Ten Days With a Circus." In it Jackie takes the role of Toby Tyler, who runs away from the farm to join a big tent show. His accidental rise from a vendor of peanuts and lemonade to the hit of the circus makes one of the best screen stories that has yet been given to the popular young star.

Several of the country's leading circuses wintering in California, were used in the making of many of the scenes and the "big top" atmosphere it is said, was never more faithfully registered on the screen.

A strong cast appears in support of Jackie. Peaches Jackson, a diminutive child actress, who portrays the role of Jeannette, tiny equestrienne, is to be seen as his leading lady.

Barbara Tennant plays the role of Toby Tyler's widowed moher. Cesare Gravini, who was the old musician with Jackie Coogan in 'Daddy,' is again to be seen with the little star this time as Luigi, an old clown who befriends the runaway lad.

In addition to "the world's fattest woman" and "the world's skinniest man," namely Nellie Lane and William Barlow the cast boasts such celebrities as Russell Simpson, Claire McDowell Sam De Grasse and De Witt Jennings.

The production, which is hailed as the most lavish in which Jackie has yet appeared was made under the direction of Eddie Cline.

"THE HUMMING BIRD" QUITE SOME PICTURE.

Gloria Sawnson in "The Humming Bird,"—a tuneful title—a colorful story.

It's a Sidney Olcott production for Paramount which opens at the Capitol Theatre on Monday. Miss Swanson is the star, with Edward Burns as leading man and Jacques d'Auray, Mario Majeroni, William Riccardi and others in support.

The story is an adaptation of the stage play by Maude Fulton. The star has the role of Toinette, a girl of the Paris underworld, leader of the Apaches, whose undaunted courage makes her a heroic figure during the dark days of the World War, when Paris was threatened with invasion. She falls in love with Randall Carey, representative of an American newspaper, this furnishing the motivation for the story.

Toinette in her dual role of the "Humming Bird" is a hunted creature. Every crime committed in the Montmartre section is credited to 'him,' for, to all but her intimates, the "Humming Bird" is an extremely clever boy. She is too much 'or the authorities, though. The girl does great work in enlisting her associates int, the service of France, for which she receives the pardon of France for her crimes and is decorated with the Croix de Guerre, won by an associate, unfortunate on the field of battle.

It's a great tale, this. And we've never seen Gloria Swanson to finer advantage.

SPORT NOTES

Radio fans last night received a ringside story of the Delaney fight at Madison Square Garden, New York City. Berlenbach's defeat coming on top of a long K.O. record, was one of the big surprises of the squared ring. Delaney, after a poor start, opened an offensive in the second and sent Berlenbach to the floor three times, from the effects of which the K.O. king drifted back to dreamland in the fourth round.

Peterborough started something last season with an entry in every series of the O.B.A.A. For this coming season other baseball centres are considering a similar baseball programme. St Thomas, one of the big noises in Western Ontario, will attempt to make the grade

It has been arranged to call a gathering of baseball enthusiasts for next Thursday night to talk over plans for the coming season, and newcomers should be represented at this meeting An early start at organisation is necessary, as there is a vast amount of work to be done.

Ed. Dugan is giving his assistance to the Boxing Committee, and will referee several of the bouts on Monday night's card. There will be at least two boxers from St. Helen's Club, Toronto, on the out of eight bouts. Judging by the speed Joe Jordan is showing in his work-outs, his bout with Al. Willianis promises to be a hummer for action.

Harvey Smith, another shifty boxer who has yet to be extended, will be seen in one of the main bouts.

STANLEY CUP GAMES TO START NEXT WEEK

MONTREAL, March 15.—(Canadian Press.) — Managing Director Leo Dandurand of Canadiens, champions of the National Hockey League, confirmed this morning that the Stanley Cup series would be played here between Canadiens, Calgary and Vancouver.

The first series will be played on Tuesday and Thursday of next week between Canadiens and one of the western teams, and providing a third game was necessary it would be played Saturday.

If a third game was not necessary the second series would commence Saturday between the winner of the first series and the second western team, and the second game of that series would be played Monday.

ENGLAND 19, SCOTLAND.

LONDON, March 15.—(Canadian Press.)—England defeated Scotland in the International Rugby fixture at Twickenham to-day by 19 points to 0.

The Whole Family Takes Them

Mrs. J. Lister Praises Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Ontario Lady is Enthusiastic and Gives Her Views About Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Ravensworth, Ont., March 14 — (Special). — "I strongly recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills and would not be without them in the house at any price. Both my husband and myself, also the children take them.

I have also taken your Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets with great success. I was unable to do my work or eat. After taking two boxes I feel myself again and have not been bothered since." This statement comes from Mrs. J. Lister, well-known and highly respected resident here.

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys, putting them in condition to strain all the impurities out of the blood. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets act on the stomach, giving it the strength to fully digest the food.

With good digestion and pure blood the body is in condition to combat the ills that daily make their attacks on good health.

Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets can be obtained from all druggists.

Y.W.C.A. WORKERS ARE VERY BUSY THESE DAYS

The little sewing rooms at the Young Women's Christian Association rooms present a crowded and animated appearance these days. With the manufacture in prospect of some 300 costumes for those taking part in the big Y.W.C.A. exhibition on the 2nd and 3rd of May, the sewing committees are busily engaged in preparation for the annual event, which promises to be as interesting as ever this year. So far, good progress has been made with the little white flannelette gowns, complete with soft hoods and tails, that constitute the 'bunny' outfits, and work has been started on the Dutch costumes, with cambric costumes of dark blue, scarlet patches and white scarves for the boys, and Dutch blue and white, with white, 'eared' caps and bright yellow neckerchiefs for the girls.

The programme for the exhibition of the 'Y' gymnasium work for this year comprises an entirely new group of dances and drills. There will be nearly 500 members, little and big, of the various 'gym.' classes, taking part. Swedish exercises, calisthenics, wand and reed drills, club swinging and interpretive dances will make up an entertaining evening, under the direction of Miss C. Littlefield, physical instructress at the Y.W.C.A.

The dances, which constitute much of the color and life of the programme, include a Sailor's Hornpipe by tiny girls, a stirring Cossack dance, a Russian Rhapsody, a Spanish number, in Rose of lOd Madrid, a children's dance, in Playtime, with skipping ropes and balls, Autumn Leaves, with the group of dancers in dresses of moss green and crimson, a Bridal Dance and a Magic Doll number.

JOSEPH FLAVELLE ON WAY BACK EAST

Sir Joseph Expressed the Unbounded Confidence He Had Always Had in the West.

WINNIPEG, March 15 (Canadian Press). — Sir Joseph Flavelle, of Toronto, who went West last Tuesday to visit Regina and Saskatoon, stopped off at Winnipeg last night on his return East

Sir Joseph expressed the unbounded confidence he had always felt in the West.

From long experience in the payment of interest and principal of farm mortgages, and the payment of advances to the farmers by the banks he believes the greater portion of farmers in the West was in sounder position than was generally supposed.

Many were much disturbed and angered in the low price received for the products they sold and the high prices they paid for the commodities that they bought, and not unnaturally were impatient and restless under such conditions.

However, he considered moderate to acute trouble was confident one of total, and that three-quarters of the farmers were without the pressing anxiety and many without any anxiety whatever, as to how to meet their obligations.

Sooner or later he believed the West would change from the country relying chiefly on one crop to the country depending for its rains upon mixed farming.

NO SURRENDER ON PART OF PROVINCE

Quebec Will Put Up Fight for St. Lawrence Power Right.

QUEBEC, March 15.—There will be no surrender on the part of the Province of Quebec in the matter of its rights over the St. Lawrence river, Premier Taschereau told the Legislative Assembly last evening when the motion was being debated in regard to development of the river for electric power. The water power, which belonged to the province, would be protected, no matter what government was in power at Ottawa, said Mr. Taschereau, since the province was vitally interested in the level of the St. Lawrence, which must not be lowered by one inch. If necessary dams could be built without lowering waters of the river. Very well, but that was for experts to prove first, but as far as anything which might effect the port of Montreal by any St. Lawrence project was concerned, the Premier said the Government would fight to the last ditch against any such eventuality.

"DUST OF THE EARTH" AT THE CONSERVATORY

Young Peoples League of Trinity Took Part.

The drama, "Dust of the Earth," presented in the Conservatory of Music Hall last evening, under the auspices of the Young People's League of Trinity Methodist Church, had a big audience for its production, which was marked with much appreciative applause and hearty laughter.

The entertaining little play, which has an element of mystery in its story, has also a great deal of comedy, which kept the watchers in constant good humour. Every part was well played by the members of the cast, stage settings harmonised well, the one in the first act depicting the exterior of Maple Farm Cottage being very artistic, and the costumes throughout were appropriate.

The Conservatory Orchestra rendered several well-played musical selections between acts.

At the conclusion of the last act, the members of the cast and assistants gathered together for the singing of the National Anthem, prior to which Mrs. Morley Lyle and Miss Flossie Derry were the recipients of bouquets of carnations, little Miss Helena Brown, very daintily attired, make the presentation. The two ladies played a large part in the success of the drama, by their untiring assistance, in a little play which made a name for the Trinity Dramatic Club, as evidenced by the hearty applause of a pleased audience last evening.

Furniture used in the various scenes was loaned by Messrs. McBride & Franks.

The drama, in four acts, had the following cast:

D. Fleming, as David Moore, of Maple Farm Cottage; Mrs. Geo. H. King, as Susan Moore, his wife; Miss Mabel Carter, as Elizabeth, their daughter; Gordon Ham, as Jerry, their son; Osborne Smith, as Rev. Dr. Templeton a young divine; Mrs. Waterworth as Miss Arabella, the village gossip ;Wilfred Derry, as Wandering Tom, a mystery; A. L. Lighthart ,as Mose, his companion; H. Langford, as John Ryder, master of The Maples; and Miss "Babs" Carter, as Nell, "The Dust of the Earth."

INTERNATIONAL BANK IN NEUTRAL COUNTRY FOUNDED AND CONTROLLED BY ALLIES AND GERMANS, PROPOSED

First Committee of Experts Recommend That German People Must Pay As Much Taxes As People In Allied Countries and Must Provide Reparations to Maximum Capacity, But Ruhr and Rhineland Industries Should Be Released From Allied Control.

MUST RAISE MONEY.

PARIS, March 17. — The report of the First Committee of Experts under Brigadier-General Charles G. Dawes, which is practically agreed upon by the experts though the working out of some details and the drawing up of the text may require another week, is based on these fundamental findings:

The German people must pay as much in taxes as any of the people of the allied countries. Germany must pay the maximum of her capacity in reparations. The German economic machine must be free to function under German control unhindered by any interference from the outside.

Minimum sums must be paid at once, or in the immediate future on reparations, these to be increased in in proportion to the revival of Germany's prosperity and according to her economic condition.

In order to put Germany in a position to carry out her part of the programme, which the report will suggest to Reparations Commission on the basis of these general principles the experts proposed to set up an international bank, to have exclusive right to the issue of German currency on a gold basis. The bank plan provides for the co-operation of the allies and neutral nations with the Germans in supplying capital, and in the management of the institution which is to be located in some country neutral in the late war.

To Stabilize Mark.

The capital of the bank remains to be fixed; indications are that it will be in the neighborhood of $400,000,000 of which ⅓ will come from Germany and the remainder from abroad Foreign subscribers to loans, to raise the necessary amount, oh to the capital, if final arrangements so provide, will be secured by a lien on Germany's productive monopolies.

The setting up of a bank of issue, is expected not only to assure stability of the mark, but also to furnish a flexible medium through which reparations payments may be effected, without resorting to the purchase of foreign money with marks, with the consequent risk of another depreciation in German marks.

The Reich is supposed under this plan to deposit in this bank the sums required to pay interest on loans and minimum reparation installments. The allies will be enabled to draw on the reparation fund proportionately to their percentages fixed at Spa. They may check out cash or draw checks payable for products imported from Germany on the reparation account. Thus the Reich may pay its obligations in its own money

Raising German Revenue.

....Monopolies and railroads are expected to furnish the revenue from which the minimum reparation installments are to be paid. It will be suggested that in case these revenues are insufficient at any time the balance must be made up by additional taxation. This proposition is based on the conviction of the experts that once Germany's money is stabilized she will almost automatically recover her capacity to pay something, and if the money is not forthcoming from pledges it must be furnished from the people's pockets.

The suggestion of the experts that Germany's economic machinery be freed from any interference from the outside means that the French and Belgians must hand over the administration of the Ruhr and the Rhineland railroads and abandon economic supervision of the Ruhr mines and industries. The experts will avoid the political aspects of the problem, and will omit any reference as to the merits of the occupation of the Ruhr, basing their pinion on the purely economic truth that if the Germans are expected to produce to the maximum they must have full and unhindered control of their economic system.

Garrisons to Remain.

The French and Belgians will be left free to maintain garrisons in the Ruhr oh immediate vicinity. So while obliged to give up actual possession of the pledges seized in January, 1923, they will be able at any time to put their hands on the Ruhr industries if Germany fails to acrry out the terms.

One of the most important questions treated by the experts is conthol of the bank and pledges that will give maximum security to the creditors of Germany with the minimum annoyance to the Germans. Representatives of the Reich in their negotiations with the experts demanded full and unqualified control of the bank, the railroads and the monopolies. The representatives of the allies insisted if they gave up economic conthol of the Ruhr they must have equivalent security in control of the bank of issue, the railroads and the monopolies. The experts hit upon a middle course, giving the Germans an apparently dominating position in the bank while affording an opportunity for the allies to block any policy that might be inimical to their interests or the interesst of other creditors.

Directors of Bank.

The bank board according to the plan, wil be made up of fourteen members, seven Germans and seven allied and neutrals, with a German president. The plans as drawn up provide that questions may be decided only by a three-fourths vote, thus giving an actual veto power to the allied representatives.

Railroad control remains to be completed, the indications being that it will be on the same lines as control of the bank of issue. In order to provide immediate funds which the Allies may have in hand in partial satisfaction of the reparation obligations, the exerts propose a ten billion mark mortgage on the German railroads, which would be handed over to the allies. The mortgage bonds would be divided among the allies on the percentage fixed at Spa, they would bear interest either at 6 per cent., as the expehts have recommended, five per cent. as the Germans demand, or five and a half per cent as a compromise.

It is hoped that the interest payments on these mortgage bonds would make them negotiable, enabling France, for instance, to realize something on them and relieve heh financial stress.

British Government Will Cancel Three' Hero' Grants

Annuity of $25,000 to the Heirs of Lord Nelson Likely to Be Lopped Off Similar to the Settlement of the Annuity to Lord Rodney's Heirs For Victories of Long Ago.

LONDON, March 17.—The Labor Government has suspended —or is on the point of suspending— three munificent allowances granted a century or two ago to as many noted military and naval heroes, whose heirs have since enjoyed them at an aggregate cost to the national treasury of about $6,500,000.

The first to be lopepd off was the grant of a $10,000 annuity made to George Brydges, Baron Rodney, commander-in-chief of the Leeward Islands, the admiral who triumphed over the French fleet in a running engagement ending on April 12, 1782. after three days' fighting off Dominica, in the West Indies.

The two other pensions which may be terminated similarly are grants of $25,000 annually to Vice-Admiral Lord Nelson, hero of Trafalgar, and his heirs, dating from 1805, and $14,400 annually to the heirs of Frederic Armand, Duke of Schomberg, ex-Marshal of France and English general, for his services under William of Orange as commander-in-chief of the expedition of Ireland against James II. in 1688, which ended with his victorious death in the battle of the Boyne in 1690.

Although during Stanley Baldwind's tenure of the Premiership the Laborites asked questions concerning the grant of $500,000 made to Field Marshal Earl Haig for his services in the world war, Prime Minister MacDonald's Government has not signified any intention of reducing the pensions of Lord Haif or other army or navy chieftains.

NOMINATE NINE FOR MAYORALTY

Oshawa's First Elections For City Council Finds New Citizens Apathetic — Aldermen in Three Wards By Acclamation.

(Special to the Examiner.)

OSHAWA, March 17. — With the general feeling throughout the city that the council as elected in January, with the four reeves dropping back as councillors, should be returned by acclamation, very little interest was taken in the nomination proceedings for the first new city council held here on Saturday.

When returning officer F. E. Hare, announced at ten o'clock in the morning that he was ready to receive nominations for the office of Mayor only five ratepayers were present in the city hal', and when the time expired one hour later only 35 were in attendance, while in the ward nominations for councillors the same lack of interest prevailed, and acclamations results in wards No. 1, 3 and 4.

Nine were nominated for Mayor as follows: William John Trick, Daniel Frank Johnston, Edwai Luther Vickery, George Thomas Harris, Robert Duncan Preston, Thomas Bertram Mitchell, Edgar Bradley, John Stacey, James Lewis Whattam.

For councillors:

Ward No. I — James Lewis Whattam, Robert Duncan Preston, and Ernest George Hart, who are returned by acclamation.

Ward No. II — Alfred John Craves Nelson S. Baird, Ormie R. Burns, Arthur John Gay and John Stacey.

Ward No. III — Edgar Bradley, George Thomas Morris and Daniel Frank Johnston, who are returned by acclamation.

Ward No. IV. — Edward Luther Vickery, Orra Malcolm Alger and Thomas John Sheridan, acclamation.

Ward No. V. — Herbert Peers Schell, Russell Clifford Henry, Edmond Jackson, Daniel Riordan, Geo. Traynor, William Peris Knight and James Lewis Whattam.

The city clerk announced to the candidates that they had until 12 o'clock noon on Monday to hand in qualification papers and if an election were necessary the same would be held on Saturday, March 22nd.

Street Railway Men Ask For Arbitration.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., March 16.— The street railway men here have applied to the Minister of Labor for a board of conciliation in their dispute with the Utilities Commission of Port Arthur and the Utilities Committee of Fort William. The men have named as their member of the board, J. R. Pattison, a well-known labor leader of Fort William and a former alderman. Neither city has yet taken up the question of appointing a representative, Mayor Edmston saying that they were awaiting word from the Minister of Labor.

CONCLUSION OF DELORME TRIAL EXPECTED SOON

Defence Wound Up Evidence Except That of One Witness Saturday—The Verdict May Be Reached Some Time To-Day If the Addresses to Jury Are Omitted.

CLOSING TESTIMONY.

MONTREAL, March 17.—Providing that the defence will agree to do the same, the Crown will omit the address to the jury in the Delorme murder trial, R. L. Calder, K. C., Crown Prosecutor, announced at the close of Saturday's session. If Alban German, K.C., and Lucien Gendron, counsel for Father Delorme agree to this there will probably be a verdict some time to-day.

Owing to the extreme care needed in preparing photographs and measuring scratches and marks on pistol bullets, the expert evidence could not be heard Saturday and court was adjourned shortly after noon. Mr. German made the formal declaration that the evidence as to facts for the defence is closed and that nothing remains now except evidence of ex-Captain W. A. Jones of the New York Police Department.

Mr. Justice Martineau expressed keen disappointment at having to adjourn so early. "I was prepared," said His Lordship, "to sit until 10 or 11 at night, even all night, if necessary so that the jurors could have gone to their homes."

Jurors Disappointed.

The jurymen too, looked disappointed, and Father Delorme seemed even more so that anyone in court. Mr. German explained that in view of the importance of the expert evidence yet to come, he felt it his duty not to declare the defence closed at this juncture.

Evidence heard at Saturday's session threw no new light on the murder. It was featured by the severe cross-examination by Mr. Calder of L. J. Lefebvre, a local lawyer who said he had changed a $5 gold piece for his Constantineau at Cote St. Michel on the night of the murder and that he had been told by the young woman about a customer whom she thought bore a striking resemblance to the victim Raoul Delorme. Asked to explain why he had not thought it proper to report such a serious matter when he knew that enquiries as to the murder were being made Mr. Lefebvre began a long explanation.

Lawyers Clash.

"Oh, don't make a speech," cried Mr. Calder. "I asked you a question and I want you to answer me. You are a member of the bar and you know this well enough, or at least you should know."

"I am just as much a member of the bar as you are, Mr. Calder," shouted the witness angrily. "I am not going to answer any questions put to me in that way."

"I want to know," said Mr. Calder, "how in the world you did not think fit to report this matter. Will you answer me?"

After a pause in which the Crown Prosecutor and the witness glared at one another angrily, Mr. Lefebvre said: "Nobody came to see me about this. I did not think fit to report the matter at the time.

The witness then made a lengthy statement to the court on the matter.

SLAYER IN "FORTUNE" MURDER EXONERATED

MRS. MARY L. HEATON

The widow of the slain broker, who was being trailed by private detectives her husband had hired. Heaton, in his fanatical state of mind, had accused her of intimacy with Gates long an intimate friend of both.

RICHARD H. HEATON.

The wealthy Lousville broker, who, according to police, spent approximately $100,000 and many month's time in planning the operation. Surgeons say instruments he selected were the best obtainable. And he planned, detectives say, to have burned the body had Gates died.

LOUISVILLE, March 17.—The coroner's jury in the inquest into the death of Richard H. Heaton to-day returned a verdict finding William Gates as the slayer and that the act was justifiable.

Gates killed Heaton Saturday night March 8th after the latter had held him prisoner for two days, during which time the captor prepared to operate upon his captive.

Mrs. Mary Leady Weisen Heaton the widow, was the principal witness. She admitted she knew of the plot to mutilate Gates and that in furtherance of his plan, Heaton had studied hypnotism.

Mrs. Heaton said her husband's threats to kill their baby kept her from telling of his plans.

Heaton was jealous of his wife, against whom, the authorities declare, his suspicions were unfounded.

William C. Gates was held prisoner in a "torture house" in Louisville, Ky. Bound hand and foot by strands of rope fastened to the floor by heavy staples, he saw his captor. Richard H., Heaton, wealthy Louisville broker, preparing to perform an operation that would have maimed him for life, if it had not brought his death. With almost superhuman strength, he finally succeeded in freeing himself, obtained Gates' revolver and killed the broker.

Heaton had improvised operating room which he had set up in the deserted house where he and his aides led Gates. Doctors believe the instruments were selected by someone familiar with every phase of modern gland surgery.

WILLIAM C. GATES.

FISHER BODY PLANT OPENS

Many of the Thousand Men Formerly Employed In Walkerville Shops Notified of Re-employment Starting March 24.

WINDSOR, Ont., March 17.—(Canadian Press).—The plant of the Fisher Body Company at Walkerville, which employed 1,000 men and was closed March 1, is to re-open March 24, according to a statement given out late Saturday by officials of the General Motors Corporation at Detroit.

The plant was closed on the opening of the new body plant of the Ford Motor Company of Canada. All employees were dismissed, about 500 later being taken on the force of the Fisher plant in Detroit. Although the Ford Company will manufacture their own bodies in future, the Fisher plant will have sufficient work for cars shipped abroad to warrant re-opening the Walkerville plant, the officials said.

Many of the men formerly employed in the Walkerville factory will be given notice during this week that they will be employed.

In general, air, like water or any other fluid, will flow from a region of higher pressure toward one of lower pressure.

FOUR KILLED IN CAR COLLISION

Automobile Struck By Interurban Car Near Detroit—Bodies Wedged In Wreckage.

DETROIT, Mich., March 17. — Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Moulton of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Mills, of Windsor, Ont., were killed here late Saturday when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by an interurban car at Michigan Avenue and Telegraph Road, just beyond Dearborn, a suburb. Mr. and Mrs. Moulton came here aobut two months ago from London, Ont.

Witnesses of the accident said the automobile, northbound on Telegraph Road, came into Michigan Avenue and swung across to the car tracks on the north side of the road, striking the interurban head-on. The bodies were wedged in the wreckage of the automobile between a telegraph pole and the interurban car.

PRISON FOR THE DEATH SPEEDER

Pennsylvanian Who Killed Woman Gets Six-Year Maximum

PHILADELPHIA, March 17.—John J. Speckhart of Phoenixville, Pa., was adjudged guilty of second degree murder for running down and killing in his automobile on Nov. 4, Miss Marietta O'Donnell of this city, as she was leaving church.

Judge McPherson, in sentencing Speckart to from three to six years in the Eastern State Penitentiary, said testimony introduced to show reckless disreard of the safety of others by Speckhart was sufficient to sustain implied malice.

Depot For Aviators In South-Eastern Alaska.

CORDOVA, Alaska, March 16.—Prearations have been made at Yukatat, south-eastern Alaska, for a supply depot for the British aviators who will attemtp to encircle the globe, according to word received here. The Canadian Government steamer Thiepval will leave for Chagnik, south of the Alaskan Peninsula, to-day, the message staed.

The term cyclone was first applied to storms about the middle of the 19th century, after they were found to be circular in form.

Fermentation Is "An Act of God"

PHILADELPHIA, March 17.—The question of whether grape juice that ferments, thereby producing a beverage of 8 per cent. alcoholic content, is wine came up in court here in the condemnation case of the Commonwealth against Paul Goldstein, accused of being the owner of the grape juice.

"Fermentation is a process of nature and an act of God," Judge Bartlett said.

"My impression of the Volstead act," the Court continued, is that a person can have wine in his possession and can manufacture fruit juices just as a person can give a drink of liquor to a friend in his own house, notwithstanding that the present Administration says he cannot."

Judge Bartlett ordered counsel for both sides to present briefs.

GRAIN RECEIPTS EQUAL SHIPMENTS

Steady Movement at Fort William—Marketing In West More Active Than Last Year.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., March 16.—The majority of the elevators at the head of the lakes are at present just taking in grain as it is shipped out, the increase in total stocks Saturday here being 850,000 bushels, which is more than accounted for by the placing in commission of the wooden elevators, "A" and "C," which now have a million and a quarter bushels in their bins. Rail shipments of wheat were a little less than half a million bushels, and a little over a half million were taken in and a slight increase in all coarse grains was made, with the exception of flax, of which two thousand bushels more were shipped than were received.

The total grain in store, including that afloat here, is just in excess of 61,000,000 bushels.

Up to February 29, 1924, there had been marketed in the West 358,476,316 bushels of wheat, as compared with 277,730,444 bushels on February 28, 1923. Marketing in the west is much more active than it was a year ago, the February inspections of all grains totalling 18,130 cars, while in the corresponding month of last year there were only 6,236 cars inspected. As a result of the congestion in the elevators, the local vards are being filled with laoded cars.

FEAR GENERAL STRIKE COMING IN COAL FIELD.

OTTAWA DEBATE PROBABLY ENDS TUESDAY NIGHT

With No Further Conservative Amendments to the Address From the Throne, Liberals and Progressives Are Expected to Unite In the Division.

BUDGET IS NEXT.

OTTAWA, March 17.—(Canadian Press).—Debate on the address in the House entered today on its last phase. From time to time there has been talk of further Conservative amendments but it is now expected that the end of the debate will come on Tuesday night. Unless there be unforseen developments Liberals and Progressives will unite to vote down the Conservative amendment and in adopting the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

With the end of the debate on the address, estimates will be brought down and the House tackle the serious business of the session. From indications in the speech from the Throne and elsewhere the estimates are likely to show some sweeping reductions in proposed expenditures for the coming financial year. Departments, it was stated, had been notified to prune down as much as possible. In addition for several weeks before the opening of the session, the estimates were before meeting after meeting of the Cabinet Council in an endeavor to prune still further. The estimates are now ready for submission to the House, it is intimated, and will probably be brought down on Wednesday afternoon.

Interest in Budget

The story of the estimates, when revealed to the House, should be one of interest. But of even greater interest will be that of the Budget in which Hon. J. A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance, will tell how and where the Government proposes to raise its revenue. The Budget seems likely to be brought down this year earlier in the session than is usual. It will indicate that for the first time since the war a balance between revenue and expenditure has been attained. That there will be reductions in taxation has already been announced by the Prime Minister and that the income tax will be reduced is the general expectation. There are likely to be changes in Sales Tax administration and from statements in the Speech from the Throne, the inference has been drawn that the Government plans either to reduce the duty on agricultural implements or to place them on the free list.

And the Budget, apart from the question of raising revenue, will have no important bearing on the political situation for its financial proposals should indicate to what extent Government policy is veering towards the Western Progressive point of view.

ABOUT SERVING TWO MASTERS

(By R. R. Hall)

To the Editor of The Examiner

The report of the last meeting of the Council in the Examiner contains the following item: "After consideration and an appeal to the Municipal Act, the Council voted to eliminate the recommendation to pay the account from R. R. Hall for $300.00 covering the police investigation. Alderman Phelan said he objected to the account on principle."

Accounts of this character have been paid in the past without question. But Alderman Phelan objects to it on "principle." He has appealed to Caesar, then to Caesar we will let him go. He will not object to his own services to this city being judged on "principle."

There is a principle as old as the knowledge of good and evil, "that a man can not serve two masters,

Let us judge Alderman Phelan's own conduct by that principle. He occupies an important and responsible position in the Peterborough branch of the Bank of Montreal and that great banking institution is the banker of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough. This city paid to that bank in interest alone in one year over $7,500.00. The ratepayers are somewhat interested to know: "Would some other bank have charged "a less rate?" "Was any other bank given a chance to compete. Could "not a better rate have been obtained by a servant of this city who does "not serve two masters?"

It is a well known fact that the Bank of Montreal did increase the rate of interest charged to this city after its account was taken from the Bank of Toronto. Is its trusted employee, Alderman Phelan, a free agent of this city to take a stand in the Council and say: "The Bank of Montreal "is charging a higher rate than other banks may charge? Let the Coun-"cil try and get better terms from some other bank?"

If Alderman Phelan were to take that course what would the impartial observer thin't the Bank of Montreal would do? Would not the Bank of Montreal naturally say: "If Mr. Nagle Phelan is employed by "the bank to assist to retain business, we are certainly not going to pay "him a salary to take business away."

On the other hand, why may not the taxpayers of this city say to Alderman Phelan, chairman of the Finance committee of the City Council: "We repose our trust and confidence in you to faithfully serve this city and to borrow its requirements at the cheapest rate and get the highest rate you can on its moneys deposited with its banker from time to time and that you should do your best to save this city brokerage and discount on maturing bonds and the renewals thereof, and moreover we the electors of this city require you to frankly tell your own employers, the Bank of Montreal, that after they got back the city account the disadvantage was many hundreds of dollars against the interest of this city"

Let me remind Alderman Phelan that he appealed to "principle" in dealing with my account which was incurred in protecting the honor and good name of Peterborough's entire police force. If Hale and Williams —I mention them without their titles—had come to Peterborough to seek co-operation of Provincial Police with the city police, they would have found their wishes already accomplished, but the investigation showed and developed the idea that their real purpose was an ignoble and hypocritical fishing expedition to get evidence to base charges. I worked 18 hours a day to defeat their purpose; and if at any future time my services are required by the city police to see that dishonor is not cast on innocent men, I am prepared to offer my services and run the risk of being paid by a chairman of the Finance committee of this city who appeals to "principle" and at the same time serves two masters.

"I desire to make it clearly understood that the Bank of Montreal has always been guided in the past and is to-day guided by the highest principles of honor, but its future conduct in this matter must be judged, when it discovers that it has in its employ a servant who serves two masters and who appeal to "principle."

DOE RESCUED FROM A BAND FEROCIOUS DOGS

NORTH BAY, March 17.—(Canadian Press).—How a nine-month-old doe was rescued from being mauled and torn to shreds by a band of ferocious dogs, and how the young and timid animal became the pet and playmate of its rescuers in a lumber camp is told here by "Long Mike" Nealan, who has just returned from the bush.

After the animal had completely recovered, it was liberated, but returned to camp on the jump after it had scampered down the road for a few hundred yards. When work was suspended at the camp last week some railway sectionmen promised they would look after the animal's wants.

THE GREEK REPUBLIC.

ATHENS, March 17. — (United Press).—A new title, "The Hellenic-Polity," to-day replaces the words, "Kingdom of Greece," on the heading of all State documents.

The change is seen as a step towards the proclamation of the Republic in Greece.

17th March Poem

The incident which prompted the writer of "Morning on the Irish Coast" was often related by the author, the late John Locke, whose Irish nature was profoundly touched by it. The poet, on one of his voyages across the Atlantic, became acquainted with a fellow passenger, an Irishman, who never tired of talking about the land of his birth, to which he was returning after an absence of thirty years. So ardent was his desire to see it that he asked the officers of the ship to tell him of the very first glimpse of Ireland, be the time day or night. It so happened that land was sighted early in the morning. In accordance with his oft-expressed wish, the old man was awakened. As he came upon deck the sun broke in splendour over the hills of Kerry, and with its first rays illuminating and transfiguring his tear-stained face, he advanced, with outstretched arms to the rail, exclaiming :

Oh, m'anam le Dia! But there it is,
The dawn on the coast of Ireland!
God's angels lifting the night's black veil
From the fair, sweet face of my sireland.
Oh, Ireland, isn't it grand you look,
Like a bride in your rich adorning,
And with all the pent-up love in my heart
I bid you the top of the morning.

This one short hour pays lavishly back
For many a year of mourning.
Sure, I'd almost venture another flight
There's so much joy in returning.
Watching out from the hallowed shore,
All other attractions scorning.
Oh, Ireland, don't you hear me shout?
I bid you the top of the morning.

Oh, kindly, generous Irish land,
So leal, so fair, so loving,
No wonder the wandering Celt should pause
And dream of thee in his roving.
The Western home may have gems and gold,
Shadows may never have gloomed it ;
But the heart will fly to that absent land
Where the lovelight first illumed it.

See, see! Upon Cleena's shelving strand
The surges are grandly beating;
And Kerry is pushing her headlands out
To give us the kindly greeting.
Into the shore the sea-birds fly
On pinions that know no drooping.
And out from the cliff a million of waves,
With welcomes charged come trooping.

And isn't old Cove looking there
Watching the wild waves' motion!
Leaning her back up against the hill,
With the tips of her toes in the ocean.
And I wonder I don't hear Shandon's bells;
Ah! maybe their chiming's over,
For 'tis many a year since I began
The life of a Western rover.

For thirty years, asthore machree,
Those hills I now feast my eyes on
Never met my vision save when they rose
O'er memory's dim horizon;
Even so, 'twas grand and fair they seemed
In the landscape spread before me—
But dreams are dreams! And my eyes would ope
To find Texas skies still o'er me.

And often upon the Texas plains,
When the chase and the day was over,
My thoughts would fly o'er the weary waves,
And round this coast line hover;
And the prayer would rise that some future day
All dangers and doubters scorning,
I would help to win for my native land
The light of young liberty's morning.

Now fuller and truer the shore line shows,
Was ever a scene more splendid?
I feel the breath of the Munster breeze,
Thank God my exile's ended!
Old scenes, old times, old home, old friends again!
The vale, the cot I was born in!
Oh, Ireland! up from my heart of hearts,
I bid you the top of the morning!

Developing New Wealth in Porcupine Gold Fields

We own 100 selected mining claims in the Porcupine gold area, located in Tisdale, Whitney, Deloro, Shaw, Cody and McVittie Townships.

Our mining experts and diamond drilling outfits are constantly on the move, followed by geologists and engineers, where ore veins are uncovered.

The plan of operation is to prove the value of a claim by initial development to make it available for sale to capitalistic interests.

Subscribers to the fund out of which our operations are financed, share in all profits.

There is no personal liability.

Two Funeral In Town — Presentatio: to Mr. H. Carter--Personal Mention

CAMPBELLFORD, March 17. — The funeral of th late Mrs. Bedford took place on Friday in Christ church at one o'lock p.m. Rev. G. M. Clarke, B.A., gave a very helpful and sympathetic address and the members of the choir were in their places to assist in the service of song. The pallbearers were the sons of the deceased and close relatives: Chas. Bedford, Ernest Bedford, Harry Bedford (the three sons), Bert Bedford of Stirling, Mr. Wm. Wootton (a brother) from Buffalo, and Mr. F. Smith (a son-in-law) of Seymour. The late Mrs. Bedford was born in Kent, England, sixty-nine years ago, and when eight years of age came with the family to Canada, and settled in the township of Rawdon. Forty-nine years ago on March 11th the late Mrs. Bedford, then Mary E. Wootton, married Mr. Chas. Bedford and lived in Seymour East and on March 11th, twenty years ago moved to Seymour West, near Crow Bay, where the family have since resided. The flowers sent by the friends and relatives were beautiful, as follows: Gates Ajar, family; sheaf, Mr. Wm. Wootton and family of Buffalo; sheaf, Mr. Harry Wootton and family of Montreal; sheaf, Mr. E. A. Wootton and family of Monuth; sheaf, Mrs. M. Anderson, Seymour East; cross, Willing Workers of Christ church; sheaf, Women's Auxiliary; wreath, Mr. McIntsh of Belleville.

The late Mrs. Bedford leaves to mourn her loss, a sorrowing husband, three sons and three daughters, Miss Ethel at home, Harry in Seymour East, Chas. J. of town, Mrs. Smith (Bessie) Seymour East, Ernest of Kingston, Mrs. Linn (Mary) of Chicago.

Relatives from a distance who attended the funeral were: Harry Wootton (brother) Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal;; Ernest Wootton (brother) of Monuth, Wm. Wootton (brother) of Buffalo, Thos. and Miss Nilly Wootton (brother and sister) Lawdon.

Mrs. Bedford was a member of the Anglican church and was an interested woker. She had been ailing for about two years and had been confined to her bed for the last fifteen weeks. The friends and neighbors in town and country sympathize with he family in this sad bereavement.

A Seond Funeral.

Another funral in the Anglican church on Friday afternoon was that of Miss Ida M. Muffitt, of town, but who died in Lindsay. The service was held at three o'clock. Two of her favorite hymns were sung, "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "On the Resurrection Morn." A short address was give by the Rector, from the burial service, "Not to be Sorrowful Without Hope." The remains were then laid to rest in the family plot in the church cemetery. The pallbearers were: Messrs. C. Williams, R. J Bullen, John Storie, George Atwell E. Birks, and George Grills.

This makes he third death in the family in three years. Two years ago a sister, Mrs. Pope, died, and three years ago a brother, Thomas, died in Michigan. The late Miss Muffitt was born in Colborne and when about thee years old the family came to Campbellford, where she has since resided. She was an earnest and active worker in the church. She was a kid and faithful friend and had many friends in Lindsay, Guelph and Campbellford. The flowers were many and beautiful: Pillow, from old friends from Trent Valley Mill; sprays, Willing Workers Society in Germany; Women's Auxiliary; the Reich is supplied by Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] and Mrs. Jo[illegible] required to pay interest the Misses [illegible] minimum reparation [illegible]rs. There are left, four sisters and one brother: Mr. Chas. Muffitt, of Coe Hill; Mrs. Wenman, of Lindsay; Mrs. Van Blaricom, of Guelph; Miss Mae and Miss Carrie, of town. The funeral took place from the residence of Mr Thos. Pope, a brother-in-law of the deceased.

A Presentation.

The fellow employees of Mr. H. Carter, who left on Saturday for Toronto, met and presented Mr. Carter with a beautiful mantel clock and the following address:

Dear Mr. Carter: During the many years you have been here, our associations together have been most pleasant and it is with deep regret that we hear you are leaving us.

In order that you will not forget your fellow employees of the Weston Shoe Co. we ask you to accept this gift and we hope you will be happy and successful in your new work, and make as many friends in your new surroundings as you have made here with us.

Signed on behalf of the employees of the Weston Shoe Co., Ltd.

Miss M. Cook read the address and Miss Bayes presented the gift.

Mr. Carter, who has been with the Weston Shoe Co. for twenty-five years, made a suitable reply, expressing his appreciation of the gift. He wished them all prosperity in the future. Mr. Carter said, leaving his place here in the factory and going to new fields, was one of the hard things in life that he had to do. Mr. R. Weston stepped forward and made a few remarks, speaking of Mr. Carter's long service with them and of the interest he took in the work of the firm and of his faithful work at all times. Mr. F. Weston presented Mr. Carter with two preferred shares of fifty dollars each, in the Weston Shoe Co. firm.

Mr. Carter thanked the firm for their kindness and for the splendid present given him. Mr. Carter goes to Toronto to take a similar position in the city.

General News.

Captain Stroud and Lieutenant Hurst, of the Salvation Army, have gone to Toronto to attend a special Army meeting to be held in the city.

Miss Helen Thomas has been ill for two weeks and is still confined to her bed. Her many young friends hope for a speedy recovery.

Receipts Over $400.

The ladies of St. Andrew's church served supper to a large crowd Friday night to dispose of the surplus of dainties that had been left over from the banquet of the previous evening. It is expected that when the returns are all in the receipts for both evenings will amount to over $400 and there are still left over fragments sufficient to feed a multitude.

It is a long time since the ladies of the congregation held such a function and they are to be congratulated upon the success and the executive ability that was displayed in the management of the affair. The response to requests for donations of provisions was generous and the ladies who gave their services as waiters worked as only church ladies can at social affairs.

Church to Hold Sale.

The ladies of St. Mary's parish will hold a sale of home-made cooking of all kinds on Saturday afternoon and evening, March 29th, in the store on Bridge street, recently vacated by Miss Shannon.

Helping the Blind.

A. E. Holmes of the Canadian Institute for the Blind, will lecture in the Parish Hall on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the I.O.D.E., on the subject, "The Helping Hand, or the Story of a Blind Man's Dream Come True." Mayor Meyers will occupy the chair. There is no admission fee and a cordial invitation is extended by the members of the Chapter to the public.

Personals.

Ex-Councillor. Carter, for many years a resident of this place, left for Toronto to make that city his permanent home. Mr. Carters' family have been residing in Toronto since last summer.

J. A. Donald, who recently sold his farm and stock at Burnbrae, will on Monday next move into the residence on Sebastapol street which he purchased from G. L. Hay.

CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH IN HUT

Locked in Log Cabin by Mother When She Went to Settlement-- Father in Bush.

QUEBEC, March 17.—(Canadian Press).—Trapped in a log camp in which they had been locked up by their mother, a nine-month-old baby and a three-year-old boy were burned to death on Saturday afternoon at Monet, on the Transcontinental, a small settlement 50 miles from here. The tragedy occurred while Omer Gerand, a settler, was working in the forest a short distance from his log cabin, which he had erected last fall, and while Mrs. Gerand had gone to the settlement store to purchase groceries for the week-end.

HOME BANK MAY COME UP TODAY

Matter Was Considered at Meeting of Cabinet on Saturday.

OTTAWA, March 17.—(Canadian Press).—Home Bank matters were, it is understood, considered at Saturday's meeting of the Cabinet, and an announcement is likely to be made in the House of Commons today or to-morrow afternoon regarding the time and scope of inquiry by the Royal Commission headed by Hon. H. A. McKeown, Chief Justice of the King's Bench, Division of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick. Judge McKeown is expected on Wednesday of this week, and it is understood his inquiry will be begun at once.

As to the scope of the Commission, it is understood, although no official confirmation is available, that the inquiry will extend back to the date of the Home Bank's charter.

FINN ON RAMPAGE WITH OPEN KNIFE

Two Men May Die as Result of Stabbing Affray Aggressor Disappeared

SUDBURY, March 7.—(Canadian Press.)—The police have been scouring the town and outlying district for an unknown Finlander who on Saturday night made a brutal attack on two fellow countrymen in the house of Sulo Johnson, on Coppercliff Road.

John Jacko, a well known local character, and a Finnish blacksmith, name unknown, are in a critical condition in St. Josephs' Hospital and may die from knife wounds. The attacker entered Johnson's home and insulted Mrs. Johnson. The blacksmith and Johnson remonstrated, where at he drew a sheath knife. He attacked the blacksmith, slashing him about the neck and shoulders. He then attacked Johnson, who dived through the window, and Jacko, who lived near, went to his assistance. The stranger knocked Jacko to the floor and inflicted numerous wounds on him.

Johnson next attacked the unknown with lead piping, but the Finn wrested it from him and inflicted a number of cuts on Johnson. The men finally crawled out of the house and the Finn disappeared.

FURNITURE STORE FIRE IN TORONTO YESTERDAY

TORONTO, March 17.—(Canadian Press).—For two hours early on Sunday morning firemen fought a blaze in the three-storey store and warehouse of Noden, Hallitt and Johnson, furniture dealers, on Dundas Street West. The damage to the building and contents was $65,000, which was covered by insurance.

Breaking out in the basement at 3.55 a.m., the flames made their way up an elevator shaft to the roof of the building. Linoleum and highly-polished furniture burning in the basement caused heavy clouds of smoke, and at times forced the fire fighters to withdraw from certain sections of the building.

TORONTO'S NEW STATION OPENED TO PUBLIC GAZE

TORONTO, March 17.—(Canadian Press).—This afternoon the citizens of Toronto will be given their first opportunity to inspect the interior of the new Union Station since the completion of that impressive edifice.

Heralded as one of the most modern and efficient, as well as one of the most beautiful of present-day terminals, the new station has been highly recommended for its scenic qualities by advance parties.

For the next six days Toronto will have its chance to pass judgment.

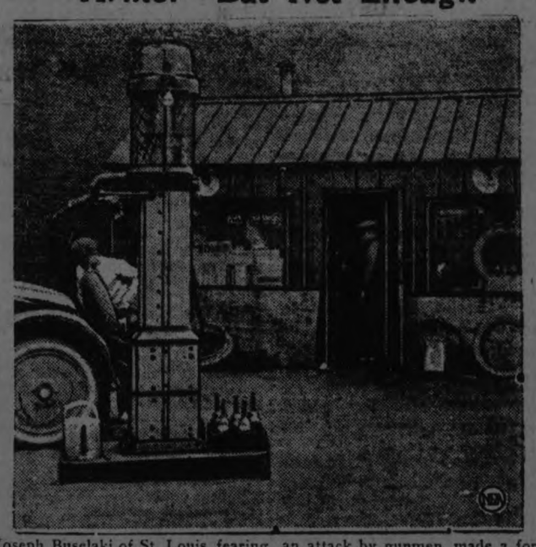
Armor—But Not Enough



Joseph Buselaki of St. Louis, fearing an attack by gunmen, made a fortress of his gasoline filling station. Sheets of armor were placed around its walls. But Joseph was shot down and seriously wounded when he ventured out. He had neglected to provide a suit of armor for himself.

TELEPHONE COMPANY EXPERTS BUFFALOED

Kansas City Man Discovers Leak in Long Distance Service.

OMAHA, Neb. March 17.—(Canadian Press).—Telephone Company engineers and officials of Omaha labored for hours Saturday and then confessed they were baffled by wizardy of Mike Atchitz, Kansas City man who admitted he holds secret no other person is known to possess The secret of talking over long-distance pay telephone without paying Atchitz, wh, is accused of demonstrating his powe, in Omaha to extent of nearly $20 worth, said Saturday night he would divulg, his secret for $20,000 or perhaps trifle less for cash.

A. F. McAdams, district commercial manager of Telephone Company refused to dicker.

Atchitz is under $100 bond to appear in police court. He was arrested Friday after long distance chat with his wife in Kansas City.

CROWS DISCOURAGED BY WINTER'S RETURN

BEMBROKE, March 17. Canadian Press. — After ten days of advanced spring warmth, the Upper Ottawa Valley has experienced the expected. Fir 24 hours it has been in the grip of a 40-mile gale, accompanied at intervals by blinding snow and biting cold ,straight from the north, that freezes all that it touches.

Though there is still a foot of snow the roads in some places are bare, and several horses have broken through the ice on the river.

This cold snap is welcomed by the lumbermen, woodmen and icemen but the crows have retreated discouraged to the thick forest.

Winds are produced by differences in atmospherie pressure in adjacent localities. These pressure differences are due principally to differences in temperature.

KING EMANUEL ENTERED FIUME

FIUME, March 17 (Canadian Press). — Welcomed by the cheering of thousands who held places at all vantage points along the route of the procession, King Victor Emmanuel entered Fiume yesterday to be present at the formal ceremony of annexing the city to Italy.

The city was filled with thousands of persons from all the surrounding towns.

The civic authorities met the King as he landed and presented to him an address of welcome and the keys to the city.

The parade was an imposing one, the route lying beneath numerous triumphal arches, with the Cuirassers in their brilliant uniforms leading the way.

During the progress of the procession the children threw flowers along the roadway, and the men and women waved their hats or handkerchiefs, meanwhile cheering the King.

King Victor Emmanuel has conferred the Order of Annunziata on Premier Mussolini, according to an annoucement in the official Gazette yesterday. This is the highest rank of knighthood in Italy.

Wearers of the order are considered cousins of the King.

There will be a partial eclipse of the sun July 31, a total eclipse of the moon Aug. 14, and another partial eclipse of the sun Aug. 29. All, however, will be invisible in North America.

In Paris loans are made by municipal pawnshops on anything from a pension certificate to an automobile, the only formality required being sufficient identification and signature of a printed form to the effect that the property pledged belongs to the person receiving the loan.

CHURCH UNION CAMPBELLFORD

Both Sides of the Question Will Be Heard on Sunday- Building Prospects.

CAMPBELLFORD March 17. — Rev. T. Crawford Brown of Toronto, formerly pasor of New St. Andrew's church in that city, will preach in St. Andrew's church here next Sunday, on the subject of church union, presenting the side of the Antis, both morning and evening.

On the following Sunday, March 30th, the other side of the question will be dealt with by Rev. A. H. Denoon, D.D., pastor of the Avenue Road Presbyterian church of Toronto.

Some time ago the officers of the local church decided upon this course in order that the people might be fully informed on both sides of the problem, and an outstanding advocate of each has been secured.

All the members and adherents of St. Andrew's, as well as all other interested in church union are urged to attend these services and are assured that they will hear the case fairly and fully presented.

Concert To-night.

St. Patrick's Day will be duly observed here the celebration taking the form of a concert to be given in the Regent Theatre by the pupils of St. Mary's Separate school, and of the other Separate schools in the district. This has always been regarded as one of the best entertainments of the season and the advance sale of tickets indicates a capacity house.

Local Summer Resorts.

All signs point to a busy season at the different summer resorts in this district. Andrew White, proprietor of the hotel at Trent River, reports that nearly every room in his house has been engaged ahead for the opening of the fishing season.

Clive Keller has made extensive improvements and extensions to his hotel at Healey Falls since the close of last season, and has already received a large number of inquiries from prospective summer visitors.

Healey Falls has always been a favourite resort for American visitors, who spend either a few weeks or the entire summer in ths neighbourhood, where the fishing has earned for the district an international reputation.

Americans are also sending in inquries for accommodation at Percy Boom, as the number of summer cottages there owned by residents of Campbellford will be increased by the erection of several new buildings.

Building Propects.

There were over thirty houses erected in Campbellford last year, and the supply is still short of the demand for residences. The outlook is for another busy building season. All the sawmills in town and district are carrying an unusually large stock of logs and the demand for lumber is brisk. The construction of the two new Hydro power houses, which will be erected by day labor, instead of by contract, will give employment to a large number of skilled mechanics and the preference will be given to local men

Please note how many whiter teeth you see everywhere today. They were not so common years ago, you know. Millions are now brushing teeth in a new way. Let this test show you what it means to you.

Combat that film

That cloud on your teeth is film. At first the film is viscous—you can feel it now. Soon it becomes discolored, forming dingy coats. For no ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat it.

Film also causes most tooth troubles. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

The only way to whiter, safer teeth is to combat that film.

Modern science has supplied the methods. It has found two film combatants. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities have proved these methods effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

The use of that tooth paste has now spread the world over, largely by dental advice. It has brought to millions a new era in teeth cleaning.

Watch what it does for you

Pepsodent brings other new effects. It multiplies two tooth-protecting agents in saliva—the alkalinity and the starch digestant. These combined effects will bring results amazing and delightful.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

You will always be glad that you made this test. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel
Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

Every Irishman's heart beats a little quicker today, and his head is unconsciously carried a bit higher, for is not this the 17th of March, the anniversary of St. Patrick, the patron saint of old Ireland?

No other day in the year seems quite so dear to the man of Irish blood wherever on this terrestial footstool he may be on St. Patrick's Day.

He may never have seen Ireland, but on this anniversary his heart-strings stretch out to the little green isle across the sea, and he feels himself a part of Ireland and a shareholder in her history.

Looking over the ocean in 1924 brings a different picture than once was visualized.

The Ireland of today is a self-governing dominion, a member of the federation that is the British Empire.

The transition has been made with more smoothness and less friction than was anticipated.

The earlier difficulties seem to be passing, Ireland is at peace, the task of government has been undertaken vigorously and yet tactfully, and St. Patrick's Day finds the Irish people apparently contented and happy.

Canada's St. Patrick's Day greetings are extended to her sister dominion.

THE CONTENTED COLONIST.

So many variations have been rung on the theme "Why Canadians Are Leaving Home" that it is encouraging to hear from the Provincial Minister of Colonization that there is one section of the community that shows its contentment and satisfaction with surrounding conditions, says the Montreal Star. Mr. Perrault, in telling the Provincial legislators what the Quebec Government had done for the settlers in the new regions of the Province, declared that few colonists had emigrated from these areas and that even in spite of a certain depression they had shown no signs of abandoning their new homes.

The reason for this contentment is not hard to discover. The men who have gone into these newly developed areas are for the most part men who have had experience on farms and in territory where pioneer conditions prevailed. They have gone in after a careful investigation of actual conditions, prepared to undergo no small amount of hardship and suffering in the expectation of eventually securing a competence for themselves and their families. These men are the backbone of any new settlement, the men and women of the pioneer breed who are prepared to make sacrifice of present comforts partly for the love of the adventure taht they have inherited from their ancestors and partly because they realize that in spite of the discomfort there is an expectation of owning their own farm and property after some years of frugal saving and hard work.

THE KEEFER APPOINTMENT.

The appointment of F. H. Keefer, M.P.P., as Legislative Secretary for Northern Ontario has been received with considerable opposition in the Legislature, and there is a tendency to view Mr. Keefer's position as being for political purposes, with the object of keeping the northern part of the Province safe for the Government.

In the interests of the people of New Ontario, it is to be sincerely hoped that this view of the appointment is wrong.

Mr. Keefer knows the country intimately and understands its needs and requirements.

He has the qualities to be of splendid service to the people of Ontario's great northland.

As a connecting link between Northern Ontario and the Government there is much that he can do that will benefit the district under his jurisdiction, and the Examiner hopes he will rise to his opportunity, recognizing that that section of Ontario has not received as much attention as it has deserved in the past.

If he does not—if he attempts to make his office merely a political mission as is now charged—he will be playing a game that will harm instead of help the Government.

The people of New Ontario are not fools, and it will not take them long to detect Mr. Keefer's status.

No political gold bricks will find a ready sale in New Ontario.

THE LURE OF BIG MONEY.

One of the great problems of the day, according to U.F.O. leaders, and recognized as serious by any one who has given a thought to the subject, is that of rural depopulation, of the drift in large numbers from the farms of this country to the cities of the boys and girls who are needed in agriculture.

The Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, Hon. J. S. Martin, proposes to keep them on the farm by education that will teach them to realize that there are real opportunities in agriculture for those who will farm intelligently and scientifically.

And yet it will take a lot of education along those lines to overcome the lure of big money as represented in the ctiies.

When a young farmer picks up his newspaper and reads that a Toronto broker, at no financial risk to himself, made $100,000 in two days in a bond deal for the Drury Government, an operation that called for no more skill in salesmanship than is utilized by the average agent in selling lightning rods, he is liable to think that he is foolish in staying in an occupation which is not likely to yield him a quarter of that sum after a life-time of hard work.

And when he glances over the report of the Gregory Commission and sees the huge sums paid to commissioners, lawyers and engineers he is hardly to be blamed if there is a temptation to abandon farming and educate himself along lines that may put him in reach of this big money.

The fact that these are isolated incidents, that all brokers do not make $100,000 in two days, that few engineers ever obtain $50,000 fees and many a lawyer goes briefless and ill-paid, fades into the background, ...ecured by the golden gleam from the big sums mentioned in the newspapers.

The exodus from the farm can to a large measure be accounted for by the effect caused by such revelations as these mentioned.

OUR MINERAL WEALTH.

The economic needs of Canada at the present time are such as to call for the development of the natural resources of this country on a much larger scale than has hitherto been attained.

In this connection the more the possibilities of Canada's mineral resources are considered the more desirable does it seem that more attention should be paid to this feature of the situation.

Here we have enormous resources of coal, huge supplies of low grade iron ores.

Canada is the world's principal source of nickel, asbestos and Cobalt, and one of the most important producers of gold, silver, copper, lead, zinc and a number of the rarer metals.

Few countries possess greater coal resources, and the Canadian output of arsenic, chromite, feldspar, graphite, gysum, mica, magnesite, pyrites and talc stands high in records of the world's productions.

And yet Canada, according to official statistics, figures much more prominently in foreign markets as a buyer rather than as a seller of commodities of mineral origin, and on the interchange of such products we normally incur a heavy adverse balance.

In 1921, for example, the value of Canadian mineral products, crude and refined, and anufactured nne products exported amounted to $92,357,000, while our imports of these articles reached a total of $303,522,000.

The average for nine years shows an excess of imports over exports of $154,025,000.

Iron and steel goods, coal and petroleum form a large part of the imports, but in addition, a considerable portion of the products, is taken in the form of highly manufactured products, such as machinery, implements and automobiles.

A new period of development in the mining field, surpassing that of the last quarter of a century, is a vital necessity.

The mining interests have been forced to face keen competition, and to offer exceptional promise to attract any great share of development, funds and enterprise.

The vast wealth represented by the mineral resources of this country should not be neglected now in view of the possibilities offered in all sections of Canada.

Some of these possibilities the Examiner proposes to discuss in future articles.

BY THE SWEAT OF HIS BROW.

From one point of view, labor is the price we pay for living; from another, it is the penalty imposed in perpetuity upon the descendants of Adam in punishment of his sins; but from another, though rare, point of view, labor is among the chief pleasures of life. The pleasure derived from labor takes many forms; it comes in the form of the exquisite sensations that arise out of pure weariness; it is found in the excitement that accompanies all action; it comes from the intensity of concentration; we feel it when we contemplate a finished product and when we note the progress that is being made, and, finally, we take pride in the consciousness that we have and are contributing to the common effort and to the well-being of our immediate dependents. Men also find pleasure in doing things faster or better than their fellows, and also in striving toward these ends.

Men who do very little work themselves have a great deal to say nowadays about the monotony of present-day methods of production. These men have no imagination. The chief barrier between the average worker and the pleasures to be derived from labor is mental; it is the product of the feeling of being oppressed that agitators have subtly planted in the minds of many workers. Most of the things that would tend to increase the interest of the worker in his work are under the ban of the disapproval of labor unions or are suspect because many employers have attempted to turn them to their own advantage. The shirkers, the slip-shod, the careless and all those who cannot or will not bear their share of labor also discourage and mar the interest and the enthusiasm of the workers who can get real pleasure out of their work. The slackers banter and chaff the workers, partly because of innate discontent and partly on account of their fear that the enthusiastic workers will set new standards toward which they will be required to strive in their own work.

The unwillingness of workers to be exploited out of hand is understandable and commendable; the efforts of the agitators are twice rewarded where they encounter or can cite cases of exploitation. The laborer is worthy of his hire, and each man should be paid according to his efforts and results. But payment on that basis is also against the union rules. These observations apply to all workers—to white-collar workers, to so-called brain-workers and to practically all fields of labor where the individual is necessarily influenced by the views and the attitudes of fellow-workers.

Modern methods of production have caused us to lose sight of the essentially co-operative character of all productive effort. When the shoemaker sat at his last, when the tailor plied his needle and the farmer bartered his eggs or his butter for his shoes or a Sunday suit, it was easy for everybody to grasp the real meaning of labor, but it takes a little more imagination to see the relation between the farmer in the field and the operator of an automatic machine that day in and day out throws off the same minute part of a watch, a typewriter or a steam-tractor. Ten times in a hundred, the man at the machine never even sees the finished product to which he contributes a bolt or a nut. He does his bit, nevertheless; he even contributes more to the general welfare than the man who in other days turned off a finished product. He contributes more because he is a factor in producing more; he gets more himself and enables others to have more. The unimaginative say that the worker at the machine is cramped, that there is nothing to interest him in the operation he directs. Their idea seems to be that in order to obtain pleasure from his work, the machine operator ought to be able to stamp out a fully equipped automobile each time he pushes the button.

But of all the pleasures that can be derived from labor, this one of being denied the satisfaction of contemplating the finished product is the only one that the machine operator lacks. He is compensated for this by the transference of his interest to his machine and to the operation—the contended worker can always find something to interest him in his work, for his content grows from his knowledge that he is doing his share of the world's work and making the world a better place in which to live for those who are to come after him.—American Exchange National Bank of New York.

SMITH SCHOOL HOLDS SUPPER AND CONCERT

Pleasant Event Arranged by the School Board—Egg Social May Follow.

One of the outstanding social events of the season took place at S. S. No. 9, Smith township school house on Friday evening, in the form of a salmon supper. The whole section turned out to accept the hospitality of the members of the trustee board and the secretary-treasurer, who most generously provided the supper.

During the evening an enjoyable programme was rendered, consisting of the following numbers:

Instrumental duet, Audrey and Grace McIlmoyl.

Recitation, Vera McIlmoyl.

Chorus, "Old Macdonald had a Farm," by the school.

Solo, "I want to Kiss Daddy Good Night," by Gladys McIlmoyl.

Chorus by Six Girls.

Recitation, Audrey McIlmoyl.

Duet, "School Days," by Thelma and Josephine Galvin.

Solo, "Just as your Mother was," by Mr. Gilbert McIlmoyl.

Duet, "The Bulldog on the Bank" by Morley and George Nixon.

All those taking part in the programme acquitted themselves most creditably. Referring to the vocal numbers those given by members of the school were up to the usual high standard, the pupils having been so well trained by the teacher, Mr. K. S. Madill. Special mention must also be made of the solo of Mr. Gilbert McIlmoyle, who sang in his usual splendid voice. Theer difficult numbers of the programme weer interspersed by community singing, led by the chairman, Mr. Gordon Nichols in his usual good form.

During supper music was provided by the following musicians: Mr. Louis McIlmoyl, tenor; Mr. Joseph Roseborough, baritone; Mr. Alex. Elliott, alto; Mr. Harry Dowling, soprano; Mr. Herb McConkey, soprano, and Mr. Gordon Fitzgerald, miscellaneous, who sang selections ranging from old favorites to the newest popular hits, while Mr. Gordon Nicholls tickled the ivories.

The children were provided with amusement in the form of games, which were under the supervision of Messrs Bill Eliott and Carl Nixon.

The evening was brought to a close with three hearty cheers for the trustees and secretary-treasurer, and the singingof "For They are Jolly Good Fellows."

It is rumored that Mr. Herb McIlmoyl and Mr. John McIntosh will provide an egg social for the section during Easter week.

MONTREAL POTATOES FIRM.

MONTREA, March 16. —There was no improvement in the cash grain market Saturday. The flour market was without new features. A steady feeling prevails in the millfeed market and rolled oats were quiet. The baled hay market is without change. A firm feeling prevails in the potato market. Trade in eggs is active. Receipts from May 1 to date have been 574,434 cases against 555,268 cases for the same period of 1922-23. Butter business is dull. Total receipts from May 1 to date were 156,284 packages less than in 1922-23. There is nothing doing in the cheese market. Total receipts since May 1 have been 135,132 boxes larger than in the same period a year ago.

ROSENEATH U.F.O. HELD SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL GATHERING

Very Interesting Debate Was Run Off With the Negative Winning -- Other Social Events.

ROSENEATH, March 17.—A pleasant social evening was spent on Friday evening last when the members of the U.F.O. Club, their wives and several others met in the Town Hall. The business part of the meeting was omitted. A potato race was put on first for the married men and married women, the men being victorious. Then the boys won from the girls, and the winners played off. There was much excitement and amusement when the married men were declared winners.

The rest of the evening was taken up with a debate, "Resolved, that horses are more beneficial to humanity than cattle." Those taking part were: Mrs. J. A. Brown, Messrs. C. W. Varcoe and Harry Mouncay, for the affirmative; Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Messrs. Andrew Brown and A. J. Campbell, for the negative. Both sides had spent much time and care in preparation, so that it proved very interesting. The judges were: Rev. A. R. Walsh, Messrs. Jas. Grieves and M. Davey. Mr. J. C. Moore, manager of the Union Bank, acted as timekeeper.

After fifteen minutes of consultation the judges returned with their report, declaring the negative side winners by five points, although two of the judges had been for the affirmative and one against. However, on totalling points the negative side had the most points.

The evening was concluded by a lunch furnished by the ladies, and all departed having spent a few hours of instruction and pleasure.

C.G.I.T. Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Canadian Girls in Training was held at the home of Mrs. (Rev.) A. R. Walsh on Wednesday evening, with almost all of the members present.

The President, Miss Ella Campbell, occupied the chair. The meeting opened by singing "Day in Dying in the West." Mrs. Andrew Brown, the leader, then led in prayer. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted, after which the business part of the meeting took place.

The main discussions of the evening were the autograph quilt which is being made and plans for the social evening which is to be held at the home of the leader next Wednesday evening.

Two merit pins were presented to Misses Ellen Blodgett and Mary Braithwaite by Mrs. Brown for regular attendance at meetings, church and Sunday School. In a few well-chosen words she complimented them on the record they had made and hoped they would still continue their good attendance.

The religious part of the meeting was first a Scripture reading taken from the book of Ruth by Miss Millie Sherwin, after which Miss Ella Campbell gave the Bible story of Ruth. Miss Vera Varcoe then gave a much appreciated paper on "Kindness."

The meeting closed with the singing of one of the C.G.I.T. hymns, followed by the Misnah benediction.

Personals.

Miss Violet Sherwin is leaving for Hastings very soon.

Miss Gladys Blodgett who has been visiting at Centreton and Cobourg, returned home on Tuesday.

U. S. FIRE LOSSS HEAVY.

NEW YORK, March 16. — Fire losses in the United States in 1923 totalling $506,541,001, exceeded by millions the amount of the nation's personal income tax receipts for the year, said a report issued to-day by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

The careless smoker again was found to be the cause of the greatest number of fires, the Board holding him responsible for a toll of $25,776,951.

HURTS NOT SERIOUS.

LONDON, March 17.— National concern for the life of the heir to the throne received another shock on Saturday when the Prince of Wales, only just recovered from a serious riding accident, involving the fracture of a collarbone, again indulged his love of steeplechasing and got a nasty spil, fortunately without serious consequeces.

Much as the public loves and admires the spirit and high courage of the Prince, this incident is certain to revive in intensified from the national agitation in favor of some sort of check being put upon this undaunted spirit which places a heavy risk on the succession to the throne. Precisely how the necessary pressure could be efficiently applied is hard to imagine, for added to a daring spirit, the Prince has a strong will and will not easily be deterred from his favorite sport. x

Brother Thrown Too

The event in which the Prince met with disaster was a steeplechase in the army point-to-point meeting at Arborfield near Workingham. There was a brilliant concourse, with beautiful weather, and the Prince appeared to be in excellent health, laughing and chatting with friends before the races started. He was entered in two events and met with mishaps in both. Prince Henry also came a cropper, but escaped with little damage. Both Princes were unseated early in the afternoon but were merely shaken up. Prince Henry was to ride in the last event of the day, a steeplechase for the Earl$ of Craven's Cup, but withdrew The Prince of Wales, however was one of the eight starters. He got away well, but at the first fence his hors stumbled and fell, throwing the rider heavily on his head and hands.

Removed On Stretcher

A rush was made to the scene of the accident by the large crowds watching from various points, among the first being the Duke of York. An ambulance was quickly on the spot, and, bleeding profusely from the nose, Wales was placed on a stretcher and taken to a nearby farm house, where it was found his injuries were not of a serious character.

The Prince tried to het up, protesting to the stretcher-bearers that he was quite able to walk, but gentle pressure was applied to keep him on the stretcher until the farm house was reached. His injuries having been attended to by physicians the Prince later in the evening was sufficiently recovered to return to Aldrshot by motor car, and it was then officially ascertained that he was suffering from a slight concussion, which included some slight abrasions of the face.

Condition Not Serious

Wales will have to rest up during this week, although his condition was said late Sunday to be not serious.

At Aldershot, where the Prince drove in his motor car after the accident, it was said last evening by General Trotter that the progress of the Prince was so satisfactory that he might be able to return to London to-day or Tuesday.

THIRD of the series dealing with the establishment of the BANK OF MONTREAL representative points in CANADA elsewhere

IN OTTAWA

OTTAWA, the political centre of Canada, and prophetically designated by the late Earl Grey as the possible centre of the British Empire of the future, never dreamed of the brilliant destiny in store for it when the Bank of Montreal established a Branch there 81 years ago.

Canada at that time was in many respects a terra incognita, consisting of half a dozen provinces with differing laws, tariffs and currencies. And Ottawa was only a lively little lumber camp called Bytown.

Today Ottawa is not only the name of a beautiful city, but is also a synonym for the voice of a nation—like Downing Street and the Quai d'Orsay.

The name of the Bank of Montreal, too, has enlarged in significance in the intervening years. It is now recognized as the title of a nation-wide institution ranking among the leading banks of the world.

ASPHODEL EGG CIRCLE MEETING WAS SUCCESSFUL

A Director's Meeting Was Held Immediately Following the Annual Meeting -- The Manager's Report.

NORWOOD, March 17.—The annual meeting of the Asphodel Egg Circle was held in the Council Chamber of the Town Hall, Norwood, on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. President Chas. Coughlin presided. Mr. J. O'Keefe, the Secretary, was unavoidably absent, and the minutes of the last meeting were dispensed with. Mr. Fred. Gardner was asked to act as secretary pro tem. Mr. B. W. Squire, the Manager of the Circle for the past year, was asked for his report. In rising in response to the request, Mr. Squire said that he had not prepared a report other than the actual figures showing the result of the operation of the Circle for the past year, January 1, 1923 to December 31, 1923. He reported:

No. of Circle members shipping, 53; cash advanced at time of delivery of eggs, $5,691.55; gross value of sale of eggs, $6,327.67; Manager's commission, $230.80; net value to members, $6,096.87; net profit over and above store price, $638.95; average selling price per doz., 28.3c; average net profit per doz., 2.85c.

While Mr. Squire was Manager of the Egg Circle, all the producers asking him to handle their eggs for them were not members of the Circle, the greater number of producers adopting the plan of selling outright to Mr. Squire at the time of delivery for the market price. This differed from the plan as adopted by the Circle, who received the market price at the time of delivery as an advance on their produce, when at the end of each quarter period they received dividends, made up of the difference between the price they had already received and the price the Manager had sold their eggs for, less the Manager's commission.

As a reply to the question so often asked, is it more profitable to sell eggs co-operatively through the medium of an association or to sell individually, Mr. Squire furnished a further report showing the results derived by individual selling, or as he termed it, the produce in which he speculated. This report follows:

No. doz. bought, 28,231; cash paid for same, $6,877.90; cash received when sold, $8,185.33; allowing 1c per doz. for the work, $282.31; net value of sales, $7,903.02; speculative profit, $786.00.

Under Circle conditions this $786.00 would have been divided among the producers pro rata according to the number of dozens delivered. Mr. Squire proceeded to say that this should be an incentive for producers to market their eggs co-operatively and hoped for this next year—all producers would take advantage of this better marketing system. Mr. Squire laid special stress on having their eggs clean and advised if eggs were less in weight than 24 ounces to the dozen, the standard weight for the extra grade, to improve their flock by getting a strain that would produce larger eggs. It was now the duty of the members to boost the membership, and he promised that he would not fall down in marketing their eggs for the best price possible.

On motion of John Marks, seconded by John Brooks, the Manager's report was received with thanks for the efficient services rendered.

The Chairman called on Mr. F. H. Buker, District Poultry Promoter for Eastern Ontario, working in connection with the poultry division of the live stock branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, under whose supervision the Circles are operating.

Mr. Buker drew the attention of the meeting to the two reports presented by Mr. Squire and contended that the members would be remiss in their duty should they neglect to carry this result of co-operative marketing to their friends and neighbors who as yet did not know or who as yet had not taken advantage of the benefits derived therefrom. These facts should be brought home to the producers who were not Circle members. The operations of the Circles in Eastern Ontario during six months in 1923 paid the members the full market price for their eggs, and also a 6 per cent. profit as well. What other business has so good a showing?

Mr. Fred. McRae, Agriculture Representative for Peterborough, complimented the members on their good showing for the year, saying that of the returns he had seen, Asphodel Circle had the highest price to the producers with the exception of the English Line Circle at Campbellford. The members should get busy and publish these results, and he hoped their membership would be increased from 53 to 153.

The following officers were elected for 1924:

President, Chas. Coughlin; Vice-President, John Marks; Secretary, Fred. Gardner; Directors, Mr. Wigmore, Thos. Stevenson, Mrs. John Brooks, Mrs. Elsmore Hogg, Mrs. S. McGee, Mrs. Greenbanks, Thos. Jones, Mrs. Chas. Would, Mrs. F. Gardner; Auditors, Elsmore Hogg and John Brooks.

It was decided the membership fee be 50c, to be deducted from the profits the Circle operation made for the members.

Meeting adjourned.

A Directors' meeting was held immediately following the annual meeting, and a contract with Mr. B. Squire agreeing to act as Manager was again entered into, with the Manager's commission at 1c per dozen as last year.

NEWS OF HASTINGS AND THE DISTRICT.

HASTINGS, March 17.—Word has been received by Hastings friends of Miss Helena Graham whose death took place in Toronto as a result of "flu" and pneumonia. Miss Graham was well known here, having made her home with Dr. and Mrs. Delamatter when the latter resided here. The funeral was held in Castleton from the home of the deceased. Her mother and two sisters are the only surviving relatives.

A Successful Sale.

A largely attended and successful sale of farm stock and implements was conducted by Auctioneer Battisby at the farm of Mr. George Gillespie, Westwood, on Wednesday afternoon, March 12. A number of Holstein cattle were put up for sale, all averaging one hundred dollars or over. Prices realized for everything arranged accordingly.

NEWS TRENT RIVER AND THE DISTRICT.

TRENT RIVER, March 17.—Mrs. H. R. Wood entertained the Ladies' Aid and a few neighbors at her home. The time was spent in preparing quilts for the coming bazaar. There were about thirty-five present. A lunch was served during the afternoon. The usual offering was taken up, which amounted to over $7. Through the kindness of Mr. Bruce Longmuir, the ladies from this section were conveyed to the meeting.

Horse Went Through Ice on Pidgeon Lake.

DOWNEYVILLE, March 17. — Mr. Joseph Gooselin had a narrow escape from getting one of his horses drowned while crossing Pigeon Lake Wednesday on his return trip from Peterborough, where he has been darwing hay for some time. He got one horse down and had a hard time to get it out, and probably only for the assistance he got from another team ahead he would not have saved the animal. The ice was never very good at any time this winter and as the weather is fine it will not be a safe road for the people to travel on. However, Mr. Gooselin says he has drawn his last load over it anyway and will take no more chances.

LAKEFIELD RINK HIT BY WEATHER

Mild Weather Puts Crimp in Hockey and Curling --Lakefield News..

LAKEFIELD, March 14.—Owing to the mild weather prevailing this week the Rink has been closed, and at present in Lakefield the difference between the optimist and the pessimist may be defined in this way, the optimist believes the Rink will re-open and the pessimist does not.

The final game in the Lakefield and District Hockey League for the Casement Cup between The Grove and Warsaw is billed for Friday night, and at present the prospect is for good ice.

The skating tournament advertised for Wednesday night last had to be postponed, but there is little doubt that both events can be run off before the final thaw sets in.

More Curling.

Owing to the "tightening up" of the ice on Thursday, the President and Vice-President games were renewed on that evening and were played with tremendous zest. As there appeared to be grave doubts in the minds of some as to whether the curling was over for the season, the cold weather brought a deep and abiding joy and the path to the Rink was again the village highway.

A Sudden Death.

Dr. J. C. Smith was called to Blenheim on Sunday by the sudden death of his mother, Mrs. J. Fraser Smith, and by a sad coincidence, Dr. H. E. Moore received a message the same day of the death of his mother, Mrs. Moore, of Uxbridge. Dr. Moore and Dr. Smith reside on Queen Street, in adjoining houses, and are both sons of clergymen. The entire community join in sympathy to both Dr. Smith and Dr. Moore.

RICH IN VITAMINES

MAKE PERFECT BREAD

THE C N. RAILWAY MADE 20 MILLION.

MONTREAL, March 15.—(Canadian Press)—The final figures showing the complete statement of the operating results during 1923 have been announced by the Canadian National Railways. These figures show that the net earnings of the system during the last year were $20,236,563.09, as compared with $2,886,711.55 in 1922, or a net increase of $17,349,851.54.

They differ only slightly from the estimated earnings for 1923, as announced by Sir Henry W. Thornton, president and chairman of the board of directors, early in January of this year.

The final figures for the year are: Operating revenues, 1923 $254,926,456.04, 1922 $234,089,025.05—the increase $20,867,430.99; operating expenses, 1923 $234,689,892.95, 1922 $231,172,313.50 — increase $3,517,579.45; the net revenues for 1923 $20,236,563.09, 1922 $2,886,711.55—increase $17,349,851.54. The final figures for December, 1923, show the net earnings for that month to be $3,633,960.12, as compared with a deficit of $2,885,404.84. The complete statement for the month as compared with the corresponding month of 1922 is as follows: December, 1923, gross earnings $22,767,007.17, $21,172,726.36 — increase $1,594,980.81. Operating expenses $19,133,047.05, $24,058,130.88, $4,925,083.83; net earnings $3,633,960.12, dec. $2,885,404.52; imp. $6,519,264.64. Dec. decrease, imp. improvement during the month of December, 1923.

The operating ratio was 84.6 per cent. as compared with 113.63 per cent. in December, 1922, a decrease of 29.59 per cent.

During the 12 months ending December 31, 1923, the operating ratio was 92.06 per cent., as compared with 98.77 per cent. during the corresponding period of 1922, a decrease of 6.71 per cent.

Health Restored by The Fruit Treatment

Fourteen years ago, Mr. James S. Delgaty, of Gilbert Plains, Man., was a nervous wreck. His system was shattered by Nervous Prostration, and he was reduced in weight from 170 to 115 pounds.

He wrote on May 15th, 1917, "Every medicine I tried proved useless until a friend induced me to take 'Fruit-a-tives.' I began to mend at once. After using this fruit medicine for three months, I was back to normal. I have never had such good health as I have enjoyed the past six years. We are never without a box of 'Fruit-a-tives' in the house."

Writing again on September 27th, 1923, Mr. Delgaty says, "I stand by my letter to you in 1917—I still recommend 'Fruit-a-tives'."

"Fruit-a-tives" is a complete fruit treatment—being made of the juices of fresh ripe fruits and tonics.

25c. and 50c. a box—6 for $2.50—at druggists or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

The Brilliant Novelist of Modern Society

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Prudence Page—a charming country girl, has fallen in love with

Bert Traymore—a fascinating philanderer, whom a chance meeting brings into her quiet life.

Janet Mercer—Prudence's dearest friend, an older woman, plain but clever, is masseuse to the delicate child of Mrs. Vansittart—a pleasure - loving woman-of-the-world, owner of Winston Towers, a beautiful summer home. She invites Prudence to a ball at the Towers. Prudence accepts, and finds herself a wall-flower, neglected by Traymore, who has professed to love her, slips away into the darkness.

Virginia Dale—Mrs. Vansittart's ward is a blase beauty, who counts Traymore among her many swains. She is the belle of the ball, but she is disappointed not to find among her many admirers

Peter Armstrong—a brilliant young inventor, clever and ambitious. He meets Prudence in her head-long flight from the ballroom, and after confessing that his love has proved false—from this Prudence deduces that he is in love with Virginia—he persuades the girl to return to the dance with him.

Prudence creates a sensation by reappearing at the ball with Peter, who is something of a social "lion."

CHAPTER XX.

Her Choice.

By the force of his won magnetic personality, Peter Armstrong had transformed the shy young Prudence from a shrinking wallflower to a sort of little queen!

"May I have the pleasure of a dance, Miss Page?"

"I know your programme must be overflowing; but couldn't you spare me the 'first extra'?"

"Do have a glass of iced coffee?"

"May I take you in to super?"

"There are half-a-dozen fr ends of m ne who want to meet you. Could you spare a moment . . . ?"

These phrases, uttered by a variety of gentlemen of all ages, shapes, and sizes, fell on Prudence's unaccustomed ears. The change, since meeting Peter Armstrong, had been so swift and sudden that the girl felt almost dazed.

But she was human, too, and in the midst of her confusion she felt a strange exhilaration, and a deep gratitude to the kindly man who had proved a real knight-errant to a damsel-in-distress.

"I—I'm afraid I don't know how to dance," she would reply, uncertainly, to these many offers, looking up at Peter Armstrong for advice. "If you don't mind my making mistakes, I'm willing to try . . ."

"That's the right spirit," her knight-errant whispered to her. Then, in a normal voice, so that anyone might hear: "And don't forget to come straight back to your chaperon—that's me, young lady!—when the dance is ended!"

So, Prudence, in naive fashion, had returned to her new-found champion every time.

They had not been left alone together for a single moment.

Armstrong's friends and Prudence's new admirers quite surrounded them.

"Almost like a wedding couple receiving congratulations!" a fatuous youth tittered to Virginia Dale, who, pale under her rouge with envy and with chagrin, was glaring across the ballroom at the girl who, under Peter's banner, was now attracting more attention than herself.

"Little idiot! It's outrageous, the way she's clinging on to Peter!"

The fatuous youth giggled again, in a high falsetto.

"Oh, don't pity him! He loves it! She's mighty pretty, isn't she?"

Virginia tilted up her shapely nose. "For those who admire the dairy-made M maid type, maybe."

"I say, d'you know her?" The boy was suddenly eager. "Could you introduce me to her?"

This was too much. Virginia turned her back on him and walked away.

Just by the door she encountered Bertram Traymore, who was looking all agog. He had just been told of the arrival of a brand-new beauty, and was hot on the quest. Bertram loved to be 'in the swim,' and would have worshipped at whatever shrine was fashionable, or 'the rage.'

"Where is she, Jinny?" he blurted out, forgetful of diplomacy.

"Who?" The siren's voice was cold as ice.

"The new girl. Old Cumbermere told one of the fellows that's she's just arrived, and is as pretty as a picture." His glance was questing round the room, and came to anchor on a bevy of black coats which formed a thick wall round . . .

"Good heavens!" It wasn't . . . yes, it was—Prudence!

"You'd better go and make it up with her now she's become so popular! You're a time-server, Bert, and I hope she snubs you for the way you've treated her!" Jinny spat out at him, and darted into the supper-room where, no doubt, many of her cronies would be found.

Fickle creatures, men! Ready to run after any pretty face!

But what really galled was Peter Armstrong's sudden championing of the country damsel.

What on earth did he see in her?

One wouldn't have suspected that she was so 'deep.' 'Still waters,' of course, did run that way!

Sly little creature, playing the helpless kitten! She'd been clever enough to guess that big, strong men had a certain instinct of chivalry towards weaker things . . .

Why hadn't she—Virginia—taken up that 'line' herself?

Bert Traymore hurried across the ballroom towards 'his girl.'

Hang it all! she was his girl; and he'd soon show all these fools who fluttered round her where the land lay!

Not, of course, that it wasn't flattering to his vanity to have her made a public fuss of. It put her value up, considerably. 'Nothing succeeds like success,' and at the beginning of the evening she had hung fire . . .

All was changed now, and he'd claim his own.

"See here, Prudence, you've treated me darned badly. Where've you been hiding all this time? I've spent ages searching for you." He had thrust his way through the wall of black coats and stood directly in front of the girl, who was seated between Peter Armstrong and that old ass, Cumbermere. "What you've been up to?"

"Casting sweetness and light on worthier objects!" rapped out old Cumbermere, with more acumen than he usually displayed.

"This is my dance," persisted Traymore, offering his arm to Prudence. "Come, please,"—and his bold, blue eyes looked into hers, ardent, compelling, weaving the spell anew . . .

The young girl hesitated, but his glance held her irresistably, and slowly she rose as though hypnotized.

Peter Armstrong had championed her to-night after Bert's desertion . . . Peter and Bert were at daggers drawn . . . Bert had hurt her terribly, but Peter had poured salve upon the wounds . . . and yet . . . and yet . . .

In front of all of them she rose and followed Bert.

Efficient Housekeeping

The modern idea of economy extends into the household as well as into every branch of business. Most housewives pride themselves upon the fact that their homes are conducted in an efficient, business-like manner.

Every housewife knows, too, that the business of running a house, providing for the wants and needs of the different members of the family and meeting the almost daily emergencies is second to none.

The Want Ads. in the Examiner are a great boon to the efficient housewife. In securing helpers, in purchasing various articles of household equipment, disposing of discarded furniture, in fact in countless ways, the Want Ads. are the housewife's most valuable assistant.

CURIOSITY MAKES PERSONS EXPLORE.

We Can Go Virtually Anywhere We Desire on Land Or on Sea.

(By Albert Apple)

Five thousand years ago, in the Stone Age, primitive men in Britain used jagged flint tools to fell a big oak tree. They hollowed out of the trunk a boat 11 feet long and 3 feet wide. This boat, the most ancient ever discovered, is dug out of the in the mud that had preserved it Elmley Ferry Marshes, deep down from decay.

Picture the men who slowly and laboriously carved this boat into shape. They knew nothing of the earth except the territory of a few miles in which they roamed. But something urged them to explore farther and farther through the dense forests. The same something prompted them to make the tree-trunk boat and venture down the nearby waterway.

That something was "curiosity," the mighty force behind all progress.

Scientists believe that man has lived on the earth at least 500,000 year. Yet it was not until 431 years ago that Europe, which at the time imagined itself highly civilised, learned of the existence of the American continent through the curiosity of Columbus.

In a few centuries we have mastered the unknown parts of the world until only a small section of the globe remains uncharted.

We can go virtually anywhere we desire on land and on sea.

With land and sea conquered, and inquisitive man even travelling under the water in submarines, only the ocean depths and the air remain for exploration.

Prophecy is dangerous in science, but it seems improbable that explorers ever will get very deep in the ocean. They can learn the secrets of the ocean's depths by clawing dredges at the end of long cables. They can lower strong cameras, electrically operated and emitting enough light to take pictures at certain depths. But man never will be able to go in person, in submarines, to the deepest floors of the ocean. There the terrible weight of the water would crush the explorer and his craft.

So we turn to the air, are mastering it swiftly in the matters of speed and distance close to the earth's surface. Visionaries dream of a time when man will fly out among the stars exploring other worlds.

This is romantic, fires the imagination. But the flying machine as now constructed must have air in which to fly, same as a fish can swim only in water. And at some distance estimated at 100 miles or less, our earth's atmosphere ends.

Beyond that, the temperature is at least 100 below zero.

UNION PROSPECTS AROUSE CHURCHES

Historical Ardour of Methodists is Awakened by Prospects of Church Union--Remember Founder.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, March 17.—John Wesley and Early Methodism are themes unusually prominent in the anniversary celebrations held so far in 1924 among the Methodists of the Dominion. So far as can be ascertained, this recrudescence of pride in traditions has not burst forth into any unseemly attacks on sister churches, but it seems to have served strongly to inspire historians in Methodist pulpits and congregations.

The present bids fair to be a year of centenaries and other important commemorations in Methodist churches throughout Canada. Not only is it the centennial of the Missionary Society of the Wesleyans, but already two churches in Ontario have celebrated their first century of existence. Methodism came to the forks of the Thames long prior to 1824; but it was in that year that the forerunners of the present congregation of First Church, London, organized as a society. In the same year the fur traders, at the new market just established at what is now the southerly terminus of the Newmarket canal, found a circuit rider in their midst laying foundations for the congregational growth which resulted in last month's centenary of Newmarket Methodist Church.

A few months ago it was thought that the Methodist spirit was dying out in view of Church Union developments, but the crop of Methodist events recalled at the 85th anniversary recently in Norwich, Ontario, was the Clark revival of 1876, still remembered by the older members. At that time the membership increased from 165 to 500 in a year. Rev. Richard Clark was then the pastor.

Norwood's financial record was complete enough to disclose the fact that in the first year the church raised $78 for its own minister, the balance of his salary coming from the Missionary Society. To-day, total receipts are $5,000, of which $1,500 goes to the Missionary Society.

Novel Methods.

Novel methods of celebration are rarely discovered, but Wellington Street Church, London, Ontario, is an exception to this rule, having hit upon the happy idea of obtaining and unveiling at one time the photographs of sixteen former pastors, many of them still living.

Galt Methodism continues researches into history with much success in filling out the details of a somewhat slow but steady progress in this Scottish centre. Seven of the nineteen ministers in charge in the last forty-five years survive. "John Wesley and Methodism" was the theme of Professor Johnston's principal address at the anniversary.

In another equally Scottish neighbourhood—Fergus, Ontario—the Methodist congregation celebrated its semi-centennial in February by opening a new $8,000 parsonage. The time was of mingled joy and sadness by reason of the death of a former pastor, the second former pastor to die in two years.

As if to make sure that Methodist connections would never be entirely forgotten in this generation, Rev. W. S. Daniels, D.D., preaching to his former parishioners at Troy, Ontario, on their golden jubilee, told the story of John Wesley and early Methodism.

Although only forty years old, the congregation of Dartford, near Warkworth, heard their fathers tell of the rude schoolhouse in which services were first held. The building furnished only a few seats, and so slabs were carried in on Sunday to accommodate the people.

Accounts of the advent of Methodism to Mosquito Cove, now Kingsville, N.B., and thence onwards to Fairville were given at the sixty-second anniversary of Fairville Church

From East and West alike the word has been received at Methodist offices that the past is being searched into for records of sacrifices and service under Methodist banners. London made the centenary of First Church an occasion of rejoicing and reminiscence in all her Methodist pulpits, and it looks as if quite a heritage of sentiment and history is being gathered up on the eve of Union.

By BOB DORMAN.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, March 17.—Why has Mexico so many revolutions?

At the present moment the Balkans of America are finishing their presidential primary, with bullets cast instead of ballots.

The returns are about all in—the Government seems to have been the winner.

But behind it all—this selecting presidents with bullets instead of with ballots—there is a reason.

And that reason is—Indians.

For the population of Mexico is essentially Indian.

Eighty-five per cent. are of Indian and mixed blood, with the Indian traits predominating.

And the Indian has never with any great degree of success accepted the white man's civilization.

To cross the border into Mexico is to turn back the clock of time 200 years—in some ways.

From modern Pullmans running on a modern railway one looks out upon a land cultivated as it was in centuries past.

Oxen hooked to a forked stick plow the earth.

Water is drawn by hand in buckets from wells in order to irrigate the fields.

Of course, the big estates under the management of the foreigner use the most modern agricultural implements.

But the natives do not like modern implements.

Take the case of the Santa Inez ranch near Cuatla.

Two carloads of the most modern agricultural implements were installed under the urge of an American salesman. The wages of the workers were doubled. New houses of wood were constructed for them.

A year later the American returned, thinking that with the showing this ranch must have made under progressive management, he would be able to make large sales to the neighboring ranches.

He found the modern implements, broken and rusted, stored in a barn.

The wages were back to normal and the workers were once more living in the brush shacks to which they were accustomed.

They had deliberately wrecked the new implements; the larger wages had caused them to lay off as soon as they had earned the amount to which they were accustomed; and the nice, new wooden houses were gratefully received as it saved them the labor of obtaining firewood from the woods.

Extreme, maybe—but typical.

The Indian is by heredity adverse to labor. He prefers to hunt and fish.

The accumulation of wealth, the provision against old age, the ambition to rise above his fellows, have no part in his makeup.

With the country at peace under an imitation of civilized government, he must work in order to live.

But in a state of war, with freedom to steal and loot, with his support coming from the country off which he lives, his life is an ideal one. He takes his women to war with him, to do his cooking, to do the chores that must be done.

He is again the warrior, with no duty except to fight and to amuse himself.

Hence he is easily led to take the work—from civilized duties that irk warpath. It means freedom from him.

He follows some leader, it doesn't matter whom. If captured he joins the victor. He isn't fighting for a principle—just because he loves fighting, because it frees him from the necessity of work.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

There will always be a difference of opinion concerning the position of the country in the round of the business cycle, as long as there is a business cycle.

If all economists gave the same predictions for the future course of the business cycle, they would make themselves wrong.

If every one agreed that next month the stock market would fall, it would fall tomorrow, because everybody would liquidate to be ahead of the break.

If every one agreed on predictions, there would be no swings in business. Consumption and production would always balance, because every one would know just what to expect.

The mere fact that there is a business cycle proves that there is a difference of opinion in forecasting and as long as we have the cycle, we will have differences of opinion.

One main advantage of a stock or commodity exchange lies in its ability to forecast coming events. Many times companies are able to weather adverse factors in various trades because the market warned them.

Consider the position of the manufacturers of cotton goods. Last year the cotton market soared and futures in cotton were high, too.

This warned the dealer in cotton goods that there would probably be a shortage of cotton. Consequently he, in turn, was probably able to decrease the rate of consumption of cotton goods and to some extent stem the demand for cotton.

If there had been no exchange to warn of this impending shortage it is possible that there would have been a period when all of the cotton would have been used up, and there would have been none available until the new crop came in.

During the last term there were 8,283 women students in German universities. They were scattered through all departments, particularly in the larger universities.

Y. M. C. A. AVENUE IN GREECE

SALONKAI (Greece), March 17.—The Young Men's Christian Association in every community of America, and the movement in general throughout the world, has been honored in extraordinary ways by the City Council and the public of this city, by the Governor-General of this Province, and by the Government of Greece itself. The expression of these honors has centered about the laying of the cornerstone of a modern Y.M.C.A. building for this city and the visit here of Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary of the International Committee of the Y.M.C.A.

The City Council has given the name of Y.M.C.A. Avenue to one of the city thoroughfares and John R. Mott Street to another. It is at the intersection of these highways that the cornerstone of the new building has just been laid. The ceremonies included the blessing of the cornerstone by the Metropolitan of the Greek Orthodox Church.

Dr. Mott is acclaimed in the newspapers here as "the world's most useful man." Many columns are being devoted to comment upon him and upon the movement that he represents. He has been made an honorary citizen of this ancient city, the Thessalonica of Bible history, now the metropolis of Macedonia. The population is upwards of three hundred thousand. He is the guest of the Governor-General at his palace. The culmination of the honors accorded him was a state dinner, where, at the direction of the National Government, he was decorated with the Order of the Holy Savior. To-day Dr. Mott, with the Metropolitan, addressed a special service in the Cathedral.

The site of the new Y.M.C.A. building was provided by the municipality of Salonika. A conditional gift of $50,000 was arranged through the International Committee, dependent on the raising of the balance by the Greek Committee. The Metropolitan, who is the head of the Greek Orthodox Church in Salonika, is the honorary president of the Y.M.C.A. here. He expects soon to visit America.

The secretary of the Salonika Y.M.C.A. is Ulius L. Amoss, formerly of Baltimore. His service there has included the trying period when the vast horde of refugees from Anatolia and Thrace poured into Salonika and Northern Greece following the recapture of Smyrna by the Turks. Y.M.C.A. service in Salonika has been a combination of welfare and relief work, but the goal has been constantly kept in view to establish Y.M.C.A. work on the basis familiar to the young men and boys of American communities. Military and civilian officers, leading citizens, and lesser members of the community have co-operated in the development of the work, so that Mr. Amoss is able to point to a condition which promises continued progress. The Prime Minister of Greece recently stated in a letter: "The American Y.M.C.A. has taught the people of Greece to trust its leadership and programme. Our country needs this Christian brotherhood for its moral strengthening."

Mr. Amoss was recently awarded, by royal decree, the highest national decoration of Greece, and Mrs. Amoss was awarded the highest military cross. These decorations were in recognition of their service in the relief work.

The American Bible Society reports that during 1923 more than 2,395,000 copies of the Bible, in over 100 languages and dialects, were distributed in this country alone. This circulation nearly doubles that of last year, and further fortifies the position of the Bible as the world's best seller.

OWEN J. ROBERTS BIG GAME HUNTER.

It's the Thrill of the Chase and Not the Zest of the Kill.

BY HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Stalking big game is the favorite sport of Owen J. Roberts.

He spends a month of each year up in the Maine woods, stalking bear and moose.

Now he is stalking big game in Washington. Roberts and Atlee Pomerene former senator from Ohio, have been named special prosecutors by President Coolidge in the naval oil lease cases.

But it's the thrill of the chase, rather than the zest of the kill, in which Roberts finds his greatest pleasure. He may stalk a moose all day, working his way miles through the forests, only to refuse to shoot when he has his quarry cornered.

Six Feet of Energy

Whether this analogy will follow in the chase of the big game Roberts has now been set to stalk, remains to be seen.

However, in this case, he may regard the quarry as a bear. And while Roberts often passes up the moose, he usually lands the bear.

A powerfully-built, muscular man of over six feet, Roberts conveys an impression of limitless energy and driving force.

Strong features; widely spaced eyes, wide mouth, the long nose of an inquisitor and a bit of bulldog about the square lines of his jaw. Hair a trifle gray about the temples. A brisk, alert manner and an aura of physical vigor and mental keenness.

Senator Pepper, of Pennsylvania, who recommended Roberts to President Collidge, describes Roberts as "a fighting Welshman." Although of Welsh descent, Roberts was born in Germantown, a suburb of Philadelphia, 48 years ago. His father, Josephus Roberts, now 88, still lives in the house where "Ownie", as he calls his son, was born.

When the Roberts education had progressed to the point where a decision as to his life's work was desirable, his father suggested law. Owen demurred.

Honesty Put First

"Lawyers aren't honest," he declared. "I want to teach school."

The matter finally was put to Dr. William Kershaw, headmaster of Germantown Academy.

"Can I be a lawyer and be honest?" Owen asked.

"My boy," Kershaw replied, "you can be honest at anything."

So the die was cast for the law. He received his degree in law from Pennsylvania University, where Senator Pepper was one of his instructors.

After graduation he was for a time an instructor in the law school—following his original bent to be a teacher. Soon, however, he gave this up to enter the practice of law.

Beginning as an assistant district attorney in Philadelphia, he built up a civil practice which for the past 10 years has kept him in court, as a trial lawyer, almost continuously. To handle the necessary preparation and office work of his practice has required working full-tilt for from 12 to 16 hours a day.

Cornetist, Too.

Roberts doesn't play golf. He doesn't drive a speedy roadster. He doesn't dance. For 11 months of each year his law practice is his life, and he gives himself to it without reserve.

The other month he specifically sets aside, for building up his physical reserve in the Maine woods—camping, hunting, fishing, tramping endless miles.

Roberts is married and has one daughter, a debutante of this season.

His one avocation has been as a cornetist, which instrument he used to play in the Third Baptist Church. Later, however, he joined the Episcopal church and gave up tooting even his own horn.

"Roberts," his acquaintances here maintain, "will get down to brass tacks in this investigation.

MAKE YOUR LIFE LIKE CLOCKWORK.

Paving Bricks Have Been Reduced From Sixty-Six Different Kinds to Six.

By ALBERT APPLE.

Mattresses and bedsprings used to be made in 78 different sizes and styles, but now there are only four kinds. This is a sample of the work done by Uncle Sam's Division of Simplified Practice, organized by Herbert Hoover. This organization induces manufacturers to get together and eliminate unnecessary varieties of articles and sizes.

The idea is to standardize and simplify the manufacture and distribution of commodities. Which, obviously, saves much money and confusion.

Paving bricks have been reduced from 66 styles and sizes to six. Milk bottles are now made in only nine sizes and types, compared with 49 formerly. And there's only one kind of milk bottle cap—doing the work of 29 old-time varieties.

Hotel chinaware is made in 243 varieties, against 700 before Hoover's organization got busy. There are only 496 kinds of files and rasps on the market, where there used to be 1,351. So goes the story, standardization conquering thousands of articles and processes.

The work seems barely started. Cotton goods finishers are considering using only 44 colors instead of 900. And so on.

* * *

It's not many years since people laughed at the efficiency experts who came forward and demonstrated how to drive a nail with three strokes of the hammer instead of half a dozen or so. Similarly, men were shown how to carry more bricks on a hod.

Then American industry plunged into a period of "eliminating lost motion and duplication of effort." Short-cuts were sought in every sort of productive process.

The "efficiency craze" spread to the distribution of commodities, especially the sales end. Large corporations installed salesmanship schools in which every possible argument against the firm's product was taken up, and the best answer given. Net result: a prospective customer couldn't raise an objection that wouldn't be answered immediately by the glib tongue of the salesman.

* * *

Thus have we moved into an era of efficiency—or, in simpler words, an age of short-cuts. Undoubtedly we're producing more than ever before, and in less time, thanks to efficiency engineers.

But where's the thing going to stop? Life is at least two-thirds a clockwork proposition already. The tendency is growing, to have our hours, habits, recreations and even thoughts regulated by the efficiency experts. The system will not be complete until all men at 50 will be grabbed and given the monkey gland treatment, and the year of death standardized.

We have demonstrated that man can be made R. U. R.—a machine. But are we any happier for it?

NATIONAL PARKS RICH ASSET AT SMALL COST

Canada's Scenic Reserves Presented in Pictures to Marmora Audience In Lecture Course--Tourists Attracted By Beauty and Roads.

MARMORA, March 17. — The seventh lectrue of the university extension course was given by Professor Laing of Toronto University on Friday evening, March 14, on the subject, 'Canadian National Parks.'

The speaker was introduced by Rev. P. Watson, who deplored the fact that these lectures were so poorly patronized. He said he had the reputation of saying what he meant, and he said if a lecture was advertised to tell how a man could get rich in a very short time, the hall would be packed and no standing room, but when a patriotic subject like this was advertised the attendance was so small.

Professor Laing said his subject should interest everyone who had a spark of Canadian enthusiasm. Canada is rich in institutions of many kinds, but she also has a rich heritage in territory and natural scenery. One great advantage that this heritage has is that there is no upkeep and requires no care. The more of it we sell, the greater the demand, and it costs nothing to sell it except the cost of roads leading to our natural scenery.

Attractive to Tourists.

It earns a great amount of money for our country. The tourist trade of 1922 brought Canada over $100,000,000. The scenery traffic was the second largest source of income to our country—agriculture being first. But Professor Laing said it was like bringing coal to Newcastle to talk scenery here where we had so much natural beauty.

Professor Laing said his work was providing ways and means for selling this heritage, by means of road construction, etc. He said we were all road builders—we made our own roads. But we had another great national heritage in our young people, and the road building there was character. The clergy were interested in this road building—operations on character, and were naturally the chief engineers in advising young people how "to mend their ways."

The pictures shown were all from Western Canada, mainly around Jarpar Park, the Rockie, Banff district and south to Vancouver. But the series of pictures were wonderful in natural coloring, clearness of detail and vividness in description.

The Professor said the American tourists generally claim the Canadian Rockers excell in beauty of scenery, the whole Rocky range.

Animals Are Protected.

Jaspar Park, which was first shown, is twelve hours' run from Edmonton, near Yellowstone Pass, and is 4,000 acres in area. As hunting is prohibited, the animal life can be studied at close range, as the animals have no fear and become accustomed to man.

A number of pictures showed animal life in natural surroundings: a porcupine on a stump, a lynx climbing into a boat, a brown bear climbing a tree, a bird eating out of a frying pan. There was also a number of pictures showing the brilliant flowers of that region.

But the pictures showing the lakes in the valley surrounded by the mountains, the intense blueness of the water and the deep reflections of the mountains in the water, also the deep gulches or gorges, showing the clefts in the rugged rock, with sometimes a wonderful waterfall, or a road built along the side of the mountain. Then the mountains showing the white snow or the deep blue shade of the glacier; then again the peaceful valleys, rich in vegetation, and pretty lakes; all these seem beyond description, and filled the audience with awe as they gazed on the handiwork of the Maker and reverence and patriotism as we could breathe, "my own country."

Other pictures showed the wonderful [illegible] and highways which are being constructed to make it possible to bring these wonderful spots to the tourist who wishes to see them. These roads cost a great deal of money, as it costs $500 an acre to remove the stumps alone.

At the close of the lecture, the chairman announced that there was just one lecture more in the series, a lecture on "India" by Professor Moore of Toronto University, on Friday, April 11.

A hearty vote of thanks was given the lecturer. Then the National Anthem.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief. 40c and 75c, at all druggists.

HASTINGS FIRE FIGHTERS READY

Ready to Eat Smoke and Go Through Fire and Water.

HASTINGS, March 17. — The Hastings' Fire Brigade is now ready for any fire calls that may unexpectedly arrive from any part of village.

The first meeting was held on Monday evening March 10 and considering the little differences that have come up amongst the brigade a very good crowd was present.

As the chief was appointed by the Council on Friday night last, the sub chief was the first to be elected. This was done on a motion by S. Hatherly and J. Mullholland that Leo Rivard be appointed to the office.

The second sub-chief appointed was W. Wellman and this was moved by L. Rivard and R. Dainard.

S. Hatherly will be treasurer.

The Chief appointed W. Wellman and J. Mulholland as the chemical company.

Hose Foreman, Robt. Dainard.

Hook and Ladder foreman, Leo Rivard.

Trustees, Chief Scriver, S. Hatherly and L. Rivard.

First Branch, O. Phillips, R. McConnel.

Second Branch, A. V. German, M. Simpson.

Third Branch, J. Carberry, J. Mullholland.

At a subsequent meeting the treasurer's report was read and accepted The following accounts were read and treasurer instructed to pay same.

T. A. Coughlan, $3.15;; J. J. Armstrong, 90c; Alex. Wilson, $2.40 H. Petersul $2.00.

A satisfactory arrangements had not been made at the previous meeting regarding a secretary. Mr. Georg. Brooks was elected to the of fice.

The firemen have decided to see about re-decorating the walls of the club rooms.

The meeting then adjourned until Wednesday evening March 19, 1922.

The firemen on the roll book are as follows: Honorary Chief. W. M. Fowlds; Chief, Wm. Scriver; 1st sub Chief L. Rivard; 2nd sub-chief W. Wellman; Treasurer, S. Hatherly; Secretary Geogre Brooks; Fireman W. Montgomery, B. Clapper, A. V. German, R. Dainard, J. Mullholland J. Gould; J. Carberry; R. McConnel; M. Simpson; J. West, O. Phillips.

BOY'S BAD COLD TURNED TO BRONCHITIS

The frequency with which bronchitis develops into pneumonia is appreciated by very few mothers. The danger of pneumonia is, probably, well understood too, but how many mothers take into consideration that a neglected attack of bronchitis frequently leads to this dangerous disease.

We would advise all mothers to give their children Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup the first moment they show any symptoms of a cold or cough as by doing this they save them from an attack of bronchitis or pneumonia.

Mrs. Lawrence Quick, Sandwich, Ont. writes:—"My little boy, six years old, had a bad cold which turned to bronchitis. I tried every thing I thought would be best for it but did not see him getting any better. I was told to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after giving him two bottles he got wonderful relief. I cannot praise it enough."

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

March Meeting of Ladies' Aid Society — Vote on Prohibition.

MILLBROOK, March 17.—The March meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church was held this week at the home of Miss May Duncan. The President, Miss M. Needham, occupied the chair, the Secretary, Mrs. Ross Edmunds, reading the minutes of the last meeting, and the Treasurer, Miss Duncan, receiving the membership fees.

After the devotional period a number of business items were discussed and committees appointed to attend to necessary details in connection with same. The Treasurer reported that $38.22 was cleared at the recent sale of home-made baking, Mrs. A. J. Brown, who was convener of the committee in charge of the sale, being congratulated upon its successful outcome.

The April meeting will be held at Miss A. Hampton's, when the annual election of officers will take place and all annual reports must be handed in.

The vocal solo by Miss Needham was much enjoyed. No formal programme had been arranged for the meeting except the discussion of business items, and at its conclusion a pleasant social hour was spent and a vote of thanks tendered Miss Duncan for the hospitality of her home.

Standing Vote.

The necessity of the temperance people of the Province protesting strongly against any change in the Ontario Temperance Act was presented in a brief but clear-cut manner by the pastor, Rev. S. T. Tucker, before his morning congregation recently, and as a result by a unanimous standing vote the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, that inasmuch as we believe that the O.T.A. is far superior to Government sale, and that sufficient time has not been given to demonstrate its growing efficiency in controlling the liquor traffic, we therefore depreciate the desire on the part of a few to put the Province to the unnecessary expense of another referendum so soon after the decisive votes of recent years, but hope that the present Act, strengthened and safeguarded, will receive the hearty support of the Government, and may become increasingly effective in the regulation and suppression of the liquor traffic."

The Recording Secretary, W. G. Hetherington, was instructed to forward a copy of the resolution to the Premier, Hon. Howard Ferguson.

News Briefs.

The fact that bread is not a common article of diet in China, as pointed out in a recent bulletin from the Federal Department of Agriculture, may be a matter that is not of general knowledge. But it is of especial interest to the farmer because agents of Chinese milling industries are now in Canada studying our wheat and methods of marketing, and if these same milling interests succeed in their campaign to popularize bread among the millions of their countrymen, millions of bushels of Canadian wheat, and proportionately large quantities of our flour, will be exported annually to China to satisfy this demand. What effect this may have upon prices and on the quantity of wheat grown will be determined when it is known just how responsive the slow-moving Chinese are to the propoganda to induce them to eat bread.

Dr. A. Weatherhead of Toronto was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Elson over the week-end.

Miss Mabel Lord of Beaverton is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Lord.

Mrs. J. T. V. May of Toronto, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. L. Burnham, for the past five weeks, returned home on Friday.

Mrs. W. Bingham left this week for Los Angeles, Cal., where she will join her husband, who has spent the winter in the south, and who intends to reside permanently in California.

Mrs. B. C. Whyte returned on Friday from Toronto where she has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. A. B. Lefroy.

Mrs. R. H. Edmunds returned on Friday after a week's visit with relatives in Port Hope.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Parton

THE BEANSTALK SCARECROW

"I'm the Scarecrow of Beanstalk Land."

"Would you mind taking your foot out of my eye?" asked a voice suddenly.

Nancy and Nick were so surprised they nearly fell off the top of the queer looking strawstack, up which they had just climbed.

"Who are you?" called Nancy. "Who is talking?"

"I'm the Scarecrow of Beanstolk Land," said the strawstack. "And you are sticking your toes into all sorts of places. When you were climbing up my ribs, you tickled me so I was afraid I would shake you off with my shivering. But one thing I must speak about, and that is my eyes. If you put them out I can't watch for the crows. True, my eyes are only made of corn cobs, as are also my nose and mouth, but they are all the more likely to fall out."

The Twins were amazed to hink that they had climbed all the way to the top of such an important person without knowing it. Who would ever dream of a scarecrow being as high as the park monument?

"We're awfully sorry," apologized Nick. "We'll get down at once."

"No, don't, please," begged the scarcrow. "I love to have company, even if they do sit on my head. I get so lonely out here in the field with nobody to talk to. You've no idea what it's like. Do you know any stories?"

"Lots," said Nancy.

"Oh, do tell me one," urged the scarecrow. "If you tell me one, I'll tell you one. That's fair."

"Yes, indeed!" declared Nancy. No she told him the story about the scarecrow in Squealy-Moo Land, who hit the strange dog with his stick, when he went to steal the bone Fido had buried at the scarecrow's feet.

"So, you see, a scarecrow can be a hero, even if he does not stand in a corn field and never move," said Nick. "Some people say that his stick was ready to drop anyway, but we know better. He told us so himself. And he saved Fido's bone and the strange dog never came back."

"That's a lovely story!" sighed the scarecrow. "I know how he must have felt. I'm quite sure that some day, if the crows don't stop pestering me, I, too, shall lose my temper completely and give a dozen of them a trouncing."

"Don't forget your story!" reminded Nancy.

"No, I shant!" declared the scarecrow. "I'll begin at once. It's about burying, too! One dark night I was awakened by voices quite near me. The moon was under a cloud and I couldn't see a thing, but I heard every word. One man said, 'Let's bury it here. No one will ever think of looking!'

"Another one said, 'A very good idea! The corn will grow up soon and it will be as safe here as a bank.'

"'Rich corn, it ought to be!' laughed another as though he had made a joke.

"Then I heard digging and all sorts of noises and the men went away. But when the moon came out, there was a mound of fresh dirt and I knew they had put something into the ground."

"What was it?" cried Nick eagerly. "It sounds like pirates."

"I never found out," declared the scarecrow, "and I've nearly died of curiosity. Whatever it was it is there yet, for all the wicked giants in Beanstalk land were killed long ago, and I think this must have been their treasure.

HIS SLUGGISH LIVER MADE HIM FEEL DROWSY AND TIRED ALL THE TIME

When your liver becomes sluggish and inactive your whole health suffers, and the only way you can get back to feeling right is to make your liver right.

This you can do by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills as they will stimulate the sluggish liver clean away all waste and poisonous matter from the system, and prevent, as well as relieve, all complications arising from a liver that has become inactive.

Mr. E. Hazel East Florenceville N.B., writes: —"I had been troubled with my liver and felt drowsy and tired all the time, and was unable to do my work with any comfort. I took your Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and to-day I am a different man, and would not be without them in the house."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

A satisfactory reducing diet must furnish enough of the rebuilding food (proteins) for daily bodily use in tissue building. But since its calory value is well below the average daily amount demanded by the body, from 2500 to 3500 calories daily, the deficiency must be supplied from the fat stored up in your body. This of course, causes loss of weight.

Gradual reduction, calling for a weight decrease of from one to two pounds each week, is the objective sought. Gradually modify your diet. Take light exercise at first but gradually increase.

Make up your mind to give up your favorite sweets. You are in for reducing and one year should show good results.

A balanced diet must be maintained if the greatest foods is to be accomplished. The fats are to be avoided, but protein or body building food, starch, sugar and mineral salts must be carefully balanced.

Here is a good beginning diet for daily use:

Breakfast—Small portion of fruit. Two eggs or a small portion of any lean meat. One cup of coffee, without sugar and small amount of milk; do not use cream.

Lunch—Clear soup; no rice or noodles. Two slices of bread or butter. Green vegetables of any kind; small portion. Small portion of lean meat. Cup of tea or water.

Dinner—One cup of clear soup. One slice of bread, small pat of butter. Non-fat meat, one small piece. One potato or small portion of carrots or beets. Small cup of tea; no sugar.

Try this diet for a month, with very little variation. Always drink a fair amount of water, at least one pint during the day. Walking is the best exercise to start with your reducing.

This program will be extended in a later article.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

WHY PROHIBITION DOES NOT PROHIBIT.

The experience of the Western Provinces is that prohibition does not prohibit. They are, accordingly, turning from it to another form of government-control, because that is what prohibition is. It is merely a form of government control, or control by the government—which has failed. Why? Because the demand for whisky is such that people will pay enough for it to make smuggling, perjury, and even murder, pay well. Prohibition, therefore, has brought about a much worse state of affairs than existed before. Of course, if you judge only by the number of drunks on the street you would think prohibition a success—but behind all that has arisen a condition of affairs that, so General Williams, the Chief of the Provincial Police, says, completely baffles them. And then, there is home-brew. Since anybody can take a quart sealer of black currants, empty it into a large stone demijohn, fill that up with water, and by putting it corked in a warm room, and shaking it daily for ten days, and then let it settle, have a highly alcoholic, wholesome and palatable wine, the forcible abolition of alcohol as a beverage becomes impossible. Like other vices, the vice of intemperance must be treated differently. So much for the practical side of the question. Let us turn to the theoretical side. Has a man a right to take whisky provided he does so within the usual acknowledged limits for all things? Not publicly, if the public says not. Has he, then, the right to do so in his own house? He has, within the limits of that universal reasonableness which governs everything—if he has private rights as a man at all. This latter fact so completely upset the prohibitionist in his argument for force, that he at last was driven to declare that there is no such thing as private rights. When this declaration was finally made in The Pioneer, the official organ of the Dominion Alliance, I protested. I wrote to that paper, and asked the Editor, the Rev. Ben. Spence, if he meant to contend that a private individual had no rights at all, and the paper, on March 7th, 1920, replied to me editorially as follows: "It is not the assertion of individual rights, but the subordination of them . . . that leads to . . . a higher social unity." Since Prohibition is founded on force, The Pioneer might have added: "And what we think must go, not only regarding whisky, but anything else. Other people have got to do as we say. We plainly know what is best. We lay down the law, and other people must subordinate their private rights to our dictation." So that it will be seen the Prohibitionist simply means that what he says must go, and that there cannot be any further opinion about it. This principle carried out in other ways as well as in the drink question, leads right back to the days of the cave-man, when the strongest ruled and had his way. When civilization arose, liberty of the subject, of the individual arose also, and if that liberty is not maintained, then civilization, such as we know it, ceases to be, and we will have to go back to where we were ten thousand, or perhaps one hundred thousand, years ago. In addition to the development of civilization and liberty, something else came into our ken, and that is Christianity, which stated that men had failed, and could attain eternal life only by and through a Saviour. So that Prohibition ignores Christianity. Instead of relying upon Christianity as the great central saving power which, when believed in, makes a new and perfect man, it says that a man must be made to do right, forced to do what he ought to do by civil law; and Prohibitionists, taking the place of Christ, will tell him what he ought to do—and must do. Prohibition maintains that Christianity is a failure. Thus civilization, liberty, and Christianity are all to be supplanted by the new-old theory of the will of a portion of the people, enforced by civil law and powerful penalties. Sin is taken out of the moral or religious sphere and put into the ordinary everyday material sphere. Spirituality is voted a myth, and materiality and the works of men the proper substitute. How long such a simple solution of the difficulties of mankind will continue to find support it is difficult to say. It depends upon how long people will rely upon themselves, and how long others will submit to the loss of their right to think for themselves. Now, this right to think for themselves, which Prohibition and The Pioneer propose to abolish, is the real basis of Prohibition.

If Prohibitionists have no right to think for themselves, what are they doing it for? And why are they not only thinking for themselves, but for other people too? The right to think cannot, therefore, be denied, and as it carries with it the right to think what one, within the usual limits of reason, chooses to think, the very force to which Prohibitionists appeal, would, if applied to themselves, put them out of business. Prohibition is, therefore, a contradiction. The remedy for excessive drinking has not yet been found outside of Christianity and the will of the drinking man. If a man is to be free, he must be free to do what other people may consider wrong. He must be allowed, in his capacity as a private individual, to work out his own salvation, or, if he will have it, his own ruin. The substitution of a gospel of Force for personal responsibility and Christianity and the moral law, means the right of one man to rule another as he sees fit, and will lead in the future, as it has done in the past, to hatred, war, perjury, murder, bootlegging, and all the abominations which drink has led to, and many more beside, intensified ten-fold. Had there been any other way than Christ's way of offering man a means of redemption, we must assume that it would have been adopted, and the denial of this fact by Prohibitionists involves the denial of Christianity, and there is no escape from that fact. Hence the spirit of Modernism.

How, then, could Prohibition succeed? It is a manifest impossibility, and worst of all, involves a complete loss of faith in the redemption of the world by Christ, the utter ruin of mankind, and the triumph of Modernism and Materialism. What is the cause of this revolution in thought and act, you ask? Why did men arise and say: "We will do these things. Let us show you what to do; and, what's more, you must do it. The old way is all bunk. The Bible and liberty are a farce. Can't ou see and feel what we tell you?"

What put this new idea into people's heads? A complete loss of faith in God, and a mad idea that men could pull themselves up "by their own bootstraps."

Self-righteousness, self-sufficiency, and a disregard for liberty, as for religion, are driving us to wreck and ruin.

J. H. BURNHAM.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In your write up of Wednesday's Council meeting, you quote Ald. Crowe as saying that "Last summer we did not get the music we should have from the Ranger's Band." Which statement I take great exception to and makes me wonder, Does Ald. Crowe know anything about music at all? It was the unanimous opinion of the crowds that attended last summer's concerts, that the band gave and played better programmes that had been heard for the last 10 or 12 years. I was astonished that the Council even considered cutting the Band grant, and I am sure the Band well earned the $1,000.00 paid by the city for their services and not only that, but Mr. Peryer has given us a splendid series of concerts this winter which have been something to look forward to and greatly appreciate by the public. If as Ald. Crowe states the former leader resigned because he could not get efficiency for his men it is a pity he didnt resign sooner. When Mr. Gliddon had the Band, Ald. Crowe was greatly in favour of one Band Grant now he turns right around. Is he in the Council to serve his friends, or to give the ratepayers some return for the taxes they pay. What is the Symphony Orchestra going to give us, for their $300.00? Concerts at $1.00 per ticket are out of reach of a good many of us. And as for the Pipe Band a pipe band performance doesn't seem to me a good substitute for a good Band Concert, so it would be as well if the Council, made them a present of their $200.00. For living near to the Monaghan Road we hear enough of discord through the summer.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for your space,

Yours truly,

Ratepayer and a lover of good music

Editor, Peterborough Examiner:

Dear Sir,—If anything is needed to place the control of the police force absolutely in an independent body of men, as are the Police Commissioners, it is evidenced in the reduction of the force as demanded by the City Council of the two policemen who have been asked to send in their resignations. Immediately the G.W.V. Association demand that one of these men be not asked to retire.

It was no pleasure to the Board of Commissioners to name any two men, and it only goes to show that the City Council can be dominated by a number of citizens who feel that one of the men has been unjustly dismissed; in other words, the citizens propose to bulldoze the Council whenever it is possible as to the nomination of men whom they, the citizens, think should be placed on the force.

If the Police Commissioners cannot appoint members to the force, its function as a governing Board is at an end absolutely. As evidence, too, of inconsistency in appointments by the Council, neither of three returned young officers who made application for the City Solicitorship were even considered.

BEATITUDE

When divine good is practised life is bliss. Bliss is the normal condition of the good man; and those outer assaults, harassments, and persecutions which bring such suffering to others only serve to heighten his happiness for they cause the deep fountain of good within him to well up in greater abundance.

To have transcendent virtue is to enjoy transcendent felicity The beatific blessedness which Jesus holds out is promised to those having the beatific virtues—to the merciful, the pure in heart, the peace-makers and so on. The higher virtue does not merely and only lead to happiness, it is happiness. It is impossible for a man of transcendent virtue to be unhappy. The cause of unhappiness must be sought and found in the self-loving element and not in the self-sacrificing qualities. A man may have virtue and be unhappy, but not so, if he have divine virtue. Human virtue is mingled with self and therefore with sorrow; but from divine virtue every taint of self has been purged away, and with it every vestige of misery One comparison will suffice to show this; a man may have the courage of a lion in attack and self-defence (such courage being a human virtue), but he will not be rendered supremely happy; but he whose courage is the divine kind which enables him to transcend both attack and defence and to remain serene, mild and lovable under attack such a man will thereby be rendered supremely happy. Morover, his assailant will be rendered more happy in that his more powerful good will cast out the fierce and unhappy evil of the other.

For the convenience of railroads and business in general, standard time was established by mutual agreement in 1883, and by this calculation trains were run and local time was regulated.

JOB DEPARTMENT

TEACHERS HAD A BANQUET ON SATURDAY EVE

Professor G. Jackson, of Toronto Was the Speaker of the Evening

GUESTS PRESENT

ThePeterborough Teachers' Institute foregathered on Saturday evening at the Empress Hotel for a banquet, the first of its kind since prewar days, when an annual dinner of the sort was a yearly event with the members of the teaching profession of the city. Superseded in recent years by a picnic, the annual dinner has once more come into its own, and Saturday evening's event proved to be one of the most enjoyable of the season's long list of banquets. It was marked by a degree of good fellowship and jollity that made the function interesting from start to finish. Factors contributing to the undeniable success of the entertainment were a delicious dinner, served in the Empress' satisfying style, a visiting speaker whose address, along with the briefer speeches on the toast list, scintillated with humour and interest, and a chairman who filled the position to perfection In the absence of the president of the Teachers' Institute, Miss M. J. Wallace, and owing to the unwillingness of the vice president, Miss L. Elliott, to take the chair, the presiding officer of the evening was Mr. Mowat, and his conduct of affairs left nothing to be desired in the way of excellence. The atmosphere of friendly good humour which pervaded the gathering was accentuated by the rollicking swing of community singing, led in admirable style by Mr. Carl S. Browne. A feature of the musical entertainment also, were the choruses by men and women teachers respectively. The ladies sang very sweetly two numbers; "Raindrops," and, in compliment to the season; "The Harp of Tara." The men, whose effort in "Sussex by the Sea" was marked strongly by individual interpretation, claimed an alibi by labelling their attempt as "impromptu." Miss M. R. Rannie provided the accompaniments in her usual proficient fashion.

Invitations for the banquet were extended to all the school staffs of the city. Mr. Mowat, in his opening remarks, regretted the absence of the teaching Sisters of the Separate Schools, and welcomed the guests of the Institute, in the wives of the teachers the teaching staff of the Normal School and representatives of the Ministerial Association, the Board of Education, and the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute. Scattered through the dining room and grill room were the small tables, decorated with daffodils where members and guests to the number of about a hundred and twenty five were seated. At the head table, presided over by Mr. A. Mowat, were Mrs. Mowat, Professor G. Jackson, of Toronto University, the visiting speaker of the evening, Rev. A. J. Langford and Mrs. Langford, J. M. Greene, chairman of the Board of Education, Mr. Duncan Walker, Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Park, (Mr. and Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, Mr. P. Ottewell, A.M.E.I.C. representing the Engineering Institute, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Downey, and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Ingall.

After a brief address by Mr. Mowat, and the honoring of the toast to The King and Country, the toast to "Our Profession," was given by Miss H. Bonnycastle, and responded to by Miss D. Walker, secretary-treasurer of the Institute. Both ladies excelled themselves in the brightness of their brief, pithy remarks, and were accorded a rousing response.

A humorous and cleverly-worded tribute to 'Our Guests," which concluded with a reference to the wives of the teachers, "who live with some of these meek-looking gentlemen, who are really amongst the greatest of autocrats," was voiced by Mr. J. E. R. Munro, and responded to by Rev. A. J. Langford and Mr. J. M. Greene.

Rev. Mr. Langford, who, in the absence through illness; of the president of the Ministerial Association, Rev. Dr. Rose, represented that body as its vice president, harked back to an early period in his life, when he too belonged in the ranks of the teaching profession, and received the munificent sum of $250 per annum for "teaching and lighting the fires and sweeping the floors."

"Balance is the great verity," said Mr. Langford. "I am not sure of the advantage of teaching religion in the public schools. I believe more in the training of that imponderable spirit that develops character and in the symmetrical growth of the individual in mind and spirit that links us up with the Divine and with the highest and best in life."

Mr. J. M. Greene, chairman of the Board of Education, referred in the course of his remarks to the importance of vocational training for the youth of the day. "But we don't always get the support that we should have from City Councils. They don't always see eye to eye with us." Mr. Greene quoted the experience of the Board of Education at Brockville, whose recent request for $25,000 for school alterations was turned down by the Council there, which expressed its dissatisfaction also with inclusion in the curriculum of classes in technical work, music cadet training and domestic science. "Many of us, of course, when we attended schools, had not these opportunities, but we must keep abreast of the times." In 1832, the speaker asserted, a meeting was held in a school house in Lancaster, Ohio, to protest against bringing a railroad into that district, the committee deciding that "railroads and telegraphs are impossible and rank infidelity. If God had wished people to travel at the frightful rate of sixteen miles per hour, He would have foretold it. It is a device of Satan to lead immortal souls down to hell." This was the attitude, Mr. Greene thought, of some modern bodies with regard to educational changes.

The speaker quoted figures showing that in Peterboro, within the last fifteen years, our assessment has increased by about 150%, the city debenture debt by about 270% population by 31%, school attendance by 47%, school debenture debt by 300%, and costs of school operation by about 335%.

The speaker of the evening, Professor G. Jackson, of Toronto University, was then introduced by Mr. Mowat.

Professor Jackson, whose address was characterized by a degree of brilliant eloquence and dry humour, has as he spoke with fluent ease in chatty fashion, on "The Canadian Teacher of the Twentieth Century," With a delightful accent and a pleasant voice, he prefaced his address a manner of speech that has a pleasing personal touch. He appeared to be addressing each individual in turn with an allusion to his early educational training at Cambridge University and his past twelve years as a member of the staff at the University of Toronto He spoke of the "curious affection which anyone who has ever lived in Peterboro seems to have for the place," and of his feeling quite at home on his first visit here.

With regard to the public impression of the duties of teacher, Professor Jackson remarked. "You know the situation. We are not supposed to have much knowledge of practical things, nor be able to talk intelligently about hardware, for instance. but if anything of a educational nature comes up for discussion, there is never a dearth of council or reproof from expert watchers from all walks of life who are interested in seeing that we do not muff our job."

A curious fate that hangs over the teachers' head is his likelihood in being the victim of the funny anecdotes, "that sticks like a burr," said the speaker, going on to recount some of his own difficulties through absent-mindedness.

"One of my first impresions on coming to Ontario twelve years ago was the disappointing one regarding the low status in which the teacher appeared to be held at that time." That this condition was due to the under-payment of the teaching staff, "in one of the most obviously-sweated occupations in the country," was possible. Within the past twelve years, the status of the teaching profession had been almost completely transformed, and salaries had increased also.

The second former impression had to do with the low standards of education in this country as compared with the Old Land, but that impression had given place in the speaker's mind to the present one that a man getting his degree at the University of Toronto "has got a thing which he could have got with equal ease had he been at Oxford or Cambridge."

"The fundamental fault in our education to-day is that it has been divorced from religion. We are gradually getting away from an older conception of education int, a distinctly lower conception. In the Middle Ages, you will find that the people had little material splendor in their lives, according to our standards, but what they had was gathered first of all and put at the service of the Church, and after the great sacrificial building had been erected then they turned their attention to the educational institution. From our standpoint, the people of mediaeval times, with their lack of knowledge of the radio and their wrong conceptions of astronomy, were hopelessly uneducated, but at least they knew how to live. Today, could any of us, making an apologia for our educational system, say that it has been justified because it has taught children how to live? Now, the keynote of education is; how to make a living."

"A recent newspaper controversy in Toronto showed that the general view was that education was a failure because it had not the power to increase the earning capacity of the individual who received it. It is often observed that the education of wealthy men is in inverse ratio to their capacity for making money. In a consideration of the six largest fortunes made in the United States during the past generation, you will find that their makers are not possessed of more than a low standard of education. If we are going to judge eduction by its material fruits in the personal success of the taught we are soon going to have the public rise up and say; you have not delivered the goods."

"Since Confederation, between a million and a half and two millions of our youth have left Canada to make their permanent residence in the United Sttaes. What has taken them away? The flesh pots of the United States, and as long as we are going to regard personal success and that evil phrase, "making good," as the first criterion in judging the worth of a man, just so long will we continue to lose the fine flower of our population. We will never be able to stop this steady drain of the life-blood of our country as long as "making good" is the be all and end all of success in life. Put it on another plane. Drive home to the boys and girls of Canada that if the Dominion was a good enough country for the fifty-six thousand who stayed "over there" to die for, it is a good enough county to live for. We will be doing something then to reunite edactaion and religion. We will be able to teach them how to live, instead of merely how to make a living."

"It has been said that teachers do not discharge their functions for the sole reason of gaining material rewards. If we do not look to our profession then for material reward alone, what are we getting out of it? One thing we do get, and that is the extraordinary privilege of living all the time with young people." The speaker quoted here the picture of the school master immortalized by the pen of Oliver Goldsmith in "The Deserted Village," and concluded with the remark: "Like this man, perhaps we may feel, with all our sorteomings, if we are able here and there to leave a similar memory, we shall not have lived in vain."

Eulogistic remarks with regard to Professor Jackson's speech and to the conduct of the entertainment generally, and a hearty vote of thanks to the visiting speaker, followed, voiced by Mr. D. Walker, Principal of the Normal School, and Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, Principal of the Collegiate Institute, the latter referring in complimentary terms to the clever and witty speakers of the evenig, and expressing the hope that the Teachers' Institute would hold such gatherings oftener than once a year.

Mr. P. Ottewell, representative of the Engineering Institute, added a few words of appreciation of the "mental and material fare" provided, and Mr. Mowat closed the evening with a tribute to the work of the Executive Committee, to whose energetic efforts much of the success of the evening was due. This committee, headed by Mr. M. H. Park, included in its personnel Miss E. McKay, Miss M. Eastwood, Sister Imelda and Mr. A. Mowat, B.A.

MR. GORDON OPPOSES MARGARINE

The following letter, addressed to Mrs. Mary P. Mann, speaks for itself:

Peterborough, 15th March, 1924.

Mrs. Mary P. Mann,
Convenor of Home Economics Committee,
Local Council of Women, City.

Dear Madam,

I beg to acknowledge your favour of the 15th instant, regarding oleomragarine. I think, if there is any class of people in the world who is entitled to encouragement, it is the women on the farms, making butter, at the prices they are getting at the present time.

I do not know how many members of your Council have used margarine, but I have used it, and I have seen photographs of its effect on children, and I have no hesitation in saying that I intend to vote against the use of oleomargarine in this country, as long as I am in Parliament.

AIRMEN START ON LONG TRIP

Aviators Expect to Cover 30,000 Miles and 23 Countries.

(By H. E. Swisher, United Press Correspondent).

CLOVERFIELD, Santa Monica, Cal., March 17.—A flight around the world, the dream of aviators since man first flew, starts to-day, when three United States army planes take off from Cloverfield. A fourth plane will follow shortly. The airmen will fly northward and westward, to cross 30,000 miles of territory and 23 countries on their journey, which, it is expected, will take four months.

Crowds gathered early at the airdrome to witness the start of the epoch-making flight, which had been set back purposely to permit as many as possible to be present when the big planes, tested to a point of mechanical perfection, took the air.

The first leg of the flight was a jump to Sacramento, whence the modern magellans of the air will fly to Seattle, British Columbia, Alaska and across the Beiring Straits.

The weather conditions, the greatest concern of the airmen, were favorable to the start.

"We have implicit confidence in our planes," Major Frederick L. M. Martin, commanding the world flight flyers, said just before the flight began.

"Everything possible to assure the success of the venture has been done. God willing, we will be back in Los Angeles next September."

New Sedans with New Distinctions

HERE is luxury in looks and in action—a big step ahead in closed cars. Rich in beauty, in comfort, in appointment—and doubly rich in their possession of the wonderful Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine.

The Engine That Never Wears Out

Sweeter-running at fifteen thousand miles than when new. Immune from valve-grinding and the woes of carbon. Amazingly sparing in its appetite for gasoline and oil. And with even greater economy in its ever-wearing endurance. Owners report 50,000 miles and more without a single engine adjustment.

Perfect Inside Quiet

Get a close-up eye picture of the new Willys-Knight Sedans. The 5 and 7 Passenger, and the new and novel Coupe-Sedan. Run your hand over the soft velour upholstery. Run the engine—try it out for ten miles. Hear its quiet whisper—smooth as silk! Feel its surging power. Note the complete absence of rumbling body noises.

STILL AFTER OLEOMARGARINE

At the last regular meeting of the Local Council of Women, who, in co-operation with the action taken by the National Council throughout Canada, have interested themselves in the question of the importation and manufacture of oleomargarine in Canada, it was decided to memorialize the local member in the Federal House with regard to their stand in the matter, and to publish in the local press a copy of the letter sent to Mr. Gordon. The communication also contains a resolution of the Council with regard to the use of old "quilt stock," and is as follows:

Mr. G. N. Gordon
Peterborough, Ont.

My Dear Sir,—I am instructed by the Local Council of Women to present to you for your serious consideration the two following resolutions

1. That the enactment forbidding the sale and manufacture of oleomargarine be repealed.

2. That an enactment of restrictive legislation be passed by the Federal Government, which would forbid, or regulate under permit, or license the importation and use of old second-hand materials called "quilt stock" used as filling for some mattresses, pillows, and cushions for domestic use.

As you will recall, the Local Council of Women has taken up the oleomargarine question with you several times but so far your replies have led us to believe that you were not in favor of voting for its sale and manufacture in Canada. We hope, however, that when the question comes up again that your views on the matter will have changed and that you will vote in favor of the sale and manufacture of oleomargarine. The resolution passed by the House of Commons on June 6, 1923 distinctly states that the question should be "left without prejudice as to its merits in the same position as before the enactment" of 1917 which permitted oleomargarine to be manufactured and sold in Canada. That means that the question may now come up and be voted on upon its merits, as was ot done last June. The Local Council of Women feel very strongly that the law forbidding the sale and manufacture of oleomargarine is not only class legislation but an infringement of the rights of the intelligent housewives of Canada to select their own food and they purpose until some alleviation is obtained. We feel that a fair and unbiased study of this question upon its own merits—by our representatives in Parliament will bring about this alleviation before the present session has expired.

We would ask you, therefore, to make this fairminded study of the question feeing sure that after so doing you will see the justice of our claim. Mr. Fielding says that Canada is the only civilized country in the world which prohibits the use of olemargarine.

The Ottawa Journal, June 8, 1923, says "oleomargarine is a good and wholesome food. It is a cheap food. No reason for its exclusion is offered except that the dairymen wish to sell their butter at a higher price than would be possible if the use of oleomargarine is permitted."

In regard to the "quilt stock" resolution a deplorable state of affairs exists in Canada in the manufacture of household bedding, such as mattresses, pillows and cushions, for domestic use, second hand material of the most objectionable quality being used. There is no protective enactment covering such a state of affairs either by the Federal or Provincial authorities and since twenty-two rumor of the Unites States have Pure Bedding Laws governing the manufacture of second hand materials, large quanitities of second hand filling from discarded mattresses, quilts and comforters are being shipped into Canada and being used by unscrupulous manufacturers. This, in addition to similar material collected in our own country constitutes a real menace to the health of the people of Canada.

We would be glad to hear from you concerning both subjects mentioned in this letter.

I am instructed to send a duplicate copy of this letter to the Local Press.

Very truly yours,
M. P. MANN,
Convenor of Home Economics Committee Local Council of Women..

PRINCE OF WALES OUT.

LONDON, March 17. — (United Press).—His face and hands covered with court-plasters, the Prince of Wales was able to return to St. James' Palace to-day from Aldershot. The heir to the British Throne was to be kept under physicians' care for a few days. In a steeplechase accident last Saturday he was thrown and kicked in the face by his mount. Aside from a cut over one eye, which may leave a scar, a slight cut on his chin and the skinning of his face and hands, the Prince came off lucky from this, his 16th serious fall.

A renewed demand has been raised by the press against the Prince of Wales risking his neck in daring steeplechase and hunting stunts.

FRANC IS IMPROVING.

PARIS, March 17—(United Press) —Continuing to improve rapidly, the French franc rose to 20.80 to the dollar and 89.20 to the pound to-day. The continued improvement was believed due to the certainty that the Government's financial programme will be voted on.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

LONDON, March 17. — (United Press).—St. Patrick's Day is being celebrated all over Great Britain and Ireland to-day with the customary enthusiasm. With Ireland once more peaceful, Britishers donned the shamrock and green neck ties, as of old, annexing their Irish national holiday as a celebration of their own. To-night there will be many St. Patrick's Day balls and banquets.

At Wellington Barracks the Irish Guards paraded to receive Queen Alexandra's annual gift of shamrock, the army authorities permitting Irish soldiers to wear their national emblem with uniform on this day only. Field-Marshal the Earl of Ypres (better known as Sir John French), as Colonel-in-Chief, reviewed the regiment and superintended the distribution of the shamrocks.

IN THE STATES.

NEW YORK, March 17.—(United Press).—United under the shamrock, 25,000 Irish men and women marched peacefully up Fifth Avenue today in the largest St. Patrick's Day parade in years.

Political differences buried under the blarney stone, Free State and Republican strode arm in arm in loyal devotion to their patient saint.

The 165th Infantry, formerly the Old Fighting 69th, composed of Irish veterans, led the parade.

CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS.

PARIS, March 17—(United Press) —A cure for drunkenness, with which he claims to have successfully treated 16 patients, was announced to-day by a French physician, Dr. L'Hospitalir.

The doctor makes a serum from the patient's own blood, injects it into the veins and creates a distaste for alcohol, it is claimed.

The Former Alice Roosevelt's Odd Cure For Lumbago

How She Stood on Her Head Every Day—One of the Intimate Bits of Gossip in the Anonymous Book That Is Worrying Some Members of Washington Society and Delighting Others

"While her complaining guest looked on in amazement the former Alice Roosevelt put her head on the cushion, shot her legs aloft and remained poised perfectly. Standing on her head and kicking at the chandeliers was a sort of daily exercise with her. 'There, you try this every day and you won't have lumbago or heart trouble,' she said"

CRAVATH

WHO is the anonymous author who is broadcasting to the world in a book called "Boudoir Mirrors of Washington" scores of intimate facts and spicy bits of gossip about men and women prominent in the social and political life of the national capital?

This is the question that is interesting the smart set of Washington just now even more than who will be the next President. But thus far there is only a wide variety of the wildest guesses as to the book's author.

The one thing certain is that the author is some one who knows Washington backward and forward—very probably some one who at this moment is dining or dancing or taking tea with some of the men and women whose social and political lives are laid bare in "Boudoir Mirrors."

The reason why the appearance of this book has sent the cold shivers chasing up and down many an aristocratic Washington spine is not because the things it says are malicious or often if ever very far from the truth. Neither is it because it reveals many things that have not long been food for the gossips.

The volume is a frank, merciless and often highly amusing dissection of the personalities of various men and women whose social or political ambitions take them to Washington. It reveals their good and bad qualities, the things that win them praise and those that get laughter and sneers, just as they probably stand revealed to their own souls if they have the courage to study themselves.

But, while Washington thinks many of the things with which the book deals are perfectly all right for gossippy speculation in its own boudoirs and around the tea tables, it feels that it is rather indelicate and unwise to hand them out in this way for the great American public's consumption.

It is feared that many things will be misconstrued and that some of the characters that figure in the book will be put in a wrong light by the country at large.

Those who have to depend on the votes of their constituents to keep their places in Washington are particularly worried about the book's effect on the "folks back home." In several cases a side of their lives is revealed that seems hardly likely to make plain Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer very enthusiastic about the way their representatives are behaving when they get so far away from their old home towns.

Yet doubtless many find cause for pleasure and satisfaction in the reflections of their personalities which "Boudoir Mirrors" gives. The widow of President Harding and the wife of the new President are dealt with in a particularly gracious although very informative manner.

And Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, the former Alice Roosevelt, certainly ought to feel, as she reads the highly complimentary things the book has to say about her, like ferreting out its author and throwing her arms about his or her neck.

Ever since she made her debut Mrs. Longworth has been by all odds the most interesting woman in Washington, more celebrated than any other for her brains and the charm of her personality and her capacity for showing an often sensational disregard of the conventions.

So it is quite natural that Mrs. Longworth, the most fruitful personality for the gossips Washington ever had, should lead this book and be given the longest and, many think, its most interesting chapter.

But this anonymous chronicler is not satisfied with recounting some of the spiciest incidents of the former Alice Roosevelt's convention-defying career—how she was the first Washington woman to puff cigarettes quite openly, her fondness for black satin trousers and the way she stood on her pretty head to demonstrate a novel cure for lumbago. Toward the end of the chapter the author snatches Mrs. Longworth's hat and hurls it into the Senatorial ring.

"Just think what it would mean," says the author of "Boudoir Mirrors," "to have one electric, vivid, fearless, audacious young woman in that stuffy, stodgy assembly of fence-fixers, seed-senders and afraid-of-their-mitten mediocrities!" The author adds wistfully, "And what a daredevil campaign it would be!

"And if she got it! Of course, she wouldn't be spectacular all the time, but wouldn't those old partridges sit around, waiting for fear they'd miss it when she was in action making a six-cylinder speech!

"Well, who knows what the future will hold? I hope I am alive to see it—if she should run. I'd hate to miss the fun!"

Perhaps there is yet to be a better example of the agility with which the late Theodore Roosevelt's daughter leaps the barriers of the conventions than she furnished in her home one day when she turned circus acrobat before a party of astonished women guests in order to illustrate one of her favorite methods of keeping in good health.

Miss Ailsa Mellon, daughter of the Secretary of the Treasury, whom the mysterious chronicler of Washington gossip describes as wearing her triple crown of youth, charm and wealth very easily

"One of the guests sat miserably talking about her health," says the anonymous author. "She detailed her symptoms and their reactions, her sufferings and the heroic martyrdom which never permitted her pain to dim the happiness of her home. You know the sort of woman!

"'Have you ever tried standing on your head?' asked Alice, leaning forward and betraying a sudden interest.

"The woman looked at her for a moment, uncertain whether or not to take offense. But there was not a flicker of a smile in the Roosevelt face.

"'It acts like a charm,' she said. 'Here, lend me a safety pin.'

"She secured the hem of her skirt between her knees and, taking a cushion, placed it on the floor. The hypochondriac watched her with bewildering interest.

"Alice Longworth put her head on the cushion and shot her legs aloft, where she remained poised perfectly. Standing on her head and kicking her feet at the chandeliers was a sort of daily exercise with her.

"The guests looked on in amazement. No other woman in that room could have stood on her perfect equilibrium or composure of mind.

"'There, you try that every day and you won't have lumbago or heart trouble,' and she stood erect, returned the safety pin and resumed her seat with leisurely ease."

Mrs. Longworth is as unconventional in her choice of friends as in everything else. The author cites as an example of this the inseparable companionship of the "Princess Alice" and the "Countess" Cassini, which excited so much comment from the gossips in the days before the former's marriage.

The "Countess" was the young and extraordinarily beautiful woman who made her appearance in Washington with Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador during the Roosevelt regime. It soon became known that she wasn't a countess—that she wasn't any sort of Cassini.

Society dropped its lorgnettes and lifted scornful eyebrows. Its powers decided they must draw the line somewhere, and so they drew it at the "Countess."

"The 'Countess,' however, made a singular appeal to Alice Roosevelt," says the author of "Boudoir Mirrors." "She's that sort. If she likes people she doesn't ask for their birth certificates and demand their marriage lines."

The same Alice Roosevelt who used to run hurdle races over the drawing room furniture with her dubious "Countess" and who once leaped into a swimming pool with all her clothes on is, according to "Boudoir Mirrors," one of the keenest students of political problems, man or woman, in Washington to-day.

Whenever a debate of importance is on in the Senate she is to be found in a front row seat in the gallery, completely absorbed in what is being said. She goes not from idle curiosity but to absorb ideas from the long-winded Senatorial debaters and to match their opinions against hers.

Of the younger Washington buds only one is singled out for conspicuous mention in the book, and that is Ailsa Mellon, the daughter of the Secretary of the Treasury, who presides over his household since her parents are divorced.

"Beaux? Well, I should say so," writes the author of her. "Youth, charm, wealth, Ailsa Mellon wears her triple crown easily. But she is a shrewd little lady, is Ailsa, and she is winnowing the chaff from the oats. There is much speculation as to which way the wind blows, but it is too early yet to prophesy."

Not all the book is devoted to the American-born of Washington. Among the foreign residents who come in for comment is Princess Bibesco, the charming and gifted wife of the Rumanian Minister. The Princess is the daughter of England's Mrs. Asquith, whom Kipling once described as the "woman with the serpent's tongue," and the author thinks she has inherited much of her mother's facility for biting remarks.

With all its sparkling humor and keen satire there is real pathos in "Boudoir Mirrors of Washington"—in the pages that recount the struggles many men and women have to make to keep up with the financial and social pace set by the wealthy leaders of the capital's smart set.

The reader is told how the women from the nation's humble Main streets comb the city for inexpensive apartments that are still fine enough to do the necessary entertaining and how they borrow and combine one another's resources in order to hide their lack of means.

One illuminating example of the lengths to which the demands of Washington life force those of only modest means is that of the Senator's wife who lives in a rooming house and who bribes the rest of the household to keep out of sight when she is giving an "at home."

According to the "Mirrors" there are two invitations in Washington more prized than any others. One is an invitation to an informal Sunday night supper at the home of Senator and Mrs. Medill McCormick, the latter the daughter of the late Mark Hanna.

The other is an invitation from Alice Roosevelt Longworth to "come over and hear Nick play." Congressman Nicholas Longworth is an accomplished violinist and his wife says she enjoys his music best when she is dressed in black satin trousers and curled up on a sofa.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover is the only one of the Cabinet wives to be given a whole chapter to herself. The only job she says she wants to fill in life is that of "being a background for Bertie."

And yet it is pointed out that when Mrs. Hoover was taking a mining engineering course at Leland Standford University at the same time as her husband, she outdid him in scholarship.

"There's always been Hooverizing in the Hoover home," says the author; "it wasn't a wartime innovation. They all did it, Bertie, the Background and the Boys."

According to the "Mirrors" Mrs. Grover Cleveland's abolition of the bustle was the result of a newspaper man's invention. One day when the Washington correspondents could find absolutely nothing worthy of telegraphing their papers one of them suggested manufacturing an item saying that the President's wife had decided to abolish the bustle.

In an hour the message was being sent broadcast and the next morning it was read at millions of breakfast tables.

"Mrs. Cleveland was young and beautiful," says the author, "and the nation looked to her as a guide in such matters. She did the simple courteous thing and immediately order a gown without a bustle."

Princess Bibesco, wife of the Rumanian Minister, and her little daughter. The Princess is said to have a "serpent's tongue," like her celebrated English mother, Mrs. Asquith

CENTRAL ONTARIO NOW AN INTER-CITY LEAGUE

Oshawa Will Be Stronger Than Last Year With Micky Murray Included In Its New Material — Work Has Been Begun On New Alexandra Park Grandstand.

OSHAWA, March 17.—With the question "what teams will comprise the Central Ontario League for the season 1924" being answered and a quadruple schedule adopted, with Kingston, Belleville, Peterboro and Oshawa being included, the East has now an inter-city status, with Oshawa as the baby city having obtained its majority a few days previous to the re-organization meeting held in Cobourg last week. The coming season, from gossip heard in the Horse Show town, should be a record one both in the brand of ball played and in attendance at games as all four teams will be as strong if not stronger than last year—Peterboro and Belleville teams who were always good drawing cards in Oshawa since the organization of Central Ontario League in 1919 will be welcomed back as a regular visitors in league fixtures, while Kingston as a new team to motor town fans will be extended the "welcome to our city" as old rivals in hockey in years gone by, while Oshawa will no doubt be a good gate getter around the Eastern end of the circuit.

The league secretary will be busy for the next few weeks as the forwarding of bonds to the different clubs, guaranteeing the finishing of the schedule as adopted will be mailed out, schedules with umpires' mileage and fees are to be arranged for each club; certificates and amateur card blanks which will be handed out at the annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association in Toronto, on Saturday, April 5th will be distributed to clubs of the league on Monday, April 7th; or on receipt of officers of clubs, the date set by the league constitution being April the 15th.

PICK UPS BEFORE THE DIAMOND IS READY.

Welcome back "Hap" were the words passed out when it became known that "Hap" Harrison would again appear in a Peterboro uniform after a couple of absent seasons, for as a ball player and a gentleman the Canadian Packing Co. and the Liftlock City have a real representative.

Without Central League baseball, Cobourg will have to rely on their horse show to entertain the summer visitors during the coming season, but the four towns in the league are situated within a nice motor trip on either Wednesdays or Saturdays.

The following appeared in the St. Louis Sporting News of March 13th: "Rochester doesn't look dangerous, after selling Archdeacon and Brady, Smith and McAvoy, but Stallings is such a genius at buying lesser league stars he may fool some critics. Stallings' collection of new men is always twice as good as those of any club, so even though disrupted the Tribesmen are not underestmated by Baltimore. Stallings has a score of throwers, but as long as he has Jack Lisner, Bill Moore, Frank Karpp and Walter Beall he needs not a great many more. To succeed southpaw Jimmy Keenan are Joe Matthews, former Oriole; Jack Williams, an Indian from Canada and George Terhune, with Rochester and Newark five years ago. "Here's hoping the ex-Belleville boy Jack Williams may be one of the wise guys to fool the critics.

The seven per and mileage was no temptation to J. J. Solomon of Peterboro when it came time to select umpires at the Cobourg meeting of the Central Ontario League so J. J. will likely entertain the occupants of the grandstand and bleachers around the circuit with his Irish tactics.

The building of the new grandstand at Alexandra Park, Oshawa got under way this past week and it is expected to be ready for the opening game on May 24th, when a few new faces in Oshawa uniforms are likely to apepar on the warming up green. Micky Murray the Peterboro boy, who last year wore a Leaside uniform will be doing stunts around third base; Palmer a nineteen year old will give the Fair-Reddick outfield a run for the outer garden; Whinfield, who worked on the defence of the intermediate hockey team will likely team up with Dainty for sub duty.

Three Teams Play For Stanley Cup

MONTREAL, March 17 (Canadian Press). — The Stanley Cup, emblematic of the professional hockey championship of the world, is now disentangled from the mixup of last week, and an agreement was reached on Saturday under which the Canadiens, champions of the National Hockey League Vancouver, champions of the Pacific Coast League, and Calgary, the champions of the Western Canada League, will compete for the title.

The first games will be played between Canadiens and Vancouver, the team winning two out of three games to advance into the finals with Calgary.

These games will be played here, ice prmitting, on Tuesday and Thursday nights, with a third game, if necessary, on Saturday. If not, the Canadiens will meet Calgary for the first of a three-game series.

HEAVY SCORING IN OLD COUNTRY

Many Players Had Two Goals Each to Their Credit Saturday — West Ham's New Centre Helped Team to Overdue Victory.

LONDON, March 17 (Canadian Press Cable). — The International games somewhat overshadowed the League football on Saturday, and although the matches were favoured by good weather, the crowds were not up to th average, the grand total of attendances being around 560,000.

The highest single attendance was 30,000 at the Liverpool ground where that team drew in a goalless game with Blackburn, and at the Chelsea-Birmingham game also drawn at 1 goal each.

The hat trick of three goals was performed by Bodford for Blackpool who scored six goals against Port Vale's two, and Watkins for South-End United, who piled up five against Northampton's one.

Two goals each were tallied by Marquis and Roberts in Preston North-End's four-goals against Manchester City's one, by Bliss for Clapton in that team's two goal to none victory over Bristol City; by Swan for Leeds United, who won by 3 to 0 against Fulham; by Blair for Oldham Athletic in their 2 to 0 win over The Wednesday; by Morgan for Bristol Rovers, who defeated Norwich City 3 to 1; by Morris for Millwall, who beat Quene's Park Rangers 3 to 0; by Stronge for Portsmouth, who won 4 to 0 over Watford; by Elliott for urham City, and Bell for Hartlepool United in their 4 to 0 victory over Wrexham.

West Ham's New Centre.

West Hams found another centre-forward in Campbell, who signed on less than a week ago at Jarrow. He scored a very good goal ten minutes after taking the field, and by his all-round good play helped West Ham to record their first victory in over two months when they defeated the Everton 2 to 1.

Although the Arsenal's defeat by 2 to 1 at Nottingham places them in great danger of relegation, the team showed improvement, which suggests that they may yet escape.

There was a sensational finish to the Leeds United-Fulham game won by the former team by 3 to 0. The United were only one goal ahead two minutes from time, but Leeds forced two corners and obtained a goal from each.

Leg Broken by Fall.

Burnley's left half, Morgan, had his leg broken in a heavy fall, and this accident greatly handicapped his side and accounted to some extent for their 3 to 0 defeat by Sunderland.

Chelsea obtained their one-all draw against Birmngham by means of a penalty kick half way through the second half, Wilson carefully steering the ball into the net with the side of his foot to the relief of the Chelsea supporters.

An inexdusable blunder on the part of the defence let through Ashurst, Birmingham's centre-forward, who walked the ball int, the empty Chelsea net after Baker, the Chelsea goalie, had dashed out wildly and missed the ball.

Cardiff's Defeat.

The defeat of Cardiff City by two to none on their own ground is accounted for by the fact that the team was wakened by contributing four players to the International soccer match. The side, however, played good football against Nott's County, who were lucky to be one up at the interval through a goal scored by Davies.

Nott's played the one back game in the second half and Blair put through his own goal.

RUGBY SCORES.

LONDON, March 17 (Canadian Press Cable). — Friendly rugby games played on Saturday were:

Northampton 28, University Colleg School Old Boys 14

Cheltenham 12, Clifton 12.

PROS HISSED AT WINNIPEG

Crowd Disappointed at Poor Display In Stanley Cup Game — Calgary Defeated Vancouver By 3-1.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 17. — Calgary Tigers reached the final stage of the Stanley Cup play-down here on Saturday night, when they took the Vancouver Maroons into camp to the tune of 3 to 1 in the final game of the best two out of three to decide which team would get the bye in the professional championship with the Montreal Canadiens.

Calgary won on their merits as they were the superior aggregation in a game which failed to impress the 4500 winning enthusiasts, who were so disappointed at the poor displap of hockey that many of them hissed the players as they left the ice.

Whether the players were taking the contest very seriously or were held in check in view of the more important games in the East, is hard to say, but at any rate at no time did they provide very much excitement. There was a lot of pretty hockey, some dazzling stick handling, fast combination and heady defence work. But most of the dashes wound up at the defence, and the athletes did not seem willing to take any chances with the result that the usual fight expected in a battle which was supposed to decide the supremacy of West ern Canada professional hockey, was not there.

HOT SPRINGS, March 17.—Our estimable travelling companion, Mr. One Punch O'Goofty, refused to indulge in the baths here. "I'm seeking pleasure, not novelties," Mr. O'Goofty explained.

Mr. O'Goofty went out to the local golf links, where the big league ball players swing their niblicks. "It is the most interesting wreck I've seen since I watched the Phillies last July," he commented.

Both Mr. O'Goofty and your correspondent were profoundly shocked at the pathetic condition of Babe Ruth, celebrated flu victim.....As Mr. O'Goofty so feelingly remarked, the Babe looked about as anemic as a 10-ton block of granite.

The great Ruth was not in a very communicative mood when his visitors called and had practically to say....Which is a new record for him and the season hasn't even started.

The demon athletes get in condition here by climbing mountains. ....In the summer they keep in condition by climbing umpires.

The local merchants aren't exactly excited about ball tossers as profitable sources of revenue. ....."Say, some of them birds wouldn't spend a dime to see the Smith Brothers get a shave."

Jack Renault, the heavyweight, is here training for a Dempsey fight....It is whispered his training consists of flopping backwards at frequent intervals and listening to the count of 10.

Ball players come to the Springs to get the kinks out of their system, but this is no place for girl athletes with permanent waves.

The hot vapor of the bathe is said to be very beneficial ....The hot vapor of the real estate guys, however, should be taken sparingly, if at all.

THREE TORONTO BOXERS TONIGHT

The P.A.A.A. boxing committee have been fortunate in securing three boxers from St. Helen's Club, Toronto, for the bouts at the G.W.V.A. Hall to-night. Joe LeMoine, secretary of the club is bringing Smith, 130 pounds, for a special bout with L. Minnicola and two other entries will box in the 125 and 118 pounds classes with Art Johnston and Harvey Smith. Here is a trio of headliners that should please the fans.

A great deal of intereat will be centred in the meeting between Al. Williams and Joe Jordan at 112 pounds. Jordan is coming along fast and the youngster believes he can give his older and more experienced opponent a very busy time.

To meet the request of a number of fans, Lorne Combe and Ray Millard will go on for an exhibition bout Both boys are known as good mixers and the pair will produce a lot of good boxing with plenty of action.

There will be eight bouts, with a pair of midgets opening the bill at 8.15 o'clock.

Geo. N. Graham, Ed. Dugan and Instructor Jones will referee the bouts. A big crowd for this show will mean the announcement of future bouts in which the cream of Ontario boxers will be seen here.

BOSTON BROKE TIE BY 3-2.

BOSTON, March 17 (Canadian Press). — Boston Hockey Club defeated the Maple Athletic Association hockey team of Boston 3 goals to 2 here on Saturday night, in the play-off of a tie game in the eastern wheel of the United States Amateur Hockey League

Prominent Men of North Bay Follow Team to Toronto

Big Muster of Rooters When Northern Juniors Meet Owen Sound, the O.H.A. Winners, at the Arena To-Night.

NORTH BAY, March 17 (Canadian Press). — Toronto to-day is able to muster more of the laders of Northern Ontario business and public life than any northern town.

Those who did not go down in time to see Saturday night's hockey game went last night, when several extra cars wre added to the Canadian National train, while other sleepers were attached on Sunday afternoon to the freight train for Sudbury and went south on the night train from there over the Canadian Pacific.

Practically every member of North Bay Council is in Toronto to-day. An emergency call there could assemble chief officers and many members of the Board of Trade.

To-night's Council meeting has been postponed, and instead of a learned debate of the town fathers, the Town Hall will be used by the hockey fans to get returns of the night's big game in Toronto, when North Bay fans hope to have the chance to celebrate a victory for the Trappers.

More than 300 hockey fans from here will be in Toronto for the game while Sudbury and other Northern Ontario centres, exclusive of the Soo, have sent at least 200 more.

The defeat of the Greyhounds on Saturday night rather dampened the ardour of some of the fans, and there was genuine regret here over the result of the game, but the Greyhounds have been known before to come from behind.

Advices from the Trappers are that they are "certain" of victory, and the only fear expressed here is that they may be over-confident and take chances.

North Bay fans cannot see how they can be beaten and everyone is confidently looking forward to Northern Ontario grabbing off the Junior honours to-night.

There will be a special train out of Toronto to-night after the game to bring the fans home.

21 NATIONS IN TENNIS BATTLE

Mexico Last to Forward Challenge For Davis Cup Held By United States—Record - Breaking Entry List.

NEW YORK, March 17 (Canadian Press).— A record-breaking list of 21 nations will compete in the 1924 contest for the Davis Cup, emblem of international team tennis supremacy, the United States Lawn Tennis Association announced last night after the close of the entries.

The last-minute challenge of Mexico, entering the contest for the first time, increased to 20 the nations which will seek the right to meet the United States, holder of the historic trophy.

William T. Tilden, national lawn tennis champion, appeared voluntarily before the Executive Committee of the Association on Saturday to have determined his status under the new player-writer rule.

The committee, however, refused to act officially on Tilden's individual case, inasmuch as the rule does not go into effect until 1925, but unofficially it advised him that, if in 1925, the same conditions exist as they do to-day, he would likely be guilty of a violation of the amateur rule.

BERLENBACH TO GET SEASONING

Middleweight Plans Comeback After Friday's Spectacular Defeat, and Sends Challenge to Delaney.

NEW YORK, March 17 (Canadian Press) — Unmarked and undiscouraged by his four-round knockout at the hands of Jack Delaney, in Madison Square Garden on Friday night, Paul Berlenbach, New York middleweight, has announced plans for a comeback, and issued a challenge to Delaney for a return match.

Far from viewing his setback, after he had run up a spectacular string of 23 knockouts, as fatal to his future, Berlenbach and his veteran manager, Dan Hickey, declared they believed the defeat would give renewed stimulus to the former amateur's ring career.

However, Delaney's decisive victory gained after a spectacular fight and before a record-breaking Garden crowd, whose enthusiasm has not been matched since the historic Firpo-Dempsey encounter, has convinced Hickey that his protege needs much seasoning before tackling top-notchers.

All plans for a match early in the summer between Berlenbach and Harry Greb, holder of the middleweight title, have been abandoned for the present.

BROKE POLE VAULT RECORD.

CHICAGO, March 17 (Canadian Press). — All existing world's indoor records for the pole vault were shattered by ean Brownell, of Illinois, in the Western Conference indoor championship meet on Saturday night, with a leap of 13 feet 3-8 of an inch.

The former world's indoor intercollegiate record was 12 feet 10 5-8 inches, established by Brownell in the Illinois relay carnival two weeks ago.

TIGERS OUTPLAY SOO GREYHOUNDS

Hamilton Pins First Elimination Game 3 to 1 --Bengals Should Be Named Hornets, Spectators Think.

TORONTO, March 17 (Canadian Press). — It may be the Soo Greyhounds' year to win the Allan Cup, but to get into the semi-finals with the Sons of Ireland, champions of Ottawa and Quebec districts, they must trounce the Hamilton Tigers, O.H.A. titleholders, by three or more goals to-morrow night.

The Tigers, outplaying the famous Greyhounds in every position on Saturday, won the first game of the elemination series between the two teams 3 to 1.

And make no mstake, those "Bengals" deserved the victory.

True, the Hounds had them backed in on their own net almost the entire work of Charlie Stewart between the last period and only the wonderful Hamilton sticks prevented George McNamara's clever team from knotting the game, but the Tigers' superiority was so pronounced during the first 40 minutes that they should have had at least four or five more goals.

They would have had them, too, but Flat Walsh was at his best, which is very good, and the yellow and black shirted men were overanxious. They busted through the Soo defence almost at will.

Stan. Brown and Babe Donnelly were helpless before the terrific attack of the O.H.A. champions, who, led by Happy Day, were in and around the Soo net like a lot of hornets.

That is what they should be called, not Tigers. They made life miserable for the men from the northern lock city, and why they didn't budge the twine behind Walsh more often than they did will always remain a mystery.

The majority of hockey critics looking for a Soo victory, expected the Hounds with their great speed to run the Tigers ragged, but they didn't. The Tigers were just as fast as were their opponents.

Carson Cooper kept pace with Roy Lessard, Herbie Mitchell held up his end against Bill Phillips when they battled each other in mid-ice, and Ab. Stanley was not distanced by any Soo player, while Happy Day was the fastest skater in the game. He even outdistanced the speedy Stan Brown, who, however, was not at his best. He had been on skates but once since his injury in Galt ten days ago, but that fact took nothing from the former Midland boy, who is expected at Varsity next year. He stood out miles over every other player on the ice, and a finer exhibition of indivdual defensive and offensive playing has never been seen anywhere.

IRISH IN PLAY-OFF.

QUEBEC, March 16. — The Montagnards of Ottawa succumbed to the Sons of Ireland here on Saturday night in the semi-final of the Allan Cup series by a score of 3 to 1.

LENGLEN WINS NEW LAURELS

Singles and Mixed Doubles Championships at Nice Tournament Revealed French Girl in Great Form.

NICE, France, March 17 (Canadian Press). — Suzanne Lenglen yesterday added another cup to her immense collection by winning the tennis championship of Southern France.

The French girl defeated Mrs. Covell, England, by 6-2 and 6-1.

Mrs Covell reached the finals through her victory on Saturday over Miss Elizabeth Ryan, the California girl.

Mlle. Lenglen, who has been taking things easy throughout the winter owing to the approaching long season, including the Wimbledon Tournament and the Olympic Games, is just rounding into her best form.

Yesterday she played unbeatable tennis. In addition to winning the singles championship, she also was victorious in the mixed doubles, paired with M. Cochet, defeating Mrs. Shepherd-Barron and Baron de Morgurgo in the semi-finals 6-0 and 6-4, and in the final beating Miss Ryan and Washer 4-6, 6-1, and 7-5.

Tuesday and Thursday at 7 p.m.

(Examiner Intershop League)
Wednesday at 5.00 p.m.

FINAL GAMES THIS WEEK.

The final games in the Mercantile Five Pin League will be played this week. These games will decide the winners of the second half and there are only two teams left that have a chance. These are the Bell Telephone and the Nashua Paper. The winners of this section meet the Examiner, winners of the first section.

NEW LEAGUE FORMED

A new City Ten Pin League has been formed and will get under way just as soon as a couple of more teams enter. This new will be a single schedule affair and should be a great success. Some of the teams from the old league just started to get going when the league ended. The Lawn Bowlers were a great example of this fact, they cleaning up everything in sight in their few remaining games in the old league.

LEADS FOR PRIZE.

Miss V. Heard is leading the ladies for the beautiful electric lamp prize given by Mr. J. J. Solomon, of Solomon's Alleys, for the lady rolling the highest single. Miss Heard has a beautiful score of 228.

The ladies are greatly interested in this prize and some scores very close to that of Miss Heards have been rolled. Miss Ross on Saturday was just 24 pins away from Miss Heard's score when she rolled 204. Another score of 208 was rolled on Friday. The ladies are all out after this prize which ends next Saturday.

STRONG TORONTO MEN PIN TEAM COMING SOON

One of the best ten pin teams from Toronto are coming down in a couple of weeks to bowl a picked team from the City Ten Pin League at Solomon's Alleys. Mr. Dedman of the Canadian Packing is arranging for this game and it should prove a great bit of entertainment for the bowling fans. The strongest team that can be secured from the City Ten Pin League will work against this aggregation from the Queen City. Five men will compose the team.

C.G.E. CHAMPIONS RETAIN LEADER

Harry McFadden Unanimously Re-elected President of the Intermediate O.B.A.A. Title-Holders—Desired to Retire.

A meeting of the C.G.E. Baseball Club was held Friday night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, which proved to be one of the best meetings since the commencement of the club. All present showed their eagerness to still keep their shoulder to the wheel and carry on the necessary work which is required to develop a real live ball club.

Mr. H. F. McFadden opened the meeting by expressing his appreciation and thanks to the officers and players of last season, all of whom devoted much time to work in the carrying on of the club and finally bringing to Peterboro a championship which was well earned and also appreciated by the citizens in general.

The President explained how that he would like to see a change in the presidency stating that he had held this office for a number of years and that he thought it should be passed around and some of the younger men given the opportunity. However all present were agreed that there should be no change and Mr. McFadden was again the unanimous choice. The remaining officers were then elected.

South American Pugs. Sail For Coinlandia.

NEW YORK, March. 16. — Two South American pugilists seeking ring laurels here, Quintin Romero-Rojas and Luis Vincentini, embarked yesterday from Santiago, Chile, and expect to reach the United States on April 2, according to cabled information received by Tex Rickard.

Rojas, a heavyweight, has an agreement with Rickard for three flights, with the understanding that if successful in these he will be offered $100,000 for a title match with Jack Dempsey. His first opponent probably will be Floyd Johnson, Iowa heavypeight.

Vincentini, a lightweight, whose knockout streak was stopped when he lost a decision to Johnny Shugrue, of Waterbury, Conn., last December, hopes to stage a comeback leading to a title match with Benny Leonard.

Telephone Girls Sell Goods

SOME Canadian stores make a practice of showing advertised bargains first to their own telephone sales girls. When customers call, the sales girls are in a position to answer questions about the goods; to recommend them from personal knowledge; and to take orders for them.

Each telephone sales girl is designated by a number, so customers can always order through the same employee if they wish. This makes selling by telephone as personal a service as over-the-counter selling. Storekeepers say the results are even more satisfactory.

So successfully does the plan work that some of the largest New York stores sent a committee to Canada to investigate and copy it.

May we help you make a beginning with this modern method of increasing sales?

SOCIAL HYGIENE COUNCIL

One hundred and seventy-two of Peterboro's most prominent citizens attended the private showing of the Social Hygiene Exhibit Saturday afternoon and evening. Among these were factory managers, clergy, doctors, leading business men and others whose names are always prominent in any community welfare project.

From each and every one of these men who were present in the afternoon came congratulatory remarks to Dr. N. H. Sutton, District Officer of Health, and also president of the Peterboro Social Hygiene Council, under whose auspices the exhibit is being held. The exhibit is arousing much interest, and for the first time many are realizing the value of such educational propaganda as this council is spreading. "Civic Health is Civic Wealth" is now a slogan for every progressive community. It was the desire of the Local Council to have these leaders come in before the exhibit was opened for the public in order that they might carry to their churches for Sunday, and to their business early on Monday, the message of the exhibit, and encourage all they met to also visit the exhibit.

During the evening heads of the various women's organizations viewed the exhibit, also many of the nursing profession, and they also were gratified that the exhibit portrayed this public health menace in such a clear, simple, dignified, yet highly educational manner.

The posters are beautifully portrayed health facts, both physical, social and moral, and their message strikes home to each and every one that reads them.

The models are wonderful reproductions of wax, and it is remarked on every side that they are the finest reproductions ever seen. The lantern slides illustrate stories and hints on the best sides of community life, and what should be encouraged, and what eliminated in order to conserve the best interests of child and adult life.

To-day is being observed as Kiwanis day. This afternoon between 3:30 and 6, Dr. H. M. Yelland, Kiwanian, will act as chairman, and has as his assistants Kiwanians Walter Stocker, Alex. Dick, John I. Allen, Robert Mackey, Harry Huffman and Hugh Nivens. Dr. Ed. Wood, Kiwanian, will be the speaker for the afternoon at 4:15, and following his address the Provincial Board of Health film, entitled "The Gift of Life," will be shown by Mr. Ed. Jones of Toronto.

This evening, His Worship Mayor Turner, will officially open the exhibit, at 7 p.m. Dr. Ray Scott, Kiwanian, will act as chairman, and Dr. Young, M. H. O., and Judge Huvcke, will be the special speakers.

Kiwanians who will assist Dr. Scott at the exhibit, will be J. Wells Fraser, J. L. Jeffries, Wm. Williams, W. H. Lacey, Walter Byers and Carl Brown.

It is hoped that not only Kiwanians will attend to-day, but as many men and their sons over 16 years. The exhibit will be open to men only until Wednesday night, and then for women the last three days of the week.

NEW YORK FAVORITE AT THE ROYAL

In addition to Betty Balfour's latest comedy, "Wee McGregor's Sweetheart," which is conceded by critics to be her best since the famous Squibs series, patrons have an additional treat in store in the personal appearance here of Mlle. Florence Mauclair, late star of the New York big success, "Houses of Clay." Mlle. Mauclair just finished a successful run of six months in one of New York's prettiest playhouses, namely, Sam. H. Harris Theatre, where "Houses of Clay" made its New York appearance. Mlle. Mauclair, when abroad for a visit, induced the two French champions, Bobby Diamont and Chas. Raymonde, to accompany Battling Siki on his tour of America. Mlle. Mauclair will present a vaudeville offering, entitled "Dance," giving an impersonation of Irene Castle in her most famous classic dance, "Three O'clock in the Morning," also a correct impersonation of Joe Frisco doing his jazz dance of Strutters Ball. This is in addition to the above-mentioned champions, who present the inside workings of training quarters, finishing with a fast six-round boxing bout.

OLD BOYS DOWNED ST. PETER'S TEAM

Younger and Much Lighter Boys Put Up a Great Battle But Got Small End of 2 to 1 Score.

The St. Peter's Old Boys, a team comosed of intermediates, juniors and other players who have in the past attended the St. Peter's school found it a hard proposition to come through with a 2 to 1 win over the present St. Peter's regulars in an exhibition game of hockey played on the Brock street rink on Saturday evening.

The old boys were much the heavier team but the trickiness and fine stick handling of the regulars was too much for them, and they were completely outplayed in the first period by the youngsters. In the second period the old boys hit their stride and gave Jack Lebarr in the Regulars' goal, plenty to do. He performed nicely and turned away a flock of shots that were thought by the noisy spectators to be sure counters. The game was fast and close throughout with both teams showing some brilliant stick handling, and both goalies playing a good game.

The only goal scored on Lou Lebarr, in the old boys' net, was scored by Ted Lebarr, his younger brother, in the first period. Frency Holland started on a rush but dropped the puck in front of his own net and T. Lebarr swooped in neatly into the corner of the net for his teams only counter.

Scotty McPherson came back and evened up the score a few minutes later after a nice rush. The rest of the first period was composed of rush after rush by the St. Peter's boys, who found it a hard task to penetrate the Old Boys' stonewall defence, composed of Frenchy Holland and E. Sheahy.

In the second period, which was the final one, the Old Boys forced the play and gave Jack Lebarr of St. Peter's, the net guardian, the time of his life to try and keep the net from bulging behind him. The game had been going at a fast pace for several minutes before L. Collins tore a hot one at Lebarr, who made a hard try for it. The rubber lande in the corner of the net making the score 2 to 1 where it remained for the rest of the game, with both teams giving every ounce of pep they had left in them to score. Pete Milloy nearly evened it up when he broke through the defence and tested L. Lebarr with a hot one. Killoran came back a minute later and drove one at Lebarr in the other net from inside the blue line, but the goalie cleared nicely, and just in the nick of time, as Killoran had followed in fast for the rebound.

For the old boys Killoran at centre and Scotty McPherson, a sub., showed up the best, while all the rest played a good game.

J. Lebarr in goal was the best for the losers, although they did manage to push two past him. N. Collins and P. Milloy also turned in a good game for the losers, and their rushes were always very dangerous.

The teams lined up as follows:

Old Boys: Goal, L. Lebarr; defence; Holland and E. Sheehy, centre, J. Kiloran; right wing, L. Collins; leftwing, V. Rutherford; subs., McPherson and Fitzgerald.

St. Peter's: Goal, J. Lebarr; defence, N. Collins and V. Rishea; centre, L. Rishea; right wing, P. Milloy; left wing, J. Holland; subs., T. Lebarr and O'Brien.

Joe Dwyer handled the bell satisfactorily for both teams.

Real Hockey Fans in Owen Sound

OWEN SOUND, March 17. — They breed real hockey fans in Owen Sound. Yesterday afternoon after Sunday school, two 11-year-old boys, started out from Owen Sound to walk to Toronto, to arrive there in time to see the Owen Sound-North Bay game to-night. Toronto was considerably farther away than they anticipated, as they realized when they reached Chatsworth, nine miles south of here. Search parties were out through the factory districts and over the ice on the bay last night but it was not until midnight that the lads returned to their homes here, cold and footsore.

TAG DAY NETTED $1206 SATURDAY

This is More Than the Amount Collected Last Year.

The amount realized by the collectors for the tag day held on Saturday in aid of St. Vincent's Orphanage was $1,206.33, a handsome and gratifying total which exceeded last year's sum by about eighty dollars. At St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday, His Lordship Bishop O'Brien expressed his appreciation of the generous and large-hearted response made by all classes and creeds in the community to the appeal for the children of the Orphanage. The ladies who worked so faithfully from early morning until late afternoon on Saturday report a general cheerful spirit manifested throughout the day, and a kindly response to their appeals which made their arduous task lighter.

QUAKER OATS HAD A GOOD TIME ON RINK

Last Friday evening at the Brock street rink, a large crowd of fans enjoyed one of the fastest games of the season played between Office vs. Strollers, the latter winning by 2 to 1, which gives them the championship, and also a trophy donated by Mr. R. C. Cormack. There are three teams in the league: Mill, Strollers, and Office. With the kindness of the management, for which they went to a great deal of trouble and expense to give the employees one of the best outdoor skating rinks in the city, which most of the employees used to advantage.

The game was very fast on Friday night, with J. Meyette, the star of the evening for Strollers. He was right there with fast shots from Butcher and Ash of the Office team just brushing them aside, not forgetting good play by the stonewall defence, J. Kearns, J. Graham, C. Bacon scoring the first goal unassisted; exceptionally good playing was shown by C. Baker, and Driscoll with the latter player at his best. M. Williams refereed the game most satisfactorily.

The teams:

Strollers: Goal, J. Meyette; left wing, A. Driscoll; right wing, C. Baker; centre, C. Brown; defense, J. Kearns, J. Graham; subs, Theobald, Hill, Dubay.

THE DELORME CASE STILL DRAGGING ON

Evidence This Morning by Gun Experts Imported From New oYrk

MONTREAL, March 17.—(Canadian Press.)—Indications this morning were that, contrary to expectations, defence expert evidence would occupy a large part of to-day in the trial of Abbe Delorme for the murder of his halt brother, Raoul. Three experts were to be heard, a bullet photographer, gunsmith and ex-Captain William A. Jones, of the New York Police Department, a bullet expert.

No decision was reached this morning and no announcement was expected until completion of the evidence as to whether the defence would agree to suggestion of the Crown that addresses not be waived. There is a very strong desire on all hands to have the case go to jury as soon as possible.

Distinctive hair line scratch which Crown experts had sworn enabled them to say that three bullets in Raoul Delorme's body came from Abbe Delorme's revolver was the result of metal foulings which occur in any gun barrel, William A. Jones, defence firearms expert, told the jury in Court of King's Bench this morning. Jones, for thirty years firearms expert in New York's police force, explained that metal fouling was adhesion to barrel of gun of small pieces of metal that might be torn off a bullet after an arm had been fired several times in succession, and thus head, tiny portion of metal is fused to interior of barrel and ploughs furrows in bullets that of course, are adidtional to normal rifling marks he said, elaborate micro-photographs of eight bullets used in trial were used by expert witness when court adjourned this morning Jones had faced with five of eight bullets. He testified that he found supplementary scratches on each of them, but metal fouling was the cause. He was specific, too, about the one supplementary scratch that in trial is termed "the scratch in dispute." All morning was required in the hearing Aubrey Drummond, who photographed the bullets and in the first part of the examination of Mr Jones's necessities for translating each question and answer also slowed up proceedings.

THEATRES

ATTRACTIONS EXTRAORDINARY AT ROYAL.

Robert Diamont, bantamweight, and Chas. Raymonde, featherweight champion of France, are on the bill at the Royal Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. These two boxers came over here from France in the same fight stable as Battling Siki, the singular Singelese who defeated Georges Carpentier for the light-heavyweight championship of the world. They separated from the wild man of Africa after he had elevated the eyebrows of the fastidious on this side to the last notch. Both of these boys are in Canada at the present time getting in condition for their next two big bouts, and at the same time playing in vaudeville. Raymonde is billed to meet Leo Kid Roy, Canadian champion, in the latter's home town, Montreal, on April 25th. These two boxers put on their training stuff, consisting of physical culture, shadow boxing, rope skipping, and finish with a fast and furious six-round exhibition. Raymonde got a decision over Mascot, the fellow who received Eugene Criqui's title after his retirement. Diamont has fought Chas. Redoux, who has held the bantamweight title eleven years, five times, and recently received the judge's decision. The pair show some wonderful ring work, and will be heard from when they get back to the ring, also while the boys were in Kitchener appearing at the Lyric Theatre last week Kap of Kitchener, who is the appointed referee of the Boxing Association, was in touch with Bobby Eber's manager, and they are now closing deals for a bout between Bobby Diamont, the bantamweight champion of France, and Bobby Eber, bantamweight champion of Canada, for the early part of next month in Eber's home town of Hamilton. This is really a treat at regular Royal prices. If patrons were asked to pay the regular admission usually charged to see these champions it would run up into the dollars. Usual prices prevail at the Royal.

MONTMARTRE SHOWN IN GLORIA SWANSON FILM.

The Montmartre, that quarter of Paris' artists known through the world and especially vivid in the memory of American soldiers who fought in the "battle of Paris," was transplanted in Astoria, L. I. A section of the outer boulevard De Clichy, intersected by a small street which winds up the hill towards Sacre-Coeur, sprung up like magic at the paramount studio, where scenes for Gloria Swanson's latest Paramount picture, "The Humming Bird," were filmed. The corner cafe is there as are the tobacco shops, the funny kiosks, and quaint houses.

The story deals with life in the Montmartre section of Paris, where artists and apaches—Bohemians all—mingle in the tiny studios and restaurants. Miss Swanson, who plays the dual role of Toinette and 'The Humming Bird' at the Capitol to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday, rubbed her eyes when she walked into the scene for the first time. She knows the section, having visited it many times when she was abroad.

"It is perfect," she cried, and it is down to the last detail which is the vermouth-cassis glass on the sidewalk-table in front of the cafe.

Many dramatic scenes take place in the Montmartre section and Director Sidney Olcott, who also has spent much time in Paris, has given a very colorful background for the work of Miss Swanson and her gang of apaches.

AT THE REGENT

DOROTHY DALTON HAS UNIQUE ROLE IN "FOG BOUND"

Popular Star Has Excellent Part in Her Latest Stellar Picture Vehicle.

The character of Gale Brenon, portrayed by Dorothy Dalton as the star in the Paramount picture, "Fog Bound," which opens a tthree-days' run at the Regent Theatre to-day, is one most unique in motion pictures.

Gale is the daughter of a revenue officer, living with her father on a Florida orange plantation. Next door lives Roger Wainright, a wealthy New York man, played by David Powell, who has bought this neighboring plantation for the purpose of being near Gale, whom he loves. Things progress more or less smoothly between the two until after a wild night spent at a nearby Inn, Wainwright finds himself a fugitve, accused of the murder of Gale's father who had conducted a raid on the resort that evening.

But Gale believes in Roger, who asserts his innocence of the crime. She aids him to escape, but later, when she learns the facts, she gives chase and finds him in his home. Officers of the law are close behind, and the girl has to do some quick thinking. It is a case of being loyal to her dead father or protecting the man she loves. Choosing the latter, Gale determines to shield her sweetheart. With the arrival of the officers comes the climax of the production—a climax that has much to do with making "Fog Bound" a picture different from anything you have yet seen.

This is an Irvin Willat production, including in the cast of supporting players Martha Mansfield, Maurice Costello and other prominent artists.

THREE CHIMNEY FIRES.

Chimney fires kept the Fire Department busy during the winter season, and over the week-end they were also called upon three times as a result of these small fires caused by dirty stove pipes.

The first call was yesterday morning at 9.46 to a chimney fire at 136 Robinson Street, East City. Chemicals were used and there was no damage.

The next call was at 3.28 in the afternoon to a fire caused by overheated stove pipes at 275 Park Street. No damage was done.

A little over an hour later, at 4.41, they answered a call to a small fire caused by overheated stove pipes, at 429 Chambers Street. No damage was done.

CHINA CALLED THE PETER PAN OF THE WORLD

Eloquent Address by Rev. J. D. McRae Before Rotary Club on Chinese Conditions.

THE NEW DIRECTORS

The Peterborough Rotary Club, at its weekly luncheon at the Empress to-day, elected its board of directors for the ensuing year, listened to an eloquent explanation of the objects of the Canadian Social Hygiene exhibit and heard a most interesting address on conditions in China.

The directors elected were Rotarians Reid Wrenn, J. W. McDermid, Ross L. Dobbin, F. C. Hungerford and Dr. A. McNair, and they will choose their officers at an executive meeting.

Rotarian F. H. Dobbin called attention to the fact that to-morrow is Rotary Day at the Canadian Social Hygiene exhibit, with a committee of Rotarians in attendance and addresses by Rotarian Dr. McNair in the afternoon and Rotarian A. Mowat in the evening. He urged every member of the club to attend.

Miss Estelle Hewson, provincial secretary of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council, explained the aims of that organization and dealt in detail with the principal features of the exhibit, which she explained covered constructive as well as destructive phases of the social problem. She sketched the programme that would be followed and asked Rotarians to attend themselves and to mention the exhibit to other citizens and to see that their wives, sisters or sweethearts visited the exhibit during the last three days of the week, reminding them that while one of the objects of Rotary was to take care of defective children, the aim of the Hygiene Council was to prevent defective children from being born in Canada.

The speaker of the day was Rev. J. D. McRae, of China, who is here in connection with the World Mission Conference and who gave some most itneresting information as to conditions in China, which he characterized as the Peter Pan among the nations as it refused to grow old. The speaker emphasized the virility of the Chinese people and declared that China, far from being dead, as many westerners supposed, was very much alive.

Industrially China was a surprise to the people. Raw materials she possessed in huge quantities. China possessed in huge quantities. The coal developed by one company in Northern China closely approached in quantity the output of the great American coal fields. Iron was found in very large quantities, too, and in addition to raw materials China possessed an abundance of cheap labour. Organising ability had been lackng, but was now being supplied, and great progress industrially was being made.

Dr. McRae dealt with the educational situation next, showing what developments had been accomplished. The modern Chinese university student wanted everything up to date either in literature or in clothes or in athletics, and while it was true that the Chinese were illiterate, with 90 per cent. of the men and an even greater percentage of the women unable to read and write, these conditions were being rapidly overcome. The translaton of the literature of China into the spoken language and the use of a phonetic system were largely responsible for a remarkable increase in the number of people who could read and write.

Politically there was a good deal of confusion, although neither the military spirit nor the brigands caused so much trouble as outsiders fancied. The majority of people lived their lives ignoring the political developments and only worrying about brgands if they happened to come into their districts.

The speaker, in conclusion, urged Canadians to be patient and courteous with China and to use the opportunities that existed for a profitable trade with the Chinese people and for a share in the development of China.

During the meeting Rotarian Fred L. Roy called attention to the district conference in Buffalo on 8th and 9th April, outlining the programme and the arrangements made for the entertainment and comfort of the delegates.

OBITUARY

THOMAS L. ANDERSON.

On Sunday evening after a very short illness, the death occurred of Thomas L. Anderson. The deceased had lived in Peterboro for 30 years. He was a member of St. Paul's church and took an active part in the work of the session, Sunday school and the choir. He was also a member of the Order of Oddfellows Three sisters and one brother survive, and of his immediate family there remain his sorrowing wife, a son Stanley, of Amherst, Nova Scotia, and a daughter Jean, of the local Public School staff. Another son, Laidlaw, gave his life in the Great War. The funeral, which will be held from his late residence, 314 Frederick Ave., on Tuesday, at 2 o'clock, will be private.

JOHN CONROY.

Word was received to-day of the death in Vancouver, of John Conroy a former well known citizen of Peterboro. Mr. Conroy leaves a wife and the following sons and daughters: David, Charles, William and Eva, all of Vancouver. The following brothers and sisters also survive: Patrick and Mrs. M. Brisbois, both of Otonabee; David, Alexander and Mrs. James Collins, all of Europe; Mrs. P. Quinlan, Mrs. Edward Flaherty, Mrs. Edward O'Brien and James Conroy, all of this city.

The funeral will take place in Vancouver on Thursday.

JOHN W. ANDERSON.

LINDSAY, March 17. — The sudden death took place on Saturday evening of one of Lindsay's best known business men in the person of John W. Anderson, of the firm of Anderson, Limited, furniture. The deceased had just retired for the evening when he was stricken and died immediately.

The late Mr. Anderson was a member of the Board of Education, Curling Club, Masonic and Oddfellow lodges. He is survived by his wife, one daughter and a son, the latter being Mr. J. E. Anderson, County Crown Attorney.

WAS FOUND DEAD.

BELLEVILLE, March 17. — John Kilpatrick, formerly in Huntingdon Council and a prominent man in the cheese industry in this county, was found dead yesterday by his son, Earl Kilpatrick. The son had been away most of the day at Madoc.

The father had been dead for some hours when found.

GIFT OF PICTURES.
Through a typographical error it was recored in Saturday's paper that acknowledgment of the gift of the I.O.D.E. pictures to the Separate schools of the city, was made by Mrs. G. H. Giroux. This should have read Mr. G. H. Giroux, who represented the Separate schools on the occasion in question.

PETERBORO MALE VOICE CHOIR.
The citizens of Peterboro might well appreciate the efforts of this community organization during the past four years. They have a splendid business executive committee, who work untiringly towards making their anual concert a bigger success than its predecessors. Their work is whole heartedly supported by every member of the choir, who in turn give their time and talents to co-operate in every way towards the desired goal, viz.: "To give the citizens an outstanding high-class musical performance in the vocal art."

The choir has attained its object on four previous occasions, and on Friday evening, March 28th, by making herculean efforts they hope to eclipse the efforts the records already made. Three outstanding Canadian artists have been engaged to take part in this concert (full particulars of same appear in another column of this issue) which assures the musically inclined a very pleasant and profitable programme. Record of the tickets already sold guarantee a capacity audience on the above date at the Grand Opera House.

Y.W.C.A. WEEK'S ACTIVITIES.

WORKING PAST TIME.
The employment situation in the city is not improving very fast.

Last week there were 36 new applicants and 22 placements. There is quite a demand for men on the farms but a great number of the men who have been used to working in the factories will not accept these jobs on account of the smaller pay and the longer hours.

In a short time the rivers and lakes will be opened up and employment will be found for a number of men on the drives.

A number of men in the factories and shops here and in other places are working week about, while some are only workng one in three.

SAVE YOUR MONEY AND BUY HARDWOOD

Customers Surprised at Big Loads--Best Wood Value in City.

Our Wood Sales over the week-end were unusually heavy. There is always a brisk demand for Good Wood, and besides people realize that now is the time to save money by burning our Good Maple and Beech Hardwood, cut in stove length at Nine and Eleven Dollars a Cord. This is easily the best wood value in the City, as our many satisfied customers will testify. Only on Saturday one customer remarked, "I never knew there was so much wood in a cord." This is a good time to burn wood and save what coal you have for next winter. — W. H. Baker, Peterborough Planing Mill. Telephone 1452J. 1d-67

Set Herself Alight When Sunday Dinner Displeased Husband

NEWARK, N.Y., March 17.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Anna Guiczka, 37, of Harrison, is in a critical condition at Michael's Hospital to-day from burns received when she made a human torch of herself by pouring kerosene over her dress and setting afire at her home last night. An argument which started when the woman's husband criticized her Sunday dinner culminated in the woman's act.

Her husband saved her from a quick death by throwing an overcoat about her flaming clothes and putting out the fire.

Financial News and Views

Canadian Stock Exchange and Mines | New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

TO-DAY'S QUOTATIONS AND OPINION AND REVIEWS OF THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 17.—(Special)—Over Sunday news of the House's determination to pass a two billion dollar bonus bill was ameliorated by the estimates that it could be financed out of savings in Government expenditures and consequently would involve no increased taxation.

But the prospect of the action on the measure caused a generally unsettled opening. Fractional losses were experienced by Bethlehem, U. S. Rubber, Studebaker and Baldwin. Additional disturbance resulted from the reduction in Pan-American dividend to an annual rate of $4, the former $8 basis. Pan-American "A" dropped to 47½, against last week's high orf 50 3-4; "B" sold at 45¼, compared with 48.

However, steadiness among the rails continued to act as a stabilizing influence for the entire market.

Chesapeake and Ohio was an outstanding feature of this class, reaching a new high on the move at 75½ on the expectation of an early increase of the present $4 dividend to a $6 annual rate.

Professionals attempted to further the decline by hammering at weak spots through the first hour. These tactics resulted in new lows in Kelly Springfield, which dropped to 101-8, in American Sumatra at 18½, and Tobacco Products at 58 3-8.

The motor shares were depressed by a drive against the tire shares, Studebaker reaching a new low on the movement at 99 3-4, Maxwell A at 49¾, and Moon Car at 24. But the heaviness in special issues proved unavailing in forcing additional recessions in pivotal stocks, such as Steel Can. and similar industrial leaders. This class showed a slightly improved tone in response to continued ease in call money, which again renewed at 4 per cent. This condition has been due to the natural accumulation of funds at this centre, incident to income tax payment, due March 15. Other contributing factors were the $570,000,000 treasury bills which matured at the end of last week and $130,000,000 interest paid on Federal obligations.

Society

Miss Alice Simpson has returned to Toronto, after spending the week end with her sister, Mrs. N. James, 221 Charlotte street.

A jolly little St. Patrick's tea was held on Saturday afternoon in the Green Room at the Young Women's Christian Association, with a good attendance. Arrangements were in charge of the members of the Physical Committee and the Senior Girls. Pretty decorations on the tea table were carried out in green flags, candles and shamrocks, under the management of a decorating committee, composed of Mrs. Reg. H. Turner, Mrs. W. Oke and Mrs. R. Grant. Mrs. B. Gardiner poured tea, assisted by girls wearing white middies and skirts. During the afternoon, Miss Dorothy Engel sang a pretty St. Patrick's Day song, Miss Lois Garrett gave several well-played instrumental selections, and six of the small members of the junior dancing class gave a graceful dance number. "Playtime."

In the concert auditorium of Rosary Hall, Toronto, on Saturday evening, a musicale was given by Signor Carboni. Among those taking part in Gounod's grand opera, "Faust," which was given in oratorio form, was Miss Doris Rathbone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Rathbone, of Peterboro.

AUTHORITIES WILL WITHDRAW CHARGES

Haliburton Man Will be Tried on Two Other Charges.

LINDSAY, March 17.—The authorities having failed in their search to discover the body of a child, it has been decided by the Crown to withdraw the charge of murder against the resident of Snowden township, Haliburton County, who is at present in the county jail here. Two charges of a very serious nature and also the charges of the concealment of birth have been preferred against him. In view of the statement signed by the accused, it was felt that he would plead guilty, but he has elected to be tried at the next court of competent jurisdiction. Mr. C. G. Frost, who had been secured to defend the accused, has withdrawn from the case, and Mr. Ivan Moore, of Lindsay, has been engaged to look after his interests.

A C.P.R. WATER TANK DESTROYED SATURDAY

LINDSAY, March 17.—Early on Saturday morning the large C.P.R. water tank at the station in Bobcaygeon was totally destroyed by fire. The cause of the fire is a mystery. The blaze had broken out at the top, and the brisk wind from the north caused the flames to spread rapidly. The night watchman had visited the tank a few hours before the alarm was sounded, and there was no sign of fire.

WILL DEBATE HYDRO QUESTION IN HOUSE

TORONTO, Ont., March 17. — Hydro matters wil be debated in the Legislature to-morrow, when estimates for that purpose are considered. Sir Adam Beck will outline the proposed programme for the year and report on the work accomplished during the past year. It is unlikely that he will devote much time to the report of the Gregory Commission.

To-night the Public Accounts Committee will meet to hear evidence from managers of banks in which Douglas K. Ridout's $100,000 profit on sale of ten million treasury bills was credited. There will not be a night session of the house. It is generally believed that the Legislature will conclude its session in about three weeks. Although the committees have most of their work to do yet, the work of the House proper is ahead of committees.

Y.M.C.A. SECRETARY RECEIVES BAD NEWS

BELLEVILLE, March 17. Canadian Press. — When R. C. Sidenius, general secreary of the Y.M.C.A., arrived at his desk at nine this morning, the first thing he did was to read a telegram, which informed him that his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Sidenius of Chicago, had been in a motor accident in Chicago, their home. His mother was killed outright, and his father is badly hurt, but perhaps not fatally injured.

BELIEVE ESCAPED THIEF HAS BEEN RECAPTURED

GREENVILLE, Ky., March 17.—(Canadian Press).—A man believed by Muhlenburg County officials to be Gerald Chapman, escaped convict from the Federal Prison at Atlanta, where he was serving a 25-year sentence for a mail robbery in New York, is being held here to-day for the Federal authorities. Government agents in Louisville have been notified and are expected to come here to-day for the prisoner.

PROGRESSIVE SEES NEW DEMOCRACY.

OTTAWA, March 18.—(Canadian Press).—"The Government was out with Progressive bait," exclaimed Hon. Hugh Guthrie, to Conservative laughter in the House Monday, as he referred to the Speech from the Throne. "It had merely to cast its bait on the water and it landed the Progressive leader."

"And a pretty good fish," commented Mr. Robert Forke, Progressive leader, as the House laughed again.

Continued depate on the Address brought contributions from Liberals, Conservatives and Progressive alike. The ground was largely familiar, but pointed sallies and retort revived a flagger-ing interest.

Mr. Guthrie, who opened for the Conservatives, challenged the Premier to test public opinion by opening a constituency. But, added Mr. Guthrie, Liberals might look with longing towards the Red Chamber of the Senate. There would be no vacancy on the Government side of the House except by the act of God.

Mr. Guthrie questioned expenditure by the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. In the year 1922-23, he claimed, it had taken six million dollars to administer an expenditure of seven million dollars. And touching on his change of view since he sat with Liberals in the House, Mr. Guthrie declared that anybody who found his discarded opinions reasonable could take them up.

Hon. Dr. King, Minister of Public Works, followed for the Government. He stressed efforts of the Government towards a balanced Budget; he declared that great benefit had resulted from last year's increase in British preference, and—citing developments in the port of Vancouver—said that Canadians were beginning to realize that it was a good thing to ship through the Panama Canal.

Debt Has Increased.

As evidence of the Government's failure to deal with the problems before it, Mr. Guthrie pointed to the entry of $9,699,000 for settlers' effects exported from Canada to the United States during the past year, while the imports of such effects for the same period were $4,464,000. The Prime Minister's claim that the present Government had reduced the national debt, he countered with the statement that on March 31, 1922, the national debt was $2,340,000,000, while at the end of last month it was $2,410,000,000.

Mr. Guthrie then went on to criticise Hon. Ernest Lapointe's claim that taxation had been decreased under the present Government. He was quite sure that Mr. Lapointe's figure of $36.67 per head included only Federal taxes, and that in Ontario at least the per capita tax, including Provincial and municipal taxes, would be over $100. As a matter of fact, what had the present Government done to decrease taxation? It was well known that the present Government had increased the sales tax and the check tax and had introduced the receipt tax, but he did not know of any reduction made by the present Government in direct taxes.

Changed His Opinions.

The increased export of Canadian implements to France, Mr. Guthrie pointed out, was overwhelmingly counter-balanced by the increased imports from the United States. Mr. Guthrie went on to discuss the effect on the Canadian woollen industry of the increase last year in the British preference. The exchange situation had combined with this increased preference to close out a number of big factories in Canada. Canada imported 3.8 square yards of British woollen goods for every man, woman and child. All this he felt sure could be and should be made in Canada.

He spoke of his own advocacy of free implements in the House nine years ago. He had changed his opinions, and to his critics he would say that John Morley had once said he had no apologies for a change of opinions. Those he had discarded could be taken up by anybody else who found them reasonable.

Mr. Forke: "Perhaps the hon. gentleman will take them up again himself some day."

Mr. Guthrie said this was not very likely.

Amid many interruptions from the Liberal benches, Mr. Guthrie declared that the Government was hanging on to office against British traditions and in contrast to the manly courageous course of the former Conservative Premier, Mr. Meighen.

Minister of Public Works.

Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, asserted that ever since the debate on the Address had begun, Conservatives had been trying to direct attention from the Speech from the Throne, by which they had been much disturbed. Dr. King called attention to the effort of the Government to balance the Budget, and stated that there had been a careful scrutiny of expenditures in his own department for this purpose. He declared that during the last decade the lowest expenditures for public works, except for two years during the war, had been since the present administration took office.

He was satisfied, said Dr. King, that nothing would give more satisfaction to the people of Canada than the balancing of the Budget to be followed perhaps by a decrease in taxation.

Vancouver's Development.

Mr. King declared that the application of the extension of the British preference to goods coming into Canadian ports had borne a great deal of fruit. He referred at some length to the remarkable development in the business of the port of Vancouver. In the crop year, 1920-21, approximately 7,000,000 bushels of wheat had passed through the port outward bound. In 1921-22 the export through Vancouver was about the same. In 1922-23 it had jumped to 19,000,000 bushels, and during the present crop year 25,000,000 bushels had passed through the port already and he believed the total export would amount to 50,000,000 bushels. Exports of lumber showed the same remarkable increase. In 1921 exports had been approximately 179,000,000 feet. In 1923, 429,000,000 feet went out of Vancouver. This rapid development had but started he believed. Canadians were beginning to realize that it was a good thing to ship through the Panama Canal.

A New Democracy.

R. A. Hoey (Progressive, Springfield) was of the opinion that society throughout the world was changing, being reorganized on a co-operative basis. Britain, he thought, under her new regime was the spearhead of this new democracy. He thought many members of the House were losing sight of the fact that production in industry was not an end, but a means to an end. He referred to the protectionist policy as that of "crying for more snow, while the free trade policy looked confidently for the spring."

Continuing his speech in the evening, Mr. Hoey declared that free trade was the doctrine of freedom as opposed to a doctrine of slavery. He referred to the speech of Hon. H. H. Stevens, in which Mr. Stevens had stated that the woollen industry was being ruined by reductions in the tariff. He did not know that a system of taxation could be referred to as immoral, but he thought that the result of such a system might well be characterized as immoral.

"A system of taxation which slaps every mother in the face because of the tax on her children's woollen clothing, has immoral results," he said. Everyone regretted the con-

Communists Lose At Potsdam Polls

POTSDAM, Prussia, March 18.—(Canadian Press).—A decided swing to the Right was shown in the Potsdam municipal election held Sunday, the complete returns yesterday indicating that the Socialists and Communists had lost approximately 60 per cent. of their sternth as recorded by the poll of 1919.

Zest was added to the election by the presence of Ex-Crown Prince Frederick William, who, however, refrained from any active part in the canvassing. The population, which consist mainly of exofficers of the army, retired officials of the old imperial government, office holders and members of the aristocracy, took a keen interest in the election, the result being there were 9,000 more votes polled than four years ago. The total vote Sunday was 31,000, or 77 per cent. of the voting population.

NICKLE ORDERS MAGISTRATES TO SIT IN COUNTRY

Minor Offences Should Be Tried Outside of County Towns For Convenience of Rural People and to Spread Knowledge of "Fireside Law" — The Referendum Bill's Third Reading.

Legislation Advanced.

TORONTO, March 18.—(Canadian Press).—The Legislature sitting less than two hours Monday advanced a few government bills and many private bills a stage nearer finished legislation. Third reading was given to the bill enabling the Government to take a vote on the liquor questions. Second reading was given the bill preventing municipalities from bonusing industries except by granting fixed assessments for a period of ten years and then only after two-thirds of the qualified electors have voted favorably on it.

Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General, said that Quebec was having the same legislation made effective so that neither Province could offer advantages to locating industries. The Premier pointed out that many Ontario towns had suffered severe losses because they had bonused industries which had failed. In view of the fact that several municipalities are taking votes on bonuses within the next month or two, the Attorney-General amended his bill so that its terms do not become effective until July 1.

Attorneys' Salaries.

Second reading was also given a bill empowering the Government to pay straight salaries to Crown Attorneys in counties containing cities of over 30,000 people. The Attorney-General explained that this was a step towards getting away from the fee system.

J. A. Currie (Southeast Toronto) said it would be a good thing if all Crown Attorneys were put on salary. He also thought interpreters should be paid salaries as many of them were a menace to the proper carrying out of justice as they fooled foreigners. The Attorney-General said he knew this and was bringing in a bill empowering Police Commissions to engage interpreters under a salary for the work done so they would be put beyond the reach of avarice.

Duty of Magistrates.

E. Proulx (Lib., Prescott) protested against the system of having County Magistrates instead of Justices of the Peace for the trying of minor offences. He said that going 40 or 50 miles to the county town for the trial of a minor case was very inconvenient to the people of the rural districts. Moreover people did not attend these county trials and consequently did not get to

LOOKS LIKE A BUSY JUNE IN EUROPE

Copyright, Harris & Ewing

Leap Year probably will see at least three royal weddings in Europe. And no doubt it will steal away all the marriageable sons and daughters of the Kings and Queens of Italy and Belgium. The dopesters on the imperial match-making figure it all out like this: Prince Nicholas of Roumania and Princess Mafalda, Victor Emmanuel's second daughter, shown on the right, will go to the altar first. Then there will be a double wedding in which Princess Marie of Belgium becomes the bride of Humbert, Italian Crown Prince, centre; and Princess Giovana, Marie's younger sister, becomes the wife of Leopold, Albert's eldest son and heir to the Belgian throne.

POLICE SEARCH FOR FINN FAILS

Two Victims of Murderous Attack at Sudbury In Critical Condition — Were Cut Into Ribbons By Fellow-Countryman.

SUDBURY, March 18. —Provincial and local police continued their search Sunday night and Monday morning for the Finn who murderously attacked three fellow countrymen in a house on the Copper Cliff Road on Saturday night. John Jakoianen and Car Raunio, two of his victims, are still in a critical condition in St. Joseph's hospital.

Sulo Johnson's home, where the affray took place, looked like a slaughter house when visited by the police after the affair. Raunio, while suffering from terrible knife wounds, is also greatly weakened by loss of blood. He crawled on his hands and knees, several hundred yards from the house to the road, following the attack, and was carried to an automobile by neighbors. Jakoianen required eight stitches in the back of his neck, eight across his shoulders and four in his right arm. He also has numerous smaller cuts.

It has transpired that the weapon used by the unknown Finn in his attack was a broken knife. The knife had been broken earlier in the evening during a quarrel with Jakoianen at the home of a woman named Hill, in the Finnish colony. This had been merely a minor affray and Jakoinen was not injured. He was in the home of a neighbor nearby when the Finn entered Johnson's house and answered Johnson's summons for help without knowing that it was his former opponent who was causing the trouble.

The affair will mean a general round-up of Finns in this district in order that they be examined for carrying knives. Almost all the late arrivals in this district from Finland carry sheath knives. A number of Finns near Creighton mine were relieved of their weapons by the police some weeks ago.

Emigrants Sought Air Route to U.S.A.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, March 18.—(Canadian Press).—More than 700 Germans who desire to migrate to the United States have applied for passage on the ZR-3, which is being built here at the Zeppelin Works for the United States navy and which is to make a flight across the Atlantic upon completion. The trial trip in Germany will probably take place in May.

Only four United States officers and thirty German engineers and technicians will be taken on the flight to the United States, the route of which will be along the Rhine Valley, over Basle, Belfort, Bordeaux and Bermuda to Lakehurst, New Jersey. It is likely that United States warships, 200 miles apart, will patrol the Atlantic while the flight is in progress.

BULLETS WERE NOT DELORME'S

Pistol Expert For Defence In Montreal Trial Believed Bullets Submitted to Him Were Not From the Same Gun Nor From Abbe's Bayard.

MONTREAL, March 18. — (Canadian Press).—The possibility that counsel for the Crown and defence will forego their privilege of addressing the jury in the Delorme murder trial is now regarded as very remote. Crown Prosecutor R. L. Calder has intimated that he is prepared to do so, but only on condition that Messrs. Germain and Gendron, for the defence, will also agree to this course.

There were still two expert witnesses to be heard in defence this morning after which the addresses by counsel were expected to commence some time this afternoon.

Verdict Wednesday.

If they do so, a verdict cannot be reached before late on Wednesday.

Father Delorme listened to the lengthy evidence but hardly took any notes. Ex-Captain Wm. A. Jones of the New York police department was on the witness stand all day describing pistol bullet marks scratches, "drifts," and other peculiarities.

In the afternoon this witness was subjected to severe cross-examination by R. L. Calder, Crown Prosecutor and angry objections by Alban Germain, counsel for the defence, enlivened the passages.

Small Sensation.

A small sensation occurred towards the end of the afternoon session when juryman No. 8 excitedly pointed to the back of the court and asked by Oscar Haynes, the armorer, who was a Crown witness, was "making signs" to Mr. Calder, while the latter was cross-examining. Haynes was ordered to go to another part of the court and desist from his pantomimic activities.

The main conclusion of witness Jones was that two of the bullets found in Raoul Delorme's body were fired by one pistol and the third by another. None of them, however, he thought, were fired with Father Delorme's Bayard.

SUNKEN WRECKS ON MAIN COAST

Divers Will Explore the Victims of Recent Storm When Heavy Seas Subside — May Be Sailing Vessel Broken In Two.

BOSTON, March 18.—Canadian Press).—As soon as weather conditions permit a diver will explore two sunken wrecks found near Pollock Rip Shoals after last week's storm, one of the believed to be the six-masted schooner Wyoming of Portland, Maine.

Two boats from the Wyoming floated ashore at Nantucket, together with her nameplate and life belts bearing her name. The finding of the boats, according to Coast Guards men, probably indicated that the crew abandoned the vessel only to have their boats swamped in the raging seas and all hands drowned.

The heavy seas of the last two days have prevented the Coast Guard cutter Acushnst from examining the wrecks off Pollock Rip, from one of which three and from the other two masts project above the surface. A lifebelt with the name Alaska or Alaskan was cast ashore on Nantucket Island and for a time gave rise to the belief that the two-masted schooner Alaska of Machias, Me., had been lost. This vessel is out on the ways in her home port. Yesterday Coast Guardsmen said the two wrecks might be parts of the Wyoming, one of the largest sailing vessels in the world.

Their belief is that the Wyoming, which was bound from Norfolk for St. John, N.B.,, with coal, was at anchor when the storm broke and that the terrific pounding of the seas split her hull in two and sent her down. One section, it was said, might have been drifted some distance. The two wrecks lie on their side and will be blown up to clear the fairway.

Party of Immigrants Have Farm Experience.

ST. JOHN, N. B. March 17. — The Canadian Pacific Steamship Marburn, arrived in port last night from Glasgow and Belfast. The liner brought out a total of 523 passeners 64 cabin and 311 third class passengers from Glasgow and 11 cabin and 137 third class from Belfast. The majority of the passengers were young men and women who have come to Canada to seek employment and are destined for Toronto and points west.

There was a special party of 33 young men and women who are booked for Toronto. They were in charge of Major R. L. Goodliff, who is a representative of the Ontario government. They were fine looking and the majority have had experience on farms.

Hired Mexican For $10 to Kill Wife

PUEBLO, Colo., March 18.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Bella Janssen, whose body was found in a trunk at Ogden, Utah, Saturday, was slain as she knelt in prayer, Fred Janssen, her husband, told the Pueblo police here Monday. Janssen admitted he had hired a Mexican to kill her for $10. He said he remained in an adjoining room while she was killed. Her body was discovered by railway officials at Ogden, Utah, who forced open the trunk after an express messenger had reported blood was trickling from it.

The trunk was shipped from Denver last Friday, for Weed, Calif. The body was clad only in underwear, a kimono and a pair of house slippers. It had been tied in place in the trunk by pieces of rope and the head had been covered by a piece of rug.

PROPAGANDA IS ONE OBJECT OF RUSSIAN VISIT

Trade Agent Purposes Giving Information About Conditions the Bolsheviki Have Created —Will Buy Farm Machinery Here If It Is Cheap Enough.

WILL MEET PREMIER.

MONTREAL, March 18.— Alexandre A. Yazikoff, Russian Soviet trade agent, who has established headquarters in Montreal, when interviewed Monday stated that he had come to Canada for the purpose of giving information regarding conditions in Russia, and for obtaining information as to how he might build up a trade connection for his country.

"We require agricultural implements very badly in Russia," he stated, "and if they can be secured in Canada at a reasonable figure we will be large buyers. This is our most pressing need and we feel that in exchange we can sell some furs, flax and medical supplies to Canadians."

He pointed out that now Russia had received recognition from the English government, the country would endeavor to take its place among the nations of the world and would once more consider the advisability of making application for admittance to the league of nations.

In regard to Russian debts he said that some of them would be paid. "It must be remembered, however," he said, "that many countries that loaned money to Russian loaned it to the White Army that was fighting against us. Surely these countries do not expect the Soviet government to pay for the upkeep of an army that attempted to destroy us."

"The Russian representative was received last week by Hon. George P. Graham, acting premier, but no definite steps were taken, he said, towards establishing credits or towards making any trade agreement. He hopes to enter on this phase of his mission next week when he goes to Ottawa to meet Premier Mackenzie King.

POLICE SCENT CLUE TO UNSOLVED CRIME

Family Quarrel In Sudbury Court Starts Investigation of Murder at Coniston Five Years Ago

SUDBURY, Ont., March 18.—(Canadian Press.) — Testimony which may lead to a solution of a murder committed in Coniston in 1919 was given in Sudbury police court Monday during the airing of a domestic quarrel, Mrs. Ornatosky of Sudbury, the complaining witness, accusing her son-in-law, Mike Madig, of having threatened her life. Some of her statements suggested to the police that Madig might know something about the Coniston affair in which a merchant was shot dead by one of two men who attempted to rob his store. No arrest in connection with the murder was ever made. Since 1919 Madig has lived in Orillia, St. Catharines, Hamilton and Toronto. He returned to Sudbury this week with his family.

The provincial police have started a new investigation into the Coniston crime of five years ago.

CANADIAN UNITY AND COURAGE IS MEIGHEN'S PLEA

Conservative Leader In Address to the Montreal Club Said Whisperings Against Confederation In Prairie and Maritime Provinces Should Be Dropped.

Perseverance Needed.

MONTREAL, March 18.—(Canadian Press).—In a non-partizan address delivered before the Canadian Club here yesterday, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen pleaded for the dropping of sectional cries, and especially of whispers against Confederation in the Far East or West. These things, he said, occurred only during times of depression and vanished when these came to an end. He urged that Canadians should unit from East to West with full courage to meet the future and to carry on the traditions of British libert, and British institutions.

Mr Meighen.s subject was "The Why and Wherefore of Canada," and he opened with a historic sketch of earlier days and the events that led to confederation. After pointing to the struggles and even rebellion that ultimately led to self government in Canada he said we should not wonder so much at its delay as at the cheerfulness with which Great Britain, after bearing all the cost of developing and guarding the Dominion, which was still being paid for in British taxation had given self government to Canada several years before Confederation.

Had Freedom Then.

Even at that time he said we had as great freedom in our Parliament as pertains to-day at Westminster and more ample liberty than is now enjoyed by the Congress of the United States. Had Confederation not taken place, Mr. Meighen continued, we should to-day find Nova Scotia in the language of a Quebec member of Parliament recently: "With her two arms stretched into the Atlantic as if in an appeal to the United States." It would he said have been the same with New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. The western provinces would have been in similar positions, wholly subservient to the United States. These provinces had their own complaints that the burdens of Confederation were disproportionately heavy on them, while they got too meagre a portion of the reward.

Courage and Perseverance.

He was not there, said the speaker, to dispute or minimize these complaints, "but assuming there is a merit in them and that unfairness exists in the Maritimes and the Prairie Provinces, surely the fact that they have, too great a share in the struggle is no reason why we should give up the struggle altogether."

His conclusion as to these sectional appeals was "that having steered our course aright we must make some adjustment along lines fair to the whole dominion. All we have to do is to show the same perseverance and courage as animated those great men who made our Dominion what it is to-day."

CHURCH UNION RUMOR

OTTAWA, March 17.— Reports that Westminster Presbyterian Church and the First Congregational Church of this city, are to be united prevail here. Although neither of the negotiating parties will make any definite statement, it is admitted that advances have been made and the union is within the realms of possibility.

IRISH CONCERT AT GRAND

(By Jeannette).

The seventeenth of Ireland had its culmination for nearly nine hundred of the citizens of Peterboro in the Grand Irish concert given last evening under the auspices of St. Peter's Holy Name Society in the Grand Opera House. With the lower floor and the balcony well filled, and over a hundred in the gallery, it was a generous and appreciative audience including visitors from out of town, that attended last night one of the nicest Irish evenings held in the city for years. The old and new songs of the green isle over the sea had a part on the programme, which, with a mixture of vocal and instrumental music and dancing, a visiting soloist, and a visiting entertainer in Mr. Jules Brazil, who achieved a real triumph in his work last evening, with a monologue by George Wesley that had a distinctly professional flavor, presented a variety of fun and entertainment that went through from start to finish without a hitch. The duties of stage director were in the capable hands of Miss Lillian Simons, and Miss Lillian Hurley filled to perfection the arduous role of accompanist for a long evening of varied music.

The entertainment, which was a distinct departure in type to the annual Irish play which has been presented on the 17th of March for many years past, opened with a one-act musical comedy, "Old Timers," introducing Irish songs and dances. The scene was a theatrical office, with a theatrical producer hearing various applicants. Mr. Charlie Carson made an admirable John McAvoy, the manager, taking his part with ease and ability, and Ralph Koster was his efficient aide, as Jimmie, the office boy. Representing songs, the various applicants appeared in turn, in an entertaining and melodious recital of the favorites in Irish music, old and new.

Mr. E. Bartley was the initial applicant. He sang "Kathleen Mavourneen" in splendid style, his rich, resonant tones and excellent delivery receiving much applause. Mr. Frank Grady followed, in Irish gossoon outfit, with a rollicking rendition of "Tipperary." In good voice, Mr. J. Fitzpatrick, in dashing khaki attire, gave "The Minstrel Boy," and Miss Geraldine Collins' sweet, appealing tones were heard to excellent advantage in "The Last Rose of Summer." Miss Collins made a pretty picture in her white dress, with green laced girdle, a pink rose in her dark hair.

"The Old Plaid Shawl" was given in fine style by Mr. Vincent McCabe,, his ease in delivery and good voice making it an effective number, and Miss Annie Simons received a real ovation for the finished manner in which she sang "An Old Irish Mother of Mine." Garbed in voluminous skirts, with little shawl and trim bonnet, Miss Simons made a wonderful little old lady, and her sweet, musical tones in the old-fashioned number brought her rousing applause that resulted in a repetition of a popular number.

An interlude in the vocal programme was afforded by Messrs. D. Quinlan and George Wesley. Mr. Wesley made a real hit, and his audience were barely satisfied with the briefness of his performance. In a fetching costume that included a blazing red tie and wig, a small tile that gave place later to an infinitesimal straw hat, a plaid waistcoat ,a cane and a pair of dazzling socks, Mr. Wesley, in his own inimitable manner, had a monologue made up of local allusion that tickled his hearers immensely. He was joined later by Mr. D. Quinlan, and the two "stepped" in great style to the tune of "Three O'clock in the morning." To the applause that followed their clever footwork, Mr. Quinlan came back for an exhibition of eccentric steps, done in his usual snappy style.

"Galway Rose" was Miss F. Murray's contribution, in attractive contralto tones and pretty Irish costume, to the programme, and Miss Ernestine McManus followed, her high, clear sweetness of tone heard to good advantage in "Terence's Farewell." An Irish dance by Miss Kathleen Cooney, garbed in the traditional green and white, was a pleasant and nimbly-executed variation, that brought the young performer a loud encore.

The two concluding local numbers in the programme of solo music were the songs of Miss Minnie Allen and Mrs. J. Dwyer. Miss Allen, wearing a stunning cape and hood of scarlet over her green skirt, gave "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" in her soft, tuneful voice, and received hearty applause, which also followed the rendition, in Mrs. Dwyer's lovely, trained tones, of the beautiful old song, "The Kerry Dance." Mrs. Dwyer was also costumed as an Irish colleen, with kilted skirts of green and white. During the performance, several of the ladies received pretty floral tributes.

The entire group of old songs, gathered on the stage to join in a rousing measure of an Irish reel, to the tune of "The Kerry Dance," and they sang, in chorus, "My Wild Irish Rose."

Miss E. Kelly who, with Mr. Jules Brazil, were visiting artists, gave two vocal solos, with encores in each instance. Miss Kelly has a clear soprano voice of good range and delicate power in the upper register. Her finest number was probably the last response to an encore after her second appearance, when she sang beautifully the lovely old song, "Eileen Alannah." Her pure tones were apparent in the opening song, "Green," one of the newest Irish songs, with its encore, in one of John McCormack's latest, "Little Town in the Old County Down." "Break o' Day" was the fourth number in the sweet singer's quartette of lovely Irish music.

A quintette of male voices was one of the high lights in a pleasant evening of Erin's songs. Messrs. J. Minicolo, E. Picard, E. Bartley, J. Fitzpatrick and V. McCabe composed the group of excellent musicians who gave, with lead by Mr. Picard, "Take Off Your Hats to Old Ireland," and, as an encore, with solo by Mr. Minicolo, the plaintive and appealing strains of "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen."

Mr. Brazil was the star performer of the evening. From the moment he appeared until his last characteristic response to a final encore, he kept his audience in constant and surprised good humour. As an entertainer, Mr. Brazil is immense. He brings to his difficult art resources of voice and manner and a varied repertoire that make him always amusing and eminently likeable. His apparent fund of high spirits combine with an artistic comprehension of the tastes of his hearers in an entertainment that is snappy and delightful. Mr. Brazil's habit of interspersing his musical monologues with personal quips and greetings to his friends in the audience establishes at once a bond of good fellowship between him and his listeners, and last night he and his audience had a very funny time when he got off some clever allusions to people and things in Peterborough, with special reference to his friends in the house. His first number was entitled an Irish sketch, that proved to be a little of everything, and ended up with a melody of old Irish tunes, set, one might say, to the musician's rapid-fire monologue, and his own version, with a Peterborough atmosphere of "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." Mr. Brazil gave his monocle number, in an imitation of "Thou of my Thou," and a mixed quartette, and, to a burst of enthusiastic applause, responded with "How Ireland Got Its Name."

On his second appearance, in a musical sketch, he gave, in characteristic fashion, the musical story of a romance that had to do with titles of various songs, and brought him again repeated encores, and came out for a fine brief sketch, portraying the fate that awaited the tune of "Yankie Doodle" when it wandered into foreign lands. This was a clever bit, that began with the American version of the well known, merry jingle, developed it into an Irish jig, included it in the tones of an English voluntary, and drowned it forever in the drone of a Scotch bagpipe.

A very pleasing portion of the programme was provided by an impromptu number by two talented young performers of the city, who jumped into the breach at the last moment and filled with great success the vacant place made by the absence of the third artist invited from Toronto, Miss G. Holland, who was prevented at the last moment from fulfilling her engagement to appear last evening. With a readiness and spirit of co-operation that added much to their excellent music, Messrs. Ted McCarthy, at the xylophone and Harold Armstrong at the piano, filled the gap in a manner that left little to be desired. The three numbers given in splendid fashion with xylophone and piano by the youthful performers were the pretty music of "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," with its encore, "I Love You," and a second response to renewed applause, in "I'm Drifting Back to Dreamland."

During intermissions the Opera House orchestra rendered, in rousing style, many of the old and new favorites in a programme of stirring Irish music.

After the performance, the visiting artists and cast, with others who assisted in the evening's entertainment were entertained at a sumptuous banquet in the gymnasium hall of St. Alphonsus' Lyceum, on Simcoe street. Guests to the number of about 75 were entertained at a supper served by nimble young lady assistants, and catered for in their usual excellent fashion by Messrs. J. Trombley, A. Doris and J. Hanrahan. Rev. Father Collins presided over the long table, dainty with its white cover and bright flowers. Community singing was led in his own special style by Mr. Brazil, who kept the ball of fun rolling, with Miss Hurley contributing her usual generous assistance at the piano.. As a special number Mr. Brazil enlisted the aid of Mr. Harold Bickell, manager of the Opera House, and Mr. W. Whaley, in a merry duet, "My Wild Irish Rose."

At the conclusion of the banquet, Rev. Father Collins expressed his appreciation given by Mr. Brazil and Miss Kelly, and the local performers, in their contribution to the success of the evening, and also to Messrs. Trombley, Doris and Hanrahan. Rev. C. Carroll supported the first speakers' remarks, and Mr. Brazil acknowledged their thanks with a few well chosen words. The expressions of the two previous speakers were reiterated by the president of the Holy Name Society of St. Peter's parish, Mr. A. Doherty, who also added a word of appreciation of the kindness shown by Mr. H. Bickell during the Society's stay at the Opera House.

CAMPBELLFORD MOTION AGAINST LIQUOR VOTE

Ministerial Association Asks Government Not to Present Referendum Until There Has Been An Unmistakable Demand For It — Dr. Fosdick's Book Discussed.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 18.—The members of the Ministerial Association at their March meeting here Monday afternoon put themselves on record with regard to the proposed plebiscite on the temperance question. On motion of Rev. E. O. Seymour, a special committee, consisting of Rev. J. J. Black, H. S. Bennett and J. E. Glover, was appointed to draft a resolution to be forwarded to the Ontario Government asking that no vote be taken until there is an unmistakeable demand for it by the people of Ontario. Major Belford, M.L.A. for Northumberland East, will be asked to attend a meeting here in order to get the views of his constituents on the question.

The ministers at the meeting yesterday were Revs. J. J. Black of Burnbrae, who is president, O. E. Seymour of Havelock; W. B. Herrington of Cordova Mines; M. L. Hinton of Hastings; R. Bloye, of the Free Methodist church, town; C. F. McIntosh and Wesley Elliott. Rev. H. S. Bennett, the secretary was absent in Toronto, to which city he has been called with Mrs. Bennett, owing to the serious illness of the latter's father. Rev. J. E. Glover acted as secretary in Mr. Bennett's place. Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings, sent by Mr. Hinton, his regrets at his inability to attend as he was detained by the funeral of a member of his congregation.

The members of the Association deprecated any attempt to bring on an early vote, holding that such a move would catch the temperance people unawares while the liquor forces are well organized in preparation for the fray.

Health Matters.

Miss Reba Veitch, the nurse who is working in the schools and homes here under the auspices of the Provincial Board of Health, addressed the meeting asking for the co-operation of the members of the association. She explained the work in which she is engaged, especially with reference to the instruction of mothers in the care of infants. The ministers were asked to report to her cases where such instruction was needed and which came to their attention on their pastoral visits. Mothers' conferences are to be held once a week, after March 26, when babies will be weighed and individual instruction given to their mothers on the care of the little ones.

All of the ministers present expressed approval of Miss Veitch's work, and on motion of Reeve Elliott and McIntosh she was assured of the heartiest co-operation.

Miss Veitch stated that the work, so far confined to the town, is likely to be extended to the homes and schools of the district.

"Christianity and Progress."

The paper of the day, "A Review of the Book on 'Christianity and Progress'" was by Rev. H. E. Fosdich of New York, was read by Rev. Wesley Elliott, and the members expressed their appreciation of the pains taken by the speaker to set the substance of the book clearly before them. Mr. McIntosh said he had a personal interest in Dr. Fosdich, as he had been his professor for over six months, and he could not understand what there was in his published works to justify the persecution to which he was being subjected by the fundamentalists in the United States, led by W. J. Bryan. The church people of Canada, Mr. McIntosh said, were disposed to take a middle course, while in the United States they went to extremes, both as modernists as fundamentalists, and the persecution was largely due to the criticism of such men as W. J. Bryan, who did not fully understand the matter at issue.

On motion of Messrs. McIntosh and Hinton Mr. Eliott was tendered a vote of thanks for his paper.

Mr. Herrington a new member of the association took a prominent part in the discussion.

HEADS THE BOARD.

J. A. LOUCKS
Chairman of the Campbellford Board of Education For This Year.

LETTER FROM DR. G. A. HAY, V.S.

MYSTERIOUS ATTACK BAFFLES INSPECTORS.

Campbellford, Ont., March 17, /24.

Under the above heading an article appeared in your valuable paper which is grossly misleading and does an injustice to the inspectors, and, to the veterinary profession.

Your correspondent could not have been conversant with the facts.

While it is true one of the local men attributed the cause to a running stream from which the animals were drinking, and, another diagnosed the case as being black quarter, your correspondent states that Dr. Marriott and Dr. Reid and myself were all present together and stated that the disease was new to all of us.

As a matter of fact I never met Dr. Marriott at all, and only casually met Dr. Reid, who was in the district attending some accredited herd business, and, at that time I knew nothing of the case, further than I had heard that Mr. Stephens had lost seven animals from his herd.

Later, in the afternoon of the 11th inst., I was called to the case, knowing nothing of what Dr. Marriott had told Mr. Stephens. I made my diagnosis, and ,when I had concluded Mr. Stephens said I agreed with Dr. Marriott as to the trouble, but differed slightly as to the cause.

I diagnosed the malady as lack of hemoglobin in the blood, which is nothing new to the profession, but might be a little confusing to a layman, as to the cause in this case the agent contributing can only be determined by analysis of the blood in the laboratories.

Further, am very much pleased to state that since taking over the case Mr. Stephens has sustained no further loss, which is very gratifying to Mr. Stephens and also to myself.

Kindly give this article the same publicity as you did the article above referred to.

Thanking you for taking so much of your valuable space.

Yours very respectfully,
DR. G. A. HAY.

CENTENARIAN DEAD NEAR CAMPBELLFORD

Mrs. Minerva Benedict Celebrated Hundredth Birthday on February 18

CAMPBELLFORD, March 18. — Mrs. Minerva Benedict died at 10 oclock on Monday morning, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. P. Spofford, at Bradley's Corners, in Percy Township. She had celebrated her 100th birthday on February 18th last, an extended notice of which with a sketch of her life appeared in the Examiner at the time. She had been confined to her bed for about three years as the result of a paralytic stroke but her faculties were but little impaired, and her general health was good until about ten days ago when she sank into a comatose condition from which she never rallied. Her vitality was remarkable to the last, as for over a week before her death she took no nourishment of any kind. Mrs. Spofford is her only child.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 on Wednesday afternoon, to the Warkworth cemetery. Service at the home of Mrs. Spofford will be conducted by Rev. Wesley Elliott, of the Campbellford Methodist church, of which the late Mrs. Benedict was a faithful member when she resided in this town some years ago. Rev. W. F. Coffley, of Norham, is to ill to attend the funeral.

POPE PIUS IS SAID TO BE INDISPOSED

Greatest Secrecy is Being Maintained Regarding Condition of Pope.

POPE PIUS XI.

LONDON, March 18 (United News). — The Rome correspondent of the London Daily Express telegraphs that the health of Pope Pius XI. is causing alarm and that the Pope is suffering from arteriosclerosis.

The Daily Express despatch states that Pope Pius suffered a heart attack several days ago, and adds that his personal physician has arrived at the Vatican from Milan.

The correspondent reports that the Vatican officials are preserving the greatest secrecy with regard to the condition of the Pope, but that he learns that Pope Pius finds that the Vatican receptions cause him great fatigue.

The story is not confirmed from other sources.

HASTINGS BARN NEARLY BURNED

Fire Started in Hen House and Spread to the Barn --Very Little Damage.

HASTINGS, March 18. — This morning a fire was discovered in a hen house on the farm of Mr. David Smith, who resides three miles out on the Cobourg road. A large crowd who had gathered at the home of Mr. Smith for the funeral of his mother, turned in and saved the adjoining buildings. The barn caught fire but an efficient bucket brigade saved the building. It was necessary to tear some of the boards and shingles off to save the barn.

J. W. CURRY ADMITS OBTAINING A LOAN

Money Was Not Used For Campaign Purposes, Curry Declared.

TORONTO, March 18.—(Canadian Press).—"Mr. Curry, borrowed money from Mr. Ridout, but it was not used for campaign purposes."

Such was message which was relayed over the telephone last night when a reporter called J. W. Curry's residence to ask if Mr. Curry would corroborate evidence given before last night's sitting of the public accounts committee of legislature by D. K. Ridout, financier who sold bonds for Hon. Peter Smith.

The former member for southeast Toronto, had retired but the call was answered by member of his household who made the inquiry requested

"The amount was $3,000." "Yes, that's right," replied the messenger. The loan was made month before last provincial general election.

Fall-Planted Crop Passing Through Critical Time, Says Government Report — Brisk Demand For Laborers.

TORONTO, Ont. March 18.—High lying fall wheat fields have been rendered more or less bare by the steady thawing weather of the last week or two, says the weekly report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, issued Monday. The trying time is now upon the crop, says the report, but so far it has come along in generally promising condition.

Applications for farm laborers are pouring into representatives of the department. Last week forty labors, chiefly from England, Ireland, Denmark, Holland and Sweden were placed in Middlesex county alone. The Bruce county representative reports that German workers who recently arrived in that county are, as a rule, giving satisfaction.

Large quantities of hay are being baled and sold for shipping out, of the country, chiefly to the United States. Prices to the farmer range from $9 to $10, while loose hay in the market places sells at from $12 to $14 per ton.

OBITUARY

JAMES WOOD.

BAILIEBORO, March 18. — There passed away at the home of his son, Mr. Byron Wood, on the old homestead, Mr. James Wood, in his 77th year, on Friday morning last.

The late Mr. Wood was born in South Monaghan, and has been a life-long resident here. His wife predeceased him about twenty-eight years ago. There are left to mourn his loss two children, Mrs. Stanley Armstrong, residing near Peterborough, and Byron on the homestead, two brothers, George and Thomas, both of South Monaghan.

In religion Mr. Wood was a devoted Methodist, and in politics a Liberal.

Mr. Wood was held in the very highest esteem by all who were acquainted with him, for his kind and bright disposition and Christian character.

Interment took place from the home of his son to the Methodist Cemetery, South Monaghan. Rev. R. M. Patterson, assisted by Rev. A. H. McConnachie, took charge of the funeral services.

FIRE THREATENED TO DESTROY QUEBEC TOWN

QUEBEC, March 18.—(Canadian Press).—Fire which broke out last evening in the Page Restaurant in La Tuque at one time menaced that town with destruction. When brought under control the damage done by fire was estimated at $150,000, according to information received here.

In addition to the building in which the fire originated, the Windsor Hotel, the Page general store, the Cloutier barber shop and the residence of Scalzo were completely destroyed before the firemen could check the flames. Two other small stores were also badly damaged by fire and smoke.

FIRST REPORT ON DEATH OF CATTLE

Seymour Township Farmer Asked to Fill Out Questionaire.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 18. — W. M. Stephens, whose son Albert lost eight head of Holstein cattle yesterday from a disease, on the nature of which a number of veterinarians were unable to reach an agreement, has received a letter from Dr. Frank W. Schofield, of the Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph. The doctor says he has received a report from Dr. Marriott, the inspector from the Live Stock Department at Ottawa, and who visited the Stephen Stephens farm. Dr. Schofield gives it as his opinion that the cattle died from the effects of eating sweet clover that had moulded. He described the symptoms in such cases, among which was the formation of a lump on some part of the body a short time before death. He sent Mr. Stephens a long list of questions to be answered, and asked him to return the answers together with a bag filled with the clover or clover ensilage upon which the cattle were fed.

Doctors Disagreed.

A local veterinary who was first called in diagnosed the trouble as black quarter. Dr. Marriott, the Federal inspector, and Dr. Reid, of Belleville, diagnosed, and the former Mr. Stephens said, declared that the trouble was new to him. He examined the clover upon which the dead cattle had been fed, and was unable to find anything wrong with it, but took specimen away with him, as well as the contents of one cow's stomach and a quantity of her blood for analysis.

Dr. G. A. Hay ,of Campbellford, who was called to the Stephens farm after the others had left, says that from the first the cause of the trouble apparent to him, and that it was due entirely to the feed.

A report of the result of the analysis at Ottawa is expected here in a few days.

Prospects For Sport.

The six young men who played lacrosse for Hastings last summer, helping the team of that town to win the district championship, and who have since been dispossessed of the sweaters that they say were given to them as a slight reward for their services, will wear different uniforms next year. From present indications Campbellford is to have three lacrosse teams next summer, besides a football team, a cricket club and a baseball team in the Northumberland league.

Ottawa Alerts To-night.

The Alerts, the girls' hockey team of Ottawa, will play the local girls' team in Covert's rink to-night. The Alerts were champions in their class last season, with the Campbellford girls a close second, and the latter may be depended upon to do their utmost to capture the championship this year. A return match will be played at Ottawa.

RIDOUT MAKES A GOOD BIG PROFIT

Loaned $3,000 to Curry Last Summer and Received Note for it Yesterday.

TORONTO, March 18.— (Canadian Press.) — In pursuing last night's disposal by Douglas K. Ridout, of $100,000 profit, he made out of the Province of Ontario $10,000,000 treasury bill transaction in New York, Public Accounts committee of the Legislature established that on May 10, 1923, Mr. Ridout made a personal loan of $3,000 to J. W. Curry, K.C., present registrar of deeds in Toronto and ex-M.L.A.

It was established, and the point followed up vigorously by Government examiners, that although the loan was made on May 10th, 1923, Mr. Ridout had got Mr. Curry's promisory note for it only yesterday.

G. G. Adam, local manager of the Bank of Montreal, with whose office Mr. Ridout made his transactions, subsequently to discounting of bills in New York, created somewhat of a sensation by stating that Mr. Ridout in discussing the $100,000 profit with him, had said that if he had anything left after paying the bills, and so forth, he might contribute something to "the fund."

Mr. Adams stated that he was not a politician, but he understood it to mean some political fund. Mr. Ridout had made the statement jocularly.

Mr. Adams told the committee that in discussing the $100,000 profit he had remarked that it was a lot of money for the Province of Ontario to pay for flotation of a $10,000,000 loan.

In answer to questions of Provincial Treasurer Price, he said he thought one-sixteenth of 1 per cent would have been a pair profit for any broker or middleman on a deal of that kind, whereas Mr. Ridout's profit represented a full 1 per cent. In fact, Mr. Adam thought that tender offers would have shaded even that one sixteenth. One sixteenth of one per cent. would have shown a profit of about $6,250.

DO YOU WANT TO GO BACK?

An Ottawa Alderman, doubtless with a view of impressing the taxpayers with the fact that although they pay heavy taxes they get good value for their money, has a proposal to materially reduce the tax rate by cutting off a list of civic services.

The suggestion will not be carried out, in spite of the fact that it assures a very sweeping reduction in taxes, for the simple reason that the ratepayers will not consent to go back to the conditions of twenty years ago.

But it will serve a useful purpose in showing that a considerable portion of the taxation increase has been because the people of Ottawa—and of Peterborough and of every other Canadian city—want garbage collection, efficient fire and police protection, well lighted streets, adequate sewer accommodation, paved roads and good sidewalks.

They can cut many mills off the tax rates if they are willing to go back to wooden sidewalks, dark streets, muddy and uneven roads, backyards full of ashes and rubbish, unsightly buildings and other conditions of a bygone era.

How many would vote to return to such conditions?

THE SOCIAL HYGIENE EXHIBIT.

The Social Hygiene Exhibit in the Public Library this week, if it could be seen by every adult in Peterborough as it should be, will do much to keep the people of this city on the straight and narrow path and to instruct them in the dire penalties that follow social excesses.

Various means are used to point the lesson, and they are all effective.

The exhibit is frank and to the point, and it drives home the truth in a manner that no other means could attempt to duplicate.

There is nothing to be gained by adopting an ostrich-like attitude toward existing conditions, and the more people who know the real facts and realize what they mean the more chance there is of making Canada a clean country and Canadians a clean people.

The exhibit has been designed with that object in view, and as an educative medium along health lines it leaves little to be desired.

It was not intended to entertain people, but to instruct and warn them, and it is safe to say that no other method could as effectively reach so many in a short time as this display.

The first three days of the week the exhibit will be open for men only, while Thursday, Friday and Saturday will give the women their chance. Mrs. Pankhurst will give addresses during the last three days.

WEARING THE UNIFORM.

Had the new order issued by G. J. Desbarats, Acting Deputy-Minister of National Defence, forbidding the wearing of any military uniform or article of military clothing unless the wearer is on military duty or parade or has permission from the officer commanding the military district, been promulgated three or four years ago it would have been regarded by many veterans as a hardship.

Returned soldiers all over Canada have been wearing the uniforms retained by them on their discharge as working garb, and the result was a considerable saving, for the uniforms wore well and saved the veterans many a dollar that would have had to be spent on working apparel.

In fact, this habit is indirectly responsible for the new order, for military authorities claim that the fashion has been followed by members of volunteer regiments, and the Department of Militia has lost thousands as a result, and it has been found necessary to stop the leak by an edict that provides for a fine not exceeding $300, or imprisonment not to exceed twelve months.

Veterans are affected by the order, but the majority of uniforms worn as a working kit have by this time been worn out, and returned men who wish to wear khaki on special occasions will have little trouble in securing the necessary permission.

LEADING THE WORLD.

The report of the Gregory Commission shows two things, (1) that the Hydro-electric system of Ontario has been well constructed, well managed and retains the position honorably of being the greatest public ownership development of its kind in the world. (2) That the commissioners have dealt fairly and exhaustively with the whole matter; that they were in no sense prejudiced in their findings, and that they have done thoroughly the work entrusted to them, says the London Advertiser. A clean bill of health from men known to be public ownership advocates would have meant not nearly as much as a similar document from men, some of whom are regarded as having strong leanings toward private enterprise in such undertakings.

The report comes as a vindication of the work of Sir Adam Beck, the directing genius of the whole undertaking, and it must be a matter of considerable satisfaction to him that such a document has been produced after a thorough combing of an enterprise to which he has devoted years of untiring effort.

The recommendations include greater co-operation with the municipalities concerned, and with the Government. That is a reasonable suggestion, because the municipalities pledged their credit and the bonds were sold on the guarantee of the Government. It should not be difficult to work out such a plan, and by so doing strengthen an already strong organization.

With the greatest power development in the world owned by the people of Ontario, and the greatest railroad, 23,000 miles of it, owned and operated by the people of the Dominion, Canada is leading the way in the ownership of great public services.

THE IRON INDUSTRY.

One of the possibilities offered in Canadian mining that has not yet been developed to any extent is the production of iron ore, for the encouragement of which the Ontario Legislature has approved of a bill to give a bounty at the rate of one cent per unit of pure iron in the contents of the ore.

So far no great progress has been made in the development of the iron industry in Canada, despite the fact that iron ore is to be found in many sections of the country and mining has been carried on in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario.

Smelters at work in Nova Scotia and Ontario depend upon imported ore, the Nova Scotia works bringing ore from Newfoundland, the Ontario plants depending upon the ore deposits on the south shore of Lake Superior.

In Ontario there are large iron deposits, notably in the Port Arthur district, where the Artkokan mines produce one running as high as 60 per cent. iron, while there are other fields of lower iron content.

It is felt that there are possibilities offered by these deposits that in the interests of Canada should be developed.

At present the steel plants at Sault Ste. Marie and Hamilton depend upon the Michigan and Minnesota ores.

If they could be kept running with Canadian ore the economic advantage to this country can readily be estimated.

The proposed bounty on Ontario-produced ore may act as a stimulus upon production, for as the richer and more conveniently situated American mines become exhausted the Canadian product will rapidly increase in value.

The independence of Canada along these lines is a consummation devoutly to be wished, particularly as authorities claim that the steel industry in this country is doomed unless our reserves of iron ore are developed, for the United States supply is becoming so rapidly exhausted that in a short time Canada will no longer be able to count upon imports to keep her plants running.

BACK TO HOMESPUN.

"My other piece of advice, Copperfield," said Mr. Micawber, "you know. Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure nineteen pounds six, result Happiness. Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure twenty pounds ought and six, result Misery. The blossom is blighted, the leaf is withered, the God of day goes down upon the dreary scene, and—and in short you are forever floored. As I am!"

Mr. Micawber's philosophy is very apt for us at this moment, individually and nationally.

The spendthrift's progress may appear delectable, but it cannot last indefinitely.

The nation's wealth is not like the widow's cruise. There must be a renewal of the surplus, or there will be a limit to the spending.

It is estimated that the war cost Canada over two billions.

With so much of our surplus expended, we now feel the pinch at every turn, whether we buy a postage stamp or a loaf of bread. The workingman today finds times hard, and living high. Good times will not return to this Dominion until we have worked, sacrificed and saved, and thereby once again have accumulated that surplus which is wealth.

The beginning of all wealth is any surplus over our present needs. When the Indian had more than he needed, he gorged himself, and afterwards went hungry.

There is no other possible way of increasing wealth than the old-fashioned way of working for a surplus. This law holds the same for our vast and intricate society as it did for the primitive man.

The material well-being which we enjoy today is due to the thrifty saving of our sires. Against our present orgy of extravagance the older generation shows up in strong and rugged contrast. They lived frugal lives, despised show, and abhorred vulgarity and display. Their exemplary thrift was the basis of our national wealth.

Everywhere we turn today in public and quasi public service, we are met by the appalling fact of soaring costs, all of which inevitably comes back upon the public. In common parlance, it is no over-statement to say that we have been spending money like drunken sailors, and have not even paused to think who'll pay the piper.

Read the expense account of our railroads, our banks and our Governments of a generation ago. According to the Hon. F. B. MacCurdy, probably the total annual cost of the president, board of directors and inspection staff of the Halifax Banking Company did not exceed eight or nine thousand dollars. That trivial outlay for a bank whose balance sheets showed the substantial total of over six millions! There is an adumbration of an age of thrift.

The idle rich, like a flock of unclean birds, have made the word wealth a stench in the nostrils of common folk. They are not the creators, they are the destroyers of wealth.

Almost every paper and magazine has had its fling at "the danger of great wealth," but we have heard blessed little about "the danger of great poverty."

"Prophecy pleasant things unto us," is the cry, and straightway we hear of the danger of great wealth. When we come to the danger of great poverty it is not such a popular theme. Why? Because that subject comes too close home to most people.

Personally, I don't mind how much of the wealth danger I am exposed to. But the menace of poverty on the other hand is decidedly alarming, especially in view of the wasteful spirit of this age.

Two young men, recently married, present a striking contrast. The first is putting a thousand a year into a motorcar, the second is putting a thousand a year into the bank.

In the ordinary course of events the first chap will come to enquire, "Why am I not as prosperous as my neighbor whose income is the same?"

In a few years, with children to be cared for, with the mortgage on the home to be paid off, with sickness and rainy days, the surplus in the bank will look more tangible than joy rides gone.

We are at the stage where we must learn to distinguish between luxuries and necessities. We, a comparitively small people, in too many things, have been trying to keep pace with the Americans. Everybody in the United States has a motor car, so everybody in Canada must have one. They pour out their money like water on public buildings and public utilities; we must do the same. Their banks build marble temples, Canada must do likewise. Their railroad kings travel in de-luxe private cars, we must follow suit. It is a case of keeping up with Jones all along the line. But when we consider the disparity between nine millions and a hundred and ten millions, this keeping up with Jones appears as a disastrous business.—Arthur Hunt Chute in the Kingston Whig.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 18 (Canadian Press). — The wheat market was more or less quiet yesterday, with only a fair volume of trade passing. Higher cables helped the May future at the start and prices advanced during the early trading, but around $1.01 liberal oerings came out together with a slackening in demand, causing slight declines.

However, the market showed a firm tone, with buying support being received on the decline, and prices worked higher again, the close showing a gain of 3-4c for May, 5-8c for July, and 1-2c for October.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, March 18 (Canadian Press). — Arrivals 1,500 sale cattle and calves, 2,770 hogs, and 36 sheep and lambs.

Trading opened slow and draggy in cattle. Cows and heifers fairly steady. Demand for steers extremely moderate. Stockers and feeders were in fair request and steady.

On the hog market packers were bidding $6.90 for thick smooths and $7.59 for select bacons.

Good killing lambs were in demand around $13.00 and handyweight sheep $7.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 18 (Canadian Press). — Corn and oats took a decided upward swing in price yesterday, and helped to rally the wheat market. Blizzard weather likely to curtail the movement of corn and to delay the seeding of oats was the chief stimulating factor. All grain closed firm, corn 3-4c to 1 1-4c net higher, May 78 3-8c to 78 5-8c to 78 3-4c, with oats 3-4c to 1 1-8c up, and wheat showing 1-8c to 3-8c advance, May $1.06 1-2 to $1.06 5-8 and July $1.07 3-8 to $1.07 1-2. In provisions the outcome was 2c to 7c decline.

He was a brother of the late Mrs. Stuart Hivey Sr., of this town and was born in this district. With his brother he conducted a store for some years at Bowmanville, but went to Detroit many years ago, where he built up a flourishing business. He was 80 years of age. and is survived by his widow and by two sons associated with him in business.

Miss Cole Met With Accident

Miss Bessie Cole, assistant superintendent at the Cobourg Hospital, is progressing nicely after her serious accident. When returning from down town one evening she fell on the icy sidewalk ad fractured her leg near the ankle.

Catholic Women's League

At a well attended meeting held on Tuesday evening the Catholic Women's League elected the following officers:

President, Miss M. Bulger.

Vice Presidents, Mrs. E. Flesh Miss Mary O. Roache and Mrs. Henry Giddings.

Treasurer. Miss May Gurry.

Corresponding Secretary, Miss Beatrice LaLonde.

Recording Secretary, Miss Dorothy Butler.

Death of Miss Zoe Giddens

A former popular young lady of Cobourg, Miss Zoe Giddens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Giddens, passed away at Sault Ste. Marie, after quite a long illness. Miss Giddens spent some time in Arizona hoping to receive benefit. Besides her parents she is survived by four brothers, all now residing at South Ste Marie.

Deanery Meeting

The Rural Deanery of Northumberland and Durham met at St. Mark's Church, Port Hope, this week. The following clergymen were present to take part in the sessions: Rural Dean Elliott, Dr. Rigby Port Hope; Canon Sawers, Cobourg Rev. E. W. Pickford, Brighton; Rev. E. R. James and Rev. Scott Howard, Newcastle, Rev. Mr. Postlethwaite, Bowmanville. Very interesting and profitaby sessions were held.

Presentation at Smithfield

The young people of Smithfield gathered at the home of Miss Mary Hendricks on Saturday evening to bid her good-by, before she left for Toronto, where she will enter a hospital to train for a nurse. She was presented with a Sterling Silver Vanity Case by the members of her Sunday School class.

The Late Wm Wickett

William Wickett, father of the late Rev. W. T. Wickett, Tyrone, passed away at Tyrone on Sunday. He was in his 78th year.

The late Mr. J Stacey

The funeral of the late Mr. Stacey who died at Sudbury took place yesterday from the home of his brother, Mr. James Stacey, Trenton. Deceased was actively engaged in the mining industry near Sudbury. Three brothers survive, James of Trenton George; of Ottawa and John in the West, also one sister, Mrs. Maggie Edwards, Red Pelton, Sask.

Debate at Castleton

U.F.O. Club at Castleton conducted a very successful social evening recently, which was marked by an interestin debate the subject being: "Resolved that Asiatics make better immigrants than Europeans." Messrs. Allen, Kewin and Edwards of Castleton supported the affirmative and Messrs. Davidson, Aird and Vanblaricorn of Morganston the negative. Solos were given by Mr. Jos. Arkles, Castleton and Mr. Wait of Wicklow. Mr. Gordon McGregor entertained on the bagpipes.

B.O.T.A. Fine.

The charge against George Stevenson, of Baltimore, under the B.O.T.A., was finally disposed of yesterday by Magistrate Floyd, when he was fined $100 and $18 costs, the charge being one of drinking in a public place. It appeared that Mr. Stevenson was convicted a few weeks ago on a charge of giving liquor at his dwelling to a minor. This, it was argued by the Crown, constitutes his dwelling a public place, hence the charge against him in the latter instance of consuming liquor in a public place. The case has excited considerable interest here. Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr was present in an official capacity, and Mr. A. R. Willmott was counsel for Mr. Stevenson.

Band Concert.

Victoria Opera House was filled to capacity on Tuesday evening for a concert given by Cobourg Concert Band, under the directorship of Prof. Golding. The band put on a number of marches and other fine selections. Five young girls—Mary and Margaret Haynes, Mitchell, Rorabach, and Parker—gave an exhibition of a new Scotch step dance and of a Scottish reel.

Messrs. Judd Kennedy, Charles M'Donough, Dearborn, and Dave Hill sang much appreciated songs. Mr. Charles Sweddling played a saxophone sole; Miss Brenning recited; and Messrs Cowen, Hempstead, Johns, Worth, comprised a brass quartette. The concert was very much enjoyed.

Curling Over.

Although the local Curling Club has not altogether completed their inter-rink bonspeil, it is conceded that curling is practically over for the season as the ice is covered with water. Last year there was considerable curling after this date.

Death of Miss Isabella Eagleson.

After an extended illness, Miss Isabella Eagleson passed away at the family home here on Monday, and her funeral took place yesterday. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Eagleson, Coldsprings. Her death is the second bereavement in the family within a few months, as another sister, Miss Jane Eagleson, died last December. Miss Eagleson had been in the West, and came home ill about a year ago and did not regain her health. She is survived by two sisters, Miss Margaret, and Mrs. Grinlenton here, and by one brother, Mr. Wm. Eagleson, Kinghorn.

Real Estate Changes.

Frank Shearer has sold his farm in Alnwick Township to Mr. Chidley, a wealthy American residing at Cleveland. It is expected that this property, situated on Rice Lake, will be utilized as a summer home.

Mrs. Katherine Johnston has sold a house in Cobourg to Mr. Nicholas Phelan.

The executors of the estate of the late Miss Annie G. Jennings have sold lots 4 and 5 on the west side of Darcy Street to Mr. Wm. M. Wey.

dition of the woollen industry, and if it were not that certain results of that condition were beneficial, it would be a catastrophe. Mr. Stevens had told how trained woollen workers were leaving Canada for the United States. Mr. Stevens did not, said Mr. Hoey, refer to the much larger number of farmers who were doing the same.

Reduce Living Cost.

The woollen industry could be helped by reducing the cost of living, and the cost of living could be reduced by an all-round reduction in the tariff. Mr. Hoey stated that the net value of the Manitoba grain crop this year was estimated at approximately $36,280,000. The total tax bill of the province was $52,255,000.

Even if the crop had been worth $55,000,000 it would but little more than pay the tax bill. And the farmers had to do more than pay taxes. They had to pay their bills. And yet members of the House stood up and told the farmers that if they would only agree to pay 30 to 50 per cent. more for woollen clothing, and at the same time feed the woollen workers for less than cost, they would have the inspiring sight of the woollen industry in a flourishing condition.

Mr. Stevens had stressed the importance of developing the home market to absorb Canadian wheat.

Mr. Hoey said he hardly believed that Mr. Stevens could have expected the Progressive to take that argument seriously.

Canada was seriously contemplating one of the greatest project it has ever undertaken in order to facilitate grain shipments for a century to come, Mr. Hoey added, referring to the deepening of the St. Lawrence. If what Mr. Stevens had said was true, it would be better to spend the money on pouring immigrants into this country than to invest it in an outlet for grain. The statement that the world consumption of wheat was limited to 640,000,000 bushels, was challenged by Mr. Hoey, who pointed out that many European countries have been in a static condition for some years past.

Russian Wheat.

Speaking of the position of Russia, Mr. Hoey said that there was no doubt about her ability to produce wheat and that he himself had no doubt about her ability to come back. The recognition of Russia by the British gvernment was significant. He spoke of the 'new freedom' which the people of these countries had found. Russia would turn to Britain for manufactured goods and would pay for such goods in wheat. Liverpool prices would tend to go down. Canada stood to be driven off the Liverpool market unless the price of Canadian wheat can be reduced. Every handicap to agriculture that could be removed should be taken off.

ASSISTANT FIRE CHIEF DECORATED

William Andrews of the Sudbury Department Rescued Four Persons—Received the Humane Society Medal.

SUDBURY, March 18. — A lifesaving medal, awarded by the Royal Humane Society, was presented to Assistant Fire Chief Andrews at the band concert in the Grand Opera House on Sunday evening. Andrews saved the lives of Wilfrid Walker and three children in the Harris Abattoir fire last March, at great personal risk, and since that time efforts have been made to secure the Humane Society medal for him in recognition of his heroism.

It was on March 13, 1923, a little more than a year ago, that William Andrews, Deputy Fire Chief, saved the lives of Wilfrid Walker, his two children, and a niece, when he rescued them from the burning building of the Harris Abattoir, in which Mrs. Walker was burned to death. The fire started in the warehouse of the Gamble Robinson Company, which, with the offices of the company ,took up the ground floor of the Harris Abattoir building. The Walker family lived on the second floor, which was divided into living apartments.

NICKLE ORDERS

know the law as well as they did in the days of the Justices of the Peace.

Hon. Mr. Nickle said that he had given instructions time and time again that the Magistrates must go to the cases and not have the cases brought to him. He invited members of the House to bring infringments of this instruction to his notice and they would be speedily investigated. He admitted, too, that in not having the trials by Justices of the Peace no knowledge of "fireside law" was being spread.

Sheriff Reinstated.

In reply to questions the Premier informed the House that the replacement of Sheriff Sam Webster of Halton by A. McNab was a political move on the part of former Premier Drury. The new Government put Mr. Webster back in the position. Another questioner was informed that the Government disposed of two coal scuttles at auction because they were no longer required.

New Insurance Bill.

Hon. W. F. Nickle introduced a bill covering the whole sphere of insurance in Ontario. The act, he said, would be a monument to the industry and efficiency of Evan Gray, superintendent of insurance, who is quitting the Government service on April 1 Many of its clauses are left to the Governor-in-Council to bring into effect. The clause of reciprocal insurance is subject to this stipulation. Farmers' mutual companies are subject to an initial assessment of 25 per cent. where there is no reserve equal to 50 per cent. of the annual premiums. The bill was given first reading.

The bill creating a legislative secretary for Northern Ontario passed through committee of the whole, and the House adjourned at 5 o'clock.

WALL ST. GOLD GOES BEGGING

Bankers Couldn't Find Market For Thirty Millions At Low Rate For Call Loans — Great Accumulation.

NEW YORK, March 8.—So great was the accumulation of surplus money in Wall Street Monday that the rate on call loans in the stock market dropped to 3 1-2 per cent., the lowest since last September, and bankers were forced to take back more than $30,000,000 at the close for which they could find no borrowers, even at that low figure. The time money market also displayed a somewhat easier tone, bankers reducing their asking price of 4 3-4 for all maturities and making some 30 day loans at 4 1-2, which is all that brokers were disposed to pay.

The plethora of money was attributed to the natural accumulation of funds at this centre, incidental to March 15 income tax payments; the recent payment of heavy governmental short term maturities held largely by banks, and the reduced demand for loans for stock market purposes because of the absence of public interest and the reactionary trend of stock prices.

FARMERS LOST BY HOLDING WHEAT

Those Who Sold Last October and November Received Slightly Higher Price.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 18.—Farmers who sold their wheat during last October and November received a higher average price than those who have held their grain since November 30, according to evidence submitted before the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission here to-day by W. D. Law, chartered accountant employed by the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to examine and report on the prices of cash wheat for the 1923 24 crop year.

The figures submitted show the average price for No. 1 Northern from September 1, to November 30, as being 98 3-8c, while for December January and February the average was 97 5-8c.

This evidence is of peculiar importance as bearing on the statement frequently made that prices range lower when the crop is being rushed to market and advances later when the producer has sold.

Most headaches due to lack of internal cleanliness

WHEN you are constipated, poisons form in the accumulated food waste. These poisons, absorbed by the blood, are carried throughout the body. Headaches follow. Biliousness, sleepless nights, lack of energy, all result from constipation. Each of these takes away piecemeal something of your health and strength. In time, intestinal poisoning due to lack of internal cleanliness may cause the breakdown of some vital organ.

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Physicians Favor Lubrication

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

MUSSOLINI HAS GIOLETTE'S AID

Former Premier and His Followers Supporting the Italian Government In Elections Until Political Normalcy Is Attained.

ROME, March 18.—Outlining his work as premier after the war to the electors of his constituency, former Premier Giilitti declared that under his regime the adverse balance between revenue and expenses had been reduced from fourteen billion to four and a half billion lire; that he successfully controlled the situation arising out of the occupation of the factories by 600,000 workmen, restoring the country to tranquility.

Signor Giolitti, who is a candidate for the Chamber of Deputies in the approaching elections on a government ticket composed of non-fascist candidates, told how successive weak ministries which followed his cabinet were unable to secure a majority in the Chamber, culminating in the Fascist march on Rome. His followers, he said, decided, inasmuch as the country could not be governed by parliamentary methods due to to the numerous parties in the Chamber, to support Premier Mussolini until the country was able to achieve regularity.

LIQUOR TO WIN IF ONTARIO VOTES

Lack of Co-operation Spells Temperance Failure, Says Miss McPhail

OTTAWA, March 18.—Agnes Macphail, M.P., has little hope of Ontario keeping dry when the referendum takes place on the Ontario Temperance Act this year. Elaborating to-day a hint she dropped in a week end speech in Montreal, Miss Macphail said:

"Yes, much as I regret it, I very much fear the Act is doomed. It is partly because people differentiate between criminal or other punishable offences and a offence under the Temperance Act. The whole moral force of the community is not solidly behind the law. Then, Politics have divided the Temperance forces. I met hundreds last summer who have thrown up their hands and said 'we're through.' The reason goes deeper, still. There is not enough education on temperance. In the old days they used to teach temperance now—they legislate about it. These are the reasons why I fear the Act is doomed."

American Cardinals Given Royal Welcome.

ROME, March 18.—Rome extended a royal welcome in spirit to Archbishop Hayes of New York and Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago, who arrived here this afternoon from Paris. It was to have been a royal welcome in form, as well, but the crowd which gathered to welcome the two prelates who are to be raised to the cardinalate was so great that it became necessary to conduct the Archibshops away from the vast assembly, although the royal waiting room had been prepared for their reception.

Weak, Nervous Men And Women Quickly Gain New Strength

They Renew Vitality and Nerve Force by a Home Treatment Costing Only Ten Cents a Day

The nerve power of our systems find its life in our blood. Create more blood cells, make the blood richer and we rekindle the fire of bodily strength, for rich red blood is the driving force of life.

If we are too easily exhausted, lack confidence and sustaining power, are nervous, irritable sleep fitfully and awake unrefreshed; if we are too thin, pale, anaemic looking, we should think first of our blood.

Build more red blood. Gain new strength. Nourish the body tissues. Rejuvenate ourselves. It is red blood that makes our bodies tingle with the pulsing of life.

Men and women who need a blood builder should go at once to their druggist's and obtain a generous size bottle of Wincanis. Here is a home treatment that costs less than ten cents a day. Wincarnis gives your blood the vitalizing elements that it needs. In twelve days see the improvement that Wincarnis brings. You will worry no longer because of failing strength.

A SON GAVE FATHER WAY TO THE COURT

PARIS, March 18—(United Press)—"I am innocent," a Paris milkman pleaded when arraigned on a charge of putting water in the milk he sold. "It was my son, while playing, who put in the water."

The defendant's son, a bright lad of eight, was put on the stand.

"Yes, I put the water in the milk while playing with my comrades," he confessed.

The Judge was about to dismiss the charge when it occurred to him to inquire: "What were you playing?"

"Milkman."

"Thirty days."

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

"It Makes No Difference From What City St, Patrick Came" Said Rev. C. J. Phelan at Service.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 18. — "It makes no difference from what city St. Patrick came," Rev. Father Phelan told the worshippers at St. Mary's church yesterday morning. "He was too big a man to be claimed by one people or country. Like the Irish race he belongs to the whole world."

It was on this broad principle that the celebration of Ireland's patron saint's aniversary was celebrated by the children of St. Mary's Separate school, and the Separate schools No. 3, Seymour, and No. 12, Seymour and Percy. One of the features of the programme and one that was most heartily applauded by the audience was the Scottish dance of Mrs. Jas. McAvilla, and her two sisters, Misses Rosina and Mary Clarke, who appeared in full Highland dress, the plaid in each costume representing a different clan. If St. Patrick was really of Scottish ancestry, due credit was paid to the fact, and if he ever danced it was probably to the music of the piper, and in the graceful measure of the Highland fling.

It was a typical observance of the great Saint's anniversary. The stage of the Regent Theatre was tastefully decorated with evergreens, and the walls were decorated with flowers. The girls of St. Mary's school all wore uniforms of white, the only ornaments being the national emblem of Ireland. Mrs. F. J. Daly at the piano rendered all the stirring Irish airs suitable for the occasion, and also furnished the music for the Scottish dance. The pupils of all three schools showed careful training and were perfect in their parts. Their drill work was well executed as shown by the military precision in which they went through their various exercises, and marched on and off the stage.

Miss Mary Dillon is teacher of Separate school No. 3, and Miss Agnes McNamara of No. 12. Pupils from each school took art in the exercises and the result justified the statement made by a speaker at a public meeting in Hastings the other night that the pupils in the rural schools enjoy just as good educational advantages, and are in every way equal to those trained in the towns and cities. The offering of the pupils from each of the outside schools was a dialogue and the young people faced without embarrassment a house that was crowded to the doors. The programme in full was as follows:

Opening chorus. "Let Erin remember the Days of Old," pupils of St. Mary's school.

"Dialogue: "School or Work," by four boys from St. Joseph School, Leo O'Connor, George O'Sullivan, Charlie McGrath and Edgar Hayes.

Highland Fling—Mrs. James McAvilla.

Dialogue—"Taking the Census," by pupils of Sacred Heart School—Theresa Bibby, Madeline Bibby, Robert Bibby, John Watters and Helen Collins.

"Gead Mile Failte."

The longest number of the programme was a playette under the heading of the Irish motto which means "A Hundred Thousand Welcomes," a characteristic expression of a true Celtic welcome.

Mrs. Carew gives her children and their little companions a day for sport and play on St. Patrick's Day. On that morning she receives a letter from her brother, Captain Miles Fitzgerald, whose daughter, Daisy, had been stolen from him some years previously by gypsies. He tells of his inability to trace Daisy, and announces that he will arrive home on that very day. Mrs. Carew goes to meet him, and the children proceed to enjoy themselves. Mrs. Carew's sons discover a gypsy beating Daisy, and rescues her and brings her home to share their play. While Daisy is singing, Captain Miles enters, and recognizes Daisy by some ornament she wears.

The following pupils took the leading parts:

Mrs. Carew—Kathleen Crosson.

Mary, Nora, and Sheila (daughters)—Marjorie Farrell, Margaret Keating and Monica Sarginson.

Daisy (daughter of Capt. Miles)—Helen Ruth Kerr.

Bridget (an old servant)—Mary Clarke.

Maurice and Gerald (Mrs. Carew's sons)—Bernard Blute and Bernard Crosson.

Capt. Miles Fitzgerald—Bernard Dewey.

Children (companions of the young Carews).

The play was beautifully staged and the crowd of children in holiday attire, enjoying their outing, presented a pleasing picture. Little "Daisy," who had the star part, played her role from beginning to end without a slip.

Another juvenile performer who captured the audience was little Helen Blute, her offering being a solo, "Goin' to Meetin'."

The number that showed that the audience were not wedded to one idol and that they had appreciation for other that a single set of national ideals was the "Highland Tureen," a dance by Mrs. McAvilla, and her two sisters, Misses Rosena and Mary Clarke, all in Highland costume, while Mrs. Daly at the piano rendered the stirring Scottish air, "Bonnie Dundee." This number was enthusiastically encored.

The closing chorus, "Ireland, I Love You," was sung by the pupils of St. Mary's.

Before the singing of the National Anthem, Rev. Father Phelan thanked the audience for their attendance and expressed the hope that all had enjoyed themselves.

WESTERN PIONEER TELLS INTERESTING EXPERIENCE

Frank Rikert, Who Left Illinois for California in Covered Wagon in 1864, Wouldn't Take $100 for Bottle of Tanlac.

Frank Rikert, well-known resident of North Sacramento, Cal., who came to the state from Illinois in a covered wagon in 1864, along with other hardy pioneers, recently exhibited a bottle of Tanlac, which he had just purchased, to a friend at his home and remarked: "If I thought this was the last bottle of Tanlac I would ever be able to buy, I wouldn't take one hundred dollars for it," thus proving the high valuation he places on the famous treatment.

"I believe Tanlac really saved my life when I took it after the Flu about a year ago," continued Mr. Rikert, "for the attack left me 20 pounds off in weight, and unable to turn over in my bed without assistance. I tell you, I thought my time had surely come.

"But, thanks to my wife's insistence, I kept on taking Tanlac till I was able to do all my work again, had back all my lost weight, and I've been feeling years younger ever since. I'm always telling my friends about Tanlac, and can't say too much for it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

CIRCUS BARE BACK RIDER ON LAST LAP

NEW YORK, March 18—(Special)—A broken old man lies dying in Bellevue Hospital, his cot sheltered from curious eyes by a white screen. He entered at midnight on March 8, recorded as William Showles, age 60, elevator operator. Yesterday the "elevator operator" was revealed as Billy Showles, once known on three continents as the greatest circus bare-back rider in the world.

The old man was sipping from a cup of water, resting quietly when a reporter found him.

"Are you Billy Showles, the bare-back rider?" he was asked.

"Yes, that's me," the old fellow whimpered, putting down his cup. "Once it was $400 a week, but sickness and age take a fellow's savings away."

"I Suffered Terribly With Sore, Aching Back"

Mrs. Roland Ferguson, 194 Lake St., Peterboro, Ont., writes:

"For over two years I suffered terribly with sore back. I was almost mad with the pain, and had doctored with it until I was discouraged. Then my father, who is a firm believer in Dr. Chase's Medicines, advised me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I followed his advice, and am glad to say I was completely relieved of that torturing pain in my back. It is over a year since I used these pills, and I have had no return of the trouble, but always keep them in the house."

CAVAN FRIENDS HONOR B.F. CARLEY AND FAMILY

Chairs and Ring Presented at Public Meeting In the Community Hall — Mr. Carley Has Been Active In Church Affairs and Son Emulates Father's Leadership — Moving to Shelbourne.

CAVAN, March 17.—A community gathering of considerable interest was held in Cavan Community Hall, in honour of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Carley and their family.

At least one hundred and fifty people were in attendance.

In about a week's time, Mr. Carley with his family will remove to Shelbourne.

Rev. R.T. Richards was chairman by request.

After a short and entertaining programme had been carried out, Mr. and Mrs. Carley were asked to come to the platform. Mr. Jas. Douglas then read an address and W. Tinney and J. Kennedy presented them with two beautiful chairs on behalf of their many Cavan friends.

The following is the address read by Mr. Douglas:—

To Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Carley,

Dear Friends,

We, your friends and neighbours have taken this opportunity of spending a social evening with you as guests of honor, ere your departure from our midst.

Life consists of changes, and among these changes, are the departure of old friends, and the coming of others who will be friends. To-night, however, the feeling is one of regret, that circumstances are such that in the very near future, you will be leaving our community to take up the duties and activities of life in some other place; our loss will be another's gain.

During the past fourteen years you have resided in our neighborhood, and in the discharge of your duties, you have been painstaking and courteous and during that time, we have learned to appreciate and esteem you very highly.

You have been interested, in every movement, which you have considered beneficial to the community life social, moral and religious and have taken your place, and played your part, in the successful prosecution of any endeavour, calculated to promote the best interests of the community.

In the church of your choice, you have been faithful, generous and deeply interested. Special mention must be made, Mr. Carley of your services as choirleader, as a member of the trustee board, and as a teacher in the Sunday School. Your place will not be easily filled; but we trust, that your example of enthusiasm and interest will be a mantle to fall upon the shoulders of others.

As a sight token of our appreciation and esteem, we ask you to accept these chairs, not for their intrinsic value, but rather, as a tangible means by which you may cherish the memory of the days you lived at Cavan.

We trust that God's blessing may go with you, to your new home and new sphere of activity, and that health, happiness and friends may be your allotted portion.

Signed on behalf of Cavan friends:
JAMES KENNEDY,
W. A. PRITCHARD,
W. J. TINNEY,
JOSHUA SWAIN,
Cavan, March 14th., 1924.

Take —Cavan friends

Oakley Carley was then asked to join his parents on the platform, and C. Elliott read the following address to him, and Earl Howson presented him with a ring:

To Mr. Oakley Carley:

Dear Oakley,—We, the members of the 'Hearts of Oak,' Tuxis Square of the Methodist church, Cavan, wish to take this opportunity of expressing to you in a public way our feelings of esteem and appreciation.

Since the square was organized seven years ago, you have been actively interested in it, holding various offices and during the past two eyars have been our Mentor. You have been deeply interested in all phases of activity carried on by the square, leading and encouraging us in every possible manner, and we have felt ourselves signally honored by the fact that you were chosen as a representative to the "Boys' Parliament," which met in Toronto during the Christmas holidays.

As a slight token of our appreciation we ask you to accept this ring, not for its intrinsic value, but rather, as a reminder of the esteem and good will of the boys of the Tuxis Square, Cavan.

We trust that though separated by distance we may be linked together in real Christian sympathy, and that, wherever your future lot may be cast, that God's blessing may rest upon you."

Mr. Carley and Oakley replied in suitable manner after which the people joined in singing, "For they are jolly good fellows."

The following is the order of the programme given,—Chairman's address solo; Miss Tinney; Reading, Miss Muriel Matchett; A few remarks by Mr. H. Elson; Reading, Miss Steele; Song, Miss Muriel Howson; Presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Carley; Presentation to Oakley Carley; A short time for Social Conversation.

After lunch the people enjoyed a social hour listening to songs sung by Mr. Carley and others, before dispersing.

LINDSAY WOMAN TO . . . . . APPEAR ON TUESDAY

LINDSAY, March 17. — On Tuesday morning a well known resident of the town will appear in the police court to answer to the charge of impersonating Lady Hughes, and obtaining goods under false pretences. This is the aftermath of the series of fraudulent attempts to secure goods from local merchants through phone orders, the goods to be delivered to the residence of Lady Hughes. The police watched the house and saw a woman leave the property after the goods were delivered. They then searched her home and found a quantity of goods which it is alleged were left at the Hughes residence following receipt of order.

Smith Council Meeting

The members of the Municipal Council of the Township of Smith met in County Council Chamber, Peterboro on Saturday, March 15, at one o'clock.

All the members were present with the exception of Councillor Coons.

Minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

A deputation of Messrs. Masters Trotter and Kelly asked the Council to take some steps to get rid of dogs which had become a nuisance to residents, on River Road section outside of city boundary.

Reeve Middleton made inquiries and upon learning that no taxes had been paid on a number of canines in that district last year promised that the matter would be dealt with immediately.

A by-law was passed appointing Mr. Thos. H. Graham as Township Road Superintendent for year 1924.

The township collector, Mr. Jas. Middleton was present and said that all taxes had been collected with the exception of $802.02, mostly due by non-residents.

He was instructed to take action in a number of cases where goods could be seized, and the time for returning the roll was extended for a short time.

The clerk was instructed to purchase at once two junior graders at a cost of $135 each from Canada Ignot Iron Co.

A resolution was passed instructing the clerk to write the Hydro Electric Commission requesting that an estimated cost be made of extending Hydro up the Communication Road as far as Chemong Park and the village of Bridgenorth.

The following accounts were passed for payment.

Municipal World, dogt tags, $16; Examiner Printing, $19.53; Queen Mary Hospital, per Miss Heard, when certified, $38.50; delegation expenses to Toronto, $24.35.

The council adjourned to meet again on Saturday, April 12, at one o'clock.

LAFOLLETE TO HEAD NEW PARTY

The Insurgents Planning Political Break If Coolidge Is Nominated On Reactionary Platform.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Definite plans for a third party movement were disclosed here Monday by friends of Senator Lafollette of Wisconsin.

Supporters of the Wisconsin Senator, who is confined to his home by illness, said he had indicated a willingness to head an "independet" ticket, in the event the Republican convention nominates President Coolidge and adopts what he may consider to be reactionary or an ultra-conservative platform.

So far has the movement progressed that investigation already has been concluded in the different States to ascertain feasible methods for placing a third party ticket, headed by Lafollette, upon the ballots next November.

Those behind the movement are now looking for a running mate for the Wisconsin Senator, and their choice seems to be Associate Justice Brandeis of the United States Supreme Court. The fact that Democrats are under discussion for the second place is pointed to as indicating the non-partisan character of the movement.

The name of Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, also has been urged for second place.

HARDING DIDN'T SEE FIGHT FILM

Postmaster-General New Denied Evidence Presented Before the Daugherty Investigating Committee.

WASHINGTON, March 18 (Canadian Press). — Postmaster-General New denied yesterday that he had taken part in any such discussion regarding the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films as that described in the testimony before the Daugherty Investigating Committee.

The Postmaster-General also asserted that neither President Harding nor Attorney-General Daugherty was present at the exhibition of the films at the home of E. B. McLean. He said that if Jap Muma was present he did not know of it.

Secretary of State Hughes, mentioned by two witnesses before the Daugherty Committee as having witnessed the showing of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films at the McLean home, issued a formal statement today to say that he had had no "discussion or conference regarding the films with anyone."

U. S. Senate Confirmed Nomination of Negro.

WASHINGTON, March 18 (Canadian Press). — Reversing itself on two previous votes, the Senate yesterday ended a sixteen months' fight by confirming in executive session the nomination of Walter L. Cohen, negro Republican leader of Louisiana, to be Comptroller of Customs for the New Orleans district.

Thirty-nine Senators voted yesterday for confirmation and thirty-eight for rejection, a net switch of two votes from the poll on 18th of February, when the nomination was rejected by 37 to 35.

One of the changes is known to have been by Senator Shipstead, the Farmer-Labour, Minnesota, who moved for reconsideration.

MANY HERE POISON THEMSELVES DAILY

Carelessness Resulted in Liver Poisoning, Indicated by Headache, Gas, Biliousness Sour Stomache—Dr. H. S. Thacher Aids Many.

Eating too much and too rapidly clogs the liver and weakens it. When in this condition, the liver fails to supply the juices so vital to proper digestion and elimination—and it fails to filter and purify your blood.

The result is self-poisoning which makes you feel dull, tired and run-down.

This explains why a sluggish liver is attended by such symptoms as constipation, biliousness, sick-headaches, sourness and gas on a weak stomach, loss of appetite, pains in the back and sides, and a nervous, run-down condition—symptoms that lead to the dangerous and expensive sick-bed unless corrected in time.

Dr. H. S. Thacher, noted medical practitioner, perfected a wholesome vegetable prescription to keep the liver healthy. It is giving quick relief and renewed strength, energy and vigor to numbers here. This prescription, known pharmaceutically as Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup, doesn't cost much, pleasant to take and contains only ingredients that are known to physicians for their corrective and health-building properties.

Try this great prescription, yourself. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep and feel. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise, there will be no cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by J. P. Bond, McDermid & Jury and The Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Peterborough; The Tanner Drug Co., in Lakefield, and by leading druggists in each city and town.

IF RHEUMATIC BEGIN ON SALTS

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry' Avoid Exposure, Eat No Sweets'

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat no sweets of any kind for a while, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of Jad Salts occasionally to help keep down uric and toxic acids.

Rheumatism is caused by poison toxins, called acids, which are generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this poison, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove body waste also to stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

SAVE THE TROUBLE OF COFFEE MAKING—USE Mastmyton's Coffee IT IS MADE JUST DISSOLVE AND DRINK IT. A GREAT CONVENIENCE AND OH, SO GOOD!

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine power from any drug store — sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the backheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

Groups of Families For Canadian Farms.

LONDON, March 18. Canadian Press Cable. — Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, secretary for the Colonies, acting on behalf of the Empire Settlement Committee, has signed an agreement with representatives of the Canadian National Railways, to assist in placing in Canada selected groups of families from Great Britain. The settlement committee authorizes loans of 300 pounds to each settler, also guaranteeing any loan up to 50 per cent. of the amount loaned.

The first groups emigrating under this agreement will settle at Tisdale, Saskatchewan. It is stated that only married couples with thorough agricultural experience, will be accepted, and they will be expected to possess about 200 pounds of their own. The farms are limited to 160 acres, and each group is restricted to 20 families.

The present agreement provides for the acceptance of 500 families.

GAME ASSOCIATION DOWN ON FISH HOGS

LINDSAY, March 17. — At a special meeting of the Game and Fish Protective Association of Bobcaygeon on Friday night, it was decided to take action to prevent the Indians from taking large hauls of fish through the ice in Pigeon Lake and other lakes in the vicinity.

The matter was discussed at considerable length, and a committee was appointed to interview the Minister having jurisdiction over this matter at the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, with the view of trying to put a stop to the slaughter of fish in this manner.

FRANC AT FIVE CENTS.

NEW YORK, March 17.—French francs yesterday sold within a fraction of five cents apiece, a steady flow of buying orders carrying the rate up to a new high for the movement at 4.98 cents, before it eased off towards the close to 4.96 1-2 cents. A heavy week-end accumulation of orders from Europe brought a gain of 16 points at the opening of the market, which was gradually extended as trading progressed.

GREAT BRITAIN GOING ENTER THE WORLD RACE

Date Has Been Put Ahead in Hope of Beating Americans.

LONDON, March 18. — (United Press.)—Stirred by the start of American airplanes on a world flight, Great Britain is rushing plans to enter the race and beat the Americans around the world, the Evening News declares to-day.

The Britishers will fly eastward, whereas the course of the United States' army flyers is taking them westward.

Three Royal air force airmen, one at least using a Napier Vickers Amphibian plane, that which Sir Ross Smith flew to Australia, are hurrying secret preparations for a start, the News states.

It has been planned to start the British flight April 15th, but the date has been put ahead. The British aviators have a schedule calling for completion of the globe girdling flight in three months, which would bring them home ahead of the Americans.

GRAND BLACK CHAPTER OPENED A CONVENTION

The Right Worshipful Grand Black Chapter of Eastern Ontario opened a one-day convention this morning and will end its deliberations to-night. Over 150 delegates are present, and the morning session, presided over by the Grand Master, E. Armstrong, of Ottawa, was devoted to registration and the striking of committees. Officers' reports showed a substantial gain, numerically and financially, to the Order since last year.

The afternoon session was devoted to the hearing of committee reports, and officers will be selected this evening.

IMMIGRATION RETURNS SHOW A BIG INCREASE

OTTAWA, March 18.—(Canadian Press). — Immigration returns for the calendar year 1923 show that the number of arrivals from the Continent of Europe more than doubled that in 1922. Indeed, the increase in this kind of immigration was one of the outstanding features of the year.

Far more immigrants came from England than from any other country, or 35,783, as compared with 17,729 in 1922. In proportion to the population of the country from which they came, Scotland sent far more than England, arrivals from it numbering 25,107. Arrivals from Ireland were 8,231, as against 3,217, which is considered by some as an evidence that the settlement of the Irish question has made the people of the south of Ireland much more ready to emigrate to Canada.

RESIGNS FROM COMMITTEE.

PARIS, March 18. — (Canadian Press).—Gaston Vidal, Under-Secretady of State, along with four other members of the Olympic Committee, has resigned from the committee for the same reason that caused P. J. Mulqueen, Toronto, chairman of the Canadian Olympic Committee, and other Canadians to register a vigorous protest while at Chamonix recently.

The protest of the Canadians was on the grounds that representatives of the most important sports, such as hockey, football, rowing and boxing, should have more votes on the committee than representatives of non-Olympic sports, also that points awarded to the more important events should be grater than than those awarded for skiing and bobsleighing.

St. Louis Teams at Law Over Ball Park.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 18 (Canadian Press). — An injunction to keep the St. Louis Nationals from 'trespassng' in Sportsman s Park, the baseball field they have used here for several seasons, was asked in the Circuit Court yesterday by the St. Louis Americans' management.

Hearing of the case went over until Thursday.

The Browns charge the Cardinals with failing to provide liability insurance, to protect property and employees from loss. They allege that the Cardinals were given thirty days' notice, but failed to comply with the provisions of their lease, and consequently the lease was forfeited.

The Cardinals have answered that their failure to make payment on the lease, and t, meet other conditions, was due solely to an oversight.

HAMILTON BOXER HAD TO GIVE ALL HE HAD

TORONTO, March 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Bobby Eber, of Hamilton, had to give his best to outpoint Joey Geller of New York City, here last night. Geller held the Hamilton flash on even terms for the first six rounds, but Eber drew ahead in the seventh, eighth and ninth to secure a lead which managed to give him a slight edge.

George Fifield entered the ring against Frankie Bull well over his best fighting weight and the surplus pounds told against him as the shifty Bull piled up a commanding lead in points.

Next to the main bout, the set-to between Alex Burlie and Jimmy Britt was easily the best, overshadowing the top-heavy semi-final by a big margin. Britt got the decision.

In the curtain raiser Howard May Berry of Duluth, knocked out Jimmy Sharron in the third round.

BRUISERS LOSE MONEY.

NEWARK, N. J., March 18. — Canadian Press.—A 12-round bout between Jack Delaney, conqueror of Paul Berlenbach, and Jackie Clark, of Allantown, was stopped here last night in the middle of the 8th round, by Boxing Inspector Adams, who declared himself "dissatisfied with Clark's showing."

The money of both boxers was held up.

POLICE OFFICER ON STAND THIS MORNING

WASHINGTON, March 18. — (Canadian Press).— John Wise, police officer who assisted in arrest of representativ, Knutzon of Minnesota and Leroy M. Hull, twenty-nine year old government employee on March 9th testified in court to-day that Knutzon offered him a blank cheque and told him to name the amount to settle the case out of court. Both men were arrested, when found in parked automobile about 150 feet off Virginia Road out side of Washington and are held on serious charges.

S.P.S. TOO FAST FOR COLLEGIATE

P. C. I. Boys Were Beaten 6 to 0 by the St. Peter's Aggregation Yesterday at Brock Street Rink.

The St. Peter's-Collegiate game played yesterday afternoon turned out to be a one-sided affair with the St. Peter's boys having their own way nearly all the way. The S. P. S. aggregation went the whole two periods like whirlwinds and when the game was over they had 6 goals to the Collegians 0. Although the Collegiate team were undoubtedly outclassed, they never gave up hope and fought to the last minute with their loyal supporters cheering them on.

For the Collegiate Harry Cheu was the outstanding player, while Rye and Woods worked hard all the way and tried to pull the game out of the fire, but it was useless because nearly every time one of the S. P.S. boys got away he would tear up the boards and lift one at Rooke in goal, who couldn't get in front of them. Rye was one of the men who formed the Collegiate defence, and his weight proved to great advantage when it came to breaking up rushes. He also proved very effective offensively, and his rushes, which generally carried the puck past the defence, were always dangerous.

On the rush Woods was always there and he carries with him a shot that has lots of zip behind it. Cheu was the best for the Collegians, but he could not drive the puck past LeBarr in goal, who seemed to him unbeatable.

For St. Peter's, Pete Milloy was the hardest worker, while O'Brien and Collins were the scorers for the winners, each getting 3. J. Lebarr in goal turned in a very steady game, althought he was not overworked. The teams line-up as follows:

St. Peter's—Goal, J. Lebarr; defence, Collins and T. Lebarr; centre, L. Rishea; right wing, O'Brien; left wing, Milloy. Sub, Gainey.

Collegiate—Goal, Rooke; defence, Rye and Outram; centre, Ash; right wing, Woods; left wing, Cheu. Subs, Allen and Doughty.

Referee—Gord Webb.

The first period started with the Collegians making a dangerous rush that stopped with Lebarr making a nice save on Cheu's shot. One minute after the go-in T. Lebarr drew the first penalty, leaving his team one man short and giving the Collegians a golden opportunity to score, which they didn't. The Collegians forced the play in his absence but as soon as he returned to the ice the tide changed and for the next ten minutes the S.P.S. boys had the best of the play and kept the rubber mostly in the Collegian's territory. After seventeen minutes of fast play O'Brien scored from inside the blue line after a nice lone rush. Two minutes later he came back with another rush that netted the S.P.S. boys' second counter. The Collegians now showed their only spirit of life, but it was fruitless and in the meantime Collins had registered another on a shot from in front of the net. The rest of the period was fairly fast, but the score stood, St. Peters' 3, Collegiate 0.

The second period was more one-sided that the first and Gord Webb, who was handling the bell, was kept pretty busy handing out penalties to both teams. O'Brien was given two minutes for tripping Cheu. N. Collins went through for a nice rush and pushed an easy one past Rooke in goal. Two minutes later O'Brien made it 5 to 0 when he slipped a neat one past Rooke on a pass from Milloy close in. For seventeen minutes both teams went at a fast pace, but neither came through with a score. After 23 minutes of play, Collins, who had been going good at this stage, got away from Cheu who was watching him pretty close, and waltzed in on Rooke who never glimpsed the rubber as it landed in the corner of the net for the sixth goal.

These teams have always been known to put up a fast, scrappy battle, but the one last night did not uphold the past, as the S.P.S. aggregation were too much for them.

Sisler Went Hitless But Not Discouraged.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 18 (Canadian Press). — Although he went hitless in four times at bat in an exhibition game with Mobile, George Sisler, manager of the St. Louis Americans, declared yesterday he is not discouraged with his showing.

"I saw the ball well," Sisler said. "I guess I was trying too hard."

Manager Rickey, of the St Louis Nationals, is said to be negotiating with the Boston Braves in an effort to secure an experienced catcher.

AT THE ROYAL

TWO REAL CHAMPIONS AT THE ROYAL

It is seldom that Peterborough patrons have an opportunity of witnessing two champions in action at once, but such is the case at the Royal the first three days of this week. Robert Diamont, bantamweight, and Chas. Raymonde, featherweight, are both champions in their respective lines in France. Arrangements are now being made whereby Bobbie Diamont meets our own bantamweight champion, Bobby Eber, in Hamilton, next month. The boys give exhibitions in physical culture and life behind the scenes of the prize ring and close with one of the fastest six round bouts it has been our pleasure to see.

Another little artist on the same bill is Mlle. Florence Mauclaire, a dainty dancer, also Parisienne. She does Mrs. Vernon Castle imitations and a jazz dance a la Joe Frisco. She made an impression last night. The bill is a novelty, as nothing like it has appeared here before, and no doubt the Royal will have large crowds for this attraction, as was the case last night.

BETTY BALFOUR'S LATEST.

As Good as her Best Previous Productions.

Betty Balfour, advertised as the Mary Pickford of England (and by the way she does resemble Mary) is again at the Royal in her newest production to reach this country — "Wee McGregor's Sweetheart," and while we will not say it is her best, it registered strongly with last night's large crowd. It supplies numerous laughs and the story fits her personality perfectly. We cannot imagine anyone not liking ttis clever little comedy darma.

AMATEUR NIGHT (WEDNESDAY) AT ROYAL.

Amateur night this week at the Royal will be held Wednesday night (to-morrow) instead of Thursday as formerly. Aplicants should leave name and address at the box office. Cash prizes will be given to all entries

AT THE REGENT

REVENUE OFFICER IS STRANGELY SLAIN IN INN RAID

Officer Brenon of the U. S. Revenue Service was mysteriously shot and killed by an unknown assailant during a raid on an Inn near Palm Beach, Fla., last night.

Acting on a hunch, Brenon went to Sheriff Holmes' office and enlisted the aid of Deputies Brown, Kane and others. When the officers arrived at the resort, however, they found no traces of liquor. Brenon suggested that someone had tipped off the proprietor.

In an ante-room just off the main hall was Roger Wainright, a wealthy New York man who owns the plantation next to Brenon's and who is deeply interested in the officer's beautiful daughter, Gale. In a scuffle with Congo, a "bouncer," who had attempted to rob Wainright of his wallet, a revolver was discharged, the bullet piercing the door.

In the hall Brenon, who had shadowed Deputy Brown and discovered him accepting money as payment for tipping off the raid, drops dead. Brown sets out after the suspected murderer. But the all-important question arises: Did Wainright's shot kill Brenon? Witnesses declare that this could not be because of the position in which the officer was standing. He was at an angle from the door of the ante-room, and the bullet would have to travel obliquely to hit him. Again the question arises: Who fired the shot that killed him, and was it an accident?

The solution of the mystery is to be found at the Regent Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the Paramount picture, 'Fog Bound' with Dorothy Dalton in the stellar role. The incident described is an outline of scenes in this interesting production by Irvin Willat. Warren Cook plays the role of Brenon, and Deputy Brown is impersonated by Maurice Costello. Roger Wainright is played by David Powell, the leading man, while the part of Sheriff Kane is in the hands of Jack Richardson.

Others in the cast are Martha Mansfield, Mrs. Ella Miller, Willard Cooley and William David. Paul Dickey made the adaptation for the screen from the story by Jack Bechdolt. The photography by Henry Cronjager is a revelation.

AT THE CAPITOL

Admirers of the dazzling Gloria Swanson, whose name might heretofore be considered to hav, stood for a synonym for clothes in the annals of the silver sheet, will be surprised and delighted with her in her new role as the heroine of "The Humming Bird." A distinct departure from the paths of silken splendor in which she has a name for herself has been achieved in a picture which shows the luxurious lady as the notorious humming bird, the leader of a gang of apaches of Paris the rogues and thieves of Montmartre, swaggering a boyish way in ragged clothes and down at heel raiment. That the smoothly-coiffed Gloria was an actress of ability was often probably suspected by those who liked to watch her display of marvellous and daring gowns but she has proved it in this picture, that gives her a strong and dramatic role, well played and attractive.

Gloria is the humming bird, consorting with the scum of the underworld, leading them in daring raids on rich caches of jewels and money, and sh, is also Toinette inflamed with patriotic fervor, leading the Wolves of Montmartre, the nameless rapscallions of the gutter, to a place in the annals of France's Roll of Honor. A the call to arms, Toinette, a true daughte, of France, rallies her followers, and they follow the big guns to a final destruction that is pictured in vivid fashion. The humming bird wishes to enlist with followers, but she is discovered and sent back to Paris, where sh, steals from the old 'owl," the dope fiend hag of the sewers, and is sent to prison for ten years. Th, American Randall Carey, played by Edward Burns, with whom the humming bird has become infatuated, afte, an unsuccessful attempt on his part to apprehend her, and an equally unsuccessful effort on hers to steal from him, goes to war and is wounded in the trenches. Toinette, languishing in prison, hears of his illness and is liberated suddenly by the bombing of Paris and the prison in which she labors. With Carey's aunt a friendly ally, she nurses her lover back to health, but the minions of the law track the "humming bird" and once more she falls into their hands. The finale to a thrilling picture is as entertaining as its unfolding, with the novel atmosphere of the Parisian underworld as a background. In the Cafe le Caveau the Apaches of Montmartre parade, at the hour when their wickedness is open to the world, and in the cellars of Montmartre lurk the women. On the boulevards are th, rich frequenters of the district, and in the war scenes, are some of the most realistic pictures of the Great Struggle. On the surging streets of Paris assemble the crowds when the joy bells ring out the news of the Armistice. In atmosphere and screening the "Humming Bird," centreing about Gloria Swanson, is a finely-wrought picture.

In a comedy line, Poodles Hannaford appears in 'No Loafing," in a hilarious mix-up and there is a good sport reel, "Drawing Cards."

Society

What proved to be a most enjoyable innovation in the activities of the Ladies' Aid Society of George street Methodist church took the form last evening of a Novelty Tea, held in the lecture hall of the church. The many small tables which filled the hall, each in charge of its own hostess, accommodated a gathering of about one hundred and fifty people, each group being the special guests of the hostess in charge. The hall was tastefully decorated in remembrance of the day, the lights being shaded with green streamers and the pillars entwined with green and white. The tables were arranged with shamrocks and green candles, the dainty china and silver on each being the expression of the individual's preference of the particular hostess in charge. The assemblage, which included a large percentage of men, presented a most attractive picture. During the tea hour, vocal solos were rendered by Miss Mabel Gardiner and Mr. M. H. Park, with violin selections by Arnold Spencer. The first of its kind to be held in George street, the tea was pronounced a great success, both socially and financially, by all attending, who hope for a repetition of the event in the near future. Mrs. H. Foote is president of the Ladies' Aid Society, and Mrs. J. Spencer is convenor of the social committee, in charge of arrangements.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church held a well-attended and very pretty St. Patrick's Day tea yesterday afternoon in the school-room of the church. Decorations were effective in the green and yellow of shamrocks and daffodils. The large tea table, prettily arranged with Cluny lace cloth and silver basket of the daffodils and shamrocks, was in charge of Mrs. W. Mein, and Mrs. D. Jordan, assisted by various members of the society, had charge of the small tables. Mrs. W. Gilgour and Mrs. M. Macnab poured tea. The reception committee, receiving the guests, included the president of the society, Mrs. I. Moore, Mrs. R. Pogue, Mrs. R. W. Cormack and Mrs. W. Graham. An enjoyable musical programme was in charge of Mrs. R. W. Davidson, and included vocal solos by Mrs. Walter Byers and Mr. D. Carlisle, pianoforte selections by the Misses Isabel Donnelly and Mary Wood, a violoncello number by Martin Chenhall, Junior, and a reading by Margaret Walker. Accompanists were Miss Isabel Donnelly and M. B. Chenhall, Senior.

Mrs. D. Hennesay has left for Syracuse, N.Y., to attend the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Mary Mangan.

A very entertaining evening of Irish music and readings was held in the Sunday school room of St. Andrews church last evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. The concert was under the capable direction of Mrs. Hazel Davidson McClelland, who was responsible for an enjoyable entertainment. The hall was well filled and the stage was prettily decorated for the occasion.

A number of selections were given by a vocal trio, composed of Messrs. E. Humpage, D. D. Brown and D. Carlisle, joined later by Mr. John Crane, in a quartette number that brought down the house. Vocal solos were given by Miss Dorothy Engel and Mrs. McClelland, the latter also giving several well-received readings, and by Mrs. R. A. Brown, the various selections receiving encores in every instance. Mr. J. Crane acted as accompanist for the occasion.

ANOTHER MEMBER TO CROSS GREAT DIVIDE

W. H. McKinnon Performed This Stunt in Saskatchewan Legislature

REGINA, March 18 (Canadian Press) — For the first time in the history of Saskatchewan Legislative Assembly, a member of the Opposition yesterday crossed the floor of the House and took his seat on the right of the Speaker as a supporter of the Government.

W. H. McKinnon, Independent member for Wadena, achieved this distinction after expressing his "great admiration" for the clear, concise Budget statement presented by Premier Dunning last week.

Canadian Stock Exchange and Mines | New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

TO-DAY'S QUOTATIONS AND OPINION AND REVIEWS OF THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 18.—(Special)—Continued unsettlement characterized the opening dealings on the Stock Exchange to-day as a result of the programme to put the bonus measures through the House to-day.

Another disturbing factor was the slight falling off in steel operations in the Youngstown district, where the furnaces in operation were reported to have been cut down to 44 against 48 a week ago.

Steel, Baldwin, Can. and other industrial leaders were available in the early trading at the low levels of the current decline, while Studebaker broke to a further new low for the year at 98 3-8. Strength continued in the rail group, however, Norfolk and Western, Chesapeake and Ohio, Northern Pacific and other active issues scoring fractional gains.

Continued recovery in francs, which reached the best price of the year at 5.09 cents, served to steady the industrial list, which developed a slightly better tone in the first hour. The rails were in good demand under the leadership of Southern Railway, which at 54½ had regained practically all the loss resulting from profit-taking after the run-up to 55 on the announcement of the initial common dividend.

Professionals were not inclined to give up without a struggle and they continued to attack various sections of the market, but the resistance they encountered was observable from the fact that the main trend was no longer downward as it had been in the previous session.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD HELPED TO ECONOMIZE

Sandwich Board Reduced Demand by More Than Council Requested.

WINDSOR, March 18.— Determined to follow out a programme of rigid economy during 1924 Sandwich Public School Board at its regular meeting in General Byng school, slashed into its estimates and reduced the original amount to $2,100. The town council has asked that the board estimates be reduced by $1,800, setting the school tax at 18 mills, but the board went one better and cut off an additional $300.

OBITUARY

JOHN ADAM TURNER

On March the 18th, the death occurred of John Adam Turner, 340 Water street. He was a man of sterling worth and a highly respected citizen, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turner, Glasgow, Scotland.

Deceased was in his 66th year and leaves to mourn, his sorrowing wife and step daughter, Mrs. McGrath of Buffalo, N.Y.

Funeral announcement later.

IN MEMORIAM.

MILLEN.—In loving memory of our little daughter, Elsie Jean, who died March 18th, 1923:

Farewell, dear little Elsie, to both our hearts so dear,
Oft shall we bathe thy memory with a tear.
Short was thy life, but long thy rest,
God called thee soon, because He saw it best.
A father's pride, a mother's care,
Came in this world our joys to share,
She did not long with us remain,
Till Jesus called her home again.
—Inserted by her Father and Mother.

SAY POPE'S HEALTH IS THE VERY BEST

ROME, March 18. — (Canadian Press).—A statement of a London newspaper that the Pope's health was causing considerable uneasiness and that he was suffering from arterio-schlerosis was received here with surprise.

The Pope's health is of the best and he is daily undertaking an immense amount of work. Yesterday he received numerous cardinals and prelates in private audience, and later granted a public reception to several hundred pilgrims.

Those who have seen the Pope in audience declare that he seems to be in perfect health.

UTILITIES ACCEDE TO COUNCIL ORDER

Mr. W. R. Morris Was Informed That Required Information Will Be Given--Council to Banquet Hockey Finalists

Short meetings were held last night of the Legal and Reception and the Manufacturers' Committee of the City Council, at which business of a general nature was discussed. The Legal Committee endorsed a bill now before the Provincial Legislature setting up certain qualifications for the position of Alderman. As the law stands at present any ratepayer is eligible to hold the position but the amendment would require that he must be a householder residing in or within 2 miles of the municipality, and rated in the last revised assessment roll of the municipality for land held in his own right, of at least the value in the case of an owner over and above all liens, charges and encumbrances thereon of, in a city, if freehold, $1000, or if leasehold, $2000.

In discussing the resolution from the Utilities Commission, the Manufacturers' Committee was informed that the request of the city council was finally acceded to by the commission. The council, some weeks ago, appointed Mr. Morris to get some figures relative to the Campbell iMling Co., and the Peterboro Cereal Company power accounts and Mr. Morris has at last received word from Mr. Hicks, the chairman of the Utilities Commission, advising him that the books of the Utilities Commission are now ready for him to procure the required figures and information.

Mayor J. J. Turner said he had been told by Mr. Hicks, chairman of the Utilities Commission, that the commissioners are satisfied that everything is in order; that employees are square and are protecting the Commission, and that power has been equitably billed.

Alderman Meyers remarked that there will be lots of time for the Commission to investigate after the City Council receives the information requested.

Opposition to Trent.

Discussing a letter from G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., in which he informed the City Council of an attempt to float a company with a capitalization of $500,000,000 for the purpose of building a canal which would be in opposition to the Trent Canal, Mayor Turner said he felt a little should be done every year toward completion of the Trent. He suggested asking the Government to put an amount in the estimates this year, and moved that steps be taken to have a conference with the Chamber of Commerce and the Trent Waterway Development Association with a view to forming a denutation taking in representatives from all interested municipalities on the route to interview the Government at Ottawa in this regard. "We are not asking for anything unreasonable," His Worship said, "as in order to get the full value of the Trent Canal it must be completed."

Entertain Finalists.

The Peterboro Intermediate hockey team that won its way to the finals this year, the first occasion in eighteen years, will be entertained by the City Council, the Reception Committee decided. Alderman Crowe, chairman of the committee, Aldermen Stocker and Phelan and Mayor Turner were appointed a committee to arrange the details. The action of the committee requires ratification by the City Council, and the banquet will not be held, therefore, until the second week in April.

City Assessor W. J. Henry was instructed to attend in Toronto to-day to oppose an amendments to the Municipal Act.

POWER RATE TO BACKUS RAISED BY GOVERNMENT

Province Would Have Lost $4,500,000, Premier Ferguson Declared, If the Contract Made By Drury Government Had Held--Three Dollar Increase Per Horse-Power.

RAMSDEN A TOOL.

TORONTO, March 19. — In a discussion on Hydro estimates in the Legislature on Tuesday afternoon, Premier Ferguson attacked the late Drury government for its hydro power contract with the Great Lakes Pulp and Paper Company, at the head of the lakes.

Hon. W. E. Raney, the former Attorney-General, defended the transaction. The premier said the contract had been obtained by "devious means."

The Premier said that the contract given by the late government for $18 per horse power from the Hydro development had been cancelled by the new government and that a new contract calling for $21 per horse power had been signed by the company.

"The Great Lakes Pulp and Power Company is owned by E. W. Backus" said the premier. "This is not the first thing that the former government gave to Mr. Backus, but we will pick a few of them off before I am through. I believe that he got many things he was not entitled to, and we are going to see that we get them back or see that he pays fairer prices for them."

The Premier contended that if the contract made by the Drury government had held the province would have lost $4,500,000.

New Agreement.

The Great Lakes Pulp and Paper Company had a contract with the Hearst government. When the Drury government came into power the company had failed to live up to certain conditions. The Drury government took the matter to the court which held that the contract was not binding on the company. The government therefore entered into a new contract by which the company was to pay $18 per horse power for power from the Ontario Hydro development in that section.

The Premier held that although the courts found no legal obligation to carry out the original agreement that there was a moral obligation. He accused the former Attorney-General, Mr. Raney, of extending the time for the company to fulfill its obligations against the advice of his counsel who advised that the company could be held to the letter of the agreement.

Ramsden Stool Pigeon.

"The next devious method," said the premier, was the putting of Geo. Ramsden on the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission. Mr. Ramsden was put there for no other purpose than to force the rate through. He was taking the orders of the government in doing so. The Prime Minister of the time put his case in the hands of a stool pigeon. The government decided what it wanted done on the Hydro Commission and Mr. Ramsden did it. The two members of the commission, Col Carmichael and Mr. Ramsden tried to coerce Sir Adam Beck, the chairman, into the iniquitious concession to this company. Backus here the other day saw that he had got an advantage from the late government no other company was getting and was willing to pay $21. With that other advantage given him of the tremendous limits around Kenora he still has such an advantage over other companies that he is well able and willing to pay $21 for his power, instead of $18. The late government either sat in with him and played with him or he played with them and they didn't know it. The government of that time got his benediction, if not his benefaction.

Mr. Doherty objected to the insinuation and the Premier said he had no proof of benefaction and that he did not make a statement that there had been any.

Raney's Defense.

Mr. Raney said that when the agreement was made by the Drury government Mr. Backus was not with the company. Mr. Halstead was the man acting on behalf of the company. As the courts held that the original contract was not binding the government made a new agreement which he held was the best that could have been made at the time. The first agreement with the Hearst government had left the power price blank, he said.

PARIS DECREES FILMY DRESSES

Fashionable Summer Girl Will Seem Incarnation of Botticelli Woman—One-Button "Pocketbook Frock" a Novelty.

PARIS, March 19. — After 400 years the "Botticelli woman" has come into her own through the medium of the house of Lenieff, whose Summer collection strives to make every woman look as though she had just stepped out of one of the famous Italian's canvases.

Floating draperies, filmy veils and printed crepes, often designed with garlands of flowers as girdles, give the creations the essence of Springtime.

Sets World's Record

Another daring novelty is the "pocketbook frock," which is nothing less than a straight piece of shiny satin made to resemble black leather and which, instead of being sewn at the sides, is fastened like a pocketbook with a simple press button at the waist. The gown doubles over in front.

When the single button is unfastened the frock slips off like a waistcoat. Women declare it is the most practical style yet invented as it can be put on in twenty seconds—declared to be the world's record for dressing.

On the Riviera the week has been enlivened by one murder, one suicide, and one sensational divorce with the titled French husband of an American woman a fugitive from justice.

The beautiful young English dancer, Mary Vivian, was shot and killed by a jealous Italian whom she had repulsed. Then Vladimir Zempolsky, Roman engineer, went "banco" for fifty thousand francs and, not having the cash, committed suicide over the gaming table.

Police Seeking Count

The climax of these sensations came when the Countess Garnier des Garets, the former Jean Beyrens of New York, obtained a divorce and immediately thereafter complained to the police that her husband had escaped to Italy after signing numerous checks in her name.

The police are now seeking the Count while the courts have given him, by default, six months in jail with damages of one franc for his wife.

HE'S HAPPY.

W. B. Cochran, San Francisco auto washer, fell for a glibtongued land salesman's chatter. He paid $800 for 82 acres in Texas. But Lady Luck played him false. It was all sand. One day, though, an oil man came along. He offered Cochran $350,000 for that sand. Now Cochran plans to keep on laundering Rolls Royces for awhile, then start out to have a good time for himself.

Naval Manoeuvres Have Caused Stir

LONDON, March 19 (Canadian Press Cable). — As an opposite example of foreign susceptibilities in naval matters, Viscount Chelmsford First Lord of the Admiralty, referred in the House of Lords yesterday to the stir caused abroad by the choice of the Mediterranean for the British naval manoeuvres, which was a "perfectly innocent act on our part."

Lord Chelmsford pointed out that the Western Mediterranean had been used by the British for winter naval exercises for 30 years. Similar exercises to the present were carried out in 1922 in the same neighbourhood, and would similarly have taken place last year but for the situation at the Dardanelles.

BROKERS' BOOKS DISCLOSE NAMES OF OIL TRADERS

Senators Curtis and Elkins, Five Ex-Members of House of Representatives and Coolidge's Secretary Mentioned — Fall and Daugherty In New Evidence.

FALL SOUGHT COVER

WASHINGTON, March 19—(Canadian Press). — Attorney - General Daugherty and Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, figured separately in two new chapters written yesterday into the record of the Oil Committee as the Senate investigators renewed their quest for all of the facts connected with the leasing of the United States naval oil reserves.

One story was that on the day the Sinclair lease of Teapot Dome was announced officially, Mr. Daugherty changed his margin account in Sinclair oil stock at a Washington brokerage house from his own name to that of W. W. Spade, a member of the firm, who then was carrying a large account for Jess W. Smith, personal friend and confidant of the Attorney-General.

Fall's Concealment.

The other chapter had to do with still another apparent attempt by Fall to conceal through the statement of an old friend that he had obtained $100,000 from Edward L. Doheny, California oil magnate, late in 1921, when he enlarged and improved his New Mexico ranch holdings.

Besides the dealings the Attorney-General had in oil stocks, the committee obtained from its expert accountant, Louis F. Bond, detailed accounts of transactions in oil stocks by two senators, Curtis of Kansas, Assistant Republican leader in the Senate, and Elkins of West Virginia, and five then members of the House, including C. Bascom Slemp, now secretary to President Coolidge.

Approached By Fall.

Both the stock transactions and the story of Price McKinney, of Cleveland, Ohio, that Fall sought to have him agree to say he had loaned the former Interior Secretary money will be followed by the committee. Members regard McKinney's statement yesterday one of the more important that has been developed in connection with the oil leases.

Identifying himself as an old friend of Fall, McKinney, a mine owner, testified that late in 1923 he had received a letter from the former Secretary, "asking me if I would state that I had made the loan for the purchase of the ranches of property bought in New Mexico."

The witness said he had not answered the letter and that Clarence C. Chase, son-in-law of Fall, had called upon him at Cleveland a day or two after Thanksgiving Day, which was November 29, to take up the subject.

Refused to Lie.

"I think I did most of the talking," he said. "It only got started, and I said: 'I have not made him a loan, and I could not say that I have'."

Asked if he had the Fall letter, McKinney said he had destroyed it "when Mr. Doheny testified that he himself had made the loan."

At the time Chase visited McKinney, the committee was seeking the source of the funds which Fall evidently had received and the latter was preparing to come to Washington to testify, according to telegrams placed into the record.

SCOTS WANT PART OF THE HEIR'S TITLE

LONDON, March 19.— Queen Mary sat recently in a crowded lecture room at University College and heard Dr. Walter Seton, professor in Scottish history, argue that the heir to the throne of Great Britain should be called "The Prince of Scotland and Wales," instead of simply the Prince of Wales. Queen Mary's response to the appeal was a smile and a nod.

Professor Seton argued that as far back as 1100 the eldest son of the King of England was known as "The Prince of Scotland," and that it was in later years that the heir became the Prince of Wales by legislative enactment.

HUNT ELUSIVE WOLF.

LORAIN, O., March 19.—The countryside hereabouts is worked up over a big wolf hunt that has been undertaken by farmers. No one will swear he has seen the wolf or wolves, but reports of slain sheep and other livestock caused the farmers to spread a dragnet. They had their trouble for their pains. So far the only animals encountered have been rabbits, and the season for them is over.

BRITISH CROWN ONCE BELONGED TO HIS FAMILY

Recognized In British Records As Lord of Achmores and Balnabadoch--Only Few Persons Dwell on These Estates To-Day — Stewart Possesses Old Documents By Australia

ONLY PLEBEIAN NOW.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 19. — A claimant to the British throne washes dishes, mows the lawn about his modest home here, and minds the kiddies while his wife goes a-shopping.

He is Charles Stewart, descended from the Stuart family which once ruled Britain. According to records handed down for hundreds of years he should be ruling over Great Britain to-day.

But only his closest friends know Charles Stewart—that's the way he's spelling his name—for other than an everyday citizen. Incognito, he lives in a four-room suite in a double house in a quiet residential section.

For he bowed to the evil luck—"the curse of the Stuarts"—that has followed his family for generations.

A dilapidated trunk, filled with the relics that date back to Bonnie Prince Charlie's day and documents authenticating Charles Stewart's regal claims remain as a last trace of his ancestor's old power.

Occasionally Stewart will open this trunk and reverently tell the story of the Royal House to Charles James William, just turned six, and Robert, going on three, "next in succession should Charles die."

Alfred Irvine Leon Charles Francis Edward James Stewart — that's how he's listed in British records—is recognised as Lord of Achmores and Balnabadoch.

It means little, though. Scarcely half a hundred men, women, and children dwell on these estates in Scotland to-day.

Stewart, however, isn't expecting King George to abdicate in his favour.

"I could never accept the throne with Ramsay MacDonald in power," he sighs.

"It is gall to us all to see a MacDonald, descended from the strongest of the Jacobites, loyal defenders of the House of Stuart, in the role of a Labour leader."

BRITAIN WILL INVITE PEACE

MacDonald Enunciates International Policy In New Form—Military Machine Efficient But Reduced to Mere Nucleus.

LONDON, March 19. Canadian Press Cable. — The government's international policy was given in a nutshell and in new form by Premier MacDonald in the course of last night's House of Commons debate, as follows:

"We have a short time, and I am afraid it is going to be only a short time, during which this country can rest absolutely secure that there will be no war overtake it within a certain limited number of years. We can use that time by merely trusting to the deveolpment of military defences thereby encouraging and inviting every other country to trust to exactly the same thing. We can use a year or two in pursuing a totally different policy of keeping the military forces right down to a nucleus, and keeping them efficient. No rust; don't make any mistake about that. No rust; no disintegration. Brains, energy and decision all the time, but an absolute nucleus. Nothing more than a nucleus.

During that time this country ought to show the same energy and the same decision in pursuing other matters as it has shown in achieving security. The government will be ready to enter into agreements and arrangements for disarmament, and to take steps towards disarmament, but if these advances fail, then this nation will unfortunately have to go back to other considerations."

HOW NATURAL!

CHICAGO, March 19.—Chicago ministers complained that Voliva was broadcasting unseemly language over the radio. As a consequence, nearly every station from Singapore to Zanzibar is expected to tune in on the urbulent wave from Zion City.

French Army to Be Re-organized

PARIS, March 19 (Canadian Press Cable via Havas). — The Chamber of Deputies is now considering a plan for a general reorganisation of the Army.

Deputy Jean Fabrey, reporter for the Army Committee, states that French military policy is essentially defensive in conformity to the following principles:

First—To protect the national territory against invasion.

Second—To use in wartime all the resources of the territory.

Third—Not to hold that national territory is confined to Europe and France.....And Fourth—To secure by way of alliance the assistance of the largest number of states.

The Chamber will consider the army concentration plan to-day.

ABANDON BASE AT SINGAPORE SAYS PREMIER

Scheme Begun By the Conservative Government Would Have Detrimental Effect on Britain's Foreign Policy, Stated the Premier — Was Desired

NAVAL ESTIMATES.

LONDON, March 19.—The simultaneous announcement in the House of Lords and the House of Commons Tuesday of the Labor Government's abandonment of the previous Government's scheme to develop Smagpore as a naval base was sharply criticized in both Houses by those who hold that the scheme is an essential part of Great Britain's complete defensive naval policy in the Pacific.

In the Commons Charles P. Ammon, Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty, announced the Government's decision not to proceed further with the Singapore scheme. In the Lords a motion was carried, 56 to 19, expressing "deep regret" at the Government's action.

Among the Government's critics, Lieutenant Colonel Amery, former First Lord of the Admiralty, informed Mr. Ammon that when the Conservatives returned to power they would not lose an instant in resuming the scheme. He said that Singapore was the only point from which British trade in the Indian Ocean and the Pacific could be effectively protected and the only station from which Australia and New Zealand could be assisted in a naval way. Dropping the project was tantamount to telling the Dominions that the Government was no longer prepared to help them.

Affect Foreign Policy.

Premier MacDonald explained that the Government had abandoned the scheme, because, if proceeded with, it would exercise a most detrimental effect on Great Britain's general foreign policy. He contended that the argument for the base was contrary to the Washington agrement. He defined the Governments' position in a statement which Viscount Chelmsford, First Lord of the Admiralty, also read in the House of Lords, and which Prime Minister said embodied the views of the Admiralty.

In effect the statement declared that the scheme would create mistrust and competition in armaments in the Far East.

The Government, Premier MacDonald explained, had consulted with the Dominions. Canada had replied that she would refrain from advice; South Africa wholly adhered to abandonment of the scheme, while Australia, New Zealand and Newfoundland favored its execution, India expressed no definite opinion.

Australia's Argument.

Australia argued that it would be better to continue the Singapore development, which could be scrapped if a disarmament agreement was reached later. Commenting on this,

THE FINDINGS REVEAL LACK OF DISCIPLINE

Seniors Attempted to Impress the Juniors With Lot of Old-time Bunk.

ARNOLD BACKFIRED

KINGSTON, Ont., March 19.—In regard to Canadians at the Royal Military College it was learned this morning that over two years ago the commandant found that fagging and other traditional impositions on juniors was in vogue and that he issued instructions that they must cease.

Other commandants had attempted the abolition of initiations etc., and their customs had dwindled down to harmless duties, and in this way the officers at the college did effective service in suppressing all indulgencies and remained loyal in carrying out the commandant's wishes. These officers passed out of the college and others succeeded them and unknown to the commandant, serious and dangeroues practices were allowed to grow and develop until checked by the withdrawal of Cadet Arnold, who refused to be coerced and browbeaten as had been attempted. It is stated that the result of his investigation was a real surprise to the commandant, who had been under the conviction that these of the succeeding classes had continued to enforce discipline as he had suggested several years before and it is on account of this knowledge that he has been compelled to adopt disciplinary measures in the hope that no such unfortunate developments will again befall the institution. It is not likely that a great deal will be learned from the college in regard to the actual findings by the commandant in the Arnold case, it is understood. Nothing will be given out except through head quarters in Ottawa it is believed that punishment will be dealt out for disregard of the commandant's instructions.

Inasmuch as the coronation ceremony was performed with a brick, Jameson had to pay "25 and costs."

HALF NATION'S ORANGES COME FROM CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—(Associated Press).—The California citrus crop last year sold for a total of $105,000,000 according to figures compiled by the University of California. This represented the gross profit, and about one-third of it went for transportation expenses.

Although more than 50,000 carloads or oranges were shipped, the consumption of the United States was nearly twice that amount. Lemons amounted to 8,741 carloads, 88 percent of the country's total consumption.

He thinks it's a practical joke, for in the last few months the mail from New York has brought him, without any explanation whatever, such things as old shoes, funny pictures and a recipe for cooking carp.

Labor Member Objects to "Jamie" Brown's Allowance As High Commissioner of the Church of Scotland's General Assembly.

LONDON, March 19. Canadian Press Cable. — Thomas Johnston, Labor M.P., for Stirling and Western Clackmannan, in the House of Commons on Tuesday, suggested that in view of the necessity for retrenchment the annual payment of 2,000 pounds from the public funds to the high commissioner of the general assembly of the Church of Scotland, should be stopped.

William Adamson, secretary for Scotland, said that the grant was made to the high commissioner so that he could meet the expenses incurred by him in the discharge of his duties. He said he understood that this sum was not more than sufficient to meet the expenses of the office. He could not see why the stoppage of this payment should be recommended.

Mr. Johnston: Does Mr. Adamson think it adds dignity to this office that the high commissioner should be made a channel through which a large sum of money is spent in a wasteful manner, including the free supply of drink to the young clergymen of the Church of Scotland?

This query was greeted with loud laughter and cries were addresses to the Scottish secretary to "answer."

Jack Jones, Labor member for Silvertown, West Ham, asked what was wrong with these gentlemen having a drink?

This sally was followed by more laughter.

Secretary Adamson did not say anything further on the matter.

James Brown, Labor member of the House of Commons for the South Ayrshire division of Ayr and Bute, formerly a miner, will be the next Lord High Commissioner of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, a position that for more than two centuries has been held by members of the Scottish nobility.

KILLED HER MOTHER TO STOP HER SUFFERING

GENEVA, March 19.—(United Press).—A girl who killed her invalid mother to relieve her of further suffering has been acquitted of murder and set free here.

Mlle. Helene Moller nursed her mother with the utmost devotion for many weeks, but she could not stop the pain, and she was tortured by seeing her mother suffer. So she gave her mother three doses of veronal, which were fatal.

Three medical specialists declared at the trial that the girl was of sound mind and that the filial sentiments were intensely developed. They concluded that after a severe moral struggle she was driven by her excessive love of her mother to kill her to terminate her suffering.

DELORME JURY DISAGREED IN MURDER TRIAL

Jury Discharged and Court Adjourned Until Crown Officials Confer on Case.

THANKED THE JURY

MONTREAL, Que., March 19.—(Canadian Press.)— Disagreement was reported by the jury in the Delorme murder trial when court opened this morning. The jury was discharged.

The Judge adjourned court till to-morrow morning. In the meantime Crown officials will confer in regard to future action in the case.

In thanking the jury Mr. Justice Martineau added his tribute to the counsel in the case.

"I repeat, you have given me that loyal co-operation in a measure greater than I dared hope for," he said.

In behalf of the defence, Alban Germain, K.C., replied: "The remarks of the Honorable President of this Tribunal are more than compensation for the work which the lawyers have had to undertake in this case," he declared.

In paying tribute Crown Prosecutor Calder said: "Heavy task we accepted has been greatly diminished by that perfect loyalty, courtesy and gentlemanliness which we have always found in the members of the bar of Montreal."

"I saw it said in an American newspaper recently," said Mr. Calder, "that this trial has been conducted in a manner that showed the entire continent how justice can be dignified and respected."

"If we have not reached the final result in the case, it is something enormous to have given to the entire continent an example of justice."

Court officials announced the jury split ten for acquittal and two for conviction. No juryman, however, could be got to confirm these figures.

Monstrous Alibi.

In describing the theory of the Crown to account for the murder, Mr. German said it must have been "a truly diabolical comedy organized and prepared by Father Delorme and his three sisters" to provide the necessary alibi he said, the sisters must have shaken up the furnace, knocked on the floors so that the neighbors could hear.

"I won't believe such a monstrous thing," shouted Mr. German. "That Father Delorme could have reached a point which Satan has never attained. I have never seen such intelligent perversity and calculated morbidity as has been shown in this case in the preparation of the prosecution."

At one point of his speech Mr. German apologized to the jurors for his lengthy explanations. "Forgive me," he said, "if I am long. I did not expect to make a long speech and I know that you are anxious to return to your homes."

He wheeled about and pointed to Abbe Delorme. "That man," he exclaimed, "has been waiting for two years for his liberty, so be a little patient yet."

Division of Address.

Mr. German separated his address into three categories. The motives or interest of the crime; what took place on January 6, 1922, the day when Raoul Delorme disappeared and is supposed to have been killed and finally, all the facts subsequent to the finding of the body at Snowdon, up to the time of Father Delorme's arrest on February 14, 1922.

As to the first alleged motive of the will, he told the jury that it did not exist since the accused could not benefit under it. As to the taking out of $25,000 insurance on Raoul's life, he said that Father Delorme was invited to take out the big policy without having solicited any such amount. As to the audits of Father Delorme's finances by the accountant Marien, he found it strange that everything should be charged to the Abbe and nothing to Raoul.

EXHIBIT ATTRACTS A LARGE AUDIENCE

Many Had to Be Turned Away Last Evening--The Program Today.

Many people had to be turned away from the Social Hygiene Exhibit last night owing to the limited space. Yesterday was Rotary Day and the speakers and assistants were all volunteers from that organization.

In the afternoon assistants were Rotarians W. Thompson, Frank Linton, Noble Kelly, F. H. Dobbin and Reid Wren. These same volunteers assisted again in the evening.

Rotarian A. Y. McNair, M.B., director of Branch Laboratories, spoke in the afternoon to 104 citizens, and told the audience very striking and plain facts on the seriousness of this public health menace, which he said in the United States stands third as cause of death, tuberculosis and pneumonia ranking third. He said that if there were as many animals taken of in a year by one particular scourge, the entire community would be up in arms about it, but the inertia of the same public to appreciate straight facts, and by hiding behind that old cloak of modesty and apparent ignorance of this problem, this scourge was allowed to grow into the greatest social problem we have to-day to drag out into the light and fight as we have all other scourges in their day.

Dr. McNair gave very startling figures regarding the percentage of the population suffering from either of these two venereal diseases. His appeal to all that makes for the best in every boy, young man and father, he based on the statement that "The Nation marches forward on the feet of Little Children." Dr. McNair also spoke during the evening session on the government clinics where free treatment is given throughout Ontario to needy cases who cannot afford to pay for the same.

The hall was crowed to the doors by eight o'clock, and it was necessary to show the film "The Gift of Life," again at 9 o'clock for those unable to get in for the first showing.

Rotarian A. Mowat, Inspector of Public Schools, in the evening, in a most interesting address, touched on the points of social hygiene from the educator's point of view. He stressed that in all surveys made it was particularly noticeable that in most cases of immorality the victims had left school before the age of fourteen and practically none of them had gone into the High School.

Mr. Mowat stressed the importance of good reading, and spoke of the difficulty in keeping out undesirable literature not only from the news-stands, but from the library shelves. He deplored the fact that a leading American woman educationalist recently upheld the equality of women by approving of women living according to men's standard of morals, instead of insisting on men raising their standard to that expected of women. Dignitaries of the Catholic Church should be respected, he said, in their condemnation of extreme dress and dancing. Peterboro was to be congratulated in their School Board for furnishing the community with such fine large schools, with airy halls and teachers of the best character. This has much to do with the moulding of the finest type of boys and girls, and their example means much to the pupils. In closing he spoke of the desirability of more home life and more neighborliness, in every community.

From five to six hundred people in all saw the exhibit yesterday and many of these enrolled as members of the Peterboro Social Hygiene Council to assist their capable president, Dr. N. H. Sutton, and his executive in carrying on further educational propaganda along these lines in this community.

Owing to the immense crowds that will still want to see this exhibit (today being the last day for men) there will be two showings of the film to-night, one at seven and one at nine o'clock.

To-morrow the exhibit opens for women only during the same hours, and Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst of Toronto, will be the special speaker both afternoon and evening. Miss Edna Moore, Prov. Board of Health, wil show the film.

Programme for To-day.

Those volunteering their assistance at the exhibit this afternoon between three-thirty and six, are Dr. F. P. McNulty, in charge of the model cases, Mr. G. H. Roper, Y.M.C.A. Secretary, will be the special speaker. His topic will be "Social Hygiene and its Relation to Every Boy and Young Man."

There will be two showings of the film to-night, one at seven-thirty and the second one at nine. The addresses will be given between the showing of the film. Special speaker for to-night will be Dr. G. S. Cameron. Dr. J. M. O'Brien, Dr. A. Y. McNair, Dr. N. H. Sutton and Dr. F. O'Reilly will be in charge during the evening.

To-day is the last showing for men only; exhibit opens to-morrow for women for the rest of the week.

GRIDDLE CAKES.

In England griddle cakes are made very thin, spread with sugar or jelly and rolled like Jelly cakes and served as a dessert.

DISASTROUS FIRE IN SUNDERLAND TOWNSHIP

LINDSAY, March 19.— A disastrous fire occurred at Sunderland on Sunday night about twelve o'clock, when the house, barn and implement house belonging to Mr. Earl Woodward, was completely destroyed, together with all his implements, a new automobile, his entire stock, which was large and of the very best, all of his grain and the contents of his house. Mr. Woodward was not at home when the fire occurred, but was just returning when he saw the barn in flames. He had barely time to rescue his mother and sister, who were asleep in the house, so rapidly did the fire spread, there being a very high wind. The fire started in the barn, but the cause is unknown. Mr. Woodward carried some insurance on his property, but it will not nearly cover his heavy loss.

How contagions spread

IN the world of school and play all children are equal. Youngsters from homes less clean than yours come into intimate contact with your children.

To guard against contagion, make sure that your children are completely cleaned and purified whenever they come in from play.

CAVAN TOWNSHIP COUNCIL

The regular March meeting of the Cavan Council was held in the Council Chamber, Town Hall.

The members were all present, with the Reeve, Mr. J. L. M'Camus, presiding.

The minutes of the last meeting were read, and on the motion of Dep.-Reeve Robison and Coun. Hootom, were adopted.

Communications.

From Gordon and Obrien, acknowledging receipt of cheque for $5.00 in settlement of H. Laing's claim for damages by winter road.

From K. A. Cockburn, advising the Council that a portion of road between Cavan and South Monaghan, at Scott's Corners, taken over by the highway, would revert to the municipalities for maintenance.

From R. C. Muir, chief engineer of public highways, stating that Cavan's subsidy for expenditures on township roads in 1923, to the amount of $1,611.27, had been forwarded to the treasury department, and that Cavan would receive a cheque for same in due course.

From the department of highways, acknowledging the receipt of copies of by-laws Nos. 638 and 639, providing for expenditure on roads and the appointment of a road overseer.

From W. R. Johnston and George Jones, declining the appointments as path masters.

Mr. James Foster asked the Council for the usual grant of $15.00 for the use of a roadway through his farm in lieu of the quarter line.

Elson-Hooton—That James Foster be paid the sum of $15.00 for the use of his road for the year 1924. Carried.

Mr. Alfred Gilmour presented a bill of $10.00 for damages to fence and fields by use of winter road through his farm.

Hooton-Elson—That Mr. Gilmour be paid $5.00 for damages by winter road. Carried.

Mr. Harry Ruddy addressed the Council, stating that he had never been notified by the pathmaster in his division to do his statute labor; that he had not had the opportunity to earn this amount of his tax bill, and that he should not be called upon to pay the amount of his statute labor in cash when he was desirous of working it out on the roads, and asked for this privilege.

Elson-Hooton—That H. Ruddy be allowed to draw 5 cords of stone for crushing, and that he be allowed $15.00 for this work. Carried.

Mr. Wm. H. Wood appeared before the Council and complained of the blocked condition of the road on the Manvers boundary, opposite Concession 5. This trouble being caused by the drifting of sand and snow.

Elson-Robison—That Coun. Fallis be a committee to meet a representative of Manvers Council and endeavor to make some provision to remedy the condition of the road complained of by Mr. Wood. Carried.

Messrs. F. W. and Milton Fallis waited on the Council asking for a grant for a wire fence on the west side of the quarter road, Con. 5, stating that this road drifted in and became impassible every winter. It was decided by the Council to make a grant for the purchase of wire for this road fence.

Reeve Staples, of Manvers Township, addressed the Council, saying that one, John Cox, who had been sent to the Nichols Hospital from Bethany, had for some time previous to this been working with farmers in Cavan as well as with farmers in Manvers, and thought that Cavan was liable for their share of the hospital fees, amounting in all to $32.50, and asked the Cavan Council to pay half of this bill.

Hooton-Fallis—That Cavan pay $15.00 to Manvers as part payment of the hospital fees of John Cox. A vote being taken, the motion was supported by Councillors Hooton and Fallis, Dep.-Reeve Robison, and Coun. Elson voting nay. The Reeve declared the motion lost.

Fallis-Robison—That each Commissioner be allowed to spend to the amount of $300 in his division. Carried.

That the Reeve sign the following orders. Carried.

Telephone Co. account, $2.47; J. N. McGill, registrar, births, deaths, etc., $13.25; J. A. Morton, S.S. 18, $100; J. Handley, on account making snow plows, $75; J. Foster, for roadway through farm, 1924, $15; T. Bradburn, damages by winter road, 3 years, $10; T. Madill, work, Con. 10, $2.50; J. A. Huston, rebate on taxes on account of fire, $13; Alf. Gilmour, damages by winter road, $5; R. O. Larmer, work on Con. 6, $6; R. Henderson, rebate dog tax, $2; W. Wood, roadway through farm, 1924, $10; L. H. Winslow, putting in culvert, Con. 10, $12, services school attendance officer, $15—$27; J. Coulter, rebate on taxes non-collectable, $82.36, balance of salary as collector, 50, postages, $5—$137.36; James Sexsmith, on account hauking stone, $100, wood for engine crushing stone, $15—$115; R. Kicks & Co., account cement, $68.40; C. W. Richards, account stationery and supplies, $37.12, on printing con. $50—$87.12; N. F. MacNachtan, for treasurer's bond, $20; J. N. McGill, on salaries, $37.50.

Robison-Hooton—That the Council adjourn to meet April 16th at 1.30 p.m. Carried.

OIL PROBE SHOWS UP SOME NEW MEN

Enquiry Widens Out at Each Hearing--Trading in Oil Stocks.

WASHINGTON, March 19 (Canadian Press). — Attorney-General Daugherty, Senators Curtis of Kansas and Elkins of West Virginia, and C. Bascom Slemp, now Secretary to President Coolidge were among the public officials who had transactions in Sinclair or Doheny oil stocks around the time of the leases of the Naval Oil Reserves.

Slemp at the time was a member of the House.

Other representatives dealing in stocks included A. B. Rouse, Kentucky, Wells Goodykoontz, of West Virginia, and Thomas J. Ryan, of New York.

Names were disclosed before the Senate Oil Committee to-day when it called to the stand Louis F. Bond, Federal Trade Commission accountant, and who has examined the books of a number of brokerage houses.

Attorney - General Daugherty bought 100 shares of Pan-American (the Doheny Coy. that leased the California Reserve) and sold at a profit of 543.40, the accountant said.

Mr. Daugherty himself has disclosed previously that he had some dealings in Sinclair stock both before and after he entered the Cabinet.

The Attorney-General account with W. B. Hibbs & Company of Washington, was opened in November, 1921, Bond said, in his own name, and subsequently changed to the name of W. W. Spaid, member of Hibbs & Company.

On 9th October, 1922, the Attorney-General sold 500 shares of Sinclair Consolidated, and on 27th October he purchased an equal amount of the same stock, Bond said.

HE'D HAVE IT MENDED.

One day as a farmer of extraordinary meanness was starting out for the town to do his weekly shopping—for even he had to buy something for the support of his family—his wife came out and asked him to buy her a darning-needle.

"What's the matter with the one I bought you last winter?" asked the farmer.

"The eye's broken out," she replied.

"Bring the needle here," he said; "I'm not going to allow such extravagance. I'll have the needle mended."

The woman was wise in her generation, and made no protest. She brought the broken needle.

The economical farmer rode away into the town and stopped first of all at the blacksmith's shop. He took out the needle and handed it to the blacksmith. "I want that mended," he said.

The blacksmith knew his customer and keeping his face perfectly straight, said the eye should be mended in an hour's time.

The farmer rode away and the blacksmith walked across the street and bought a new needle for a farthing. When the farmer called again the blacksmith gave him the new needle.

The farmer looked at the smooth polished surface of the steel, and remarked that it was a good job. "How much will it be?" said he.

"Twopence," said the blacksmith, and the farmer as he paid it remarked that he knew that the needle could be mended, but his wife would have gone to the expense of buying a new one if he hadn't interfered.—Cork Examiner.

A PLOT TO SHOW FIGHT PICTURES

Evidence Submitted to the Investigating Committee Today.

WASHINGTON, March 18—(Canadian Press). — Attorney-General Daugherty is being kept in office by President Coolidge, solely because of Mr. Daugherty's supposed political influence in the forthcoming campaign, Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, to-day charged in Senate. "Everyone knows there would be a quick change of the Attorney-General if Mr. Coolidge were not a candidate for re-election," said the Senator.

The story alleging that Attorney-General Daugherty was himself concerned in an unlawful conspiracy to exhibit the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films and had suggested that those behind the scheme should get fifty per cent. "cut" in profits, were related to-day to the Senate committee investigating the Department of Justice. Gerald O. Holdridge, former Secretary of the Department, told the story as he said it had been related to him by Jap Muma, the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, and one of these named as a backer of the distribution plan. Holdridge read to the committee under oath a long statement regarding his conversations with Muma, and at the end of the statement there was an endorsement by Thomas Spellacy, another former Department agent, saying the assertions made were "absolutely true." Spellacy, Holdridge said, was present when he talked with Muma. After he had heard Muma's story Holdridge went on. He came to Washington and related it to William J. Burns, head of the Justice Department's Budeau of Investigation. Instead of ordering any prosecutions, however, he said Burns transferred him to a long pending bank case. Some time afterward he said he quit the Government "in disgust." According to Muma, as quoted by Holdridge, the plan to show pictures over the country, desupite Federal law against their transportation across State lines, followed the private exhibition at the home here of Edward B. McLean, attended by President Harding and members of the Cabinet.

SECRET OF KEEPING YOUNG

Why is it that some women look older at thirty-five than others do at fifty? Why is it that so many women are always run-down, weak, pale, nervous, irritable and unhappy? Health, vitality and freedom from pain and disease alone can prevent the signs of age from fastening themselves upon women. All over the country women are awakening to the fact that the ills, aches and pains of women may be relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the result is renewed life, energy and the glow of health. In fact the secret of keeping young is to ward off all internal ailments that cause premature old age which is easily accomplished by this remarkable root and herb remedy.

FIND HEART OF VOLTAIRE.

PARIS, March 19. — (United Press).—The heart of Voltaire, believed to have been stolen from the National Library sixty years ago, has been found in a part of the building rarely frequented. There can be no question about its geuineness, for all the documents certifying that is is the hart of the great satirist were found with it. The heart is contained in a metal coffer. It was found in a space hollowed out in the pedestal of Houdon's original statue of Voltaire.

Blood Clot Ends Life of Athletic Director.

NEW YORK, March 19 (Canadian Press). — Elwood S. Brown, vice-president and executive officer of the National Amateur Athletic Federation, who has been active for years in the development of physical education and athletics, particularly in the Far East and South America, died yesterday at an Englewood, N. J., hospital.

Mr. Brown suffered a heart attack two weeks ago after a game of handball. He apparently was recovering when a blood clot developed in his leg, necessitating an amputation, the effects of which he did not survive.

Mr. Brown was associated with the Y.M.C.A. in most of his work here and abroad.

The Brilliant Novelist of Modern Society

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Prudence Page—a charming country girl, has fallen in love with

Bert Traymore—a fascinating philanderer, whom a chance meeting meeting brings into her quiet life.

Janet Mercer—Prudence's dearest friend, an older woman, plain but clever, is masseuse to the delicate child of

Mrs. Vansittart—a pleasure - loving woman-of-the-world, owner of Winston Towers, a beautiful summer home. She invites Prudence to a ball at the Towers. Prudence accepts, and finds herself a wall-flower, neglected by Traymore, who has professed to love her, slips away into the darkness.

Virginia Dale—Mrs. Vansittart's ward is a blase beauty, who counts Traymore among her many swains. She is the belle of the ball, but she is disappointed not to find among her many admirers

Peter Armstrong—a brilliant young inventor, clever and ambitious. He meets Prudence in her head-long flight from the ballroom, and after confessing that his love has proved false—from this Prudence deduces that he is in love with Virginia—he persuades the girl to return to the dance with him.

Prudence creates a sensation by reappearing at the ball with Peter, who is something of a social 'lion.'

Prudence's popularity is greater even than Virginia's and Traymore is once again the ardent lover.

Traymore again promises to call at Prudence's home, but at the appointed time, Prudence is astounded to find Virginia on the steps of her home.

CHAPTER XXII.

Undercurrents.

Virginia had come to reconnoitre. She was no shy young woman. No, not she! She believed in taking fate in her own two hands—slim, white, cruel-looking paws they were—and wresting from the fickle jade everything her greedy soul desired.

A chit like Prudence Page wasn't going to disconcert her. No, of course not. She was too experienced a campaigner. She would find out all she wanted, skilful tactician that she was.

Even if cruder methods must be resorted to, Virginia wouldn't flinch.

And yet——

The stupid child was staring at her almost as though she were a ghost, and not a human being. It was going to be rather tiresome, this interview.

"Don't you recognise me?" queried the newcomer, partly raising her eyes to Prudence on the step above her.

The girl nodded, but said nothing. She didn't even ask her to come in or make any motion that might lead the visitor to think that she was welcome. Dull, these country maidens were! Odd, that the chit had had a 'following' last night! Of course, Peter Armstrong had been responsible for that. He was just the type of man to be sorry for the 'under dog.' (Virginia never wasted pity on lost causes.)

"Well, you don't seem overjoyed to see me!" she spoke again, this time in bantering vien, although an annoyed gleam sparkled in her eye.

"I was not expecting you," said Prudence, quietly and with dignity.

"Maybe expecting someone else?" The child had a gala look about her.

"If I come in, should I be spoiling sport? I'd hate to be a kill-joy."

With an effort Prudence answered. "My mother's in the parlor. If you're tired after your walk, and would like a cup of tea——"

Virginia gave an affective squeal of pleasure. (A new 'line' must be adopted with this not-to-be-overawed person; better be more cordial, as it were.)

"There's nothing I'd enjoy better." She insinuated herself down the narrow hallway. "So this is Mrs. Page, is it? How d'you do?"

Prudence's mother was dazzled by the fashionable apparition. The parlor of the Green Gables hadn't seen such clothes in all its life before. And the scent of the wild flowers Prudence had plucked was completely overshadowed by the exotic perfume wafted from the beauty, which filled the small apartment like a sweet narcotic—heady, almost overpowering . . .

Indeed, there was something very overpowering about this gorgeously attired young woman. Mrs. Page felt the sudden change in atmosphere the moment she came in—a change that was not due to perfume, or to pretty clothes alone . . .

"Mother, this is Miss Virginia Dale, from the Towers: Miss Dale, my mother." With a composed simplicity did Prudence effect the introduction.

"Delighted to meet you, I am sure," gushed Miss Virginia, extending a patronizing hand. "What a charming rustic place you have here!"

Her tone was such as the squire's daughter might use to the humblest cottager on the estate, or a high-born philanthropic visitor to the denizen of city slum.

"Very different to the Towers," said Prudence's mother, glancing helplessly towards her child, who would understand better how to cop with the society lady.

"So restful!" gurgled Virginia, casting off her cloak, and at a quick glance taking in the general aspect of the room. No, not at all bad for such ordinary people! Nothing pretentious, of course. They couldn't afford it. But they'd spared her the horrors of crochet antimicassars, stuffed birds, waxed fruit under glass, what-nots, dried grass in vases, and all the other accessories that folks of this class seemed to love!

There were no shell ornaments upon the mantelpiece, nor was it covered by a red plush strip of velvet. And the usual plethora of photographs was missing, thank the lord!

"The last cottage of this type that I was in, had bead-cercens instead of window-curtains!" the visitor announced, with a titter; "I'm glad, Mrs. Page, that you don't indulge in such atrocities!"

Prudence's mother looked bewildered. Personally, she had always thought long curtains or dangling beads against the light, extremely pretty and artistic, and was about to say so when Prudence intervened.

"Even though we're plain, country people, there's such a thing as libraries where one can get books on interior decoration. I've studied them quite a bit."

There was an edge to the girl's fresh voice that her mother was quick to sense. What was the matter? Had this haughty dame come here to humble Prudence? And did Prudence know and resent that fact?

"Then, my dear," announced Virginia Dale, "why don't you go to the city and start business on your own, if you're artistically inclined? Why not have an office as an interior decorator? Why hide your talents under a bushel?"

A quick fear clutched the mother's heart. Had this woman come here to wean Prudence away from the family roof-tree?

"We're old-fashioned people, Miss Dale, and we like to keep our child at home." A hurt note was in her gentle voice.

"Oh, but it doesn't pay to be behind the times!"

To which Prudence replied, in a level little voice, that yet had a sort of challenge in it:

"Old fashioned people sometimes get there first, Miss Dale! The tortoise won the race against the hare, didn't he?"

Virginia was astounded at the thrust Who would have credited this young chit with a remark like that?

She'd come here to spy the land out, to reconnoitre, but she certainly hadn't expected to find a foeman worthy of her steel!

"Won't you infuse the tea, dear?" Mrs Page was saying to her daughter. "We can have some made freshly for your friend when he arrives."

"Ah-ha!" Virginia raised her head like a well-bred charger who scents the battlefield. "So, as I thought, there was a 'beau' expected, was there? And you wouldn't tell me!"

Mrs. Page felt anger welling up in her. This woman might be 'in society'—and she certainly was lovely to look upon—but there was no real friendliness in her eyes, and her voice held an overbearing insolence, which must be checked at once.

"My daughter has many friends, whom we are always glad to welcome," she said, frigidly.

"Naturally!" Virginia's smile was very meaning. "The more the merrier!"

Prudence felt miserably uncomfortable. 'Under-currents' were so hard to cope with!

There was pain, too, at Bert's second failure to keep his promise. Oh, where was he? Had he sent Virginia Dale to show her (Prudence) how little she counted in his life?

Then, as she made a move to go and get the tea, she saw—through the window—Bert Traymore coming up the flagged path to the door!

In To-morrow's Instalment Traymore Is In An Embarrassing Position.

Victim of Accident Was to Wed In April.

MONTREAL, March 18.— From injuries suffered to his spine and skull in an automobile accident last Sunday, Ernest A. Stewart, chief accountant of the Montreal Tramways Company died in the Royal Victoria Hospital to-day.

Mr. Stewart, who was 38 years old, was driving a car which skidded and crashed into an iron trolley pole.

He was engaged to be married and the wedding had been fixed for the latter part of April. A verdict of natural death was returned at the coroners' inquest held here this afternoon.

PUMP BALL FROM LUNG.

PRAGUE, March 19.—A 16-year-old youth, blowing steel balls through a blowpipe, inhaled too strongly and drew one into his lung. Efforts to extract it with forceps and a magnet were unsuccessful. Then a rubber hose was introduced until is end touched the obstruction, and an air pump was used. It succeeded almost immediately.

COALITION IN VICTORIA ENDS

Premier Lawson Resigned Over Opposition of the Farmers and Forms New Government Entirely of Liberals.

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 19. Canadian Press Cable via Reuters. — H. S. W. Lawson, who resigned the premiership of Victoria a few days ago, and was accompanied in his resignation by the ministers of his government, because of the decision of the Farmers' party at a recent conference to retain the right to contest any seat in the state, has formed a new gove ament composed entirely of Liberals.

The resignation of the Lawson government took place a few days ago. The continuation of the coalition government was regarded by Premier Lawson as impossible in view of the Farmers' party having decided to contest parliamentary seats. The decision was taken without consulting the leader of the Farmers' party, a member of the coalition government, John Allan, president of the board of land and works, commissioner of Crown Lands and survey, and Minister of Immigration. None of the ministers belonging to the Farmers party had anything to do with the conference decision.

FRANC REACHED HIGH FOR YEAR

Passed Previous High Level of January In Rebound From Recent Depression.

NEW YORK, March 19. — In its sensational recovery from a new low record for all time established ten days ago, the French franc yesterday crossed five cents to a new high price for the year at 5.08. The previous high level of 5.04½ cents was reached on January 2. After that date the franc declined almost steadily until March 8th, when the climax of the foreign offensive against it forced the quotation down to 3.45 cents.

While official verification was lacking, it was reported in the financial district that the French government has as yet found it unnecessary to use any part of its $100,000,000 credit to bolster up the currency, the buying coming entirely from speculative and commercial interests. One of the interesting features in connection with the recovery of the franc is the fact that the overnight gain in the demand rate invariably has been about ten points, reflecting accumulation of orders from abroad.

ENTERTAIN THORNTON.

LINDSAY, March 18. — The Board of Trade is making extensive preparations to welcome and entertain Sir Henry Thornton and some 75 C.N.R. officials on Tuesday, March 25th. A big banquet will be held.

TWO MEMBERS OF CABINET CALLED

Washington Investigation Hears That Friend of Attorney-General Received $6,000 Hush Money In Liquor Case.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Threading its way through a maze of bewildering charges and suspicions the Senate Committee investigating Attorney-General Daugherty yesterday heard testimony about deals in liquor, lotteries and motion picture films; subpoenaed two cabinet officers to appear before it; and was again rebuked by Mr. Daugherty for the character of the evidnc it has admitted to its official records.

The principal witness of the day, William A. Orr, of New York, in part confirmed and in part denied the story of previous witnesses about an arrangment to exhibit the Dempsey-Carpentier fight pictures without prosecution. He then contributed another thriller to the committee's long list of sensational episodes by admitting that he had paid at least $8,000, collected from various drug companies, to Howard Mannington, a friend of the Attorney-General, for the purpose of keeping certain liquor cases "out of court."

Summer Secretaries

The two cabinet officers summoned to testify were Secretaries Mellon of the Treasury and Weeks of the War Department. They will be asked about various statements made in previous testimony, but their testimony is expected to deal largely with liquor permits, handled through the Treasury, and with the Standard Aircraft case, in connection with which Gaston B. Means has testified that he received $100,000 for Jess Smith.

Along with the two members of the Cabinet, the committee subpoenaed several other officials and former officials of high rank.

Mannington Next

Last night committee members were considering how they might be able to bring Mannington before them. He is understood to be in Paris, connected in some capacity with Charles G. Dawes, and it is possible that the State Department may be asked to help in summoning him to Washington. In addition, Secretary Hughes and Postmaster-General New, who have issued statements about their presence at the home here of Edward B. McLean when the prizefight pictures were shown there, may be asked to come before the committee to explain conflicting stories as to just who made up the company entertained that night by the publisher.

Mr. Daugherty's attack on his accusers last night took the form of a long statement, in which he reviewed the activities of his department and declared that nothing had been produced so far before the committee bearing on the department's efficiency.

BREEDERS SEEK A "CUSSLESS" CAT

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, March 19.—When "Shorty" Wehnke began experimenting with crossing pine marten with cats the outlook was very bright for a new species of fur which combined the sheen of the marten and the spread of the cat.

All went well until some of "Shorty's" martenocats escaped and took to the alleys. These animals had all the characteristics of the marten for climbing and hopping about, rustling food in barns and from kitchens, but also retained the disreputable vocabulary of a tomcat.

Whenever a martenocat mounts a telephone or electric-light pole, to have an argument with a member of his species, the neighborhood becomes untenable. Now Wehnke is trying to develop a "cussless" cat, while carrying out his crossing of puss and mustela pennanti

After Nights Of Coughing

Sleep Comes At Last

Home Made Cough Mixture Best of All.

The cough that hangs on and hangs on—the cough you've taken everything for with no results, is just the cough that your own home made cough mixture will end speedily.

Make a supply yourself in a few minutes and keep it on hand this Winter—a half pint doesn't cost much; it's better than any you can buy, and the kiddies love it.

It's a fine remedy for chest colds and acute nasal catarrh.

With speed almost beyond belief this home made cough mixture stops the toughest hang-on cough, and all because in it there is a substance (too costly for ordinary cough syrups) that immediately cover the membrane like a soothing, healing poultice and blessed relief comes at once.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it.

Any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

HOW THEY WORK IT IN MOSCOW

BY JOHN GRANDENZ .. ..

MOSCOW, March 19.—(United Press).—"Have you seen a policeman around," asks an apparently breathless pedestrian.

"No," replies the fur-clad object of the query.

"Well, then, give me your coat!"

The story is varied this year. Taking off the fur coat demands too much time and the policeman might really appear. So this year the street thieves are specializing on fur caps. It is easier and quicker.

"Bang!" you get a crack on the ear and your fur cap rolls a yard away. A man pounces on it. That's all! You are left capless, with the mercury doing stunts at 20 below.

British Columbia Asks Federal Bounty On Iron.

OTTAWA, March 18.—(Canadian Press.)— Hon. Wm. Sloan, British Columbia Minister of Mines, to-day presented to Premier King and members of the Cabinet a copy of a resolution passed by the British Columbia Legislature in December last. The resolution endorses the principle of the granting of a bounty by the Dominion Government on pig iron and associated products manufactured in British Columbia from British Columbia iron ores.

BUILDING PERMITS DECLINE.

OTTAWA, March 18.—(Canadian Press.)—According to reports from 56 cities tabulated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the value of building permits issued declined from $4,021,088 in January to $3,657,525 in February, 1924. In February, 1923, these cities had authorized building to the value of $5,599,821. There were, therefore, reductions of $363,563 or 9 per cent. during Febraury as compared with the presiding month, and of $1,942,296 or 35 per cent. as compared with February of last year.

CONSERVATIVES WILL COMPRISE COMMITTEE

Premier Ferguson Denies That the New Highway Advisory Board Is For Political Purposes — Must Be In Sympathy With the Government's Policy.

TORONTO, March 19.—Liberals in the Legislature Tuesday put themselves on record as strongly opposed to the creation of an advisory committee of members of the House to the Minister of Highways.

"The committee will be nothing more than a political committee" said W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader. "Its duty is to consult with the Minister of highways, but the main highway to be considered will be the highway to political success at the next election."

The Premier denied that it was for political purposes and stated that the committee took away none of the rights of the members of the Legislature as had been declared by A. Belanger (Lib. Russell). The Premier announced that it was the intention of the government to promote a more intensive local highway program. Municipalities would be advised to have local road superintendents and to cut out all statute labor.

Partisan Committee

A. Belanger maintained that the committee usurped the function of administration from the Minister and his staff. The committee's was worse than other committees because its members would be taken only from the supporters of the government. The Premier said the government wanted members who were wholly in sympathy with the general policy of the government.

H. A. Fisher (Lib West Ottawa) said the making of the committee started a system to get jobs for government side and two from the opposition groups. J. A. Sangster (Glengarry) would see no use for the committee at all as the best information the government could secure was from the county engineers and road superintendents.

Suburban Commissioners

The government amended the bill changing the time at which the clause that members of municipal councils cannot be members if suburban road commissions. The clause will be effective January 1, 1925 instead of July 1, 1924.

The bill licensing saw, pulp and paper mills passed through committee without amendment. The Minister of Lands and Forests announced that all saw mills including the small portabe affairs in old Ontario would be required to take out the license at a nominal fee of $3 a year. The bill to prevent municipalities form bonusing industries also passed through committee.

Hon. Chas. McCrea Minister of Mines introduced a bill changing slightly the system of awarding compensation to farmers whose crops were damaged by the sulphur fumes from nickle refining plants. The mines will be required to pay into a fund up to $5000 for the payment of the arbitrator who settles the claims of the farmers.

Motor Highways

Another new act will give cities the right to stipulate what streets through motor traffic shall take through their municipalities. Another act proposes to divide Scarborough on the outskirts of Toronto into two townships. First reading was given a bill giving the College of Pharmacy more authority in the matter of disciplining its members guilty of offences against the narcotic drug act and the O.T.A. It also establishes a higher educational standard for druggists.

In taking up the Hydro estimates the Premier announced that Sir Adam Beck proposed to review hydro affairs next week in the House. He also announced further supplemetary estimates coming down today and the main estimates next week.

Slayer of Wife and Son Killed in Duel.

CASPER, Wyo., March 18. — Fred Vand Gordon, aged 42, a real estate agent of this city, was shot to death in a duel with Sheriff Albert Payton of Converse county, at Douglas, Wyo., on Sunday, when the officer entered a hotel where Van Gordon had taken a room, to arrest him on a charge of slaying his wife and a 12-year old son, Arthur.

The bodies of Mrs. Pearl Van Gordon, the wife (a prominent society woman), and the son were found floating in Dump Bridge Creek, two miles east of Casper, at noon, on Sunday. The lad had been shot twice.

Van Gordon had become involved in financial difficulties, and according to his friends, was being threatened with arrest by his creditors on a charge of forgery and embezzlement.

SOCIAL HYGIENE COUNCIL

Miss Estelle Hewson, Ontario Secretary of the Social Hygiene Council, visiting the city this week in connection with the Social Hygiene exhibit, is quite enthusiastic over the reception accorded the exhibit in Peterborough. Fifty new members have been added to the local membership, a great deal of interest is being manifested in the posters and models and slides on view, and large representative gatherings have been present at every lecture so far. A response to their efforts to enlist public opinion in a widespread campaign against the spread of venereal disease is an encouragement to the efforts of the Council, which has for its special aim the enlightenment of the minds of the growing generation as to the evils and penalties of social disease. The mainspring of the idea in the background of the Council's fight is the conviction that if a realization of the terrible penalties that follow in the wake of sins of this nature can be awakened in the minds of the youth of the nation, if their impressionable young minds can be impregnated with sufficient distaste for indulgence that brings as a logical punishment the trail of loathsome disease, not only for themselves, but for their possible offspring of many generations to come, that such a knowledge will work with deterrent effect on the evil impulses of human nature. Possibly the slogan of the Council, working out through its creed as enunciated by Miss Hewson, might be the old one, "Knowledge is Power," and the saying, "The truth shall make us free," might be considered also as part of the programme of a campaign that aims to tear the veil of secrecy from around an ancient canker. "People have started to find out that it pays to call a spade by its proper name," said Miss Hewson. "Don't you think that many young people would hesitate about rushing into such evils if they could see the consequences of terrible disease and blindness and death that result from them? There are many death certificates that fail to bear the true description of their owner's disease, and plenty of cases of so-called 'appendicitis' among women that call for operations necessitated by other causes. I have seen examples of venereal disease transmitted from a father to an innocent child that left his offspring blinded from birth, with no hope of recovery."

Although the main efforts of the Council centre about the growing youth, and results cannot yet be measured with any degree of accuracy, still, within the last three years, Miss Hewson declares, beneficial effects have been noted. In one large establishment in Toronto, the girls are bringing with them individual hand towels, instead of using the former towel common to all, and, in connection with venereal disease clinics, it is noted that, after study of the literature afforded them, the patients are anxious to continue their treatments and to strive harder than ever to free themselves of disease. In Toronto, at a recent exhibit, where representatives of many classes and creeds gathered, several Chinese missionaries took away literature to be translated into their own language for use in their own country.

Miss Hewson, whose experience as a V.A.D. worker, and executive service for many years in Windsor in the efforts of the Red Cross Society and I.O.D.E. for social betterment of various sorts, has been added to by assistance in giving treatments to actual sufferers from social disease, has been active for the past two years in the work of the Council in the Province. She formed a member of the trio, with Mrs. Pankhurst at its head, that toured Northern Ontario last summer, going along as secretary and chauffeur, on a trip that covered six thousand miles, and included the giving of thirty-seven lectures within five weeks. The reception of the party throughout the North was wonderful, declared Miss Hewson, who thought that the quiet lives of the people in that district and the absence of anything of much interest in their lives led them to welcome the travellers. Interest inspired by curiosity may possibly have something to do with the first visits of many to the exhibit, Miss Hewson thinks, but she is firmly convinced that most people become easily seized of the importance of the campaign being conducted by the Council.

To Dr. Gordon Bates belongs, in Miss Hewson's opinion, much of the credit for the success of the campaign of the Council, and much credit is due also to the enthusiasm of Mrs. Pankhurst in the cause. Mrs. Pankhurst, with her pleasant voice, her outstanding eloquence, and "her habit of never seeming to get tired and therefore never tiring her hearers," was referred to, with the four foster children whom she has adopted from various sections of the British Isles, and is having educated in the way that she considers best, by a private governess, rather than in schools, at her home in Toronto. Mrs. Pankhurst is popular with those who gather as much to see her as to hear what she has to say, but it took her some time, it seems, to become accustomed to the spirit of Canada that "has to be shown" before it will believe. The attitude of the British public, ready, it appears, to rally to the leader who could flourish a banner and speak in eloquent periods, is not duplicated, it appears, on this side of the water, not, at least, among conservative-minded Canadians.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Lakefield, 17th March, 1924.
Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—In case some of your readers should have overlooked it, kindly publish again Mr. J. H. Burnham's recipe for booze, as it appeared in your paper of this date.—Yours,

J. F. Lilliecrap.

Recipe.

Take a quart sealer of black currants, empty it into a large stone demijohn, fill that up with water, and by putting it corked into a warm room and shaking it daily for ten days and then let it settle, you have a highly alcoholic wine.—Eureka.

Editor of Examiner.

Sir,—In your comment on Mr. Speakman's speech in the House of Commons in Friday's Examiner, in which he said "that if a farmer was bonused from 20 to 40 years and could not make farming pay it was time he quit the farm," you state that no industry has received so much assistance from Federal and Provincial Governments as has agriculture. On reading this anyone might think that this assistance was in the nature of a direct bonus to farmers.

How is this money spent? A good share is paid in salaries to officials of the various departments of agriculture, Dominion and Provincial, all over Canada, to instructors in agricultural colleges and schools, to managers and helpers in a score or more of experimental farms and stations and in paying the upkeep of these institutions. Every year hundreds of thousands of dollars are paid to fairs and exhibitions, such as the Canadian National, Royal Winter Fair, Guelph Winter Fair, London and Ottawa Exhibitions and a few hundred county and township fairs. Breeders' associations, fruit growers', poultry, horticultural and plowmen's organizations are all helped. These aim to show the farmer how to produce larger crops and improve his herds and flocks. There is no comparison between this and the bonuses and tariff concessions granted to other industries.

Granting that millions have been spent on agriculture, the farmers, who are from 40 to 50 per cent. of the population, have paid a large share in Federal and Provincial taxes toward these grants. I heard the late Dr. C. C. James, who was Deputy-Minister of Agriculture in Ontario for many years, says, at a banquet in Peterborough, that every dollar that the Government spends to assist agriculture adds two dollars to the wealth of the country. I wonder if every dollar the taxpayer pays in extra prices, owing to protective tariffs and to bonus industries, grant free sites and tax exemptions, adds as much.

The work of men like Dr. Saunders of Ottawa in producing Marquis wheat, and Dr. C. A. Zavitz and his assistants of Guelph in improving varieties of barley, oats, wheat, etc., has added more to the wealth of Canada than all the grants to agriculture since Confederation. The sum total of all grants would be a small item in comparison to assistance given to powerful railroad corporations or to slices of our natural resources given for a mere song to friends of various Governments in the past.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,
C. S. BROWN,
R. R. No. 9,
Peterborough.

SNAKE HAD RING.

LONDON, March 19. — A quaint ring, discovered in the mouth of one of the stone snakes in the statuary of the fountain of Hotel Savoy, has been restored to its owner after an interval of seven years. At a dance in 1917, a friend of the owner placed the ring in the snake's mouth and the two were unable to retrieve it.

SPRING MEDICINE.

It is said the greatest American pastime is running to catch a train; and the most futile indoor pastime is taking tonics and spring medicine for the purpose of building up the blood.

Just why this special campaign for dosing the system with so-called blood purifiers should occur in the spring, has never been clearly explained. It may be that some more iron is needed in the blood in spring, as many people are apt to use an ill-balanced diet for a large part of the winter. The vegetables and fruits, which are the most important sources of iron in our foodstuffs, are often neglected to a most alarming extent, and, of course, the bodily health suffers.

Neglect to continue the use of green vegetables and fresh, juicy fruits, with their life-givng iron and salty compounds, causes a certain sluggishness in the blood formation. Spring medicine is not the remedy.

The appetite must be wooed and won into natural and wholesome paths by proper, nourishing food that will give more iron and renewed "pep' than pine buds, wintergreen, and boneset taken as a "blood tonic."

There is no question whatever of the superiority of natural foods over any kind of spring medicine or iron compounds, in furnishing elements for body building and repair. The proper vitamines will be found in fresh milk, eggs, fruit, and vegetables. Don't neglect the vegetable oil on your salads. They furnish a most life-giving element.

Eat green stuff to get back your normal iron supply. The amount of iron for reserve, that is found in varying amounts in the liver, spleen and bone marrow must also be renewed and maintained for a healthy, normal body in spring time.

GRATED CHEESE.

If you serve grated cheese with your soup the nutritive value will be much greater.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Yes, siree!" said the Scarecrow of Benstalk Land, shaking his wobbly straw head. "There is a treasure buried right there where that mound is, as sure as you're alive. I heard the thieves quite plainly even if it was too dark to see their faces. And by daylight they were gone. I've been dying of curiosity ever since.'

"Come on, Nancy, let's dig down and find out," cried Nick. "Maybe it's the rest of the treasure that Jack's giant hid.

So the two children set to work with a will, but they had no shovels and soon got very tired.

Suddenly they heard a grunting noise and along came one of the Beanstalk pigs, his wet nose close to the ground, sniffing and snuffing like everything.

When he saw the Twins he blinked his queer little eyes. "Hello," he squealed. "Who in creation are you? I thought I knew all the wood creatures by sight."

"We're not wood creatures. We came up from the earth on a beanstalk!" Nick told him. "We're Twins!"

"Twins! Well, I declare!" laughed the Beanstalk pig. "You're queer fruit to grow on a beanstalk! But, say! If you came from the earth, did you see any truffles? I like truffles awfully, but they are hard to get as they grow away down under the ground like potatoes. The only way I can find them is to root with my nose."

"Oh, dear," cried Nancy as an idea struck her. "Can you really dig with your nose?"

"Can't I just!" remarked the pig with pride. "It is my chief accomplishment. I'll show you how, if you like."

"Please do," begged Nancy. "And if you don't mind will you dig here wheer this pile of dirt is?"

"Certainly," said the pig obligingly, and set to work with a will.

Piggy worked so fast that soon he disappeared altogether.

All at once he stuck out his head and said. "There's something hard here. I can't go down any further. Besides there is an iron ring in it, and I can't bear the sight of a ring. They always make me nervous, for I had one in my nose once."

"We're very much obliged anyway," said Nick. "You've done us quite a favor."

"You're welcome!" said the pig. "But I guess I'll be going. My mouth is watering more than ever for a truffle. Goodby."

When he had gone, the Scarecrow said in a weak voice. "Oh, do hurry and open the box, children, for that must be what it is. I'm getting weak with excitement."

But the Twins couldn't budge the heavy lid any more than you could lift the roof off the schoolhouse.

"Go to the palace!" said the Scarecrow, "and bring the king and queen. Most likely it is theirs anyway. Who else would have such a fortune?"

So off to the palace of Beanstalk Land trudged the Twins.

There stood the bald-headed gatekeeper and the 20 stiff servants just as they had left them. And all the lords and ladies, too. And there sat the king and queen and the court cat and everybody just as though nothing had happened.

GERMAN PAPER PROPOSES KEEP SPECIFIC AT HOME

BERLIN, March 19. — (United Press.)— A proposal that Germany should keep from France a newly discovered specific against sleeping sickness was voiced by the Deutsche Zeitung to-day. The cure is known as "Germanin."

Herr Escherics, founder of the original Bavarian Fascist organizatoins, advocated keeping the specific from all nations until Germany's colonies, lost in the world war, should be returned to her.

The Deutsche Zeitung makes its specific suggestion about the French however, on the ground that France would thus be prevented from recruiting any more colored colonial troops, to which the Germans particularly object.

CANADIAN TYPEWRITING CHAMPIONSHIP CONTEST

One Section of Dominion-Wide Speed Trials to Take Place in Peterboro

The Canadian Typewriting Championship Contest, to be held on Saturday, March 29th, has a special interest for the speed artists in this district. Peterboro has been selected as one of the centres at which the contest will take place, doing away with the necessity of making a trip to Toronto, in order to compete. The contest will be held in the Peterboro business college at 8 p.m., on Saturday, March 29th, simultaneously with the similar contests being held at other points. Results from all outside contests will be forwarded to the Central Committee at Toronto for final awards. The contest is open to all typists, whether students of the Business College or Collegiate, or graduates engaged in actual office work, and it is expected that a large number of Peterboro's speedy typists will take advantage of the opportunity to compete, so advantageously afforded them.

A number of prominent citizens are expected to be present at the trials, and the public are also invited to attend what promises to be most interesting event.

DYNAMITE SMUGGLING GAINS IN SOUTHERN PHILIPPINES.

MANILA, March 19.—(Associated Press).— Smuggling of dynamite from British North Borneo into the Sulu archipelago is increasing despite the efforts of the Philippines customs authorities. The dynamite is chiefly used by the Moros to kill fish in the waters of the southern islands, although the practice has been prohibited by law for many years.

The Moros, who are familiar with all the small coves and harbors, are able to evade the customs authorities who have only a limited patrol service in that region. In their fast vintas (native sailboats) the Moros are able to load their cargoes of dynamite, and frequently a shipment of opium, on the Borneo coast and under cover of darkness slip across to one of the small islands in the Sulu group, only a few miles away.

Only in rare instances are these smugglers caught, customs officials say.

ATTEMPT SUICIDE DUE TO DOMESTIC TROUBLE

HAMILTON, March 19. — Canadian Press. — Domestic unhappiness is alleged to have prompted the action of Mrs. Gladys Bradley, aged 26, formerly of this city, and latterly of Jarvis street, Toronto, who was found in a Hamilton cemetery yesterday afternoon, having swallowed a quantity of essence of camphor. She will likely recover.

Mrs. Bradley was removed to the general hospital, where she refused to tell her name. She was subsequently recognized by nurses, who remembered her as having been treated in an institution about one year ago.

The woman was reluctant to discuss her personal affairs, other than to state that her husband is living in San Francisco. She admitted, it is said, being unhappy as a result fo domestic matters.

AMERICANS DISAPPOINT GERMANS IN BERLIN'S SIX-DAY BICYCLE RACE

BERLIN, March 19.—(Associated Press).—The performance of five American riders who participated in a six-day bicycle race here recently was a disappointment generally to the Berlin sport writers who agreed that the Americans by no means made the showing that was expected of them.

Fred Taylor, of Newark, N.J., and Harry Kaiser, of The Bronx, N.Y., finished fourth in the race, while Percy Lawrence and Willie Hanley, both of San Francisco, were sixth. Hans Orth, also of San Francisco, paired with a German rider, was not among the prize-winners. The race was won by a German team which far out-distanced all competitors.

LITERATURE STUDY CLUB

The Art and Literature Study Club in connection with the Women's Art Association, held a meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. C. B. Adair, Homewood avenue, with an attendance of twenty-four ladies. The French school of art was the subject under discussion last evening, and interesting papers on Watteau and Fragonard were given by Mrs. L. J. Pettit and Mrs. V. Foster. The period prior to the French Revolution was taken, as being the time when French art achieved its most original and highest quality.

Mrs. Pettit's paper was preceded by a reference to the genre school of art, of which Watteau was a brilliant exponent. A brief outline of the painter's life was given. Born in Valenciennes, he went to Paris in early youth, dying at the age of thirty-seven, from tuberculosis. He was a pupil of Claude Audran at the Conservatoire in the Luxembourg Palace, and it was during his seven years spent at the studio of his teacher that he observed from the windows those scenes in the Palace gardens which were the inspiration of much of his later work. The court life of that time has been reproduced in the gay, dainty and frivolous pictures of Watteau. Within the Palace gates, the spirit of luxury and irresponsibility existed, regardless of the seething forces of the revolution, gathering without, and it is this atmosphere which lives in the master's art.

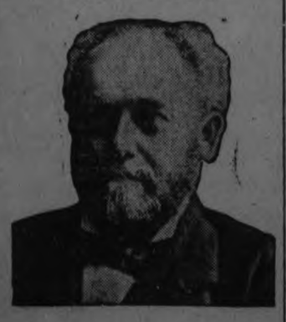
Watteau was anxious to obtain the coveted Prix de Rome, but failed at his first attempt, winning only the second prize, which was not sufficiently large to defray the expenses of the study in Italy that he craved. Several of his earlier pictures, hanging in the Academy, attracted the attention of a former celebrity, Monsieu de la Fosse, who sought out the then unknown artist and advised him that Rome could do nothing for him. It was with the help of this man that Watteau finally became a member of the Academy, his inclusion being exceptionable on account of his lack of the influential friends and money which were usually necessary for admission.

The pictures of Watteau have a touch of unreality that was commented on. This is due largely to the fact that while of a serious mind himself he observed and painted people who were essentially frivolous. Behind the frothy surface, he saw the dangers of revolution and death. An attribute to the painter's art was the fine proportions given his figures, which are always made to assume their proper place in their surroundings.

The work of Fragonard, a contemporary of Watteau who flourished also in the pre-revolution days, and whose work has just lately come into considerable prominence, was described by Mrs. V. Foster. An outline of the painter's life was given, and his work was contrasted with that of Boucher and Chardin. He went to Italy for a course of study, remembering the advice of his master to refrain from taking Raphael too seriously. The lighter school of art exemplified in the work of French painters had a strong exponent in Fragonard, whose art was influenced by the frivolous spirit of the times in which he lived. Some of his best work is in the five panels depicting "The Romance of Youth,' now in the possession of Mr. Frick of New York, who has reproduced as a setting for the paintings a room as nearly identical as possible with the one for which they were designed. "The Swing" and "The Face of a Child" are also well-known examples of Fragonard's art, and "The Bathers" is a notable instance of his handling of the nude in art. Fragonard brought out the beauty, rather than the sensuousness, of his figures, his work contrasting favorably with the heavy handling of this type of subject by other masters.

The next meeting of the club will take place in a fortnight's time, at the home of Mrs. J. John, 362 Simcoe street. The Spanish school of art will be considered, and special reference to the work of Velasquez and Murillo.

CHARACTER TELLS THE STORY!



People throughout this county are giving more thought to hygiene and to the purity of remedies on the market, but no one doubts the purity of Doctor Pierce's vegetable medicines, for they have been so favourably known for over fifty years that everyone knows they are just what they are claimed to be. These medicines are the result of long research by a well-known physician, R. V. Pierce, M.D., who compounded them from health-giving herbs and roots long used in sickness by the Indians. Dr. Pierce's reputation as a leading and honored citizen of Buffalo, is a sufficient guarantee for the purity of that splendid tonic and blood purifier, the Golden Medical Discovery, and the equally fine nerve tonic and system builder for women's ailments, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Send 10c for trial package tablets to Dr. Pierce's Labratory in Bridgeburg, Ontario.

Good News For Every Car-Owner

A New Way To Buy Batteries

Up until recently you have been paying high prices for batteries. There was a sharp reduction in battery prices last fall, led by Exide.

Up until now, getting the battery you want has often been a matter of much inconvenience. Now, Exide is able to announce another step forward.

When you have wanted a particular make of battery, as most car owners do, you have had to hunt out the service station that sold that one make of battery. It has been a fixed rule of the trade that each battery service station sell only one make of battery.

This practice has meant not only inconvenience to you but has been the principal cause of high battery prices.

If the service station can sell but one make of battery, its sales are limited. Limited sales require larger profit per sale if the dealer is to make a reasonable income. This extra expense comes out of your pocket without giving you any additional value.

Therefore, now, Exide has decided to break through the convention of years regarding exclusive service stations.

We have announced to the trade our readiness to sell Exide Batteries to any and all reputable battery dealers.

Go to any service station or dealer in batteries and ask for an Exide for your car. We have done our part to enable him to furnish it to you at a profit to himself. The same holds true of an Exide for your Radio set.

Who Pays for "Free Service?"

Another reform in which Exide is taking the leadership is in doing away with "free service."

You do not get something for nothing in this world; not for long, anyway. For years it has been the practice for service stations to test batteries free, to supply them with distilled water free and to render other kinds of service at less than cost.

Somebody has been paying for this. You have been paying for your own service in advance, in the original price you paid for your battery. You have also been paying for service which was extended free to all makes of batteries, even to those orphan batteries that have no service stations of their own. All this has gone on the price of YOUR Battery.

We believe that such practices are relics of a moss-covered past, unjust to the car owner and unfair to the service station.

Pay for What You Get

We have recommended to all service stations that they charge a reasonable fee for service. Not only is it fair play to the service station, but it is for your own interest in keeping down the purchase price of batteries. If you find a battery man reluctant to make a charge for servicing your battery (perhaps he has done it free for years) we hope you will insist on his taking a reasonable fee.

When you buy an Exide Battery today you are paying for nothing but the battery. The price is lower than ever before—the quality unchanged.

When you do not need any service, why pay for it hidden in the first price? When you do need service, pay for it at the time. Isn't that reasonable?

So, our policy, which we believe will appeal to all forward looking men and which, we hope, will be followed by other battery manufacturers, is: "Let the battery user get the battery he wants —at a reasonable price—where he prefers to deal, and pay the dealer for service when he gets it."

This advertisement is intended to help bring about Better Business Methods in the Battery Industry of Canada, which we believe will benefit all battery users, dealers and manufacturers alike.

BASKET SOCIAL AT MILLBROOK

Mrs. G. W. Sayles Won Prize For Best Decorated Basket at Social In the Methodist Church Basement—Receipts $50.

MILLBROOK, March 18—The first basket social ever held in connection with the Methodist church, Millbrook, was carried through to a most successful conclusion on the evening of St. Patrick's Day, under the joint auspices of the C.S.E.T. and C.G.I.T. organizations.

The basement was appropriately decorated with green and white streamers, shamrocks, and lengths of art paper depicting Irish lads and lassies gayly dancing in light-hearted mirth. Green shades on the lights gave a pretty effect, and most of th young people wore a shamrock pinned on coat lapel, or dress, the girls of the C.G.I.T. group wearing white bands on their hair with three of the dainty green emblems across the forehead.

Nearly forty beautifully trimmed baskets, of many shapes and designs were brought in, two large tables near the platform being reserved for displaying their attractiveness. A prize had been offered for the finest basket, the points to be taken into consideration in judging being; originality of design, daintiness and beauty of trimming, and appropriateness to the occasion—St. Patrick's Day. The judges were Mrs. W. W. Gillott, Miss Ethel Richardson and Miss A. Hampton, and they found their task a most difficult one. The award was finally given to Mrs. G. W. Sayles' basket which was green covered with a golden Irish harp, flanked by two tiny pots of green shamrock, standing upright on the lid.

Mr. G. W. Sayles made a most efficient auctioneer for the baskets at the conclusion of the programme, the prize one bringing the highest bid, three dollars and five cents. The lowest was thirty-five cents and the baskets averaged nearly on dollar each.

Rev. S. T. Tucker acted as chairman and the following programme was well received calling forth many demands for encores from the audience which practically filled the basement:

Opening Hymn. "Just as I am, young, strong and free." This hymn is a part of the ritual of the C.S.E.T. and C.G.I.T.. groups.

Invocation.

Chairman's remarks.

Chorus, "Pretty Kitty Kelly," by the Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. group.

"A message," by Mary Burnham Bryar Edmunds and Leon Raper.

"Clock Song," by Lawrence Row hind (singer concealed in a big clock.)

Cornet duet, by Mr. G. E. and Ernest Burnham.

Recitation, "Pat's Reason," by Elsie Spence.

Piano duet by Miss Ethel Richardson and Gladys Tucker.

Duet, "I love the Girls," by Keith Barnard and Lawrence Rowland.

Piano solo by Miss Estelle Hetherington.

Duet with cornet and saxaphone by Ernest Burnham and H. Janes.

Reading, 'Selling the baby," by Jean Burnham.

Solo, "Love the Pedlar," by Miss Ethel Richardson.

Trio, cornets and saxaphone, G. E. Burnham, H. Janes and Ernest Burnham.

Auctioning of baskets by Mr. G. W. Sayles.

Presentation of prize, box of home made candy, to owner of prettiest basket, Mrs. G. W. Sayles.

Refreshments, and closing with National Anthem.

The bonspiel with carpet balls, for which the boys had challenged the girls, and the contest which had been arranged for, had to be postponed owing to the lateness of the hour. The receipts were in the neighborhood of $50,00.

Misses E. Richardson, S. Hetherington and G. Tucker were the efficient accompanists for the evening.

JAPANESE SUBMARINE SANK WITH ALL CREW

LONDON, March 19.— (United Press.) — Four officers and forty men have gone down in a Japanese submarine, which collided with a warship off the Port of Sasebo, on the west coast of the Island of Kiushu, 30 miles north of Nagasaki, according to a despatch here to-day. The submarine sank in 26 fanthoms of water.

Rescue workers are doing their utmost to reach the underseas craft in the hope taht the crew still may be alive.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

REDUCTION IN FREIGHT RATES

Class Rates Effected Between Maritime Provinces.

MONTREAL, March 19.—(Canadian Press).—The announcement is made by the Canadian Freight Association of a reduction of "class rates" between points in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Montreal and west to Windsor, Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur and Armstrong.

These reductions will restore, the announcement says, "in some measure the relationship which existed for many years prior to the war."

The announcement made by the Canadian Freight Association reads: "The Canadian railways directly interested in the movement of freight traffic between the Maritime Provinces and Ontario and Quebec have been engaged for some months past in making an analysis of a survey of the situation, with the result that, effective April 14th, certain reductions will be made in class rates between points in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island and Montreal and west to Windsor, Sault Ste. Marie and Armstrong and Port Arthur.

"These reductions will restore, in some measure,the relationship which existed for many years prior to the war and prior to the changes authorized from time to time by various orders of the Governor in Council and of the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada."

BRITISH COMPANY ISSUED STATEMENT

British Warships Not Supplied With Oil by E. L. Doheny.

LONDON, March 19. — (United Press).—The British Mexican Petroleum Company to-day issued a statement denying the testimony of Henry Woodhouse before the Senate Oil Committee in Washington.

British warships were not supplied with oil from any of E. L. Doheny's storage tanks, the statement said, and the British Government was not connected with any old contracts between British and American companies.

The statement explained that the British company shared privately with Doheny the output of certain wells until last November, but since that time any oil that has been bought has been in accordance with the usual commercial routine.

The British Government did not furnish any money to Doheny's company.

FRANK P. JONES

(Financial Post.)

Whenever a large-sized job crops up in Canada and a really big organizer and executive is required to fill it, it seems to be the general habit to ask Frank P. Jones to give a change of venue to his time c..d. That happened when Max Aitken formed the Canada Cemint Company. He picked Jones as the one man big enough to run the organization and Jones accepted the post. Ever since then people have been picking Jones for big jobs. He was sent for by Ottawa during the war to run the war trade board; he was taken along to the peace conference as Sir Robert Bordn's Col. House; he was asked to take over the job of running the Canadian Government railways; he was asked to drag the Riordon companies from their finacial quagmires; he was mentioned as the one man who could reorganize and run the British Empire Steel Corporation.

Such a man must indeep be an executive of broad calibre. Frank P. Jones is every inch of that. The story of his rise proves the opportunities for success in Canada.

Stoked a Boiler at 18.

Frank Jones started at the very bottom of the lader. He started there from choice. He came from an excellent family in Brockville, and had a good education, for he attended the Royal Military College. He was 18 when he left school and went to work. With his education and his family's friendships he could have started off in any one of a number of easy jobs. But he chose deliberately to start at the bottom of the ladder, and so he began his business career firing a boiler in Gananoque.

After a few years in Gananoque, Frank Jones stepped into the line of work for which he has had a real flare all his life—selling. He sold insurance for the Canada Life Insurance, but only for a few months, for he got as far as Peterboro and thehe changed his affiliation to the Canadian General Electric Company. He was recognized as a good salesman, and the C. G. E. wanted him.

Again Goes into the Shops.

Frank Jones' first move was to astonish his new employers by asking for a job in the shops.

"But we want you as a salesman," they told him.

Jones insisted on donning a pair of overalls and getting to work in the factory. 'How can I sell your equipment if I don't know how it's made, and if I don't know anything about electricity?" he demanded. One year he put in on hard work, rather dirty work, but when he was through he knew the goods he was selling.

He knew them well and he sold them well. His fame as a salesman spread, and through the medium of one of the salesmen of the Nova Scotia Steel and Forge Company, reached the ears of Graham Fraser in New Glasgow, N.S. Fraser had founded the steel industry in Nova Scotia with his little forge. And when his salesman died, Jones was asked by Fraser to take over the work. On the first of January, 1894, Jones became a steelman. He was a steelman for sixteen years to the day when he became head of the Canada Cement Comany.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

LUNCHEON DISHES

These are the days when hearty luncheon dishes with a good "hot" peppery taste are most relished.

The platter of thinly sliced meat, cool salad and water-like bread and butter that is so quickly and easily prepared for the hot weather luncheon is not for January days.

No busy housekeeper like to spend much time over the preparation of the noon meal if a dinner is to be prepared for the evening. She feels as if she is tied to sink and cook stove if two hot cooked meals must be prepared and served.

These luncheon dishes are quickly and easily prepared. Tomato soup aids in their preparation and at the same time uses to advantage this delectable bit of left-over that might otherwise go "begging."

Tomato Cheese

Two cups chopped cheese, 1 cup milk, 1 cup tomato soup, 8 triangles toast.

Put about one teaspoon of butter in a smooth sauce pan, add cheese and melt, stirring constantly. Slowly add milk, stirring until well blended. Stir in soup and cook, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Season with salt and pepper and add one-half teaspoon Worchestershire sauce if liked. Pour over hot toast and serve.

Tomato Macaroni

One cup broken macaroni, 1 cup tomato soup, ½ cup chopped cheese, salt and pepper, tiny pinch of mustard.

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water for 20 minutes. Drain and blanch under cold water. Drain and put in a buttered baking dish. Pour over tomato soup cover with finely chopped cheese and bake in a hot oven until the cheese is melted and slightly browned. It will take about 15 minutes.

Rice With Sausage Sauce

Two cups hot steamed rice, 1 cup tomato soup, 1 cup milk, 1 cup chopped cooked sausage, 4 tablespoons grated cheese, 1 tablespoon flour.

Drop rice by spoonfuls onto a large, hot platter. Heat soup and milk. Stir in flour mixed to a smooth paste with a little cold milk. Add sausage and cook until thick. Pour over molds of rice, sprinkle with grated cheese and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

The use of tomato soup makes it unnecessary to add soda to the mixture before adding the milk. If canned, strain tomatoes are used soda must be added to prevent curdling of milk.

The use of soup in these recipes also adds a piquancy to the dish, the seasoning of the soup itself lending much to flavoring of the whole.

Scalloped corn with tomato soup used two bits of left-overs palatably.

Scalloped Corn With Tomato Soup

One cup canned corn, 1 cup tomato soup, 1 cup cracker crumbs, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon celery salt, ¼ teaspoon onion pepper, 1 canned pimento (if at hand).

Put a layer of crumbs in a buttered baking dish. Add corn and soup mixed and seasoned and a few shreds of pimento. Add another layer of crumbs and continue layer for layer of crumbs and vegetables until all is used. Dot with bits of butter and bake in a quick oven for 25 minutes.

A SUBMARNE LOST.

SAZBO, Japan, March 19 (Canadian Press). — Submarine No. 43, of the Japanese Navy, collided to-day with the warship Katsuta, ten miles outside of Sazbo harbour, and sank in 26 fathoms of water.

Four officers and forty men were aboard.

There is little hop that there will be any survivors.

Sazbo is a naval port on the Island of Kyushu, just north of the Island of Hondou.

THE QUALITY OF BULK TEA

The quality of bulk tea is always unreliable for seven reasons. In the first place, being unlabelled its origin is unknown, and there is no one who has any particular responsibility for its goodness. In the second place, it is exposed to the air, and, therefore, very quickly loses its flavor and freshness. Even if it were as good as "SALADA" in the first place, it would rapidly deteriorate and in any case it would be impossible for any dealer to follow consistently the same quality through out the year. "SALADA" always maintains an unvarying high standard possible through skilful blending.

NATIVE THRIFT WAS UNDOING OF McTAVISH

CHICAGO, March 19 (Canadian Press). — It was the native thrift of Andy McTavish that led to his undoing.

Mr. McTavish, who is a Scotsman, had robbed a telephone box. His loot consisted of pickles and slugs, with a heavy proportion of slugs.

Unfortunately, Mr. McTavish encountered a druggist in whose store the telephone booth was located, accompanied by two detectives, and a lively race ensued.

McTavish, closely pressed by an increasing throng of pursuers, began to jettison his cargo by dropping a nickel at a time.

The crowd would stop to salvage the nickel, thus giving McTavish a slight lead.

The ruse was successful, and in half a dozen blocks fifteen groups were butting one another about, gleaning nickels.

Then McTavish made his fatal error. In his excitement he dropped a silver dollar.

This was quite too much for Scottish thrift, and he had knocked down three men in the battle to recover the dollar when the police swamped over him.

MOUNT PLEASANT WOMEN'S CONCERT

Funds Received By the Women's Institute Will Be Used For Local Improvements.

OMEMEE, March 18. — Mount Pleasant, Cavan Township, on March the 14th saw an interesting programme presented in the Temperance Hall, under the auspices of the Women's Institute. The proceeds amounting to $20 are to be devoted to local improvements for the village. This little society has many local improvements to its credit, for example, the cement walks.

The first on the programme was the auctioning of goods donated by members, Mr. William Howden being the capable auctioneer. Mr. Chester Best delighted the audience with a solo and encore, Mr. Hubert Lowes also gave a solo, and Mr. W. Howden a reading, while the Rev. J. A. Black gave an interesting address on "Gardening." The best of all was a debate which was decided in favor of the affirmative, the subject being, "Resolved that Single Blessedness is Better than Married Bliss." Mrs. N. Fee and W. H. Lowes supported and affirmative, while Mrs. James Fee and Mrs. Thomas Graham upheld the negative.

An enjoyable evening was concluded with God Save the King.

A PRESENTATION TO MR. AND MRS. TUCKER

Will Reside at Gore's Landing in Future—The Address.

COBOURG, March 10. — At Fenella recently the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Tucker gathered at their home for a farewell evening on the eve of their departure for their new home at Gore's Landing. They presented them with a library table and gasoline lamp and the following address:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Tucker: When we asked for the privilege of your house for an evening's pleasure we were not thinking wholly of ourselves. We, your friends, are here to express to you our sorrow at your departure from our midst, which is to take place so soon.

You have both spent your life so far among us, therefore we know your worth, and know what we are losing. But distance does not change true friendship—only tends to make it stronger. So among the many new friends you will make we hope you will not forget the old ones.

You have shown yourseelves to be the best of neighbors in every way, always ready and willing to help, and as a slight token in appreciation of you we ask you to accept this table and lamp.

We hope that you will live long to enjoy them and as you use them every day they will bring you pleasant rememberance of your life here.

We wish you health, happiness and success in your new home.

Signed on behalf of the community, Frank Macklin, Bruce Macklin, Earl Boyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Tucker, both thanked their friends for their kindness towards them. The rest of the evening was spent in games and dancing.

The Crow of Croup A Warning To All Mothers

Croup starts with a dry cough and rattling in the throat; after which the croup crow gives warning of the diseases. The child, after tossing restlessly about, will start up with a flushed face, protuding eyeballs, and a distressing look of terror and anxiety. There is a struggle for breath, and the expectoration of the mucous matter is so difficult to get rid of that the effort appears to threaten strangulation.

On the first sign of the "croupy crow" mothers should administer Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and thus give the child prompt and permament relief, and perhaps the life saved by taking this precaution.

Mrs. H. A. Langhorn, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"My little boy was very bad with the croup and I could not get anything to relieve him until I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I cannot praise it too highly for the relief it gave him."

Price 35c. a bottle; the large family size 60c; put up only by the The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

More than $300,000,000 has been realized in sales of British government wool stocks. The Dominions got more than $60,000,000 of this sum.

ROUND ROBIN SAID TO BE CIRCULATED

Some of the Provincial Members Would Like Indemnity Increased.

TORONTO, March 19.— (Canadian Press.)—It was rumored at the Parliament Buildings yesterday that a round robin was being circulated among members of the Legislature as a preliminary measure to securing from the Government an increase in sessional indemnity. When questioned last night two Toronto members said they had not heard of such a step being taken, although both admitted that there was some talk around the corridors on possibilities of an increase.

One of the members stated that he understood that some of the legislators felt that their allowances should be increased from the existing $1,400 to $2,000 and mentioned that the paper had been circulated stating that members of the Ontario house were paid smaller indemnities than those of any other provincial legislatures, excepting Prince Edward Island. Another stated that he had heard similar talk, but he did not think anything would come of it.

COW LEANED AGAINST THE ANGLICAN CHURCH

TORONTO, March 19 (Canadian Press). — The Bill to incorporate the Village of Windermere was passed yesterday by the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature, and the committee had much fun in the process.

Appearing for the Township of Watt, opposing the Bill, Gordon Waldron, K.C., said that complains of the area seeking incorporation against the Township seemed to be that William Atkins' cow leaned against the Anglican Church and pushed it from its foundations.

FIRPO DETERMINED TO ABANDON GLOVED GAME

Repeats Announcement That His Bout With Al Reich In April Will Be His Last — Friends Try to Dissuade Him — Dempsey Doubts It.

BUENOS AIRES, March 19. — Notwithstanding that scores of Luis Firpo's friends and admirers sought throughout the day to persuade him to change his mind, the South American heavy-weight declared to the Associated Press correspondent last night that he intended to stand fast by his resolution to abandon fighting altogether.

'Hokum'" Says Dempsey

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 19.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, does not take much stock in press reports of Luis Angel Firpo's contemplated retirement.

"That's a lot of hokum, I think," he said after seeing the reports.

"It looks like a publicity scheme and perhaps a move toward increasing his demands for future fights in the United States," Dempsey said.

"The shrill cry of the American Eagle is too tempting for any fellow who can 'sock' like the 'Wild Bull of the Pampas," he added.

Bombshell in New York

NEW YORK, March 19.—Luis Angel Firpo's announcement that he would retire from the ring after fighting Al. Reich of United States, at Buenos Aires, next month, came as something of a bombshell yesterday in pugilistic circles, where its effect on the year's fistic program was the chief topic. In some quarters there was skepticism over Firpo's assertion and a belief that sufficient financial inducements would influence the giant Argentine to change his mind.

William McCarney, Firpo's United States representative, who arranged an extended exhibition and fighting tour of the United States and Canada during the summer, late today had received no direct word from Firpo and was holding his program in abeyance until receipt of advice from the South American.

Rejected Rickard's Bid

Tex Rickard, under whose guidance the colorful South American climbed spectacularly in six months from obscurity to a record-breaking title fight with Jack Dempsey, was in Washington and his associates would make no comment. Rickard, it was believed, had obtained Dempsey's consent to a return match with Firpo next September here, but cable reports last night said the Argentine rejected Rickard's latest fight bid, a $500,000 offer for bouts with Harry Wills and Dempsey.

Should Firpo carry out his announced intention, however, Latin color to the fistic program would not be lacking. Erminio Spalla, Italian holder of the European heavy weight title, who was knocked out in 14 rounds by Firpo recently, and Quintin Romero-Rojas promising Chilean heavyweight, have accepted Rickard's offers for a series of matches here. Rojas may make his debut in May at Madison Square Garden against Floyd Johnson of Iowa.

ZBYSZKO WILL DESERT MAT FOR GRAND OPERA

NEW YORK, March 19.—Wladek Zbyszko, Polish contender for the heavyweight wrestling title, has decided to forsake the mat in the near future for an operatic career, according to his friends.

Zbyszko, it is said, long has yearned to develop his voice and go on the stage. His godfather was Ignace Paderewski, noted pianist. He was a close friend of the late Enrico Caruso and has many intimates among present-day stars of grand opera.

BIG GAME TONIGHT

The Bell Telephone and the Red Ferns meet tonight in the final game of the Mercantile League. Three wins for the Bell Telephone tonight will give them the championship of the second half. If the Red Ferns can take a fall out of the Telephone gang they will go into a tie with the Nashua Paper. At any rate a good game is expected and there no doubt will be a good crowd on hand to witness this fixture.

NEW TEN PIN LEAGUE

The C.G.E. last night entered the new ten pin league, making seven teams already to date. A couple of more teams are expected to enter before the meeting on Friday night, when the schedule will be arranged and other particulars looked after.

SAULT SENIORS PACE BENGALS OUT OF FINALS

Show Their Title to "Greyhound" Soubriquet--Played Rings Around Yellow and Black and Won Round by Three Goals.

WON GAME 8 to 3

TORONTO, March 19.— (Canadian Press.)—Maintaining as killing a pace as that which gave them the name of "Greyhounds," Sault Ste. Marie seniors last night swept the Hamilton Tigers "off their feet" in a game that will go down in history as one of the most thrilling of them all, winning by 8 to 3, and took the Allan Cup round and N.O.H.A.-O.H.A. championship by 9 to 6. The Northerners won on their merits. They outplayed the Bengals everywhere in the first and final periods and demonstrated that when they are at the top of their form they are one of the strongest amateur teams that ever chased the puck in this country. As on the previous night when a vast throng stormed the Arena to see the junior battle of the year, there were no vacant seats, and standing room was at a premium. The roars of the fans as far as noise goes, were never surpassed at the local arena.

The Greyhounds' travelling pace, which beggars description, provided most of the thrills, but it was only a last period rally which gave them the honors. In the first period the Northerners scored two goals in a row and played rings around the yellow and black, but they faded away to almost nothing in the next session, and Cooper, on bullet-like drives from the wing, equalled the score. Two goals down on the round, the Greyhounds entered the last period with their supporters shaking in their shoes, and then occurred one of those epic affairs which are seldom seen in real life.

In one minute and twenty seconds the Soo scored three goals, and they did it with such neatness and despatch that it was all over before the Tigers realized what was happening.

That rally will never be forgotten by Sault fans or those in the Ambitious City either. It was the most thrilling feat of the year. The Greyhounds just outclassed their opponents and raced in on Stewart at will. Badly disorganized during this short time the Tigers rallied, and for the next ten minutes held the Northerners at bay. It was a toss-up at this stage with the Greyhounds striving desperately to hold their precious lead, and the Tigers training every bit of energy to tie the score, and it remained for "Dutch" Cain, former St. Mary's and Aura Lee defence man to break up the game.

Never a high class scorer, Cain got his chance to play when Coach McNamara decided that his team needed more defensive strength. Cain supplied the strength all right and also showed that he is second to none as a brilliant rusher. Several times he raced past the Tiger front line and peppered fast shots at Stewart and finally when Day drew a penalty Cain dashed down the centre, swerved sharply to the right and with a shot that would have done credit to "Babe" Dye, beat Stewart from thirty feet away. That shot broke up the battle.

Dempsey Says Film Rights Were Sold.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 19 (Canadian Press). — Jack Dempsey declared yesterday that neither he nor Jack Kearns, his manager, has had an interest in the Dempsey-Carpentier fight picture since it has been exhibited and he does not anticipate being called to testify before the Senate Committee investigating irregularities in its display.

"Kearns and I disposed of our interest in the films to Tex Rickey and Fred Quimby, film producer, before the picture was made," he said.

OTTAWA GIRLS CAMPBELLFORD

First of Home and Home Series With Campbellford--Score Was 9-0 in Favor of Ottawa.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 19. — Displaying a brand of hockey that would do credit to some boys' teams, "Ottawa Alerts," last year's champions of the O.L.H.A., romped away from Campbellford girls here last night to the tune of 9 to 0.

The game was the first of the home and home games in the semi-finals, and was witnessed by the largest crowd of the season, nearly every available inch being occupied, and boys were parked on the upstairs dressing room with their heads touching the roof. While they were disappointed in the result, they were a good natured crowd and gave vent to their feelings in no uncertain manner whenever the local girls were in a position to score.

The "Alerts" are all good stick-handlers and fast skaters, play their positions well, and the forwards back check all the time. Shirley Moulds, the little left winger, was the star of the game. She skated miles, back-checked all the way, and was up with every play, and she was generally given the puck when in a position to shoot, and she certainly can shoot. She scored five of the Alerts' goals and only for the good work of Harriet Potts in the Campbellford nets, she would have had more.

Evelyn Irwin and Marion Giles had a busy time on the other wing and there wasn't much to choose between them, the Ottawa lady having a shade in speed. Evelyn was one of the best checkers of the locals, and the Ottawa girls found her very hard to pass. Grace Blue and Miss Turner had another merry battle in mid-ice, and when the Ottawa centre kept the Campbellford star of the score sheet, she did a good night's work. It is the first time in two years Grace has failed to score at least one goal in a game.

The Ottawa defence pair kept the Campbellford girls from getting close in, and Miss Dawson looked after the rest.

Helen Wood was good defensively and made many dangerous rushes into enemy territory. Harriet Potts was as busy as an ice cream vendor on circus day, and it was no fault of her's the locals were beaten. All the shots that beat her were from very close in, and for every one that beat her she stopped a half dozen.

As in a horse race, speed wins. So it was last night. The Alerts had the speed and they used it to the best advantage. When they got possession of the rubber they broke fast and generally three abreast, and when they lost the disk they skated back and cut off the puck-carrier.

The Game.

The Alerts attacked from the first face-off, and kept the puck in Campbellford's half for some minutes. Miss Giles got the first score when she took a pass from Miss Turner right in front.

Grace Blue gave the fans their first chance to exercise their vocal organs when she went down the side but missed the net by inches.

Miss Moulds came right back, circled the defence, and flipped the rubber in the net. Miss Potts stopped shots from Miss Hagan and Miss Moulds, and Miss Shore tested Miss Dawson before the period ended. Score 2 to 0.

The Ottawas played their best hockey in this period. They tried every trick they knew, and Miss Potts was about the busiest woman on the ice. It was well on in the period before Miss Giles took a pass from Miss Anderson and scored, and Miss Moulds repeated alone a minute later.

Miss Giles shot from the side and Miss Potts stopped the shot with her pads. But Miss Anderson came in fast to bat in the rebound.

Ottawa 5, Campbellford 0.

Campbellford ladies had more of the play in the last period, but the Ottawas checked them close, and they could not get in for a close shot. Miss Turner got one for the Alerts half-way through the period, and Miss Moulds finished up a grand night's play by scoring three in a row, and bringing the total up to 9, which should be sufficient to carry them through to the final round against North Toronto.

The Line-ups.

Joint Naval Policy Within the Empire.

LONDON, March 19.—Charles P. Ammon, Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty, in announcing that the Labor Government would not proceed with the development of the Singapore naval base, outlined the Government's views regarding the position of the Dominions in the naval defense plan of the British Empire.

The lines on which the Empire proposes to proceed, said the Parliamentary Secretary, were development of the Dominions' navies under administrative and executive command of their own officers, each separate navy being the responsibility of its own government. All, however, would work in close co-operation under the guidance of a common doctrine.

In England it is estimated that government services absorb 23 per cent of the national income.

EXAMINER TEAM GAVE LAKEFIELD A GREAT BATTLE

But Lost by the Score of 5 Goals to 4, One of Lakefield's Goals Being Kicked Into the Net by L. Sabatino.

A team representing the Examiner went to Lakefield Monday, and took a crack at the Lakefield Intermediates, who turned out to be no kid glove players. The Examiner boys put up a great battle against the northerners, but were defeated by the score of 5 goals to 4; one of these being kicked into the net by L. Sabatino in the second period. The Northerners were inclined to mix it a little and before the game was over Referee Bill Collins had handed out six penalties to the Lakefield team and two to the Examiner team. One of these was a five minute one given to L. Sabatino for throwing his stick at McDougal. At first Sabatino refused to leave the ice, and a fight nearly took place but he soon cooled down and left the ice, and the game was once more started. Jack Sabatino his brother, played a good clean game, and was undoubtedly one of the outstanding players of his team. Blewitt and L. Sabatino were the 'bad men' of the night and they caused plenty of trouble.

Bill Collins had his work cut out for him when he tackled the job of watching L. Sabatino, who was either chopping somebody or going to chop somebody at every period of the game.

For the Examiner, Long in goal worked wonders and turned away a flock of shots from all directions. H. McDougall at centre also showed up well and he figured in three of the Examiner's goals. McClarty and Mickey Williams on the defence also played a good game, and they saved Long in the nets a much busier time than he had.

The score by periods was as follows:

First period: Lakefield 2; Examiner 1.

Second period: Lakefield 3; Examiner 2.

Third period; Lakefield 5; Examiner 4.

The teams lined up as follows:

Examiner: Goal, Long; defence, McClarty and Micky Williams; centre, H. McDougal; right wing, G. Williams; left wing, E. Williams; sub., J. Martchen.

Referee: Bill Collins.

You Can Eat Anything You Like And Not Have HEARTBURN

In all cases of heartburn there is a gnawing and burning pain in the stomach attended by a disturbed appetite, as when too much food is taken into the stomach it is liable to ferment and become extremely sour, vomiting occurs, and what is thrown up is generally sour and bitter. When you are in this condition you will find that Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will give you relief right away.

Mr. Joseph H. MacDonald, Christmas Island, N.S., writes:—"Two years ago I suffered all the time from heartburn. I took one vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and have never been troubled since.

It is very nice to be able to eat anything you like and not have heart burn any more."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

RUTH PLANS TO PASS UP SCIENCE FOR SWATTING

(By Joe Williams.)

NEW ORLEANS, March 19. — Several years back the Sunday editor of a Cleveland paper sent this writer out to the American League park in that city to get a feature story about Babe Ruth.

"Ask him to tell you the secret of his great hitting," prompted the genius of the editorial floor.

Ruth was then in the midst of his great batting orgy, the one which lifted him to the top of the world as the games' most remarkable home-run swatter.

I asked Ruth the question in the editor's precise words. The Babe was knocking long flies to the outfield at the time and perspiring Yankee athletes pulled the drives down against the concrete wall in deep mid-field.

"I just bust 'em," answered the Babe, with a laconic finality that would have shamed Maupassant himself.

The reader will recall that the Babe continued to bust 'em with great frequency and ferocity for a couple of seasons to come. But last year and the year before the Babe did not go in for busting exclusively. Rather he took his hits as they came regardless of size or character.

Wants His Home Runs.

Matters may be a bit different with the Babe this year; he confides privately that he prefers busting in its crude, elementary forms to the higher and more polished elements of offense, known generally as plain base-hitting.

In short, the Babe cares not who leads the league in hitting if he may gather additional glory as a home-run hitter. This is set forth conspicuously ofr two reasons: (1) because it comes from the Babe himself and (2) because much has been written in recent weeks anent the Babe's aspirations to lead the league's batters.

Ruth has a perfectly logical notion that Ban John's new policy of keeping balls slightly soiled and not too badly nicked in play will help him build up a new home-run record.

Fewer Bases on Balls?

"I think the pitchers will pitch to me oftener with the old balls than they did with the new ones," says the Babe. "The pitchers are supposed to attain greater effectiveness with discolored balls and that should encourage them to take more chances with the dangerous hitters.

"I am certainly willing to gamble with them. They walked me 170 times last year. That was just 170 chances to make base hits they took away from me, at least one or two of which, you'll concede, might have gone for homers. Let 'em cut that number in half this year and see — well, see if I don't get more than 41 anway.'

For the benefit of the stupid children in the back row it is repeated that the Babe made 41 homers last year, and was tied with Cy Williams of the Phillies for the season's honors.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY TO MEET AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, March 19. — (United Press).—Helium, as an instrument of United States superiority in aviation, progress of chemistry in this country since colonial days, development of the rubber industry, nation-wide educational reform, and agriculture and the food supply, will be stressed at the big spring meeting of the American Chemical Society, it is announced here by President Leo H. Baekeland, will be held here April 21 to 26.

Hundreds of papers dealing with chemistry, said to be now in its most fruitful era, will be read by distinguished scientists representing practically all the leading colleges, technical schools and universities, industrial enterprises and state and federal governments.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness. 40c and 75c, at all druggists.

Sarazen's No Romeo As Teacher Maiden Finds

HOLLYWOOD - BY-THE-SEA, Fla., March 19—Gene Sarazen, 1922 national open golf champion, spending the winter in Florida, is teaching his fiancee, Mary Peck of Miami, how to play golf.

Her first lesson was taken near the eighteenth green of the links here the other day, far from the crowd that would have liked to be in hearing distance. There is a touch of modesty about Gene.

Briefly here, is the first lesson:

"Here's the way to hold the club. Get the grip this way," said Sarazen to Miss Peck. "Put some 'pep' in your stroke as you bring the club back. Hold you head still. You'll break you arm some time when you bring the club up that way. Now finish the stroke and follow through. Be serious about this game. This is no tea dance."

These commands were not sweet-scented words, which a Romeo gives to his Juliet, according to the books, but commands, with the military cut to them.

"Don't be so rough," fired back Miss Peck. "Wait till I've played as much golf as you and I'll know more about it."

One might have suspected that the rough stuff in this lesson was theatrical rather than real.

Then they went to the putting green.

"Hold the club this way," said Sarazen. "Get the line to the hole. Go for the back of the cup. Hit the ball firmly. It won't run off the links."

Miss Peck sank several long putts.

"I have seen the time I would have given $100 to sink putts like that," said Sarazen.

After the lesson Sarazen said: "Now let's see you swing."

Miss Peck swung her club, with reasonably good golf form.

"For the first lesson, said Sarazen, "that's fine—I think you are a comer."

CANADIENS TOOK LEAD LAST NIGHT

Vancouver Was Working Under Several Handicaps--Score Was 3-2.

MONTREAL, March 19.—(Canadian Press).—The Canadiens took the lead in the semi-final series for the Stanley Cup and the world's professional hockey honors when they defeated the Vancouver Maroons 3 to 2, in the first game of the round, played at Mount Royal Arena last night. Six thousand five hundred hockey enthusiasts packed the ring to witness the first cup struggle played here in eight years, and while they found frequent spectacular rushes over which to enthuse, the tussle as a whole was not a particularly brilliant display, much faster and more strenuously contested battles having been witnessed here in League games the past season. The Canadiens were below their usual form, and lacked combination and finished hockey which featured their games in the play-off with the Ottawa Senators for N.H.L. title.

Vancouver was playing under several handicaps. The players had only arrived here from Winnipeg and were still somewhat lethargic after the journey. Added to this, Alfi Skinner and Bostrum were suffering from colds and were not up to their usual form, while the team as a whole was playing under Eastern rules, to which the players are unaccustomed.

W.R. WIDDISS WINS THE CHAMPIONSHIP

Defeated R. G. Sturgeon by the Score of 13 to 4

In the play-off last night for second and third place in the city curling championship, W. R. Widdess, with his son "Doug." playing lead for him, defeated R. G. Sturgeon, with the latter's son also playing lead, by the score of 13 shots to 4, and thereby won the right to be called the second best skip in the city. Both teams have been playing very good all season, but Sturgeon's rink slipped last night and had to be satisfied with third place.

BOXING AT ROYAL

Bobby Diamont and Charlie Raymonde, who will meet Bobby Eber of Hamilton and Kid Roy of Montreal for the world's championship featherweight and bantamweight titles, which are now held by Eber and Roy, clashed last night at the Royal Theatre in a six-round exhibition bout that was full of thrills.

First they went through their everyday ground exercises and then they did a little shadow boxing to get warmed up before they locked horns with each other.

Diamont led with a left to Raymonde's jaw and the fight began.

Both boys did a lot of in-fighting and showed all kinds of footwork and ability to guard.

The fight went six one-minute rounds, but when it was over both boys looked nearly as fresh as when they started.

SINGAPORE NAVAL BASE BOTHERING AUSTRALIA

INCOME TAX ISSUE

TORONTO, March 19.—(Canadian Press)—Municipal committee of the Legislature heard arguments this morning for and against bill proposed by F. C. McBrien, South West Toronto to increase municipal exemption on income tax of householders from $2,000 to $2,500 and of non householders from $1,000 to $1,250. Representatives from Niagara Falls opposed measure stating that it would give no relief where most needed. Discussion was adjourned until to-morrow.

GRAND ORANGE LODGE OF EASTERN ONTARIO MEETS IN PETERBORO

Five Hundred Delegates Gather for Sixty-Fifth Annual Convention--Mayor Turner and E.F. Reid Present Addresses of Welcome.

LADIES' LODGE TOO

The sixty-fifth annual session of the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East opened in Victoria Hall this morning at 10 o'clock, with Right Worshipful Grand Master C. A. Lount, of Cornwall, presiding, assisted by Major H. A. Graham, Deputy Grand Master and Colonel T. A. Kidd, Junior Deputy Grand Master. This is the first time since 1913 that the Grand Lodge has met in Peterborough, and in the intervening eleven years the Peterborough county lodge has grown extensively, as was indicated in addresses this afternoon. There were upwards of five hundred delegates present for the opening ceremonies this forenoon, and the gathering was described by prominent officers as an exceptionally good Grand Lodge.

Among the prominent members present are Most Worshipful Brother the Honorable W. G. McPherson, of Toronto, Grand Master of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America; Most Worshipful Brother Thomas A. Duff, of Toronto; Most Worshipful Brother Thomas H. Bell, secretary-treasurer of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America benefit fund; Most Worshipful Brother Loftus H. Reid, secretary of the joint legislative committee; and Right Worshipful Brother Rev. W. L. L. Lawrence, Deputy Grand Master of Ontario West.

Past Grand Masters of Ontario East present for the convention are Right Worshipful Brethren Duncan Munro of Cornwall; Judge McLean, of Picton; Dr. J. W. Edwards of Kingston; George Boyce of Carleton County, and W. E. Tummon, of Tweed.

Worshipful Brother S. B. Ware, of Toronto, an old Peterborough boy, is also among those present. He was for a large number of years, grand secretary of the county lodge of West Peterborough, and his father organized the first Royal Black Preceptory in Peterborough.

Addresses of Welcome.

A deputation from Vimy Ridge Loyal Orange Benevolent Association of Peterborough, waited on the Grand Orange Lodge this forenoon and presented an address of welcome which was replied to by Worshipful Brother H. C. Shipmen, D.C.M. of Ottawa.

In the afternoon His Worship Mayor Turner was a visitor, presenting the following address:

It is my privilege as Mayor of the city to extend a welcome to this Loyal Orange Convention which will convene in the city for the next few days. We are indebted to the brethren who extended the invitation to you, and also indebted to you for accepting the same, and we trust your stay in our midst will be pleasant and profitable.

No doubt many problems connected with the working of the Order will be presented and discussed, and I earnestly hope a satisfactory solution will be arrived at.

All legislation at the present time, whether municipal, Provincial, or Federal Governments, tends towards peace and the re-establishment of industry and thrift, and it is only by inculcating this principle and following to a logical conclusion by putting into everyday practice that the present industrial depression will be solved and general prosperity perch on our banners once more.

In your meditations you will no doubt think of the widows and orphans, and you are to be commended for the magnificent work which is being done to relieve distress, educate and look after the children.

Again I reiterate the warm welcome which is extended by the City of Peterborough, and we trust you will carry away pleasant recollections and we look forward to a return visit at some future time.

On behalf of the Orange Brethren of Peterboro, the following address was presented by Ernest F. Reid, County Master:

On behalf of the brethren of Peterboro City and County, we extend to you a most hearty and cordial welcome to this, the best small city in the province of Ontario.

Since 1913, when this Right Worshipful Lodge met in this city, our Order has increased by leaps and bounds, not only in membership, but financially, and we now find ourselves in a position that only by real work will we be able to maintain. It is true that during the war years we as well as other fraternal organnal organizations, found our primary lodge meetings sparsely attended, owing to a very large percentage of our membership going overseas, and just here I would like to mention one rural lodge in this county with a membership of 35, that sent 7 of its members overseas, about one-third of whom did not return. To a great extent the work of our association fell on the shoulders of a few of the most energetic members, and to them we owe our position at the present time.

And so we are meeting once more in Peterboro, the Electric City, and we can assure you that not only our own members welcome you, but our citizens welcome you, because of the principles for which we stand, and we know that our citizens are also impressed with the importance of the influence of our association in the public welfare of our country and nation and on their behalf we would ask you to accept their good wishes that your visit to our city may be pleasant, your discussions and deliberations may be profitable, and that you may all return to your homes with a renewed inspiration and zeal to uphold the cause, which means so much to Canada and the whole world.

Our Worthy Mayor, Bro. J. J. Turner, and members of the city council have addressed you and offered to you the freedom of the city, and I am sure that if any of our visiting brethren would like to avail themselves of the privilege of visiting any of our industrial establishments that His Worship the Mayor will be only too glad to arrange same for them.

May the blessing of God rest upon your labors and may He grant that these sessions may accomplish much good and give much inspiration to carry on for another year, and that the bonds of brotherhood may be greatly strengthened by our meeting together once again.

Genuinely glad are we to have you with us once more. Again we welcome you and trust that your visit to our city will have been well worth while.

Signed on behalf of the Brethren of Peterboro:

E. F. Reid, County Master; W. I. Lockie, Dist. Master No. 1 D; F. E. Pearson, Dist. Master No. 2 D; Fred T. Brown, Dist. Master No. 3 D.

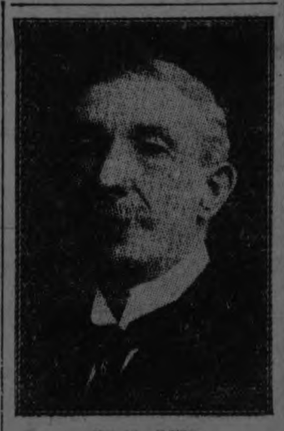
Ladies Also Meet.

At the ladies' lodge this forenoon a standing committee was appointed with the following representation: L. Clark, Cornwall; J. Manley, Peterboro; P. Fetherstone, Ottawa; M. Beaven, Ottawa, and J. Mills, of Smith's Falls.

Up to noon nearly two hundred ladies had registered and more were expected to arrive for the afternoon session.



W. C. REID

of Belleville, Ontario Grand Treasurer of Ontario East, who is attending the Grand Orange Lodge convention in Peterboro.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Will you permit me to say in reply to some good people who lament my stand on prohibition, that they do not seem to be aware that prohibition of the application of force where religion and education were formerly utilized, means the ultimate abolition of both religion and education. What is the good of pointing out to people the value of religion and education when you acknowledge yourselves that they have proved a failure and that while they may do for ornament, we have to substitute gaols for churches and schools when it comes to the test. If prohibition is a success then as the hard-headed practical taxpayer says, "away with that other stuff! What good is education? What good is religion? Even ministers say the Bible is a hoax and it's all an enormous expense, too. Let us quit both and just "prohibit" things and then we will not need churches and schools and colleges and missions, etc."

That is what is coming. I have been pleading for the old order, for reform through the man himself, as the old religion and the old system of education tried to bring about. I have not lost my faith. But if in the course of time religion and education are showing themselves to be practically useless and enormously expensive, while force is much better and cheaper—those like myself will have to give in I suppose. It will, however, be a sad day when we recognize the fact that our churches and schools were only useless ornaments and a useless expense. It will mean a great change. Perhaps it is coming. But I will continue to plead aaginst it as long as I can. Do not forget that prohibition is a new thing introduced because the old means were a failure. Failures do not last long after being found out.

A BELGIUM MEMORIAL ERECTED FOR CANUCKS

BRUSSELS, March 19.— (Canadian Press.)—In fulfilment of the request from the City of Ottawa, the City of Louvain is sending to Canada stones from the ruins of the Louvain library and other historic buildings for use in a war memorial to Canadians who fell in France and Belgium.

The Belgian memorial to Canadians in October, 1918, during the construction of a bridge for transport of British troops over the Lys river, near Courtrai, will be dedicated in May. It will be composed of large blocks of granite surmounted by the figure of a Canadian moose.

NIAGARA FALLS HAS ANOTHER DEATH CASE

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., March 19. — The police here had no sooner identified the man who leaped from the lower steel arch bridge into the lower rapids at midnight on Monday as George Snyder of this city, than they were confronted with another suicide tragedy.

A dark grey overcoat and an empty bottle that had contained poison were found on the Goat Island bridge a few yards out from the mainland last night, and the police believe that their owner leaped to his death from the Goat Island bridge into the rapids above the Falls.

EVELYN BRENT and CHARLES GERRARD in "LOVING LIES"

At the Grand Thursday, Friday and Saturday

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

"LOVING LIES."

The salt breath of the sea is in every minute of "Loving Lies," the special feature picture which was shown at the Grand last night, and will be repeated on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. "Loving Lies" is based on Peter B. Kyne's exciting story, "The Harbour Bar," and is one of the finest nautical film dramas that has been seen here. The tale of the tugboat captain who soothes the fears of his nervous wife by telling her "loving lies" whenever he is engaged in any dangerous work, and thus involves himself in a tangle of misunderstanding and distrust that threatens to ruin his domestic happiness is a logical and impressive story that has been most effectively transferred to the screen. The interest never flags for a moment. There are several big scenes that hold the audience spellbound, the most effective being the thrilling rescue by Captain Stover of his wife, who, running away from home, almost loses her eye in the wreck of a steamer. The director has developed this scene with realism and punch, and it is a masterpiece of filmcraft.

The whole action takes place on or beside the sea, giving an opportunity for a remarkable series of seascapes that make "Loving Lies" a notable one.

The featured members of the cast are Monte Blue, who is the Captain Stover of the production, and Evelyn Brent, who is the nervous Mrs. Stover. It is a part that thoroughly fits Blue. He is the tugboat captain to the life, a real seaman in look and action, and at no time is the illusion spoiled. Miss Brent gives a convincing impersonation of Mrs. Stover, and the assisting cast evidently carefully chosen as types, are never "out of the picture."

"Loving Lies" is worth a dozen of the cabaret pictures that are being inflicted on the public by some of the producers.

Two interesting scenic pictures, one dealing with winter sports, precede the feature film.

AT THE ROYAL

AMATEUR NIGHT TO-NIGHT

The weekly local talent evening is set for to-night at the Royal. New talent has been arranged for and same surprises are promised. Instead of the usual method of letting the audience judge the winners all entries will be given cash prizes as was the case at former amateur nights.

REAL CHAMPIONS AT THE ROYAL

A lot of interest has been aroused in sporting circles by the local appearance at the Royal of the two French ring champions Bobby Diamont and Chas. Raymonde. The six round exhibition of real fast boxing is attracting crowded houses. Tonight is their last appearance.

SPEAKING OF REALISM, HERE IS A FIGHT THAT IS A FIGHT

Motion picture sets of to-day are supposed to be more or less sturdy affairs, but nevertheless a chair hurled in a fierce hand-to-hand fight in the Paramount picture, "The Stranger," pierced and dented on wall of an interior set so seriously that it was necessary to replace the entire section.

The fight is betwen Richard Dix and Robert Schable as Larry Darrant and Walenn in the Joseph Henabery production, which will be shown at the Royal Theatre on Monday next. And it's all because of Betty Compson, featured with Mr. Dix Lewis Stone and Tully Marshall in the picture, whom Walenn had attacked.

It's a great story—"The Stranger"—a picturization of "The First and the Last" by John Galsworthy.

AT THE CAPITOL

JACKIE RIDES BAREBACK .....IN CIRCUS STORY.

"How do they do it?"

This expression oftimes bursts forth from the lips of movie patrons as they sit in the theatre and see somebody climb the outer ledge of a skyscraper or dive off a cliff several hundred feet high.

There are tricks in all trades and the movies are not excluded. But in the case of "Circus Days," the circus story starring little Jackie Coogan, there are some real hair-rasing stunts pulled off. And Jackie does them.

Everybody has read "Toby Tyler" from which "Circus Days" was adopted. Everybody remembers how little Toby enters the circus ring dressed up in girl's clothes and rides bareback at a terrific pace for the first time, in order to save the job of the little girl that has injured her leg.

When somebody started to rig up piano wires to balance Jackie on the great white steed he was to ride, the starlet put his foot down.

"I can ride him without wires," he cried. Jackie has been taking riding lessons for over a year and is one of the best child riders in the film world—and that is going some.

So when you visit the theatre showing this Associated First National release this week, and when you see little Jackie Coogan tearing about the ring atop a mighty white horse, don't think he is "propped" on the horse's back with invisible wires, for he is not. And don't think the kid enacted these scenes without a fall. He had several, but American youth is strong and heaps of sawdust helped to break any fall the youngster might take.

"It was great fun," laughed Jackie, as cameras ceased their clicking. "Gee, that's a fine horse. Will you buy him, daddy?" Daddy Coogan did not buy the horse and between ourselves he was glad when that particular episode was completed.

SIR GEORGE E. FOSTER ON TEMPERANCE ISSUE

TORONTO, March 19. — To an audience that filled the main auditorium and the first gallery of the Massey Hall last night, at the evening session of the conference of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, Hon. Sir George Foster and Rev. Dr. McCutcheon, of Montreal, in trenchant addresses, urged from two different angles the retention of the Ontario Temperance Act and consolidation of gains that had already been made by the temperance forces of the Province.

Despite repeated interruptions from "wets" who had entrenched themselves in the gallery, the address of Sir George Foster was a succinct, logical, convincing presentation of the temperance cause.

Ontario to-day, Sir George declared, was fighting ground in the temperance cause. If they lost Ontario, who could say how many years of temperance progress would be lost? Consolidate that position and they would put heart into the temperance forces of the whole Dominion.

CHARLES SNYDER IS STILL MYSTERY MAN

TORONTO, March 19.— Charles Snyder, whose name has been prominently mentioned in connection with certain bond trasactions, conducted by Provincial Securities Company with the Drury government, is a young man of about twenty-four years of age, it was learned from relatives in the city last night.

At the time of the organization of the Provincial Securities Company, somewhere around 1920, according to indefinite records of this company's history available, Snyder was a mere lad of twenty or twenty-one, but, notwithstanding his youth, seems to have been delegated wide powers in the company. The records in the hands of the government show he had full power to sign for the company and handle its correspondence.

STATES' SAILORS RUSH TO HONDURAS CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, March 19. — A landing force of 167 sailors and nine officers from the United States Cruiser Milwaukee at Amapala, Honduros isi being rushed from that port to Tegucigalpa, the Hunduran capital, where wild disorder prevails.

Consular advices from Tegucigalpa also said that many innocent persons were being shot down and looting was rampant.

The losses are estimated at $400,000 and have been suffered pricipally by the British, Chinese and United States merchants.

CRACK IN THE NECK OF FAMOUS ANTIQUE

CAIRO, March 19.— (United Press.)—After gazing out at a turbulent world for over 6,000 years, the famous sphynx of Gizeh has a serious crack in his neck, the Egyptian Antiquities Society reports, urging immediate appropriation of funds to repair the damage.

NATURE AT HER BEST.

Those who appreciate nature at her best and revel in a wealth of variegated scenery, will find the route travelled by the Canadian National Railways between Toronto and Vancouver, one of never-to-be-forgotten beauty.

First through the inimitable lake region of Northern Ontario, skirting many placid, mirrorlike lakes pocketed between tree-clad hills, catching a fleeting glimpse of many portentous, rock-strewn little waterways dashing madly towards the quiet level of the lakes below. From Winnipeg the fertile Prairie Provinces treat the traveller to a type of gently undulating scenery not to be seen in any other part of Canada.

The ever-changing scenery of the Canadian Rockies never grows wearisome, no matter how often it is viewed. Jasper Park, with its protected wild game and beauteous Mt. Edith Cavell; colossal Mt. Robson, gigantic, slow - moving glaciers stretching from snowclad peaks, are only a few of nature's wonders the traveller by the Canadian National Route sees before descending to the balmy climate of Vancouver and the Pacific Coast.

There are two Canadian National trains leave Toronto daily for the West. The National carrying standard sleeping car and compartment observation car departs at 10.45 p.m. Steel equipped, the National is luxurious in every detail. A standard sleeping car connecting with the Continental Limited, the train de luxe of the Canadian National System, leaves Toronto every evening at 8.45.

Travellers to California or other points on the Pacific Coast usually take the famous scenic route through Canada because of its beauty. Excellent connections are made at Vancouver with both steamship and train.

Make reservation or get further particulars from any Canadian National Ticket Agent.

TO PROTECT MILK.

Although not endorsed by a unanimous vote of the Walkerville Board of Education, recently, a resolution passed the Board, that whereas no municipal legislation now exists in Walkerville whereby the supply of milk is protected and required to be pasteurised, and whereas this condition leaves the municipality as a possible dumping ground for poor milk, and whereas the Walkerville Board of Education feels it should endeavour to protect the school children of Walkerville insofar as possible, therefore be it resolved that the Board respectfully requests the Council of Walkerville to give immediate consideration of the enacting of legislation which will protect the milk supply of Walkerville.

PARENTS START TO EXPERIMENT WITH THEIR BABY PEGGY

Most Screen Prodigies Blow Up Somewhere Along the Road to Adolescent Importance in the Profession.

BY JACK JUGMEYER

HOLLYWOOD, March 19. — Whether it is possible for parents and mentors of a precocious child at the age of five to determine the career of her maturity is the interesting experiment being made with Baby Peggy Montgomery, picture star at an age when most youngsters start kindergarten.

The Montgomerys, abetted by Sol Lesser, her producer, have definitely in mind the pinnacle of stage success for Baby Peggy.

Considering her beginning and environment, this would seem the obvious goal and one perhaps easily reached in due time, hence worth no special effort to guide the already defined tendencies.

But Doesn't Flower

The most screen prodigies blow up somewhere along the road to adolescent importance in the profession. Some fatal error of training or defect of the ego sidetracks them. They become blase, case-hardened, lose charm and zest. Something is rubbed off. The bud doesn't flower.

Many great stage and screen actresses came in childhood to the footlights, notably Bernhardt, Rejane, Duse, Maudse Adams, Mary Pickford, Lillian Gish, Nazimova, Pola Negri. And of course it is too early the in history of the screen to generalize about the fate of its present-day infants, because baby stars, cultivated and featured as such, are still hardly out of the film cradle.

Charting Baby Peggy's life for the next 15 years, her parents for the present are stressing foundation of character; letting her meet people to encourage selfconfidence; stimulating unselfishness; encouraging normal expression of budding mental and spiritual life, instead of crowding the intellect which vain parents so often abuse to parade a prodigy.

Now five, she is to begin the study of French at seven.

At 10 she is to see every great actress when on stage and screen.

At 15 she is to be sent to Italy, to live there at least two years, to study voice culture and to be steeped in an atmosphere of art.

Time Will Tell.

At 17 she is to go to Paris for a year.

At 18 she is to begin definitely her projected stage career under the then most distinguished director.

Such is the plan—about which Baby Peggy, by the way, knows very little.

Whether or not it works out, whether or not the starlet will accept the program as he horizon broadens, it is an interesting attempt to mold a sensitive and talented youngster.

The dress styles of one period are the laughing stock of the next. At least until they become desirably "quaint." Wherefore in Goldwyn's rendition of Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks," Aileen Pringle as the Slavic queen will wear modern creations instead of clothes de riguer 15 years ago when the story was written.

Claire Windsor, who has been dallying with real sheiks and their entourages in the Sahara, writes that the camels she is forced to ride "have nice kind faces, dont' drink and will carry you almost any place you want to go—but their olfactory influence is anything but inspiring." About the sheiks, deponent sayeth not.

Dorothy Farnum, signed by Warner Brothers to prepare the scenario of Sinclair Lewis' "Babbitt," soon to be pictured, has called on three personages to help her prepare the script. They are an eminent judge, a leading citizens of Toledo, O.; Miss Farnum's hair dresser, and the author himself, one of her personal friend. Willard Louis has been selected to portray "Babbit."

OBITUARY

IDA LATHANGUE.

The death occurred yesterday of Ida L. Lathangue, in her 69th year. She was well-known in the city, having lived here for the past 22 years.

There are left to mourn her loss, besides her sorrowing husband, David, two sons and two daughters: Norman Fallen of Chicago and Gordon Fallen of this city, Mrs. T. H. Tyndall of Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, and Bernice Fallen, of Cleveland, Ohio, also two sisters: Mrs. R. Fox of Westwood, and Mrs. Doucette, of this city.

The funeral will be held to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock. Private. The Rev. H. Young will officiate.

HUGH HERBERT ROBERTSON.

PATERSON, N. J., March 7. — Funeral service for Hugh Robertson, the husband of Mrs. Addie Robertson, were held yesterday afternoon, at his home, 338 Park avenue, and were in the care of the Rev. A. G. Butzer, of the Presbyterian church, of Ridgewood. Mr. Robertson passed away on Friday last, and the remains were taken to Ridgewood from whence they will be sent to Canada for interment at the convenience of the family.

Mr. Robertson was the superintendent of the Paragon Can and Cup Company and for 18 years was employed at the Continental Can Company in New York. He is survived by his widow and one sister, the latter a resident of California.

The deceased was a brother-in-law of Mrs. M. J. Carter, Lindsay, and had visited her on several occasions. He was a native of Peterboro and a nephew of Mrs. Andrew McFarlane, Homewood avenue.

The Chinese year, which begins latest in January or late in February, is similar to the Mohammedan in having 12 months of 29 and 30 days alternately.

An enjoyable St. Patrick's entertainment was held at the Queen Mary School on Monday evening, under the auspices of the Home and School Association. There was a good attendance in the big hall, prettily decorated with seasonal green and white. At the conclusion of the programme, light refreshments were served. The president, Mrs. M. T. Breckenridge, had the chair for the pleasant little programme, which included an interesting paper on St. Patrick, read by Mr. M. N. Clark, the principal of the school, vocal solos by Miss Trucie Pearson and Mr. Hugh Niven, readings by Miss Irene Breckenridge, and two Irish dances by the Hemphill sisters.

Members of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity Methodist Church, to the number of about 80, assembled in the Reid Street Hall yesterday afternoon for their regular monthly meeting, which was featured by a splendid programme given by Groups F and G, in charge of Mrs. Morley Lyle. The president of the society, Mrs. A. F. Lane, presided at the meeting. A missionary exercise, entitled "The Voices of the Women," was very effectively staged by members of the society. Mrs. Ray Brown represented "The Dreamer," a girl of the period; Mrs. R. E. Hinton was 'Conscience," Miss Mabel Brown was a Mohammedan woman, Mrs. James Wolstenholm represented "Mexico,' Mrs. George H. King "China," Miss Marion Moore "Africa," Mrs. Jack Miller "India," Mrs. Watterworth "Korea," Miss Lenore Wolstenholm "Japan," Mrs. W. R. Cowain a Hindu widow, and Miss Dorothy Moore a child widow. During the presentation, Mrs. C. Cragg played soft music. A pantomime, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," was also very pretty. Those taking part were Mrs. Watterworth, Mrs. W. R. Cowain, Mrs. Ray Brown and Miss Lenore Wolstenholm. Mrs. George H. King sang the title song. During the business session of the meeting an interesting brief talk on Christian Stewardship, or Systematic Giving, was given by Mrs. M. A. Morrison.

Mrs. H. Gillespie of Lindsay, is visiting her son, Mr. George Lee and also attending the Grand Lodge meeting.

Mrs. James McDonald, Charlotte street has returned home after a six weeks visit with relatives in Los Angeles. She was accompanied on her return by Mrs. Warde who will be in Peterborough for a time.

TO CALL ELECTIONS

PARIS, March 19. — Canadian Press. — The Cabinet has tentatively decided to call the elections for the Chamber of deputies for May 11, it was announced to-day.

HARD WINTER ABROAD.

BERLIN, March 19.—The unusually severe winter and its heavy snowfalls have, in many parts of Germany, driven wild game into the villages. It is not at all unusual to see grouse and other birds in the barnyards. Hares are common, and even deer occasionally make forays close to the houses.

POISONED BOOZE.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 19.—Virtually all alcohol seized in the many raids at warehouses and incoming shipments in the northwest in the last wo years has been found to contain poison, according to M. L. Harney, prohibition chief here.

A RECEPTION AT THE MOUNT

The usual impressive ceremonies that the Roman Catholic Church uses for its solemn occasions were observed this morning at the annual reception on St. Joseph's Day of candidates for admission into the Order of the Sisters of St. Joseph, celebrated in the chapel at the Mount. The altar was beautifully decorated and filled to overflowing with the relatives and friends of the young ladies, twelve of whom were postulants, receiving the Holy Habit this morning, while six sisters took their final vows, five pronounced their first vows and twenty renewed their vows.

The Mass was celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, assisted by Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl and Rev. F. Tierney, of Ottawa, brother of one of the novices. Other priests in the sanctuary were Rev. T. Crowley, Sault Ste. Marie; Rev. J. O'Leary, of North Bay; Rev. Father Scanlon, of Grafton; Rev. Father Gillogly, of Trout Creek; Rev. P. Kelly, of Victoria Road; Rev. Father Walsh, of Adjala; Rev. J. McCarthy, of Norwood; Rev. J. McAuley, of Ennismore, and local clergymen, including Rev. P. Costello, Rev. J. Finn, Rev. J. J. O'Brien, Rev. P. Butler, Rev. J. Collins, Rev. Father Meagher and Rev. C. Carroll. Rev. D. J. McDougall, C.S.S.R., of Toronto, who had charge of the Retreat which precedes profession, preached the sermon.

The young ladies who received the Habit of the Sisters of St. Joseph this morning were: Miss Anna Prendergast, of Sault Ste. Marie (Sister Mary Grace); Miss Kathleen Rose, of Galt (Sister Mary St. Ivan); Miss Mary Quinneville of St. Agnes de Dundee, Quebec (Sister Mary Rosary); Miss Anna Tunney, of Grafton (Sister Mary Gabriel); Miss Mary Harrington, of Downeyville (Sister Mary Ursula); Miss Eloise Prunty, of North Bay (Sister Mary Francis Teresa); Miss Elizabeth Hugli, of Sault Ste. Marie (Sister Mary Armand); Miss Irene Millaley, of Victoria Road (Sister Mary Adeltrude); Miss Irene McFadden, of Hastings (Sister Mary Audrey); Miss Monica Quinn, of North Bay (Sister Moira); Miss Mary Tierney, of Ottawa (Sister Mary St. Camillus), and Miss Kathleen Martin, of Ottawa (Sister Mary Electa).

Final Profession was made by Sister Mary St. Albert, Sister Mary Albertine, Sister Mary Agnita, Sister Marion, Sister Margaret Marie and Sister Doloretta.

At an early Mass, five Sisters pronounced their first Vows, and twenty renewed their Vows.

TO-DAY'S QUOTATIONS AND OPINION AND REVIEWS OF THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 19—(Special)—The appearance of adequate support at critical moments in the previous session of the stock market had demonstrated that the list was in strong hands and had considerably discouraged professional speculators for the decline. One prominent operator was reported to have covered 50,000 shares in the late dealings yesterday over the Florida wires when the afternoon attack was launched on the soldier bonus news and the tobacco products reports failed to make an impression on the general list.

In the early trading to-day the retail of the bear element was continued, and further recoveries were scored by the speculative leaders. In addition to the improved technical position, encouragement was derived from Coolidge's leadership in the North Dakota Presidential race, with the decline in price of wheat, was expected to afford great assistance to the Radical contingent. Stocks maintained a strong tone through the first hour, several representative issues advancing to new highs for the year in the face of further heaviness in the motor group where Studebaker and Chandler broke to new lows. General Electric continued the sensational feature of the industrial group, rising to a new high on the movement at 231, against yesterday's low of 220.

SCOURGE DRIVES SETTLERS HOME FROM SOUTH SEAS

PAPEETE, Tahiti, March 19.—(Associated Press).—One of the perils that menace the settler in the South Sea Islands is the strange disease called elephantiasis. This malady, which is prevalent on Tahiti and the neighboring islands, is an affection of the lymphatic system caused by the invasion of a microscopic worm called "filarii Sanguinis."

There is a wide difference of opinion as to how the infection enters the system. Some investigators declare that the mosquito plays host to the worm until he enters the human body with the mosquito's attack thereon; others believe that the infection comes from drinking impure water, while the natives hold that the disease is contracted from walking in certain infected districts, through the pores of the feet, in much the same manner that hookworm invades the body.

Many Europeans who have settled in the various islands have contracted the disease. Indeed, on some islands every European resident suffers from it in a more or less advanced stage.

Elephantiasis takes the form of a chronic intermittent chill and fever, with inflammation and swelling of the lymphatics. With each attack a deposit of morbid lardaceous matter is left in the tissues of the arms and legs, and in time these become permanently deformed and of prodigious size.

The only treatment is residence in a cold climate. For this reason a goodly number of whites who have settled in the islands during the past years, and who do not know how to take care of themselves in the tropics, have been compelled to abandon their homes and go to a cold country for a prolonged sojourn.

RAMBUNCTIOUS BILLY.

WICHITA, Kas., March 19. — A Wichita man who owns a billy goat bought a new auto the other day. While the wife and children were admiring it, along came Mr. Billy, who, thinking he saw another goat in the glossy side of the new car, lunged at his reflection. The car went down for the count. Billy knocked it out of the lot.

JAZZ MUSIC SENT OUT BY CONVICTS.

No One Allowed to Return a Word of Thanks For Anything They Are Presented With.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 19.—Every time the thirty musical convicts of Missouri state prison broadcast their selections from station WOS, in the capitol dome here, they get thousands of letters, telegrams, telephone calls and gifts from appreciative listeners.

Yet none is permitted to return a single word of thanks!

This is the ironic realty behind the happy, jazzy selections for which fans throughout the country tune in WOS.

Without a guard, these prisoners, serving terms of from two years to life, walk out of confinement with their instruments twice a month, to help further entertainment on men, women and children already enjoying the comforts and pleasures of home. After the concert they return behind the prison bars to serve out their terms for breaking the law.

The best of these is Harry M. Snodgrass, known to the fans who have heard him as "king of the ivories," and adjudged recently the eighth best radio entertainer in the country.

Snodgrass is serving four years for robbery in St. Louis. He fell in with bad company when barely out of his teens and made one break. It was his last, he says, for he plans on a musical career after his release.

Most of the others in the band and orchestra look forward to a similar career when they get out. But Virgil W. Coombs, the band leader, will have enough of music when he goes free in July. Back to the farm for him, he says.

Offers of jobs come in regularly from appreciative listeners. Recently the owner of a large eastern summer resort appealed for a parole for Snodgrass. But the prison authorities decided it would be unfair to pardon any of the musicians just because he was more accomplished than any of the other prisoners.

But jobs are awaiting them. One members of the band on his release recently got a job with a Kansas community band. His playing by radio had attracted attention of the leader of the Kansas band.

PROFESSIONAL SALUTATIONS.

The doctor, a keen golfer, was rather weary of being called "doctor" on every possible occasion, suitable or otherwise.

On the links the other day, two members hailed him as usual, "Good morning, Doc."

"Good morning, chartered accountant. Good morning, sanitary engineer," replied the doctor.—Weekly Telegraph (London).

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS STILL IN SESSION

Ridout Bank Account Investigated -- The Loan to Curry.

TORONTO, March 19—(Canadian Press). — The first witness called before the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature this morning was Bradley Patterson, manager of the King and Young branch of the Bank of Montreal, who furnished a copy of D. K. Ridout's account. Mr. Ridout deposited approximately $100,000 in the bank after he had sold for the Ontario Government ten million in Treasury bills in New York. Forty thousand was carried in savings account and the remainder in current.

Mr. Ridout, recalled, said that as he owed some money, he had put $60,000 in current account to meet his debts quickly. For a loan to J. W. Curry, K.C., he had drawn $5,000 cash. Mr. Curry only wanted $3,000, so he put the remaining $2,000 back in his pocket.

He went to Mr. Curry's house to give him the money, as Mr. Curry was ill at the time. There was no suggestion as to what Mr. Curry wanted the money for. It was a friendship loan.

Mr. Ridout said Mr. Curry knew he had made the money out of the sale of Government Treasury bills. Alex. Lewis said that although a member of the Legislature, he did not know. "It was common gossip among my friends," said Mr. Ridout.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT'S RETRENCHMENT POLICY SWEEPINGLY APPLIED

Estimated Cost of Civil Government Providing For Salaries at Ottawa Reduced For First Time In Twenty Years—In This Service 260 Positions Have Been Cut Off—Five Departments Out of Twenty-Nine Show Small Increases—Decrease of $18,550,000 In Loans to National Railway—Appropriation For Agriculture Is Also Lowered.

HON. J. A. ROBB PRESENTS BUDGET.

OTTAWA, March 20.—(Canadian Press).—The estimates for the financial year 1924-25, presented to parliament Wednesday by the Hon. J. A. Robb, provide a total of $400,571,850, a reduction under the total amount of the main estimates for 1923-24 of $26,939,385 and a reduction of $46,373,715 under the total of main and supplementary estimates for 1923-24.

Practically every service shows a decrease. These reductions range in amount from a few thousand to $19,335,578 in railways and canals, income.

Interest on public debt, which is provided for by statute is estimated at $134,258,371, a reduction of $3,999,992 under the previous year. Expenses connected with loans and general administration of the debt shows a decrease of $88,500.

For the first time in over twenty years, says an official summary, the estimate for civil government, which provides for salaries of employees at Ottawa, has been reduced. The sums allotted to the departments have, in nearly every instance been decreased below the amounts provided for 1923 1924.

Some of the Reductions

Civil government estimates show a total decrease of $369,750, despite the necessity to provide large sums to cover statutory salary increases. Large reductions are provided in the departments of national defence $20,126 interior; $14,244; immigration $35,050; finance $42,022; Marine and fisheries $34,940; public works $10,440; post ofifce $18,930; trade and commerce $50,840; patent and copyright $34,270 and labor $19,220. Of twenty-nine departments only five show comparatively small increases. Under civil government salaries the total number of positions provided is 5,470 as against 5,730 for 1923-24—a decrease of 260 in this service.

Cuts have been made in administration of justice $17,460; penitentiaries $31,993, and legislation $33,338.

For agriculture $5,850,500 has been provided against $7,119,500 —a reduction of $1,269,900.

Immigration and colonization is reduced by $339,190. Immigration contingenices and British Empire exhibition are cut by $221,000 and $350,000 respectively. Provision for the Empire settlement scheme is increased from $600,000 to $750,000.

Estimates for the department of health show a reduction of $52,100. The total provided for pensions is $34,122,078—a decrease of $4,398. Of the total provided, $32,990,000 is for pensions to veterans of the great war and the active militia.

Million Off Defence

National defence, which includes militia, naval service and air service, has been cut from $12,841,470 to $11,697,115—a reduction of $1,144,354. Practically every service has been reduced.

Railways and canals, income is listed at $58,118,929 as compared with $77,452,505, a cut of $19,335,576. This reduction is mainly in the items for loans to the Canadian National Railway Company which is entered at $56,000,000 as against 74,550,000—a decrease of $18,550,000; and the Canadian Government Merchant Marine Limited, which is reduced from $1,500,000 to $900,000.

A total of $12,343,223 is provided for public works, income a reduction of $1,881,354 under the estimates for 1923-24.

Mail Subsidies Less

Mail subsidies and steamship subventions is reduced by $65,309, ocean and river service by $40,370, lighthouse and coast service by $79,789, scientific institutions, which includes observatories, surveys and meteorological service, by $157,424; fisheries by $17,000; mines and geological survey by $14,000; labor by $54,700, and Indians by $60,345.

The estimates for royal Canadian Mounted Police has been cut from $2,596,999 to $1,999,872—a decrease of $597,127. The reductions are: pay of force $231,374; subsistence $333,252; compensation for injuries $1,500 and enforcement of federal statutes $25,000.

Provision for Northwest Territories and Yukon Territory has been reduced by $3,500 and $10,600 respectively.

Forestry and Parks

For the Dominion Lands Service, which comprises administration of lands in the prairie provinces, forestry, water powers, national parks, migratory birds act, advances for seed grain and relief in the western provinces, etc., $3,814,634 has been provided against $4,426,470 for the preceding year. Reduction is $611,835. The large decreases areas follows: salaries $55,000 contingencies $40,000 ;water powers $104,000; Canadian National parks $275,980; seed grain advances $110,000; relief $25,000. The estimates for advances to soldier settlers is $6,000,000, a cut of $2,400,000 under 1923-24.

Soldiers' Re-establishment

The total for Soldiers' civil re-establishment is $9,550,000 —a reduction of $3,714,996. The principal cuts are: a capital $20,000; care of patients and examination of pensioners $900,000; vocational expenses $30,000; salaries $872,000 ;pay and allowances $1,100,000; unemployment relief $300,000; operating expenses $150,000; employers liability compensation $45,000; federal appeal board $207,996.

The miscellaneous service, which comprises items of a general nature shows requirements of $8,323,320, as compared with $14,509,066—a saving of $6,185,746. The large reductions are: printing bureau $28,500; business profits and income tax $200,000; secretariat of league of nations $15,314; government contracts supervision committee $18,703 and Canadian National Safety league $15,000. The provisional bonus allowance for government employees has been cut from $5,500,000 to $3,800,000—a saving of $1,700,000. Loans to the provinces for housing, voted at $4,000,000 for the preceding year, has been dropped.

Closed Season For Partridge Longer.

TORONTO, March 20.—The Fish and Game Committee of the Legislature meeting on Wednesday afternoon decided to recommend to the Government that American game hunters coming into Ontario be required to pay $100 for a license to shoot moose; $50 for deer, and $25 for game birds.

It was decided that the closed season for fisher, marten and raccoon be lengthened two weeks, taking it to April 15. The partridge season was lengthened and will be from October 15 to November 20, instead of November 5 to November 20. The matter of a gun license was laid over until next year.

THE WEATHER.

According to the almanac, this is the last day of winter, and tomorrow will be the first day of spring. Contrary to the expectations of many and the prophecies of not a few, it has been a steady, cold winter, and a near relative of some of the old-fashioned winters that are brought to memory by the "oldest inhabitant," that well-known but elusive gentleman who has his abode in every section. During the season just passing, we have had 86 days of sleighing. The snowfall totalled 71 inches, the largest amount falling in January, or 32 inches. During the winter we have had it below zero 23 times. The lowest dip was on Jan. 27th, with 28 degrees below. The highest temperature was 47 degrees, on March 12th.—W. P.

Chinese Insulted Eject Bolshevist

LONDON, March 20 (Canadian Press Cable). — The Chinese Government has ordered the Soviet Envoy in Pekin, L. M. Karakhan, to quit China, says a despatch to the Daily Mail, from Pekin.

This action was taken, the despatch adds, because M. Karakhan's notes to the Chinese Foreign Office were insulting, one of them amounting to an ultimatum, it giving China three days to recognise the Soviet Government.

The correspondent says the situation is tense.

MEIGHEN DINES WITH LAVERGNE

Quebec Nationalist's Appearance at Conservative Function Has Political Significance In Quebec Politics.

MONTREAL, March 20, — Commenting on the coming Conservative banquet in honor of Hon. R. Monty, and Hon. A. Fauteux, to be held here Saturday, the Montreal Gazette has the following in part in its news columns:

"Of great significance in political circles here was the information today that Armand Lavergne, of Quebec, will be one of the speakers at the banquet. The importance of the fact is that Mr. Lavergne, representing Nationalism, as he has done for so many years and a leader of Nationalist forces, which with Conservatives sounded the death knell of the Laurier government in 1911, should appear at a dinner in company with prominent Conservative leaders of this province and with Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen.

"The fact that he has decided to appear with Conservatives and at a meeting specially where Mr. Meighen is to be a speaker, is taken in local political circles to indicate that the numerous, even if scattered following of the Nationalist cause in the Quebec district has decided that, as between the present Liberal Government and its Quebec leader, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, it prefers the principles of the Conservative party."

LONDON, Ont., March 20. — (Canadian Press).—It took but 12 minutes for a petit jury at the Spring Assizes to come to the conclusion yesterday that Robert Sansone was not guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Emmeline Lucas, who was run down and fatally injured by a truck driven by Sansone on the afternoon of January 31 last.

HANGED BY THE NECK.

EGANVILLE, March 20.—(Canadian Press).—Gathering eggs in her father's barn yesterday, five-year-old Mabel Hildebrand, daughter of William Hildebrand, Golden Lake, Ont., fell through a V-shaped hole in the floor and was suspended by the neck until she died.

Polygamy Hit By Upkeep of Wives

PARIS, March 20 (Canadian Press). — The Chamber of Deputies yesterday adopted a Bill fixing at 584 the number of members of the Chamber to be chosen in the coming elections for the next session of Parliament.

The present Chamber has a membership of 626.

During the discussion yesterday, M. Moutet, Socialist, pleaded for increased representation in the Chamber for Algeria. He said the Koran statutes had not isolated the natives of Algeria from the Europeans as much as was generally believed.

M. Moutet added that the high cost of living had almost suppressed polygamy among the natives of Algeria, as it had done in France.

This remark moved the Chamber to laughter.

RAILWAY LINES UNDER OBREGON CONTROL AGAIN

Traffic Resumed From Mexico City to Vera Cruz Permitting Shipments of Coffee, Sugar and Likewise Bananas — Rebel General Opens Parley For Terms.

800 Rebels Surrender.

VERA CRUZ, March 20.— The last important railway lines in the State of Vera Cruz were restored to federal control yesterday when military train traffic was resumed over the Inter-Oceanic Line from Mexico to Vera Cruz by way to Jalapa and to Vera Cruz and Santa Lucrecia over the Vera Cruz and Isthmus Line.

General Topete arrived at Santa Lucrecia Wednesday. He officially reported that the lines from Vera Cruz and Cordoba were clear of rebels. The re-opening of the Vera Cruz and Isthmus Railway provides an outlet from the rich banana and sugar districts in which many British and Italian and United States companies are operating, while the restoration of traffic on the Inter-Oceanic will assist materially in relieving freight congestion at Vera Cruz, and also permit shipments from the coffee district in the vicinity of Jalapa.

General Joe Lagunes, one of the principal lieutenants of General Sanchez, and, who, during the early stages of the revolution, commanded the rebels in the entire district south of Vera Cruz city, has opened negotiations to surrender. He is expected to arrive here shortly.

One hundred and fifty rebels have surrendered to General Murieta at San Francisco, on the Inter-Oceanic Railway. In all, more than eight hundred rebels have surrendered during the past eight days in this district.

MOST AUDACIOUS ROBE SINCE WAR

The Skirt Has a Double Split Extending Almost to the Waist Line.

PARIS, March 20—(United Press) —The most audacious robe since the war was exhibited at Patous today. The skirt was a double split, extending almost to the waist line, in approved directoire style.

Heretofore, dressmakers put a split only on one side of their daring robes, but the new fashion gives the effect of a loose front panel.

The double split in ths skirt is so sleverly cut and draped, that even when walking the cloth falls in straight, heavy folds, suggesting rather than accentuating the vents. Long colored tassels dangle over the splits.

PROCLAMATION OF REPUBLIC BY THE PERSIANS TODAY

LONDON, March 20.—(United News).— It is expected that a republic will be proclaimed in Persia to-morrow, according to despatches from Teheran. The dispatches indicate that the change in regime may be made by the Government itself. There has been an increasing growth in the strength of the Republican wing of the Mejlis, or parliament, ever since the Shah departed for Europe. Meanwhile a Paris dispatch to the Daily Express quotes the Shah who has been enjoying the Paris season, as declaring: "I do not think that I shall return to my country." There have been reports recently that Teheran was rather upset over newspaper stories of the Shah's merry life in Paris and that these stories had strengthened the Republican movement.

USE HEATED PALETTE.

MUNICH, March 20.—(Canadian Press).—Dr. Kurt Schmidt has invented an electrically heated palette and devised means of applying hot paint mixed with wax in such manner that he believes it will be possible to make frescoes as durable as those of Michael Angelo. He announced his invention at a recent meeting here of a society formed to devise means of making paint durable.

WILL DEFY BISHOP.

NEW YORK, March 20.—(Canadian Press).—The Vestry of the Episcopal of St. Mark's in the Bouwerie decided last night to defy Bishop Manning to uphold their rector, Rev. Dr. William Norman Guthrie, in the holding of eurythmic dances, so called Pagan ritual, which he has introduced into the church festivities.

When Miners Die - - -

Near the entrance to Mine No. 2, Castle Gate, Utah, these little children kept their silent vigil. But there's little chance their father will come up alive. It's almost futile to hope he's not among the 175 who were killed when an explosion wrecked the mine.

$500,000 FOR O.T.A. VOTE INTERPRETED AS SIGN OF AN EARLY REFERENDUM

Sum Included in Supplementary Estimates of Legislature to Cover Cost of Plebiscite—Half Million For Bonuses to Rural Power Transmission—The Premier Announces Plans to Stimulate Agricultural Production and Marketing.

MARTIN TO DENMARK

TORONTO, March 20.—Further supplementary estimates to a total of $1,652,285 were brought down in the Legislature Wednesday afternoon. Included is an item for $500,000 "to provide of the expenses of a plebiscite upon certain question or questions affecting the Ontario Temperance Act.

As this item was not reached in committee there was no comment on it in the House, although it has created much interest among members in the lobbies. Many of them feel that it is the intention of the government to bring on a vote this year, saying there would not have been a provision for the cost if there was no such intention.

Rural Power Lines.

Half a million is also put in to meet payments for bonuses on rural transmission lines for hydro power. Another is a grant of $25,000 to the International Mathematical Congress which mets in Toronto this summer.

Several large items appeared in the additional estimates for agriculture because the federal grant to Ontario had been cut off. These included $134,000 for agricultural representatives and $64,000 for Kemptville agricultural school.

Markets For Produce.

Hon. Manning Doherty, former Minister of Agriculutre, spoke at some length on agricultural affairs in connection with an item for $10,000 to pay expenses of a special committee to investigate economic conditions of agriculture in Ontario. He said that he had protested against the Federal government cutting its grants to provincial agriculture as he thought the economy thus achieved might better have been affected elsewhere. Mr. Doherty said that Ontario had a more comprehensive survey and more information about its agriculture than any other province. He could see little use in spending money to secure more information on the productive end but he could see where a great deal could be found out about marketing. The committee which he thought should consist only of three members should go to Great Britain and study market conditions and find how Canadian farm produce could get a better hold. In the last ten years, he said Canada had not been holding the dairy products as it should.

To Visit Denmark.

The Premier replying in the absence of the Minister of Agriculture said that in the marketing problem which he admitted was the big-

INSPECTOR E. ELLIOTT WILL ENFORCE O.T.A.

TORONTO, March 20.— (Canadian Press.) — Provincial Inspector Frank E. Elliott, of Stratford, was yesterday, by order in council passed by the Ontario Government, placed in general charge of officers directly engaged in Ontario Temperance Act enforcement. Appointment clears up the situation created when Staff Inspector A. T. Paxton tendered his resignation during the progress of an inquiry by Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., Attorney General, into O.T.A. enforcement.

SCREEN MYSTERY MAY BE REMOVED

G. R. Harris Will Appear Before the Public Accounts Committee.

TORONTO, March 20.— (Canadian Press.)—G. R. Harris, of Hamilton, will take the "screen of mystery" off Provincial Securities Corporation when he testifies before the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature, probably to-morrow morning. Friends in this city said last night that after his testimony before the committee there would be nothing left but a 'bubble.'

The Provincial Securities Corporation is the concern that Hon. W. H. Price, K.C., Provincial Treasurer in the Legislature, on March 5, said had transacted a large volume of trade with the Ontario Government in blocks of non-registered succession duty free bonds t en to fifteen points above market quotations.

This is also the corporation with which the mystery man, "Charles Snyder" was connected. Mr. Harris will tell who Mr. Snyder is and his alleged connection with bond deals with the government. If this man should be wanted, Mr. Harris will be able to put the Government in touch with him, it is stated. After hearing Mr. Harris the Government will decide about meeting Mr. Snyder.

Mohammed's Descendants Contend For Khalifate.

JERUSALEM, March 20.—(Canadian Press). — Abdel-Aziz Es-Saud, Emir of Nejd (Arabia), has issued a statement to the Arab press challenging the right of King Hussein to the Khalifate. He charges that Hussein, who claims to be the direct descendant of Mohammed, could not justify his right to the Khalifate and has no grounds for this claim, but that he himself is a real descendant of Mohammed, and as such is entitled to the honor sought by Hussein. He charges further that King Hussein has achieved his present prestige through intrigue.

If Australia could be transplanted into the Atlantic Ocean it would fill up all the space between the United States and Great Britain.

MOTHER DRAGGED BABES ON QUILT TO FRIENDS AFTER HOME DESTROYED

Husband at Religious Service In Northern Part of County — Wife Barely Managed to Escape With Three Children — Hardships of Settlers Shown In Four Recent Fires.

CONTENTS WERE LOST

By REV. C. A. G. SPENCE.

APSLEY, March 20.—Within a short time no less than four families have been burnt out in the back country.

Charles Wease at Clydesdale on Friday lost everything when his house was burned down in the middle of the day, he himself being away at the time. Mrs. Wease was at home, but was unable to salvage much of the contents.

The hardships and perils of the lonely rettlers were exemplified when a short time ago William Hilts' house was burned. Mrs. Hilts was putting her three children to bed when the roof burst into flames.

roof burst into flames. Mr. Hilts and all the adjoining settlers were away attending a religious service.

Mrs. Hills just managed to escape out of the house with her young children when the roof fell in. She had to carry the babe and drag the two little ones on a quilt on the snow where there was no road, only a footpath, to the nearest neighbor's house, a quarter of a mile away. Since the catastrophe the neighbors have put up a small house for the family and collected clothing, etc., for them.

On Monday about noon Stots Carl, an old man who lives alone in Methuen, lost his house and possessions by fire. Overheated chimney pipes seem to be the cause in every instance.

Last week an accident to the engine at Purdey's saw mill at Owenbrook resulted in the mill being closed for a few days while repairs were effected.

Lumber Camps Close.

Most of the lumber camps are through cutting for the season. All report a good winter's work, uninterrupted by bad weather or sickness. The men are now at liberty for the remaining days of winter to get in their own supplies of fire wood and ice.

Labor M.P. Protests Increase to Clynes

LONDON, March 20 (Canadian Press Cable). — The mutinous Clydeside Labour contingent profited by the fine opening afforded when a vote was introduced in th Commons increasing the salary of J. R. Clynes, Lord Privy Seal, from £2,000 to £5,000.

G. Buchanan (Labour, Glasgow) heatedly contended that the proposal was a hollow mockery. Two thousand pounds, he declared, was enough for any Minister.

The Government, added Buchanan ought to set an example, and remember the men who were trying to live on 16 shillings a week.

The vote was carried.

THIRD TRIAL FOR DELORME

Case May Be Called Again In May — Crown Prosecutor Instances New Brunswick Trial In Five Courts.

MONTREAL, March 20 (Canadian Press). — Father Adelard Delorme drove back to Bordeaux Jail yesterday after the jury had announced that they were unable to agree on a verdict.

"We have deliberated all night," declared Raoul Thibault, foreman of the jury, "and we see no possibility of an agreement."

There was no way of having a jury poll, and it is uncertain how the jurors stood. It was reported that eleven were for acquittal and one refused to be swayed.

Other reports had it that two of the jurymen held out for conviction.

When the twelve were discharged they were all showing the results of strain, and they were anything but communicative.

There will be anothr trial, according to R. L. Calder, K.C., Crown Prosecutor, who pointed out that in New Brunswick a negro named Paris was tried five times, and finally acquitted.

In Montreal there was the case of Demers wh, was tried three times before the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty."

The next term of the King's Bench Court is in May, and the Delorme case will automatically be called then. It is, however, problematical whether the trial will be proceeded with again at such an early date.

Tension On Bulgarian Border Is Lessened.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 20. — (Canadian Press).—The tension between Bulgaria and Jugo-Slavia has been lessened perceptibly, following a call by the Jugo-Slavian Minister, M. Rakitch, on the Bulgarian Foreign Minister, M. Kalloff, to report the results of his conference with his Government at Belgrade.

FLYER'S ALTITUDE RECORD.

PARIS, March 20. — (Canadian Press).—An official examination of the barographs used in the recent hydro-airplane altitude flight of the French aviator, Laporte, in which he carried a load of 250 kilograms (552.5 pounds), shows that he reached a height of 3,760 metres (about 12,335 feet). He thus beat the record made last June by Lieutenant E. B. Brix, United States Navy, who, with the same load, reached an altitude of 3,307 metres (10,850 feet).

SURE, SHE UNDERSTOOD.

Two Scots were stopping at a London hotel for the first time in their lives. One, discovering there was no soap in their room, rang for a chambermaid.

"Ye micht Bring up a wee bittie o' sape," he told her. The girl looked at him in open-mouthed bewilderment, unable to understand a word he said.

"Dom it, lassie," thundered the irritated gentleman from the north, "can ye no' understand plain Scotch?"

The maid gave a sigh of relief and departed, to return in a few minutes with a bottle and two glasses. — Sporting and Dramatic News.

ST. ANDREW'S WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY MET ON TUESDAY

The Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's held their regularly monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the Sunday school, Mrs. J. John, president, in the chair.

Miss Lancaster gave a wonderfully interesting talk on the Empire. Mrs. Shirley gave a splendid paper on the Life of Geo. L. MacKay. A much enjoyed solo was given by Mrs. Ford Turner. Miss Craw also spoke briefly on the February issue of 'The Messenger,' drawing attention to the wonderful work being carried on in foreign fields, and many other interesting features. The meeting closed in prayer.

MEN STILL LIVING.

TOKIO, March 20. — (Canadian Press).—Eighteen men were still living last evening within submarine V-3, sunk off Sasebo naval base, in collision with a warship, according to despatches from that port to Tokio newspapers. Rescuers established communication by tapping on the shell of the submarine.

Developing New Wealth in Porcupine Gold Fields

We own 100 selected mining claims in the Porcupine gold area, located in Tisdale, Whitney, Deloro, Shaw, Cody and McVittie Townships.

Our mining experts and diamond drilling outfits are constantly on the move, followed by geologists and engineers, where ore veins are uncovered.

The plan of operation is to prove the value of a claim by initial development to make it available for sale to capitalistic interests.

Subscribers to the fund out of which our operations are financed, share in all profits.

There is no personal liability.

BENEDICT FUNERAL LARGELY ATTENDED

Deceased Rounded Out a Full Century of Years--Campbellford News.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 20. — The room in the Spafford home at Bradley's Corners, in which on February 18th last, the centennial anniversary of the birthday of Mrs. Minerva Benedict, Mrs. Spafford's mother, was celebrated, yesterday contained the casket and was filled with friends assembled for the funeral service of the one who had rounded out a full century of years. At the birthday celebration the room was bright with flowers. There were floral tributes of respect yesterday, too, but these were funeral wreaths heaped on the casket.

There was a large attendance of friends and neighbors. Mrs. Spafford, the only living daughter of the deceased, was the chief mourner. Mrs. William Jordan, of Campbellford, a neice of the late Mrs. Spafford, was absent, having been called about three weeks ago to the bedside of a sister near Napanee.

Rev. Wesley Elliott, pastor of the Methodist church in Campbellford, of which the deceased was a regular attendant a few years ago, her name being still on the register of members, conducted impressive religious service at the home. In all the years of his ministry, yesterday was the first time that Mr. Elliott had ever officiated at the funeral service of a centenarian.

The Discourse.

Mr. Elliott based his discourse on the three following passages of Scripture:

Psalm 91:16: "With long life I will satisfy him."

Job 5:26: "Thou shalt come to thy grave in a full age, like as a shock of corn cometh in its season."

Psalm 71: 9: "Cast me not off in the time of old age; forsake me not when my strength faileth."

We could hardly, the speaker said, attend this service without having up permost in our minds the thought of long life and old age. We think of it from many angles. Is it desirable and enjoyable, how is it attained, and what are the advantages and disadvantages?

There is a satisfaction in long life, the satisfaction in the legitimate enjoyment of the good things that life yields. We are given richly of all things to enjoy as well as use. These good things are numerous, the heavens above, the earth beneath, the growing and ripening grain, fragrant flowers, mighty forests and running rivers. There are pictures, sculpture, the fine things in literature, music and song, friends and friendships, home and loved ones. These afford joys that abound.

There is the satisfaction of a long and useful service. Think of the 100 years of service that was rendered to the world by the one whose death has called us together. You may say that though she lived 100 years she was not able to give service that long. She was, for service, unconscious it may be but service nevertheless, begins with childhood, for a child gladdens the hearts of those around it. Service continues to the end of a good life, old-age service that renders a silent ministry of ripened Christian character.

In a long life there is the satisfaction of witnessing the developments and achievements along the course of the stretching years. Many a thrill of joy must be experienced by one who has watched the inventions and discoveries and consequent progress in the world for about a century.

There is satisfaction in observing the fulfilment of the plans, purposes and will of God. The Christian has seen God's will being done on earth and the things which Jesus predicted coming to pass.

Ripened Corn.

The second verse says that thou shalt come to thy grave in a full age like a shock of corn in its season. That means ripeness of life and character. There has been a long period of growth for this ripeness is not produced in a day. The qualities of the Christian character become richer and riper during the years and then sooner or later comes the harvest. The harvest is not a time of regret and sorrow, but of gladness. After the grain is removed the field may look barren. So does the home after our loved ones are gone. But as the garnered corn makes a fuller barn so the garnered saints make a fuller heaven and we rejoice at this.

Here in this home the ripening process is consummated and the ripened life has been taken to the heavenly garner.

Mrs. Benedict's Long Life.

The third verse of the text furnishes the closing thought—the abiding presence of God through and to the end of the long life.

"When I visited Mrs. Benedict on her hundredth birthday," continued Mr. Elliott, "I found that she was enjoying the abiding presence of God. As I prayed she prayed. I held her hand, and as I prayed she clasped it tighter as I asked for a special blessing for her. God was here that day."

Mrs. Benedict lived to be 100 years old and enjoyed the Christian life. She was a faithful members of the Methodist church and her name is still on the register at Campbellford. In the fullness of her years she has been garnered like a shock of corn to be with God in glory.

"There can be satisfaction in a long life. There can be ripeness of character at the end. There can be all through a sense of God's presence. None of us here may live to be 100 years old but we can all live at our best."

Buried at Warkworth

The funeral procession was a long one considering the condition of the roads, and the remains were interred in the cemetery at Warkworth beside those of the husband who died thirty years ago at the age of 70. Rev. Mr. Elliott conducted the services at the grave. Rev. W. F. Caffley, pastor of the circuit is ill at his home at Norham and was unable to attend the funeral.

The pall bearers were: Donald Seguire, Stanley Ellis, Bert Nelson, Thomas Dillworth, Lester Findlay and A. Rounciman.

Among the floral tributes was a beautiful wreath sent by the Jordan family of Campbellford.

McCulloch—Barnum.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Barnum, Front Street, when their second daughter, Cora M., was united in marriage to Cecil D. McCulloch, son of Archie McCulloch, of Seymour West. The bride, gowned in sand paillette silk, and carrying a bouquet of carnations and Hoosier roses, entered the drawing-room on the arm of her father, to the strains of "The Bride's Chorus," played by her sister, Miss Dorothy Barnum. There were no attendants.

After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. C. F. McIntosh, of St. Andrew's Church, a dainty luncheon was served, only the immediate relatives, numbering about 25, being present. The gifts to the bride were numerous and handsome.

Mr. and Mrs. McCulloch left on the 1.33 train amid a shower of confetti and good wishes on their honeymoon, the bride travelling in a navy blue suit of rench poriet twill with taupe hat and maribou fur to match. On their return they will make their home in Campbellford. The groom is a wireless operator on the boats on the great lakes.

Among the guests from out-of-town were Miss Gertrude McCulloch, nurse-in-training, Kingston, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Reid, of Belleville.

Face Disfigured With Large Pimples Cuticura Healed

"For some time my face was affected with pimples and skin eruptions, which by times would be very irritating. The pimples were very hard and large, and turned bluish when rubbed or picked, which caused disfigurement.

"I was treated but it did not prove satisfactory. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and decided to try them, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Earl Cooke, Box 374, Napanee, Ontario.

Cuticura Soap daily, with Cuticura Ointment occasionally, prevents pimples or other eruptions. They are a pleasure to use, as is also Cuticura Talcum for perfuming the skin.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura, Limited, 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

CHURCH ATTACKS INSURANCE LAW

Toronto Member Contends Companies Should Not Be Permitted to Confiscate Total Payments Made On Lapsed Policies.

OTTAWA, March 20 (Canadian Press). — That the whole question of insurance in Canada should be made the subject of a special investigation by a parliamentary committee and that further steps should be taken by the Government to protect interests of the policyholders, was the subject of a resolution introduced by T. L. Church, Conservative member for North Toronto, yesterday.

The resolution was supported with reservations by W. C. McQuarrie minister, and the Acting Minister of Conservative member for New West-Finance, having promised the co-operation of the Department of Insurance in any investigation undertaken, adjourned the debate for a wider discussion at some future date.

Mr. Church wants the confiscatory powers of insurance companies curtailed. He said that $288,000,000 went back to the companies in Canada during 1922 through lapsed or surrendered policies. Except for a reasonable commission for handling the policies, this money should have gone back to the people who subscribed it, and subsequently through hard times and financial reverses were unable to keep up their policies.

He quoted the Department of Insurance as favouring an investigation of insurance companies to prevent breaches of the insurance laws.

TO DEBATE IDEALS OF YOUTH.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 20.—(Associated Press).—Problems of the church regarding young people; the service which the church is rendering, and the ideal toward which young people in the church should work, are among the questions to come before the national conference of eMthodist students to be held here April 18-20. Delegates are now being elected in every Methodist college and university throughout the United States, and will come here at their own expense.

JAPAN INCREASES SHIP SUBSIDY

TOKIO, March 20.—(Associated Press).—To encourage trade with South America the government has decided to increase the subsidies granted steamship companies maintaining South American services from 650,000 yen annually, the present figure to 90,000 yen. The Osaka Shosen Kaisha and the Toyo Kisen Kaisha are the principal lines affected.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odour, smoke, or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% kerosene (coil oil).

The inventor, F. S. Johnson, 246 Craig Street W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

EQUAL JUSTICE BEFORE DIVORCE COURT PLEADED

Provincial Law Derived From Federal Parliament Operates Unfairly to Women Who Must Prove More Than Adultery — Westerner Urges Equality In Law.

MISS McPHAIL AGREES

OTTAWA, March 20.—(Canadian Press).—A resolution calling up on the House to record its opinion that legislation should be introduced "in order to place the wife on an equality with the husband as regards the grounds upon which divorce may be obtained," was debated in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon.

J. T. Shaw, (Independent, Calgary West), who moved that resolution, applied his remarks to the operation of the divorce courts in the four western provinces. In order to obtain a divorce in any of the courts of these provinces, a woman must prove something more than a man, he said A man might obtain a divorce from his wife simply by proving adultery, but a woman must convince the court that her husband was guilty of adultery and cruelty or adultery and desertion for upwards of two years without reasonable excuse.

Power from Ottawa

The western courts derived their power from Dominion legislation divorce being a matter which was under Federal jurisdiction, save as otherwise provided by the D.N.A. Act. He gave illustrations to show that it was extremely hard for the wife to prove "legal cruelty" against her husband, and also stated that the qualification of "desertion" by the words 'without reasonable excuse' gave the husband an excellent opportunity to evade this charge. The husband might indulge in every sort sort of adultery and every refinement of cruelty short of legal cruelty and yet escape the results.

Mr. Shaw said that it might be argued that the parliament of Canada granted divorces and that those who did not wish to go to the provincial courts could come to Ottawa. The expenses of coming to Ottawa was too high for many people in the west. This was indicated by the fact that there were comparatively few applications from the western provinces to Dominion parliament.

Should Introduce Bill

Hon. E. J. McMurray, Solicitor-General, while expressing sympathy with the purpose of the resolution took the ground that Mr. Shaw should have brought the matter to the attention of the House in the form of a bill. He thought the question one which should receive serious consideration as such bill would make the securing of divorce easier.

Mr. Shaw asked Mr. McMurray if, in the event of a bill being brought down, he would give an undertaking that it would be taken up this season.

To this Mr. McMurray replied that he would like to see the bill first The general attitude of members taking part in subsequent debate was that since the principle of divorce was recognized, both sexes should be on an equality.

'Unjust"—Miss McPhail

Miss Agnes McPhail (Progressive Southeast Grey) said that the present law was an injustice to women brought about by men, which she was sure men would remove. There was a tendency on the part of men to forget that they were only half of the great family.

A Liberal: 'The worse half.'

Miss MacPhail: "No, I wouldn't say that." She added that if men would take this step and amend the law governing divorce so as to place women on the same footing with themselves, there would be an increase in good feeling between the sexes.

Quebec Opposition

H. A. Foriter (Liberal, Labelle) and F. F. Casgrain (Liberal, Charlevoix-Montmorency) both opposed the resolution They favored the Quebec law under which there may be separation as to bed and board for cause, without permission to remarry. Mr. Fortier declared that Quebed had always opposed efforts to make diorce easier. He regarded divorce as an evil.

DOCTORS ISSUED A STRONG DENIAL

Charges Against Royal Dental College Looked Into.

TORONTO, March 20.—(Canadian Press).—A categorical denial of the charges made against the Royal College of Dental surgeons of Ontario by Dr. Andrew J. McDonagh, Toronto, period-ontologist, is contained in a statement issued to the members of the College over the signatures of Doctors A. D. A. Mason and W. E. Willmott, president and secretary respectively of the board of directors. The statement was made public last night.

The board commends Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health, for his announcement of the health of pyorrhea researches of Dr. Harold K. Box and characterizes as "an absolute untruth" the assertion that the College has been taken over by the Province of Ontario. In other connections the language used by Dr. McDonagh is said to be "bordering upon slanderous."

Denmark was one of the first of the European countries to start factory inspection by women.

HOLLAND CAUTIOUS ABOUT RUSSIA.

THE HAGUE, March 20.—(Associated Press).—Holland will not rush to open trade relations with or recognize the Soviet Russia, Jonkheer van Karnebeek, the Foreign Minister, said in the States General in answer to a question on the subject by a Communist deputy.

The government is giving its closest attention to the proposition and will be willing to open relations with Russia after the problems of prewar finances have been settled the minister said.

HONOR AMERICAN AIRMEN.

PARIS, March 20. — (United Press).—In honor of American airmen who fell in the service of France with the Lafayette Escadrille, a symbolical monument will soon be erected in the Bois des Fosses-Reposes, between Marnes-la-Coquette and Vaucresson. The monument will consist of a simple pyramid, on the base of which will be engraved the names of the Americans who lost their lives while serving with the squadron.

Now you'll like Bran!

Introduced a Year Ago
Now Enjoyed Daily by Millions

IT took four years of experiment and research for the most skilled scientists to produce Post's Bran Flakes with Other Parts of Wheat. But it just took one year for millions of people to find out that Post's Bran Flakes was sufficiently laxative and good to eat. Such is the wonderful reward accorded a food which has a definite function to perform in giving better health—and is abundantly capable of doing it.

Post's Bran Flakes is laxative! It has all the laxative effect of bran. It is appetizing! It has most of the food value of wheat—the thin crisp tasty toasted flakes are wonderfully flavored and delicious.

Try this food with cream or milk. Your grocer has it for you. But in order to be sure of having the genuine insist on seeing the name "Post's Bran Flakes" on each package.

THE ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

Just what useful service can be rendered by the Advisory Committee of the Legislature, appointed to assist the Minister of Highways, it is impossible at first blush at least to comprehend.

The Opposition leader, Mr. W. E. N. Sinclair, declares that the committee will be merely a political one.

Its duty is to consult with the Minister of Highways," he says, "but the main highway to be considered will be the highway to political success at the next election."

That may be an extreme view of the situation, but at all events it is difficult to see any use for the committee of three who certainly will not be in a position to give the Government as much or as reliable information about road matters as can be obtained from county engineers and road superintendents.

The Minister of Highways surely does not need any help outside of being furnished with accurate information as to conditions and requirements, and it does not seem likely that the Advisory Committee will be of much assistance along that line.

However, the scheme will go through and Ontario will have to wait for an actual test to see how it works out.

LARGER INDEMNITIES.

The report that a round robin is being circulated among members of the Ontario Legislature seeking to secure an increase in the sessional indemnities will elicit from the electorate nothing that will resemble applause.

It is stated that some of the members feel that their allowances should be jumped from $1,400 to $2,000 on the ground that members of the Ontario House were paid smaller indemnities than those of any other Provincial Legislature, except Prince Edward Island.

That may be quite true, but the people of Ontario are looking to their representatives in the House for economical measures, and for retrenchment wherever a cut is possible.

They are not likely then to look with favour upon a proposal that would mean dipping into the treasury for some $66,000 a year to increase the indemnities of the members, particularly as they feel that with a reasonable desire on the part of their representatives to speed up and facilitate the proceedings of the House the session could be very materially shortened, as indeed it is being reduced by the present Government.

In view of the demand for economy and the existing conditions, the members of the Legislature would be showing commendable wisdom in refusing to have anything to do with the agitation for larger indemnities.

Any attempt to secure more money for the members would be looked upon with extreme disfavour by the people of the Province.

THE MALE VOICE CHOIR.

The accusation is often made that Peterborough is not a musical community and that the people as a whole fail to give that support towards musical enterprises that is necessary if a healthy development is to be reached.

There are times when the charge seems to be fully sustained, for meritorious entertainments have often been very slimly patronized and visiting artists of wide fame have been amazed to be greeted by rows of empty seats.

Fortunately, however, Peterborough is not without its lovers of music or without citizens who are willing to give lavishly of their time, and in many cases of their money, too, to the encouragement of music.

The Peterborough Male Voice Choir is made up of just such citizens.

It is an undenominational organization of men banded together in mature love of singing, men who give one evening a week for many months in preparing a programme that they believe will be enjoyed by their fellow-citizens.

It is a labour of love for them, but, incidentally, their efforts help to make Peterborough a musical centre and should therefore be recognized by the community.

These things should be borne in mind in connection with the annoucement that the annual concert of the choir is to be held on March 28tth.

A capacity audience would be an eloquent testimonial of the appreciation of the music lovers of Peterborough of the activities of this organization.

WHERE ONTARIO FALLS DOWN.

The Minister of Agriculture in his interesting talk yesterday, under the auspices of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, touched upon a point that has caused many people much thought when he referred to the almost complete absence of Ontario apples from the retail fruit stores.

It was almost impossible, Hon. Mr. Martin declared, to find an Ontario apple in a store in Toronto, and Peterboro people know that the same conditions are found here.

British Columbia apples shipped 3,000 miles have crowded the Ontario product off the market, and the reason undoubtedly is, as the Minister declares, that the apple growers of this Province as a whole have so allowed their orchards to deteriorate that Ontario is not producing good apples in sufficient qualities to compete with the British Columbia fruit.

The climate and other conditions in this Province are such as to make the finest apples in the world possible, but we are not growing the finest apples—at last we are not growing nearly enough of them to hold our own market against invasion.

The Minister says that some districts have realized this fact and are working energetically to improve the quality of their apples.

It is evident, however, if Ontario is to regain her former position this campaign for better quality will have to be carried on on a large scale, and from the tone of Hon. Mr. Martin's address yesterday his administration of the Department of Agriculture will be conducted along lines leading to an improvement in farming methods generally.

MAPLE SUGAR SEASON.

News despatches record that the sugar camps are being made ready. The winter has been favorable to producing a flow of sap in that there has been prolonged frozen soil, but that alone does not insure a good season. Alternate freezing and thawing after the trees are tapped, with no days too warm, are essentials to a plentiful flow.

While the industry is a decadent one, due to the trees dying or being cut away, and the product is steadily diminishing, the demand for maple syrup increases, says the Kingston Whig. As a result the price is several times what it was a few years ago, and the amount of "pure maple syrup" consumed is many times that which is turned out by the sugar camps. Nothwithstanding that so much synthetic maple syrup, that in taste cannot be told from the genuine, is produced, it is still possible to procure the genuine article. Considerable quantities are manufactured in Ontario, but the Province of Quebec leads in its production.

The work of operating a camp is not that of a summer holiday. Tapping the trees, gathering and hauling the sap, boiling it in the evaporators and finishing it off involve real physical labor and vigilance as well. Because of the scarcity of farm help some camps have not been opened in recent years. Those experienced in the business do not tap the trees annually. Some are let rest over a year or more, since that conserves their vitality.

The only fun in maple sugar making is for those who are too young to help much and yet are permitted to idle around the sugar house and eat the wax or the sugar when a bit of syrup is boiled to that point. Making maple sugar involves much of outdoor work in a season when the weather is likely to be at its worst. Therefore the producer is not necessarily highly paid if what he demands does seem a high price.

SCHOOLS AND METHODS.

A school teacher in a town not far from London writes to the Advertiser in regard to the efficiency of teaching as it is followed in our schools, public and secondary.

The efficiency of teaching is not very often called into question, because the qualifications held by teachers are quite strict, and as a class teachers are quite competent to live up to the work expected from them.

But the system, apart from the teaching, opens up another field. The letter asks a pointed question, which is worthy of consideration, especially when it says:

"As a teacher, I am interested in criticisms I see of the schools and the matter and method of teaching.

"It would be interesting to many of us to have an opinion as to where our system is wrong, that is, if it is wrong."

It is not a difficult matter to condemn a system in general terms, but it is an entirely different matter to point out in detail where a fault may lie, and suggest a remedy.

This paper does not pose as a critic of the educational system, but as a fair answer to a fair question, we believe that our system of education is lacking in one essential, viz., that it does not develop enough initiative in the boys and girls going through the schools.

In the cities we start at a very early age to take "charge" of the boys and girls. In the summer time in the city playgrounds there are instructors to show them what games should be played, and to teach them how to play fairly. A very excellent thing in many ways, and it may have the effect of keeping children in the crowded districts off the streets and out of trouble, but the child looks to some other source for his instruction and suggestion as to what to play and how to play it.

In public school the children are taught certain definite courses. It is all put down for them, and their success depends on their ability to master the problems that have been prepared for them; this is done by following certain rules and fables. No fault with it, but it follows a beaten path, all necessary to get a required amount of education, but in few cases is it developing initiative. It may produce brilliance in mastering a subject, but it must be mastered along certain laid-down lines.

Secondary schools start in on other lines, yet the work is all prepared in advance. There are certain books prescribed for study, and a given amount is handed out each day, until the pupil graduates, because he has been able to learn these certain given things.

At the end of the period of education the result is apparent—the graduates in nearly every case will begin to look for some person who will give them employment. Apart from certain of the professions—and a very few graduate in the professions compared to the number who attend school—it will be found that few of the graduates have developed the idea of looking around or planning a definite something for themselves. It may be that, as a race, we are lacking in that peculiar sense of business initiative that is of the creative variety when applied to the problem of making a living. It may be, and probably is, the case that in a large number of lines the business opportunities are fairly well inhabited.

But it is a fact that can be borne out by investigation, that the average graduate from a school will at once seek an opportunity to sell his services to some person, rather than setting to work with the idea of creating an opening for himself. Whether it is in the power of our educational system to develop more imagination and more creative desire and vision we are not prepared to state, but it does seem that it would be worth while making the effort.—London Advertiser.

CHANNEL ISLANDS MONTE CARLO PROPOSED BY LONDON SYNDICATE

LONDON, March 20.—(Associated Press).—A London syndicate is behind a scheme to establish a sort of Monte Carlo on the Channel Islands to cater to British gamblers. The islands were selected as being the most likely place to be free from police supervision.

Channel Islanders will be asked to sanction a bill for the legalizing of gambling so that a casino may be opened at Guernsey or Jersey. The syndicate has obtained a considerable interest in the islands, including hotels and other property, with a view of exerting its influence as a taxpayer when the time comes for a decision.

gest before agriculture to-day, was involved in transportation. The government proposed to elaborate the co-operative schemes in existence and encourage new ones. The Minister of Agriculture, he announced was going to Great Britain this year and also to Denmark. The Superintendent of Education, Dr. Merchant, was also being sent to Denmark to get information on rural schools so that the Ontario system could be improved.

"We must make agriculture profitable in the first case and we must make it attractive in the second if the people are to stay on the land," said the Premier. The men on the committee he said would not be confined to farmers but business and financial men would also be put on it.

Value of Good Roads.

Hon. F. C. Biggs, former Minister of Public Works and Highways, could see a great economic advantage in good roads. "If we get our local roads in a good state one cheese factory out of every two existing now can be shut up and the overhead reduced 40 per cent," he said. "Delivery of fruit would have the same advantages."

J. A. Currie (South-east Toronto) said that Hon. Manning Doherty while Minister of Agriculture, had been long on talk and short on actions. He contended that egg grading and other things brought into force had benefitted the middleman more than they had the farmers.

Incentive Lacking.

T. A. Thompson (Con. North Lanark) said there was little incentive for farmers to produce more until they had better markets. The farmers would come through the depression however. He said that protection for industries would help the farmers who were at present paying too much for what they bought and getting too little for what they sold.

W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, said that Mr. Thompson first advocated a high tariff and in the next breath complained of the high cost of implements. He could see no consistency in such an attitude. Mr. Sinclair said there wouldn't be a big enough market in Canada for many years to absorb all the farm products. Canada should stimulate its home markets but it would have to look far afield for greater markets.

"Worth $100 to Me Relieved Eczema and Piles"

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Saltburn, Sask., writes:

"Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and piles. I also used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me,—before using it I had spent a great deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Dr. Chase's other medicines, the Nerve Food having restored my health after suffering from severe nerve trouble when a girl."

Union Services Being Held In the Village—Personal Mention.

ROSENEATH, March 20.—A union service of the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches of this village was held in the Methodist Church on Sunday evening. The services were conducted by Rev. G. McCord, Presbyterian minister, assisted by Rev. A. R. Walsh, Methodist pastor. The music was given by a joint choir of the two churches. These two churches are getting ready for church union, in the near future, by holding union services once a month.

Francis Nichol.

The death took place on Sunday afternoon last of Francis Nichol, an old and respected resident of this place, in his eighty-fourth year.

The deceased has been in failing health for the past seventeen months and about two weeks ago he received a fall on the ice, and since then failed rapidly until his death.

The deceased was born near Centreton in Haldimand Township on April 2, 1840, and fifty-three years ago moved to the place where he died. Forty-nine years ago he married Ruth Janes of Baltimore, who predeceased him forty-one years. Of this union two children were left to mourn his loss, Mrs. Wm. Coyle of Roseneath and Edward of Truax, Saskatchewan. In 1893 he married Lottie Seed of Strathroy, who lives to mourn his loss. To this marriage two children were born, Rupert, who resides on the homestead, and Heber, a devoted son of the Empire who gave his life as a sergeant in the Great War at the age of twenty-one years.

In politics he was always a staunch supporter of the Conservative Party, and in religion he was an Anglican, being a member and a faithful attendant of St. James' Church. He was a man of sterling character and will be missed by a wide circle of friends.

The funeral took place from his late residence on Tuesday to St. James' Cemetery. The service was in charge of Rev. Pippin, Anglican minister, assisted by Rev. A. R. Walsh, pastor of the Methodist Church. The funeral was conducted by the L.O.L. No. 261, of which deceased was an honorary member. The pallbearers were Bros. Herbert McCracken, James Webb, John Drope, Ernest Timlin, Wm. Arnold and Gordon Honey. Among the floral tributes was a spray from his lodge.

Personal Mention.

BONUS TO CIVIL SERVICE CUT IF NO DEPENDENTS

Continuation Not Justified In View of Efforts to Retrench, Premier Explained—Partial Reduction of Bonus to Those Who Have Dependents.

REVISING SALARIES.

OTTAWA, March 20.—(Canadian Press). — On the tabling of the estimates in the House of Commons yesterday, Premier King said that the Government, in view of the retrenchment under way, did not feel justified in continuing the bonus to members of the Civil Service who are unmarried and have no one dependent on them. On the other hand, it was represented to the Government that to withhold the bonus from members of the Service with dependents would work a hardship. It had, therefore, been decided that the bonus would be discontinued in the case of civil servants who were unmarried or had no dependents. In the case of those with dependents, employees receiving $1,200 or under, would be paid the bonus at the same rate as last year. Those in receipt of more than $1,200 and up to $1,560, would be paid two-thirds of last year's bonus. From $1,560 to $1,800 the bonus would be one-third of last year. Higher paid civil servants would receive no bonus.

Mr. King drew the attention of the House to the fact that the items in the estimates covering the bonus was for $3,800,000 or $1,700,000 less than the amount voted last year. He announced that a complete revision of the salaries of civil servants would be undertaken, and with this in view the Civil Service Commission was being asked to make a report on the whole question of salaries. Members of the Service were being given an opportunity to express their views in regard to the salaries.

DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN
brought vigor by morning

How to Keep a Child Healthy

A GENERATION ago parents thought that sickness was a part of a child's life, but we know better now. The secret is in the food the mother allows the child to eat, and in watching that elimination occurs regularly two or three times a day. Mrs. W. E. Margeson, Centreville, N. S., and Mrs. Pratt, 45 Gillson Ave., Runnymede, Toronto, always keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin in the house, ready for use, and avoid many of the ills to which children are subject.

A Substitute for Physics

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a scientific compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and suitable aromatics. The formula is on every package. You will find you do not have to force children to take it, and it is much better for them than castor oil, calomel or coal-tar drugs like phenolphthalein even if covered with sugar or chocolate. Laxative Syrup Pepsin is mild and gentle in action and your child will have an easy passage without griping or strain. It does not contain narcotics, and you can give it with absolute safety to an infant at the breast.

"Magic" in a Teaspoonful

Every store that sells medicines sells Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give half a teaspoonful to any ailing baby or child at night when yo put it to bed and you will find a happy, laughing youngster in the morning. Take Laxative Syrup Pepsin yourself when constipated, and give it to any member of the family young or old, for any ailment due to constipation, such as biliousness, headache, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, bad breath, cankers, fever sores, indigestion, and to break up fevers and colds. Stop that first sneeze or sniffle and you will have a healthy winter.

refuses to obey her father's wishes and becomes engaged to Wentworth, he disowns her. Just after this occurs Wentworth finds out from his adviser, Lawyer Holden, that he is to receive half a million dollars for an invention which he has invented in electricity. He marries the rich man's daughter, but when they return from a wedding trip abroad they learn that the millionaire has lost all of his riches and is a broken-down old man. In the end Uncle Zeph goes to New York, brings him home to his farm, and after the two brothers have had a very serious chat, Ralph decides to forgive his daughter, acknowledges his mistakes in life, and the play ends well, with everybody living exceedingly happy.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Zeph Cummings, who believes in the Golden Rule and practices what he preaches—Dawson Rutherford.

Mrs. Cummings, his devoted wife—Rose Kidd.

Ralph Cummings, a millionaire—Wesley Bradshaw.

Susie Cummings, his daughter—Kathleen Isbister.

Neil Wentworth, a young inventor—Fred. Barnard.

Bijah Tomps, the hired man—Willis Hall.

Betsie Tomps, his daughter—L. Stutt.

Mose Gossin, her stuttering lover—Willard Waterman.

Lawyer Golden, a clever lawyer—Harold Dawson.

Keziah Ketchum, a spinster who is desperate to find a husband—Charlotte Barnard.

Mr. Bingle, a jolly old fisherman—Edwin Hutchison.

Jimps, a fresh air kid—Jack Hutchison.

The Millbrook ten-piece orchestra were present and added wonderfully to the programme by their several selections between acts, and the hearty applause after each number told of the way in which the audience so thoroughly enjoyed the music.

The members of the play rendered several choruses during the entertainment, while Miss C. McConnachie acted as a gipsy fortune-teller in the second act and sang "Love Will Find a Way." A piano and violin duet was beautifully rendered by Miss Grace and Wilfred Johnston. Solos were also rendered by Messrs. Wesley Bradshaw and Harold Dawson.

The President of the club, Douglas Deyell, made a very capable chairman, and altogether the entertainment was a decided success.

BAILIEBORO NEWS

BAILIEBORO, March 20.—The members of the South Monaghan U.F.Y.P.O. Club staged a play, entitled "Down In Maine," in the Sunday School hall, Centreville, on Friday evening.

The play consisted of four big acts, taking two and a half hours to present it. The following is a short synopsis:

Zeph Cummings and his devoted wife were a jolly old country couple who lived on a hard scrabble farm in Maine. Bijah Tomps and his daughter, Betsie, were employed on the farm by the old couple, and both filled in the comedy part of the play, and Kaziah Ketchum, a neighbor, and a spinster of forty-five, desperate to catch a husband, as well as Mr. Bingle, an old fisherman with a blunt jolly disposition, Mose Gossin, a rustic of twenty-five, who is the stuttering lover of Betsie Tomps, with Jimps, a fresh air kid, who was sent out to Mr. Cummings' farm from the city to get a breath of fresh air, and he, with the rest of these characters, all play the comedy parts and added much laughter and amusement to the performance. Neil Wentworth, a young New York inventor, who is visiting at the farm, falls in love with Mr. Cummings' niece, Susie, who with her millionaire father, Mr. Ralph Cummings, are also holidaying at the country home. Of course, Ralph is greatly annoyed at his daughter showing affections for a man without money, while on the other hand, Uncle Zeph is anxious for his niece to marry the young inventor. Finally, however, Ralph quarrels with his brother, Zeph, and because his daughter

CHURCHILL LOST IN BYE-ELECTION

Conservative C a ndidate Won by a Small Majority--Recount Made.

WINSTON CHURCHILL.

LONDON, March 20. United Press.—The Right Honorable Winston Churchill, former Liberal, and holder of several Cabinet posts in the Lloyd George government, was defeated in a bye-election in the Westminster Abbey district by Nicholson, the Conservative candidate. The result was announced to-day.

Churchill had broken away from party, dissatisfied with the attitude of Asquith toward Labor, and ran as an "Independent Anti-Socialist."

Because of his extreme attitude of hostility towards the Labor government, Churchill's candidacy aroused great interest.

The election was very close. So close in fact that Churchill requested a recount, which was granted. The election figures were given were:

Nicholson, Conservative, 8186.
Churchill, Independent, 8153.
Brackway, Labor, 6165.
Duckers, Liberal, 2090.

After the recount had been made it was confirmed that Nicholson had been elected.

MULCAHY QUITS IRISH CABINET

Executive Council Disapproved Recent Military Search In Dublin For Leaders of Army Mutiny --Was Minister of Defence

DUBLIN, March 20. — Richard Mulcahy is no longer Minister of Defence of the Irish Free State. He resigned from the Cabinet yesterday of his own volition, although it had been decided by the Executive Council to advise President Cosgrave to ask for Mulcahy's resignation.

It was officially announced last night that, subject to the approval of the Dail, President Cosgrave will assume the portfolio of Minister of Defence.

Prior to this, Kevin O'Higgins, Minister of Home Affairs, made the announcement that the Executive Council disapproved of the raid made by Free State troops on a House in Parnell Square where Colonel Joseph Dolan and various other officers were holding a meeting. The troops were seeking Major General and Colonel Dalton, leaders in the army mutiny, but failed to find them.

Minister O'Higgins explained that this military action cut across an arrangement already made by agreement with Joseph McGrath, Minister of Industry, Commerce and Labor, who himself recently resigned because of "muddling" in connection with the national army trouble and later withdrew his resignation.

This action was taken by Mulcahy and members of the Army Council, said Mr. O'Higgins, without consultation either with the Executive Council or with General O'Duffy, who has been given supreme authority over every man in uniform. The Executive therefore, decided to call for the resignations of General MacMahon, Chief of Staff, General O'Sullivan, Adjutant General ,and General O. Murthille, Quartermaster General.

It was decided also to advise the president to ask for Mulcahy's resignation as Defence Minister, but the Minister personally chose to resign, and a substitute for him will be appointed to-day.

Richard Mulcahy was considered one of the strong men in the Irish Free Sttae. He is former Commander-in-Chief of the Irish National Army, and a former Chief of Staff of the Irish Republican Army. He served in the Cabinet with Arthur Griffiths and Michael Collins and was re-appointed Minister of Defence in the new Dail Eireann in 1922 and 1923. It was he who issued the order for the suspension of hostilities during peace negotiations of 1921. In dealing with republicans opposed to the Free State Government, General Mulcahy put into effect severe measures and has been an uncompromising opponent of leniency to those responsible for disorders.

"Apache" May Replace the U. S. Flapper.

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, March 20.—(United Press).—As the great French liner docked in New York the other day three curiously-garbed American girls returning from Paris lined up before the photographers.

One might have easily mistaken them for apaches, so closely did their costumes resembel the boyish apache garb.

Their shingled heads were thrust into tiny felt hats, huge plaid scarfs entwined their necks, and their scant skirts reached just below their knees.

Their whitened faces, shadowed by darkened eyelids and vivified by vermillion lips were actually startling.

Their three-quarter-length coats, cut on boyish lines, wrapped tightly about their slender figures, displaying but three inches of the hem of their frocks beneath them. Something of the by-gone flapper was reflected in their boyish attire, and one wonders whether the flapper is to be supplanted by the apache.

PLOW CHAMPION HAD DISTILLERY

Albert Pay's Old Building On Farm Near St. Catharines Produced 17 Exhibits Against Him — Fined $1,000.

ST. CATHARINES, March 20.—(Canadian Press). — Seventeen exhibits were offered in Police Court yesterday in the case against Albert Pay, a Lake Shore Road farmer, who has more than once won the Ontario ploughing championship. All the appliances for manufacturing bogus liquor were found in an old building on his farm, together with labels of various kinds of liquor and gin, several gallons of alcoholic liquor. Pay's defence was that he had no knowledge of the presence of the still or goods, that he had rented the building to two men and a woman. He did not know their names, but thought that they lived in Toronto.

The find was made by Provincial Officer Hornbeck and County Constable Fairchild. Evidence of sale to a neighbor was given and Pay was fined $1,000, the charge of fixing the false labels to bottles being withdrawn.

Ask your Dealer to Show You the Beautiful New Patterns

One of the new patterns, Congoleum Art-Rug No. 536, is shown here. It has a warm tan center, and the motifs are in harmonizing shades of blue.

As artistic in design as any woven floor-covering! This is the verdict of Canadian housewives everywhere on Gold-Seal Congoleum Art-Rugs. And now two new patterns are offered, displaying all the harmony of color and motif which has made these rugs so popular. These new patterns are sure to be welcomed, for—like all Congoleum floor-coverings—they are as practical as they are attractive.

Waterproof—Seamless

Congoleum Art-Rugs are made on a waterproof base with a firm, smooth, seamless surface. They are absolutely sanitary and very easy to clean. Dust and spilled things cannot penetrate or stain them. A light mopping is all they require to make them spotless—their cheery colors fresh and bright. Think of the time and strength spent in beating and sweeping the old-fashioned dust-collecting woven rugs and carpets! Then you will realize how much leisure you can gain by using Congoleum!

Congoleum Art-Rugs are exceedingly durable, too. Another desirable feature—they lie perfectly flat without fastening of any kind. No matter how long or severe the wear, they never curl at the edges or corners.

Attractive, sturdy, easy to clean—Gold-Seal Congoleum Art-Rugs are well adapted for use all over the house. And their prices are so moderate they will surprise you.

Funeral of Mary McGuire Took Place Tuesday--Personal Mention.

HASTINGS, March 19.—The funeral of Mary M'Guire took place on Monday morning, services being held in the Church of Our Lady, Mount Carmel.

Deceased died in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterboro, on Saturday morning, where she was taking treatment. Her husband, Mr. James Smith, predeceased her about two years ago.

The surviving relatives are two sons, Patrick and Daniel, of the Cobourg Road, one brother, Frank, in Hastings, and two sisters, Kate and Nellie. The bearers were Messrs. Frank M'Guire, J. F. Jones, J. Cleary, Thomas Collins, James Gibson, and John Coveney.

After requeim mass was held in the church, the remains were placed in the vault in the Roman Catholic cemetery.

Young People Meet.

Mr. Thomas Chaplin presided over the Young People's Society, held in the Presbyterian Church on Friday evening. After the singing of a hymn, and prayer by Miss Mary Fowlds, the scripture lesson was given by Genese Halton. Miss Helen Wood gave a reading entitled "The House by the Side of the Road." Messrs. Wm. Bird and Bruce Clapper contributed a Hawaiian guitar duet. The tapis, which was on the life of Henry Von Dyke, was taken by Mrs. (Dr.) Campbell. An interesting paper was given by Mrs. Campbell on the life and works of the great writer, also giving some of his poems and reading different passages from his writings.

Miss Lillie Dodd gave a solo, and Miss Mary Spooner gave the poem, "Where Cross the Crowded Way."

The minutes of the previous meeting was given by the secretary. The business was taken up by the president, and singing and prayer closed the meeting.

The Epworth League.

The Epworth League, on Monday evening, was in charge of Miss Emma Sharpe, and opened with singing and the repeating of the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Miss Mildred Wellman read the scripture lesson. The minutes were read and adopted. Business was discussed, the topic was taken by Mrs. Gordon Scriver, Miss Joyce Richardson played a piano solo, Miss Elsie Jolly gave a reading, Miss Madeline Bonds sang a solo, and Ada Bonds gave a reading. Hazel MacDonald gave a solo, and the meeting closed with the pastor pronouncing the benediction.

Norwood Curlers.

The Norwood curlers drove over to Hastings to play a friendly game with the locals here on Monday afternoon. Both teams playing were evenly matched, fourteen ends being played. Those players were:—

Norwood.	Hastings.
M. Grover,	T. A. Coughlan,
P. Kempt,	J. J. Masterson,
R. Whalen,	W. Wellman,
F. K. Kempt	H. T. Lambert

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Merrills, of Percy, were in Hastings on Monday.

POPE HEARS OPERA ON HIS RADIO AND PICKS UP A LONDON STATION.

ROME, March 20.—The radio receiving set at the Vatican has been installed and Pope Pious already has been "listening in." Last night the Pontiff heard the opera "Boris Godunov" played at the Costanzi Theatre in Rome, and later picked up a London station which was broadcasting. Pope Pius expressed great pleasure at the clearness with which the waves were received, notwithstanding the fact that there was some slight static interference.

The set at the Vatican is said to be powerful enough to pick up some of the stations in America, and an effort is to be made to hear KDKA (Pittsburgh). Up to the present, however, there has been no attempt made to listen in on other than Continental stations.

On His Feet Again After Thirty-Seven Years Suffering

Dreco helps Mr. Farley's weakened system despite his 59 Years and the long standing nature of his troubles.

Mr. G. Farley, of 426 Gunns Road, Toronto, had scarcely known a well day for thirty-seven years. To-day he is a different man, thanks to Dreco.

"For the past 37 years," says Mr. Farley, "I have suffered from the effects of pleurisy. This trouble has kept my system run down. I tried many remedies right along, but the best I ever received from them was temporary benefit. I always felt weak and tired out, and my rest at night never seemed to refresh me.

"Dreco has benefitted me wonderfully. My system in general is much stronger. I sleep better and feel greatly refreshed in the mornings. I no longer have that tired out feeling, and feel more energetic than for years. Dreco is the best general builder for the system I have ever heard of, and I do not hesitate to recommend it."

Dreco regulates and restores the weakened organs so that they properly digest the food, retaining all the nourishing values to up-build the body. Dreco also purifies the blood. It contains no mercury, potash, or habit-forming drugs, being a thoroughly reliable remedy of purely vegetable content.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterborough by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold as follows:

Lakefield—E. H. Northey.

Campbellford—J. E. Birks.

And by a good druggist everywhere.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Lecture in the Parish Hall--St. Andrew's Young People Had Meeting.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 19.—Under the auspices of the Senior Chapter of the I.O.D.E., A. E. Holmes, of the Canadian Institute for the Blind, lectured in Parish Hall last night on the work that is being carried on in Toronto and throughout the country to aid those who, through accident or otherwise, have lost their sight. The chair was occupied by Mayor A. J. Meyers, who, in a brief introductory address, commended the aims of the Institute, and expressed sympathy with those who are compelled to pass their days in darkness.

The lecture was illustrated, the lantern being operated by C. H. Gustar, also a member of the staff of the Institute, and specimens of the handiwork of the pupils were on exhibition on the stage. Mr. Holmes gave a brief history of the work from the time that Sir Arthur Pearson conceived the idea of systematic effort to help the unfortunate. The buildings used for that purpose in England, with views of the staff and inmates, were shown on the screen, after which the address dealt with what is being done in Toronto to make the blind self-sustaining members of society. The tuition is carried on largely in the homes of the pupils, this being necessary from the very nature of the work; but a home for blind women has been established, and it is hoped that in time it will be possible to maintain such a place for the men.

Broom making is a branch of industry in which the blind excel, and the products turned by the institute are second to none in the country. The men not only are taught mechanical trade', but typewriting and the like, and the lighter work of making baskets and other small articles. Men and women as typists are noted for their accuracy. A large number of girls are successful operators of power sewing machines. In spite of the handicap of blindness, a large number of the sightless, who would otherwise become public charges, are enabled to earn their own living. The blind do not ask for charity, but all they seek is a chance to live by their own exertions. Various views of the work were shown, the pupils being taught in their homes, at work in the shops of the institute, their library, restrooms, and the comfortable rooms in the home provided for the women.

Mr. Holmes explained that it was the aim of the institute to help all those who lacked the means to take care of themselves. Prevention is better than cure, and it is desirable to take measures to prevent the total blindness of those whose sight may be defective.

The speaker said if Mayor Meyers and Mrs. W. H. Ashton, Regent of the I.O.D.E., would report to the institute any such cases that these would be cared for absolutely free of charge, glasses included, if they lacked means themselves. Mayor Meyers said that he would gladly take advantage of this offer, and the I.O.D.E. will do as much.

Question of Finance.

The financing of the institute is a problem that becomes more serious as the work is extended. Last year the total expenditure was $235,000, and for the current twelve months it is estimated that $273,000 will be required. The grants received from the Dominion and Provincial Governments and municipal councils total $110,000 yearly. In 1923 it was necessary to raise $25,000 by private subscription.

There is no revenue derived from the sale of the products, as practical all the money received from this source goes to pay the wages of the workmen.

Sale Here Saturday.

Mrs. W. H. Ashton, Regent of the I.O.D.E., announced that a sale of home-made cooking would be held on Saturday when articles manufactured by the blind would also be offered to the public. Any money obtained from these is to be returned to the institute. The articles on exhibition last night, every one of which have a price tag, were inspected by the audience at the close of the meeting and several sales were made.

On motion of Dr. G. A. Hay, the members of the I.O.D.E. were given a vote of thanks for bringing Mr. Holmes here to deliver a lecture which contained so much information that was new to the citizens.

Home Nursing Classes.

Miss Reba Veitch, the Provincial nurse who is working here, said that an important duty was the examination of the eyes of school children, some of whom had defective vision, a fact that was unknown to the teachers and parents.

Miss Veitch asked Mrs. Ashton if the I.O.D.E. members would be in favor of having classes established here for the teaching, free of charge, of home nursing, and was promised a definite answer by Saturday, Miss Ashton being desirous of consulting with her colleagues.

The Blind At Home.

Mr. Gustar stated that at least 50 per cent of blindness could be prevented if proper attention were given to the eyes of children.

Mr. Holmes told The Examiner after the meeting that there are 34 blind persons in Northumberland County, and all but three or four of these are receiving help from the institute. There are no pupils in the town, but there is a young man whose home is a short distance from Campbellford, and who went blind as the result of an operation. This young man is making excellent progress in the work which he has selected. Pupils are given their choice of the line of work to be taken up.

Solos were given by Miss Hazel Atkinson and O. H. Gledhill, Miss Edna Connor, and Mrs. G. C. Clarke playing the accompaniments.

St. Andrew's Young People.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the young people of St. Andrew's Church, Monday night, when the devotional paper, "The Bible and the World," was given by Miss Kathleen Connor. Mrs. Shand rendered very sweetly the solo, "He Lifted Me."

The address of the evening was given by Miss Gladys Meiklejohn, the subject being "The Hound of Heaven," a sermon prepared by Rev. Hugh Thomas Kerr, of Shadyside Presbyterian Church, Pittsburg. This sermon illustrates the well-known hymn, "O Love that wilt not let me go."

PAID $50 FOR TOWNSITE

SHERIDAN, Wyo., March 20.—(Associated Press)—John D. Loucks pioneer founder of Sheridan, relates that he mought the site of this town for $50 in 1882. The claim had been held by Mandell, the original settler.

Loucks staked out the town and named it after his Civil War commander, General Phil Sheridan.

SELF-POISONING TO-DAY'S DANGER

Modern Hurry Upsets Run-Down People—Vital Organ Becomes Clogged and Poisons the System.

Hurried eating and lack of abdominal exercise clogs the system and overloads the liver. This important organ is the body's filter, and when it becomes sluggish and clogged up, the poisonous waste of the body is improperly eliminated. No longer can the liver properly secrete juices so essential to digestion and correct movement of your bowels. No longer can it properly filter and purify your blood. The result is self-poisoning.

This explains why a sluggish liver is attended by such symptoms as constipation, biliousness, sick-headaches, sourness and gas on a weak stomach, loss of appetite, pains in the back and sides, and an irritable, run-down condition—symptoms that lead to the dangerous and expensive sick-bed unless corrected in time.

Dr. H. S. Thatcher, noted medical practitioner, perfected a wholesome vegetable prescription to keep the liver healthy. It is giving quick relief and renewed strength, energy and vigour to numbers here. This prescription, known as Dr. Thatcher's Liver and Blood Syrup, is pleasant to take and contains only ingredients that are known to physicians for their corrective and health-building properties.

Try this great prescription, yourself. Notice the quick difference in the way you look, eat, sleep, and feel. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise, there will be no cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver & Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by J. P. Bond, McDermid & Jury and The Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Peterborough; The Tanner Drug Co., in Lakefield, and by leading druggists in each city and town.

Campbellford Correspondence

CAMPBELLFORD, March 19.—A very pleasant evening was spent in the lodge rooms of the Black Preceptory Lodge, No. 381, on Monday night. The members and their wives, with a few other guests, met for a social evening. Mr. J. A. Anderson was chairman, and in a short address, he welcomed the ladies, and gave a short outline of the work of the lodge. There was a good programme as follows:—Solos by Mrs. E. Bates, Mrs. C. W. Turner and Mr. Main; readings by Miss Hoover and Mr. S. A. Maguire; cornet sole by Mr. Walter Lowe, and an instrumental duet by Mr. Lowe, on the flute, and his son Aden, on the drum. The applause of the audience showed their appreciation of the different numbers.

The chairman, on behalf of the members of the lodge, thanked all those who assisted in the programme. Refreshments followed, and a merry social hour was spent at the table, after which a few "after dinner" speeches were made by some of those present. The splendid evening was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

Missionary Executive.

The Missionary Executive Committee of the Campbellford district met in the Sunday School room of the Methodist Church on Monday morning. Rev. C. W. Barrett of Stirling, Rev. Mr. Seymour of Havelock, Rev. Mr. Herrington of Cordova, Mr. Walter Martin of Stirling, and Rev. J. E. Glover of Seymour were present. Reports were given from the different circuits, and plans arranged to have special meetings in some of the circuits, so as all will be able to reach the objective for the general missionary fund.

Young People Meet.

The young people of the Methodist Church had a very interesting and helpful meeting on Monday night. Mr. T. J. Craighead, president, presided. After the business was over the following programme was given, Mr. Howard Fairman, citizenship vice-president, taking charge of this part of the evening:—Instrumental duet, by Dorothy Stilson of Peterboro and Cherrie Turner, and encore; reading—"Good old-fashioned Bread" Miss S. Keir; instrumental solo—Mary M'Gregor;. Then Rev. W. Elliott gave the topic. The subject was "Gather up the Fragments," or what we can accomplish in life if we use every bit of time and talent. This was very interesting and full of thought, and was an incentive to all who listened to make the best use of their time and opportunities.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins, of Kingston, spent the week-end as the guests of Mr. J. H. Holliday at the home of Dr. Lillian Young, Sebastapool Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Hay have moved into the house on Grand Road where Mr. Archie Hatfield and his mother have been living. Mr. Hatfield and his mother have moved into the house, on Sebastapool Street, which he purchased from Mr. Earl Williams. Mr. and Mrs. Williams are having a sale and are leaving town.

Mrs. C. Davidson and Mrs. Plummer are spending a week with Mrs. Davidson's sister, Mrs. Robert Sparrow, near Corbyville.

A Pie Social.

On Friday evening, March 14th, 1924, a pie social, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid, was given in the hall at Petherick's Corners. The hall was filled to its seating capacity, in spite of the bad conditions of roads and weather. A splendid programme was provided, consisting of the following numbers:—An opening and closing chorus, by the young people; a solo, "In the sweet long ago," by Mr. Allan Simpson; a quartette, Bothersome Bros., Miss Gladys Simpson and Elsie Forde; instrumental music, Spencer's Orchestra. A play, entitled "Arron Slick, from Pumpkin Creek," given by a number of young people. The characters are as follows:—Arron Slick (an old farmer), Everett S. Fairman; Mrs. R. Berry (a widow), Miss Ethel Forde; Wilbert Merridew (a city slicker), Allan Simpson; Gladys May (a city girl), Miss Jennie Fry; Clarence Green (a poet), Harry Barnum; Sis Riggs (a tom-boy), Miss Hazel Brown; Girl in Red (a theatre dame), Miss Verna Barnum; hotel guests in last act—Gladys Simpson, Clarence Barnum, Alfred Simpson, Cora Irwin, Roy Fry, Hazel Brown, Harold Petherick, Elsie Forde.

LONDON TO ENTERTAIN AMERICANS

LONDON, March 20.—(Associated Press).—The City of London Corporation has unanimously resolved to give a state banquet in the Guildhall to the American and Canadian lawyers who are to visit London during the summer.

The company, it is stated, will number 850, and the entertainment will be on the same lines as the famous Lord Mayor's Banquet which is held yearly on November 9.

GERMANS BUYING UP FRENCH MASTERPIECES

PARIS, (United Press).—Taking advantage of the remarkable shift in the exchanges, the Germans are not only raiding French markets for cattle and wines, but have now gone into the field of art. They are buying pictures by the best French masters, and their invasion has created more alarm than the bidding of wealthy Americans.

The German museums are rich with priceless pictures. They seem to be concentrating now on the Impressionist School, taking samples of Claude Monet, Sisley, Pissaro and Renoir. It is assumed that mose of the pictures are destined for German galleries.

FORMER EMPEROR ADOPTS HABITS OF SIMPLE CITIZENS

DOORN, Holland, March 20 (Associated Press).—William Hohenzollern, once German emperor, has taken to the habit of a stroll every Sunday afternoon, a practice that has been popular among the family men of Germany for many generations.

The former ruler usually is accompanied by his wife, Princess Hermine, and her three children, and the stroll lasts for an hour or two along the highways in the country stretching away from William's castle.

FARMER'S HENS RETURN MORE PROFIT THAN THE ENTIRE YIELD OF LAND

Hon. John S. Martin, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, Illustrated the Possibilities of Winter Production By Proper Selection, Feeding and Housing of Flock--'Average Hen Doesn't Earn Her Board.'

EXPERIMENTAL FARM

"We have got to produce, and we have got to pay more attention to quality in the things we produce. I believe that by proper attention to quality and by getting down and figuring out whether we are producing at a profit or a loss, by culling out the inferior grades from our flocks and herds, that we should be able to produce at a profit, even at present prices. Quality should be our watchword," Hon. J. S. Martin, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, at a meeting in the G.W.V.A. Hall yesterday afternoon, held under the auspices of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board. With a few women present, the gathering numbered about a hundred and twenty-five people, mainly representative of the farming community of the district and citizens interested in the various phases of agriculture. Mr. Roland Denne acted as chairman, and addresses of welcome were made by Mayor J. J. Turner and Mr. W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P.

Experimental Farm for Peterborough.

Mr. Denne explained the object of the Exhibition Board in inviting the Minister to speak here, as a furtherance of their efforts in trying to improve agricultural conditions in the district, and referred to the sacrifices made by Mr. Martin in coming to the city at such a busy time. Mr. Denne said that the Provincial Legislature was planning to wind up its session by the 8th of April, which would establish a record, if attained. Mayor Turner, in a neat speech, welcomed the visitor to Peterborough, and referred incidentally to the need of an experimental farm adjacent to the Normal School, "for the study of agriculture from the proper angles."

Mr. Bradburn also spoke of the advantages of securing such a farm in the vicinity of Peterborough, and Mr. Denne remarked that the question was an old one with the Exhibition Board.

Mr. Martin, opening his address with a congratulation to the city on its beautiful buildings, extensive manufacturing plants, and "the possibilities you possess here," said that the matter of an experimental farm near Peterborough was under consideration at the present time. He said, however, that such farms, it had been discovered, had a habit of commencing with a modest estimate of expense and gradually increasing. The farm at Guelph, he said, cost in the neighborhood of $250,000 annually some years ago, but last year, with a decreased attendance, had an expenditure of about $400,000. "One of the great problems today is increasing cost of education, and these farming institutions are also a heavy load. One of the things we must face is the necessity of reduction in expenditure, if possible, and I believe it is possible."

Practical Experience.

Mr. Martin spoke of his own experience as a farmer of many years. Owning a farm of two hundred acres, where he carries on mixed operations, he devotes most of his time and attention to poultry, "one of the very much neglected branches of farming in this Province." "It is a peculiar thing that in hard times the poultry business generally receives a great amount of attention. When times are good, people don't pay much attention to that part of their farm. But the majority of farmers today are paying more attention to poultry than they did twenty-five years ago, when the average farmer considered it beneath his notice to have anything to do with hens, and left them for the women to look after." From his own farm, Mr. Martin declared, he exports more live stock to different countries of the world than goes out from any other farm in the Dominion of Canada. "No matter how insignificant any branch of farm work may seem, if you take it up in a systematic and businesslike way, there is no telling what results you may accomplish."

One farmer of his acquaintance got a thirty-dozen crate of eggs every other day during the months of December, January and February, from a flock of about 400 hens, "getting more clear money from those eggs than from the rest of his farm during the whole year." The present low price of eggs was caused by the shipment into Toronto since the first of January of over 300 carloads of eggs from the United States, ninety per cent. of these graded as No. 2's.

Mr. Martin expressed himself as amazed at the way in which the average farm flock of poultry was kept. The average yearly yield of a laying bird in Ontario and Quebec was 70 eggs, and "these are laid during the low-priced months, when every bird, even the sparrow, is laying eggs. At such an average, the hen doesn't lay enough eggs in a year to pay for her board and she is actually being kept at a loss."

Proper Living Conditions.

To make a profit from poultry, they must be looked after properly, declared the speaker. They must have a decent house, and it must be kept clean in winter and summer alike. A balanced ration was an absolute necessity, to prevent the hen from a condition in which it was unable to provide any one of the three necessary components of yolk, white and shell. "You may be able to keep a hen living with any sort of food, but you want more than that. You want that hen to produce eggs, and if you give it the proper constituents in the proper balance, you will get the maximum quantity of eggs."

Mr. Martin said there was more in strain than in breed in poultry as in other live stock, but for proper breeding methods he advocated the use of the trap nest. To ascertain the percentage in herds of "robber cows," those who gave their owners a loss every year, many farmers would spend a year in milking a cow four times a day. The trap nest was not such a difficult problem. For examination of herds and flocks in such ways, the speaker said "we should be able to do this in our schools, by teaching the boy to get a line on the cow and the hen in the Province of Ontario. We could possibly do more through the bays than through their fathers. It would teach the boys to appreciate the advantages of proper stock, equip them for their life work and make them satisfied with their jobs." By the use of the trap nest, the undesirables in the flock who were non-layers or layers every other day, might be discovered and weeded out. To breed layers, it was necessary to do it through the male line. At the experimental colleges, it had been found that a male bird from a line of good layers bred with a poor strain, would cause the laying quality of the resulting pullets to increase by 40 to 50 eggs in a year. Mr. Martin advocated as the proper procedure, the use of hatcheries to get all the pullets hatched out at about the same time. In a flock of layers, the young pullets were the best. The best of these pullets should be kept for a second year for breeding purposes.

Tricking the Hen.

The trick played by experimenters on the "foolish hen" was described, when the use of electric lights turned on early in the morning and left on until moderately late in the evening was found to increase the laying powers of the fowl, which would hop off the roost at an early hour, if in a lighted house, and commence to scratch for food, the reason being that a fowl remaining on the darkened roost would not become active until a later hour, and would therefore not be able to assimilate enough food to exist and produce a daily egg at the same time. However, chicks from such "forced production" fowls were found to be weak.

"Is there any danger of the birds striking for the eight-hour day?" asked a man in the audience, to which the speaker good-naturedly replied that it might be possible, "if we continue."

An enquiry regarding the best balanced ration brought the advice to use oats, wheat and crushed corn as a scratch feed, the balance to be made up in meat meal in some form. A hopper placed before the birds, filled with a mixture of grains, was found to be beneficial, and Mr. Martin also recommended highly a mash for maximum egg production. "Right here in your own city you produce one of the finest feeds, the 'Full o' Pep,' on the market today."

The Fruit Situation.

That we have the maximum of production in Ontario today was all a myth, declared the speaker, who said that when Ontario's cows could produce the Denmark maximum of 8,000 pounds of milk in a year they might consider their production adequate. He spent a few minutes in referring to the fruit situation in the Province, when "you can walk from King to Bloor streets on Yonge street in Toronto and fail to find a fruit store selling Ontario's apples. They bring in apples from three thousand miles away in British Columbia, and put them on our markets and sell them right under our noses. This is a serious matter. We have got to produce clean fruit, and it is time we waked up to the situation here." An attention to quality also in all branches of farm produce was advocated by the speaker.

Mr. Martin said he spoke, not as a politician, but as a farmer, one vitally interested in the farming problems of the Province, and extended a cordial invitation to all his hearers, irrespective of party affiliations, to consult him about their problems and to make use of the literature supplied by the Department of Agriculture. He regarded the present condition of affairs, in farming and general business alike, as only a natural result of "those years of destruction, for which we must expect to pay and for which we are paying." He advised the man who purposed to embark on the purchase of pure-bred stock not to abandon his purpose, but "to go slow. Play safe." Don't run into debt. Now is the time to improve your stock, when you can buy splendid cattle for low prices. But if you intend to buy six pure-bred specimens, buy three, and if you intend to get two, change it to one.

With an optimistic forecast for a return in the near future to the favorable conditions of former years in farming as well as other industries, Mr. Martin concluded a friendly, pleasing address, delivered in sincere, common-sense style.

Problems from the Audience.

Enquiries came from several sources in answer to an invitation extended to the audience to ask the speaker any questions. Mr. W. H. Merrell aired his views, which were received with attention by the Minister, on the question of Governmental standardization of several varieties of grains, this practise, he declared, working to the disadvantage of competitors in field crop events, who were handicapped by a loss of two points when their grains were not of the standard varieties. A farmer should be allowed to use the grains suitable to his conditions, was Mr. Merrell's contention.

Mr. W. R. Shield enquired as to the cost of operating the better livestock trains. Mr. Martin said that he had made enquiries and discovered that the railway companies and the Federal Government bore a large share of the expense, the Province having to expend only between four and five thousand dollars on the trains, which he considered a reasonable outlay for the amount of advertising received in various centres, in some of which as many as a thousand people attended the exhibit. The reason for a criticism of inclusion of some of the stock, as not being of the first-class, was probably caused by the sale of the first exhibits and their replacement by other grades.

Mr. Denne informed the audience that the better livestock train would be in Peterborough on April 11th. Referring also to a remark made by the Minister that large grants were made to big fairs, such as that at Guelph, without sufficient returns to warrant their outlay, Mr. Denne said that Peterborough's grant of $800 was not too large for the work done here.

Mr. Vivian Milburn enquired about the egg pool being formed by the department, and Mr. Martin answered that one of the difficulties experienced in operating egg circles in Ontario was that, after selecting and assembling the product, it was difficult to dispose of it. The pool might help in that way. He was not quite certain how the innovation would work out.

Dr. N. H. Sutton spoke briefly at the conclusion of the meeting, extending a general invitation to the men present to attend the Social Hygiene exhibit in the Public Library, and including the Minister, Mr. Denne and Mr. Bradburn in his invitation.

DYSPEPSIA WAS SO BAD

Could Hardly Eat Anything

Mrs. C. Stone, Nanticoke, Ont., writes:—"Some time ago I had a very serious attack of dyspepsia, and was also troubled with gas on my stomach. I could hardly eat anything, and very often had pains after meals. I had used different medicine, but they didn't seem to do me any good. At last I happened to run on the track of Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using it for a short time I felt a lot better. I continued its use until I was completely relieved and now I am ready to recommend it to anyone troubled as I was."

INHERITING DEPUTIES' SEATS STIRS THE FRENCH REPUBLICANS

PARIS, March 20.—(Associated Press).—Because France has been a republic such a short time as compared with its long history as a monarchy, republicans seem to feel the need of proclaiming their republicanism frequently and loudly. At preesnt they are much concerned about the growing practive of sons or relatives inheriting seats in parliament.

The latest cases of efforts to hand down seats are those of Philippe Barres, son of the late Maurice Barres, the author, and Admiral Jaures, brother of the Socialist leader who was assassinated at the beginning of the war. Both are candidates for the chamber at the coming elections.

Young Barres, who expected to follow his father's footsteps in politics and literature, has recently published his first book, "War at Twenty," dedicated to Alan Seegar.

GATHERING HEARS DDRESSES BY ORANGE ORDER OFFICERS HERE

Open Meeting in Grand Opera House Presided Over by Ernest F. Reid of Peterboro County Lodge--Separate School Question Discussed.

CAPACITY HOUSE

All of the problems that confront orangeism in Canada to-day were discussed at a public meeting in the Grand Opera House last night, the occasion being the convention here of the Grand Orange Lodge of Eastern Ontario. The Opera House was filled to capacity, and great interest was manifested in the proceedings and speeches which were ably directed by the chairman, Ernest F. Reid, county master of Peterbrough county lodge.

Mr. Reid, chairman extended the thanks of the Grand Orange Lodge to Mayor J. J. Turner for the welcome extended on behalf of the citizens.

Charles A. Lount, G. M. Ontario East, said one of the objects of public meetings in connection with Orange conventions is to clear up some misunderstandings that exist regarding the Orange Order.

In an aside he introduced Duncan Munroe as the Grand Old Man of Canadian Orangemen. "We have an orangeman on the platform here to-night, who is the greatest orangeman Canada ever knew, Duncan Munroe of Cornwall," he said. (Applause).

On the Platform

There were on the platform, The Sovereign Grand Master of British America, Hon. W. D. McPherson, K.C.; H. C. Hocken, M. P., P.G.M. of B.A.; Hon. Dr. J. W. Edwards Deputy G. M. of B.A.; Charles A. Lount, Grand Master Ontario East; Duncan Munroe, P.G.M. of Cornwall; Rev. L. W. W. Lawrence, Deputy G.M. Ontario West, A. C. Knowles of the Orange Insurance Department; Lieut Col. T. A. Kidd Kingston, Deputy G. M. of Ontario East; J. H. Spence, P.G.M. of Peterboro, G. Secretary, Ontario East and E. F. Reid, County Master of Peterboro County Lodge, chairman.

Hon. W. D. McPherson

Hon. W. D. McPherson expressed his pleasure in addressing so large an audience on the tenets and principles of the Orange association "I trust that what I have to say will lead you to think that anything you have heard of a disparaging nature was something in the nature of a misrepresentation," he said. "Since 1830 we have pursued the even tenor of our way, aiming at all times to work for the public good."

The speaker drew attention to several outstanding achievements of the Orange Association first telling of the organization of Orangeism throughout the Dominion "We have in round figures as adherents of the Orange Associationa well nigh quarter of a million people in Canada and I may safely say several hundred thousand others who are our warm sympathizers."

Hon. Mr. McPherson lauded the possibilities for development and expansion in Canada and said that the subject of education is one that is of prime importance looking toward this much desired expansion.

The primary duty laid before us is the proper education of the young. We have in the Province of Ontario, two authorized school systems, the Public school, and the Separate school systems. Any five householders may call a meeting of Roman Catholics in their neighborhood, and form a Roman Catholic Separate schol. The law gives them the same authority as the trustees of Public schools.

In 1863 when that was given the Roman Catholic heirarchy it was with the distinct understanding that if the right was given they would regard it as final settlement of all claims and requesst hat they might have for Roman Catholic education. That was to be a finality, but I regret to say that arrangement has never been faithfully kept by the Separate school supporters or by the Roman Catholic hierachy.

There is no feeling in the heart of any Orangeman of antipathy against one who professes the Roman Catholic faith.

What we claim for ourselves we freely concede to everybody else.

Anybody who chooses to be a Roman Catholic and a supporter of Roman Catholic Separate schools has a perfect freedom to do so, as far as the Orange order is concerned.

Nowadays ,the speaker continued, oint stock companies have complicated the separation of taxes into those which support Public schools and those in support of Separate schools. He recommended the developmen of the law in this regard, and gave illustratio s of the working out of the plan in force to-day of dividing the taxes between the two classes of schools.

"It is not from any feeling of higotry or antagonism to the Roman Catholic parents or children that we have taken this stand on the school question. The public school is a non-sectarian institution, where every subject of the King may safely be educated. The educational facilities of the country should be free and open to every child, irrespective of race and creed. The objection of the Orange Association to the Roman Catholic separate school is in the Orange motto: 'Equal rights for all and special privileges for none.' We are unable to see why the Roman Catholic Church should be entitled to any special privileges. Just to the extent that Roman Catholic tenets are taught in separate schools, just to that extent is public money being used for sectarian religious education, and we object to public money being used in that way.

Separation Wedge.

Suppose the Roman Catholics range themselves up on one side and their children and ours do not mingle, we are putting in a wedge of separatism that we think is contrary to the best interests of this rising Dominion. We think it would be better for the young people to grow up on the same school floor and thus develop into the friendly race that will work together for the good of the country.

From the standpoint of language, a very large proportion of the children of Quebec are Roman Catholic and are educated in schools which have no communication with the communities in which they are situated, and the children are taught the French language.

"If this country is to be a great country it must rise under the aegis of one language—the English language."

The reason regulation 17 was passed was through no feeling of antipathy to the French but we want the law complied with and the expenditure of public money carried out according to that law, instruction being given in English.

The Tremblay case was gone over by the Grand Master, who said its decision established the fact that British law prevailed all over Canada and that any competently ordained minister is qualified to unite in marriage persons of Protestant or Roman Catholic religions. Referring to mixed marriages, the speaker said these seldom end happily, and presented a synopsis of cases brought to his attention during the past year.

The Orange Association had never even been charged with doing anything unfair to the Roman Catholic religion, but has always been on the defensive.

"We are proud to be called the front line defence of Protestantism in this country," the speaker concluded amid applause.

Criticizes Local Prelate.

H. C. Hocken, M.P., opened his address with a criticism of His Lordship Bishop O'Brien of Peterboro, in which he referred to a speech made in Brantford, and reported fully in the Brantford newspaper.

In this address, Mr. Hocken said, Bishop O'Brien declared the separate schools are on a firmer foundation than the public schools, because a vote of the majority of the people of the Province could wipe out the public schools, but the British North America Act itself would have to be changed to affect the separate schools.

"What is he kicking about then?" Mr. Hocken asked his audience.

The speaker said the Roman Catholic bishops desire to take money out of the pockets of Protestants to teach Roman Catholics. "You will find corporations in Peterboro contributing to the support of separate school which have no right to contribute." He suggested that Orangemen go to the City Clerk and ascertain from the list of corporations whether this is not so.

"These bishops tell us the Protestant minority in Quebec is treated with scrupulous fairness and generosity. As a matter nf fact, the minority in Ontario is treated much more generously than the minority in Quebec. In Verdun the Protestant schools are on the verge of closing their doors, and 3,500 Protestant children are likely to be without schooling because of lack of funds.

"In Ontario all the money contributed in taxes toward separate school support goes to that object, but in Quebec they take all the taxes collected for school purposes from incorporated companies and divide it according to the school attendance. Ninety per cent. of the taxes in Montreal are paid by the Protestant capitalists in the city, but ninety per cent. of the total tax is expended on Roman Catholic chools."

"No Protestant preacher," Mr. Hocken said, "can deliver an address in which he compares the teaching of Roman Catholicism and Protestantism without being made the target for everyone in the city.

"The beginning of the bonne entente should be east of the Ottawa River," he declared.

"But instead of that a campaign of falsehood has been carried on against the Province of Ontario and over the border into this Province."

Hon. Dr. J. W. Edwards, D.G.M., of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America, gave a stirring address.

Musical items by John Smith and Bob Hendry, Peterboro's Scotch comedians, and readings by Miss Wright, formed pleasant interludes in the programme.

LOCAL DOCTOR CHARGED WITH SELLING DRUGS

Dr. De Courcy King Arraigned in Police Court Crown Witnesses Heard This Morning.

OTHERS IMPLICATED

Dr. De Courcey King appeared in the police court this morning on the adjourned charge against him of supplying drugs in contravention of the opium and drugs act, and the entire forenoon was taken up by the prosecution.

Several witnesses were called, who swore they obtained drugs from Dr. King or had been with men who had obtained the drugs.

Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton conducted the prosecution, and Dr. King was represented by J. C. Strickland.

Joseph O'Brien appeared on behalf of Alcombeck to claim the protection of the Provincial and Dominion Evidence Acts.

The case was featured by the objections on numerous occasions entered by Mr. Strickland to evidence submitted by the Crown, which were over-ruled by the magistrate with the objections noted.

Joseph Collins, who had pleaded guilty to having drugs in his possession, was the first witness called. He said he was a laborer living in Peterboro. On Wednesay, March 5, he was at Dr. King's office at 8:15 alone. He saw Dr. King and admitted to Mr. Hatton he had gone for laudanum, for which he paid Dr. King $1. He got one ounce of laudanum, which he was taking home when caught by the police.

"What did you want the laudanum for?"

"I was using it. I was addicted to drugs."

"How did you use it?"

"Hypodermic. I had used it before. I have been addicted to the use of drugs a year and a half, and I have purchased drugs before from Dr. King. About two days before that I purchased morphine tablets from Dr. King."

The witness said that he had been going to Dr. King's off and on to purchase drugs for use by himself. He had paid about $200 for drugs purchased from Dr. King in 18 months. He was not ill,and Dr. King did not examine him on his visits.

On the last visit Collins said he just asked for an ounce of laudanum. He was not examined then or previously by Dr. King. He had obtained drugs at Dr. King's residence as well as at the office. He had purchased two ounces the last time—one ounce at noon and the ounce he had when caught by the police, purchased in the evening.

Cross-examined by Mr. Strickland the witness said he first got his drugs from a man named King, who is now in Toronto, and he associated with Ed. Alcombeck, but declared that he did not get drugs from the latter. He admitted that he was a companion with a number of drug addicts, and that the police might have been watching him. When he first went to Dr. King's he had asked for heroin tablets which were not supplied on that occasion.

"You consulted him to break yourself off the habit?"

"No sir; not to my knowledge; I wasn't trying to break myself of the habit. The doctor never gave me any instructions as to taking the drugs. He told me at one time I was taking too much."

The witness said he took morphine heroin and laudanum.

"Since you have been in custody you have been treated for the habit?"

"Yes, a little."

"Describe it."

"One grain of morphine the first day, three-quarters the second, half the third, and so on."

The witness said he was in good health when first he went to Dr. King and nothing was wrong with him except his craving for drugs. He had not obtained drugs anywhere else than from Dr. King in the last year. Previous to that he had two prescriptions from Dr. Carmichael.

"How much of the drug had you been taking?"

"A couple of tablets a day."

"How much do you take now?"

"I don't take any now."

"How much did you take two or three weeks ago?"

"Two or three."

"You went quite openly to Dr. King's office whenever you consulted him?"

"Yes."

Re-examined by Mr. Hatton the witness said when he made his statement in the police station, Dr. King was not there, but he was present shortly before then. When Collins said he received his drugs from Dr. King the latter denied the charge.

Mr. Hatton produced two bottles, one containing liquid said to be laudanum and the second empty, which were taken from Collins when he was arrested. Neither bottle had a label or mark.

Threw Away Bottle.

In re-cross-examination the witness told Mr. Strickland he threw away the bottle he got at noon when he saw the police coming. He had not used the hypodermic with it, having drank about an eighth of an ounce out of the bottle.

"Why did you go back if you had seven-eighths left?"

"I wanted some more."

"How much did you use in a day?"

"A bottle lasted me four days."

"Why did you want eight days' supply?"

"To use. Sometimes the doctor ran out of supplies."

The witness said he sometimes gave Alonzo Yorke some of the drug. He was sometimes told by Dr. King that he had no supply, but he got the drugs fairly regularly. He took a dose every 24 hours.

Constable Graham Bromley said he was on duty in front of Dr. King's house on March 5. He was posted there on special duty. He saw the last witness, Collins, going to Dr. King's and leaving and arrested him. He found one bottle of laudanum on Collins' person. He watched the prisoner to see that he could not tamper with the bottle until examined.

Bromley said Dr. King came on the verandah with Collins and waited while the man crossed Charlotte street.

Sergeant W. E. Wigg said he searched Collins on March 5 and found a couple of bottles, one full and the other with just a little in it.

The witness identified one of the bottles exhibited by scratches on the side. The bottles had no labels.

Mr. Strickland asked whether any physician had treated Collins, but Sergeant Wigg said he did not know of any. A doctor called in the station that night.

Detective William Carey told Mr. Hatton he saw Dr. King in the police station on the day after March 5. He was in the building and heard what passed between Collins and Dr. King. Dr. King told Collins he was a liar, he had not obtained laudanum in his office and if the bottle was found on him he had taken it to Dr. King's office with him.

Cross-examination by Mr. Strickland: The gist of the conversation between Collins and Dr. King was a denial by the doctor that he supplied the botrle in question.

Constable Gordon Puffer said he was detailed to special duty at Dr. King's office to watch drug addicts entering and leaving. He said the men whom he saw at Dr. King's office were men who are now awaiting sentence on charges of having drugs illegally.

Mr. Strickland: "Why weren't these addicts arrested long ago if they were known to the police?"

Chief Newhall: "That's my business."

Puffer—"I didn't have orders to arrest them."

Detective Sergeant W. Meagher corroborated the evidence of Detective Carey regarding what transpired in the police station between Dr. King and Collins.

Dr. McNair

Dr. Allan Y. McNair, director of Provincial Board of Health Laboratories, said he is not an analyst but has done a considerable amount of analytical work. He had had considerable experience in analysing drugs, extending over five years. The nature of his employment called on him to do analytical work, and he considered himself qualified to make the analysis of drugs. He had examined the contents of the bottle and found it be laudanum, which is tincture of opium. This, he explained, is an alcoholic solution of the opium drug.

Magistrate Langley —"Is it a derivative of opium."

Dr. McNair—"It is opium—an alcoholic solution of opium."

Under cross-examination Dr. Mc Nair said he had not made a quantativ, analysis and could not say as to the strength of the drug.

John Donnelly said he knew Dr. King and had been in his office one time when he was sick, ten years ago.

He had been in once since then, he admitted. He had been on the premises since when another man Hargrove went in for laudanum about a month ago. When the man came out he had laudanum. This had happened three or four times within the past three months.

Donnelly said he used the laudanum that Hargrove brought from Dr. King's office.

"Why didn't you go into Dr. King's?"

"I didn't think he would give it to me."

The witness admitted that others besides Hargrove obtained drugs for him from Dr. King. He had seen Collins going into Dr. King's office.

Mr. Strickland asked if Donnelly obtained drugs anywhere else and he said not.

"Did you search Hargrove to know he had no drug before he went in?"

"No, but he hadn't any, he was good and sick and needed something.

Quinton Hargrove said he had been in Dr. King's residence. He had been there for laudanum.

"I certainly did."

The witness said the last time was a month ago. Donnelly had been with him to Dr. King's when Hargrove went in to get laudanum.

"Why?"

"Well to watch for the police and help us make a good getaway if we were seen."

Hargrove said Donnelly paid for the drugs, about $3 a week.

Dr. King was not treating him medicinally, Hargrove said.

"Naturally when I got the laudanum I took a shot of it."

"What passed with Dr. King."

He knew you and what you were after and you asked for what you wanted. You give him an empty bottle and he would give you a full one right straight and you paid $1. Half an ounce was 50 cents."

Under cross examination Hargrove said he first consulted Dr. King about two years ago.

"What did you consult him for?"

"For heroin tablets."

Hargrove said he had not associated with dope rings. He had never been an addict. "An addict can't get out of bed in the morning without a shot." He had taken heroin tablets, which he got from Dr. King. He started taken heroin when he was given it by friends who got it from Dr. King.

When he went to Dr. King first he mentioned a name which the doctor said was alright and asked how many tablets he wanted. "I asked how much he charged. He said 20 cents each and I got 15 tablets that time."

"Did you hear Donnelly say that you were a sick man and needed dope to straighten you out?"

"I didn't hear him. I was never sick in my life. I never took enough to make myself sick."

"You were just trafficking."

"No, I wasn't."

"Why didn't you tell the police about Donnelly?"

"That's not my business. I'm not a stool pigeon. The police are paid for doing their work."

Mr. Strickland denounced the acts of the witness in supplying drugs to this man Donnelly, especially if his statement was correct that he himself was not an addict. "I realize, of course, that you are working tooth and nail for yourself," he said. "You are on remand on a charge of having drugs and will be sentenced today or to-morrow. I don't blame you at all."

The witness said he never supplied any other person with drugs.

The next witness was John Killenbeck.

Mr. Strickland: "I object to the evidence of this man who is now awaiting transportation to the jail farm."

Magistrate Langley allowed the evidence to be entered.

Killenbeck said he was in the police station on March 6 and saw Dr. King.

"Dr. King admitted selling drugs at one time," Killenbeck said, "but claimed he had not sold me any drugs for a couple of years."

The witness said on July 1 he was there for drugs, and had not gone back since on account of a disagreement. He saw Dr. King and was not examined.

"Your friends would like to know where you spent the last ten year."

"Overseas and doing a little time. Is that what you want to know?"

"Yes. You have been in Kingston penitentiary, and jail. You have been run out of town by the police several times."

"Not to my knowledge."

"Well they are always glad when you are out of town."

"I havent' heard them say so."

The witness admitted his record was "a little dark."

Alcombeck Supplied.

Ed. Alcombeck said he had been to Dr. King's office for laudanum and got it. The last time was three months ago. He got it for Mr. Donnelly who said he needed it.

Magistrate Langley called attention to the fact that by request of Mr. O'Brien this witness is claiming the protection of the Evidence Acts.

Mr. Strickland: "It is possible if the police cleaned up this man they would get to the root of the drug evil in Peterboro."

Donnelly is the only addict he knows in Peterboro, Alcombeck said. He had bought drugs for himself from Dr. King, he said, quite a time ago. He had seen Killenbeck, Jos. Collins, Hargrove and Kenneth Downey going into Dr. King's on several occasions.

Cross-examined by Mr. Strickland, Alcombeck said he had nothing to do with Edward King in regard to the drug traffic, but admitted that 5 years ago he was called here by the police in connection with Joseph O'Brien.

"You have been supplying drugs to people in Peterboro?"

"I have not!"

"The police had in the back of their minds that you had supplied O'Brien?"

"I never heard them say so."

"No; well, I have."

"And you never supplied drugs?"

"No."

"My, but you are an accompliahed liar!"

"We both probably are."

"How are you acquainted with so many of these drug addicts?"

"I knew them before they started taking drugs."

Chief Newhall

Chief Newhall identified the bottles exhibited as those taken from Collins' pocket after his arrest.

Cross-examination.—"You have been chief for several years and it is your duty to investigate rumours of crimes."

"Yes."

"You have investigated Alcombeck?"

"Yes. To get information from him regarding others."

"He might be known as a stool pigeon?"

"He's the poorest stool pigeon I know."

"You have been suspicious of him?"

"He is one who keeps outside the line."

"You have had Killenbeck here often?"

"Yes?"

"And it's a relief when Killenbeck is away?"

"No. He is more injury to himself than to anyone else."

"Did Dr. King ever report that his office had ben broken into?"

"Yes. On several occasions."

"Inasmuch a you knew these people were going to Dr. King's office why didn't you arrest them earlier?"

"It was hard to catch these people in view of Dr. King's reports, but our detectives reported there was nothing in his stories. The premises were examined and showed no signs of breaking."

FEDERAL JUDGE FORSEES DANGER IN TOO MANY LAWS

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—(Associated Press).—Gradual curtailment of the rights of individuals by a multiplicity of criminal laws is a danger sign to which it would be well for thoughtful citizens to give consideration, it was stated here by Federal Judge J. C. Pollock, of Kansas City, Kan., a former justice of the supreme court of Kansas.

The downfall of every democracy and republic in history has been due to legislative invasion of individual rights, he declared.

To show how rapidly the tendency toward excessive legislation was developing, he pointed out that over 75 per cent of the criminal laws on the federal statute books today have been enacted within the last 25 years.

"I have the highest regard for the constitution," he said, "and I believe the men who framed that document possessed greater knowledge of the science of government than any of their successors.

"Of late years, however, many reformers have come forward with suggestions of constitutional improvement. Probably these persons mean well enough, but they fail to comprehend the fundamental principle on which our government is based—individual liberty.

"A revolution isn't impossible in this country. We can have one as easily as they did in Russia."

When Your Health is Gone

WHEN YOU BECOME WEAK, tired, and dispirited — sleep, appetite, and digestion gradually getting worse, pains in back, etc., your system is in a run-down condition, which means that the vital elements required by the blood are lacking, and unless the proper remedy is applied the inevitable result is disease, with its distressing influences and disastrous effects.

When health is gone, instead of turning in despair to numerous drugs and poisonous stimulants, in the hope of obtaining immediate relief, it is well to heed the warning of one of the most eminent Medical Doctors in London, England, who said: "The tendency to use drugs for their stimulative or soothing effects should be avoided at all costs. All that drugs can achieve is temporary relief, not permanent."

Lang's Mineral Wonder is Nature's own provision for the health of the human body when the vital processes are at lowest ebb. This drug-free product contains in perfect organic combination, Iron, Sulphur, Phosphates, and other vital cell-salts with which the system must be supplied regularly to maintain health and strength. It creates new, red, rich blood, which supplies fresh building material to the fatigued cells, improves the appetite, and aids the digestive organs, producing health and vigour, and the whole body is built up new.

No printed advertisement can begin to describe what this remarkable protuct of Nature means to those who suffer from run-down constitution, Rheumatism, Stomach Complaints, Liver, Kidney, or Bladder Trouble, Piles, Female Internal Disorders, Eczema, Blood or Skin Diseases of all kinds. If your druggist hasn't got it, send $1.50 for a regular treatment.

PETERBORO IMPRESSED HON. J. S. MARTIN, GUEST OF EXHIBITION BOARD

Citizens and Farmers Merged Political Opinions In Non-Partisan Welcome to Minister of Agriculture On First Visit to This City — Says the Farmers Should Specialize In Quality Products.

PRAISED FAIR BOARD.

The visit to Peterborough of the Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture in the Ontario Legislature, culminated last evening at the Empress Hotel in a banquet under the auspices of the president and directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board.

Mr. Martin said he was impressed by this his first visit to Peterborough, and he referred to the diversified industries and wonderful possibilities of the city.

He concluded a very able address of particular interest to farmers by assuring the gathering that he would return to Peterbrough in the fall during the progress of the Peterborough Exhibition.

Taking opportunity by the forelock, President Denne invited the Minister to open the fall fair on 18th September.

It was a happy gathering, representative of all classes from both city and country, and Mr. Martin's address to the farmers was one of hope and inspiration, coming at a time when the farmers have been more or less depressed by conditions following the war.

President Denne opened the meet- by a brief reference to the progress of the Peterborough Fair, which had its origin in a pasture field, and now represents an investment of $43,000, and is a four-day fair.

In thanking Mr. Martin for his consideration in visiting Peterborough during the busy days of the session, Mr. Denne quoted the Minister as stating that the House would have the estimates through and business concluded by 10th April. This, said Mr. Denne, is a record for a Government that has promised to expedite business and practice economy.

A telegram was read from G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., regretting his inability to be present, congratulating the Fair Board on its progress, and referring to the honour which Mr. Martin's visit conferred upon Peterborough.

The First Toast.

Mr. John A. Dewart, in proposing the first toast to the House of Commons, reviewed the early formation of the Mother of Parliaments and the democracy that had its inception in the signing of the Magna Charta. Mr. Dewart enumerated the many changes in the Government of Great Britain and Canada, and recalled the names of several prominent leaders representing all shades of politics.

The speaker also stressed some of the many problems that fall upon the shoulders of Canadian Parliamentarians.

Responding to this toast, Mr. F. D. Kerr, K.C., congratulated the Exhibition Board on its success, which he attributed to the President of the Board and its personnel. Mr. Kerr wondered what special qualifications Mr. Dewart and he possessed to speak to a toast to the House of Commons, especially when three members of the House of Commons who have represented West Peterborough are still living, namely, R. R. Hall, K.C., J. H. Burnham, and G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., but on second thought Mr. Kerr said he remembered that both he and Mr. Dewart were among "the also rans."

Referring to the early history of the Canadian Parliament, Mr. Kerr said two of the first Acts passed by the first Parliament of Canada was one providing trial by jury and the abolition of slavery in Upper Canada. The speaker sketched a vivid word picture of Canada's developments in the last half century down to the year 1914 when the message was sent overseas pledging the resources of Canada for the war in which Great Britain was involved. The legislators of the past, said the speaker, must have had a vision of the future, and while Canada to-day may struggle under a load of debt due to the war, those who are here to-day will see that Canada will never fall.

Ontario Legislature.

The toast to the Ontario Legislature was proposed by Mr. V. J. McElderry in a humorous speech in which he characterised the Provincial Parliament as the Mother of Municipalities because of its close connection with the creation of municipal laws. People generally have a more homely interest in Provincial affairs because of the closer contact with Provincial enactments. The Province looks after our water supply said Mr. McElderry and allows us to put a little chlorine in it, but nothing else.

The speaker referred to the well kept institutions in the Province, including the asylums, and jocularly remarked that the O.T.A. headquarters should have been located on Temperance Street, Toronto.

In replying to this toast, Mr. W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., said we should be a happy people. We have a Province to be proud of with its diversified interest. We need not feel frightened at the Budget report brought down by the Provincial Treasurer, with its $15,000,000 deficit.

Mr. Bradburn felt it would only be a matter of a couple of years until the Budget was balanced. In the meantime it is not the desire of the Government to place any more tax burdens on the shoulders of the people, and hose who make demands upon the Government were asked by the speaker to be as reasonable as possible. A few days ago the question of further power development in Central Ontario was discussed in the House, and it was the concensus of opinion that future development must come from the St. Lawrence With that development Central Ontario need have no fear but what there will be ample power.

Mr. Bradburn refused to discuss the temperance issue, stating that the question was in the hands of the people, and they alone would have an opportunity of determining its merits.

In conclusion, Mr. Bradburn invited the farmers of the West Riding of Peterborough, irrespective of politics, to approach him on any subject they desired, and if necessary he would place their problems before the Minister of Agriculture.

A Presentation.

Mr. Martin was introduced in a brief but happy speech by Mayor Turner. The Mayor praised President Denne and his board for the work that they had accomplished.

Before calling on Mr. Martin Mr. Thomas McIndoo, a member of the Board, presented the Minister with a set of photographic views of the city which Mr. Martin accepted with thanks.

Mr. Martin said he marvelled at the progress of the Peterboro fair, but said it goes to show what can be accomplished by having an aggressive body of men on the Fair Board. Where you have a good live Fair Board you have a good fair, said the speaker, and that is what you have in Peterboro. He told a story of the Ottawa Winter Fair, which labored for several years under the handicap of an annual deficit because some of the men behind it were asleep at the switch. This winter they got down to business, and the fair pulled out with a surplus. Other winters, people said they did not know it was on. This year they could not help but know it was on because it was so well advertised.

Turning to the question of Agriculture, Mr. Martin said farmers are having a pretty hard time these days and when such is the case the country as a whole suffers. He advised the farmers not to be too pessimistic and reminded them that farmers in other parts of the world were a great deal worse off. Agriculture has made good solid progress in Canada for a young country. Fifty years ago only one million bushels of wheat were produced west of Ontario, and last year four hundred and forty six million bushels were produced. The acreage has increased from a little over a million to fifty million acres in that period.

Views of the West.

We must not be to hard on the views of the western farmer, said Mr. Martin. They have problems that we do not have. Ontario has made a valuable contribution to the west by sending thousands of her sons to aid in this develo ment. In future we will pay more attention to diversified farming. Farmers of Ontario should specialize in quality products. Fruit experts declare that not more than ten per cent. of the apples produced in Ontario can be classed as Number ones. As a result we have lost the market to British Columbia, where they produce quality fruit. In Western Ontario they are starting to produce a better qualiy of apples and will soon dispute these markets.

Dairy products have a higher buying power than wheat. There is real money to be made in dairying. When the farmers of New Zealand discovered that they could not profitable export chilled beef to Great Britain, turned their attention to dairying, and with the aid of Canadian trade instructors and consolidated factories were able to capture a large part of the dairy market of Great Britain. That is what has made New Zealand what it is to-day. Here we have too many small factories and we also have tens of thousands of cows that are not paying their board. The average yearly milk production of a cow in Ontario is forty-two hundred pounds of milk. In other countries like Holland and Denmark they get an average of over eight thousand pounds.

Turning to the educational side of agriculture, Mr. Martin said that the Guelph Agricultural College has become more of a research institution, developing new grains and new methods of farming. The purpose of the short courses held throughout Ontario is to take this information to the boys. Ninety-five per cent. of the boys who attend short courses stay on the farms. It broadens their vision and they go out with new ideas. I am convinced said Mr. Martin that these short courses should be enladged and developed. We are going to try and put agriculture into the Public schools even if we have to cut down on history and other less-needed subjects.

In conclusion Mr. Martin said there is no reason why the farmers should be discouraged because better days are coming. We are all in the same boat; we are all here together, and we all want to see Canada prosper.

A pleasing feature of the evening was several vocal selections by Messrs. John Crane, Douglas Carlisle, Maurice Park and Robert Brown, also several numbers by the orchestra.

WHEN FOOD FAILS

Defective Digestion is the Cause and Misery Follows.

There are thousands of people who do not get the proper nourishment from the food they eat, because their digestion is defective. Food that lies undigested in the stomach is not merely wasted, it will ferment and poison your system. Flatulence and sour risings in the throat follow and unless you are careful you will become a chronic dyspeptic.

By toning up the stomach to do the work nature intended, you will remove the cause of the trouble. Nothing will more promptly restore the digestive organs than good new blood. Stomach, nerves and glands all depend on the blood, and when it gets thin and watery they are at once weakened. It is because of their action in building up and enriching the blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved successful in so many cases of indigestion where ordinary medicines have failed. The new rich blood quickly tones up the digestive organs; the appetite improves and you are able to eat with comfort and get full nourishment from your food.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

RUSSIANS HAVE AERIAL MOTORS SAID TO BE LIGHTEST IN WORLD

BRESLAU, March 20.—(Associated Press)—A rough outline of what is said to be the lightest and most powerful airplane motor of its size ever constructed, has been received here from the Moscow Technical School. German airplane manufacturers have sent for a detailed description of the motor, which is started by compressed air and operated by naphtha. The apparatus is reported to weigh only one-tenth as much as the lightest motor now used on any airplane.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE LOST TREASURE

So the King got the boots and put them on.

The Twins told the King of Beanstalk Land that they had found a box buried in the cornfield, which must be his lost treasure.

But the queen whispered, "Have a care, husband! These are the same creatures that jumped out of the seven-league boots and stole our throne from us. Perhaps this is another trick to get us away so they can set themselves up as rulers in our place."

"Tush!" said the king. "Don't be silly!"

"Not so fast," said the court cat. "The queen may be right. And you can thank me for putting the thieves out. I took them for a ride and lost them in a drain."

"And you can thank us," added the lords and ladies, "for not staying one minute where such dreadful things were going on. We hurried away as fast as we could go."

"Thank you for nothing, all of you!" declared the king. "I know what I know. The two children were right, and both the queen and I have slept much better since we have undone our wrong, and helped the people we were unkind to."

"Oh," cried Nancy, "please don't talk so much. The treasure is all uncovered and someone may take it before we get there.

"Of course!" exclaimed the king. "Come, everybody!" And then he said to the Twins, "Do you care if I borrow your magic boots? They are in that big chest?

The Twins had forgotten all about the seven-league boots that they had taken from one of the Beanstalk giants.

"No, sir!" said Nick politely, "only, when you are through with them, please send them back to the giant to whom they belong. I don't know his name, but his wife wears a checked sunbonnet and his daughter had a rose bush, and they keep a cow."

"I know the very one!" declared the beanstalk king, "and I——"

"Oh, do stop talking!" begged Nancy. "The scarecrow will think we are not coming, and he'll be so nervous he'll lose all his straw."

So the king got the boots and put them on, then he took the Twins on his shoulders and strode away to the cornfield, leaving the queen and the cat and the lords and ladies and the twenty stiff servants to follow if they wished.

"Dear, dear!" sighed the scarecrow with relief when they arrived. "I thought you never, never were coming. I've shivered so much that my broomstick back will never be straight again."

"Never mind," said the king. "If this box is my lost treasure, you shall have new stuffing and a new coat and one of my old crowns as a mark of honor, and a new backbone also."

"Oh, thank you, sir!" exclaimed the scarecrow. "And, if you please, sir, would you mind giving a few truffles to the pig who did the digging. He's an old friend of mine, and so kind-hearted!"

"Certainly!" promised the king. "From my own table. And now for the treasure!"

He set the Twins on the ground and took hold of the big iron ring in the lid of the box. Then he gave a great jerk.

Up flew the lid, and there lay the long-lost treasure of the king of Beanstalk Land!

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Prudence Page—a charming country girl, has fallen in love with

Bert Traymore—a fascinating philanderer, whom a chance meeting meeting brings into her quiet life.

Janet Mercer—Prudence's dearest friend, an older woman, plain but clever, is masseuse to the delicate child of

Mrs. Vansittart—a pleasure - loving woman-of-the-world, owner of Winston Towers, a beautiful summer home. She invites Prudence to a ball at the Towers. Prudence accepts, and finds herself a wall-flower, neglected by Traymore, who has professed to love her, slips away into the darkness.

Virginia Dale—Mrs. Vansittart's ward is a blase beauty, who counts Traymore among her many swains. She is the belle of the ball, but she is disappointed not to find among her many admirers

Peter Armstrong—a brilliant young inventor, clever and ambitious. He meets Prudence in her head-long flight from the ballroom, and after confessing that his love has proved false—from this Prudence deduces that he is in love with Virginia—he persuades the girl to return to the dance with him.

Prudence creates a sensation by reappearing at the ball with Peter, who is something of a social 'lion.'

Prudence's popularity is greater even than Virginia's and Traymore is once again the ardent lover.

Traymore again promises to call at Prudence's home, but at the appointed time, Prudence is astounded to find Virginia on the steps of her home.

Virginia has called on Prudence to ascertain just how far things have gone between Peter and the young "dairymaid."

CHAPTER XXIII.

"The Flapper's Delight."

Every instinct in Prudence shrank from encountering her lo ver at that moment.

Virginia's advent had sent her nerves jangling, and the whole world seemed out of tune.

Was there a plot on the part of Bert and the woman to meet each other here and humiliate her.

Or had he only kept his promise because the 'charmer' had gone on in advance of him and proved the magnet?

Prudence opened the door in answer to his knock, dismally conscious of flushed cheeks and a wildly beating heart.

His face was not propitious; he looked sulky.

"Well, I've come. Sorry if I'm late." Without shaking hands with her, he walked into the house, putting his hat and stick on the rack with a clatter.

"She's here," said Prudence dully. "But, of course, you know that already."

He thought that she was referring to her mother.

"Naturally, she would be," he replied. "Haven't I come specially to meet her?"

This was too much. Prudence was dumb with pained astonishment at his effrontery—and fickleness.

"I don't see why——" she began, but Bert caught her by the arm impatiently.

"Come on; don't stand there mooning. Let's get it over with."

"This way," said Prudence, frigidly, shaking her arm free of him, and proceeding down the passage towards the parlor door.

At that moment a peal of high-toned laughter caught his ear.

He halted, frowning.

"Have you got a party on, or what?" Heavens! what a tangle it would be if this silly child had told her mother some nonsense about an 'engagement,' and the woman had invited all the female relatives and friends to meet Prudence's 'boy,'. (People in that class always did refer to their fiances as their 'boy,' didn't they?)

Well, if there was a party on the 'tapis,' blessed if he wouldn't run away at once! He'd frustrate their schemes to trap him into marriage, smart as those schemes no doubt were. He'd dodged plenty of mothers in his day, and would continue dodging them whenever the spirit—and their own designing plans—would force him to do so!

"I told you already she was here," said Prudence in a trembling voice.

"Who?"

"Miss Dale."

"Good lord! Virginia?" He looked thunderstruck.

"Yes."

"You asked her?" (Heavens! It had been done on purpose! Prudence was jealous of Virginia, and wanted to show the other, once and for all, that he—Bert Traymore—was her pet property!)

"Why should I ask her? I barely know her," said Prudence, standing in the passage, looking up at him. "She—she's your friend, and not mine."

"Does she know I was expected?" the man asked hurriedly. Some action must be taken quickly. It would never do for Virginia to find him here.

"I don't think so; unless mother's been telling her, I didn't."

His face eased a little.

"Then I'll vamoose at once." (What did it matter what these country people thought of him!)

"You mean you'll go away? But why? Don't you want to meet your friend?"

Was it sarcasm that she faintly underlined the last word?

"No, I don't. It 'ud be dashed awkward. She's infernally jealous. She hated that you were such a success at the ball last night."

He wheeled around, grabbing his hat and stick from the umbrella-stand.

But at that moment the parlor door was flung wide open, and Virginia herself stood in the aperture.

"Come on, faint-hearted Romeo!" she challenged him, with a little gale of laughter that was gibing. "I saw you coming up the garden path! Don't run away."

Ah! he was caught . . .

He could have murdered Jinny at that moment, standing there laughing at him. Confound all women! All of them!

Behind her, he could see an elderly bewildered person, with grey hair and a prim 'best' gown. That must be Prudence's mother . . . in sharp contrast to fashionable Jinny . . . who was gaily making a mock of him before them all.

"I wasn't running away," he said, stiffly; "I was only hanging up my hat."

"Quite prophetic!" giggled Jinny meaningly.

He walked down the passage and into the parlor. Prudence at his side. The young girl's face was flushed to a brilliant hue, but she looked very pretty, and seemed outwardly composed.

"This is Mr. Traymore, mother."

"How d'ye do? Warm weather, isn't it?" He tried to sound at ease. And then, turning with attempted nonchalance to Virginia, "S'prised to see you here, Jinny! Didn't know that you and Miss Page—were pally!"

She regarded him with an amused twinkle in her made-up eyes. What a slippery soul he was!

And what a coincidence that she should have come here to 'sound' the Page chit anent Peter Armstrong on the very day that Traymore had planned to pay his first authentic call!

Considering Traymore's past attention to herself, he must be feeling pretty awkward. She was glad of that. It was rather galling that he could transfer himself so quickly, even if she did like Peter Armstrong better.

Not, of course, that she really minded. But she'd 'bait' him all the same; for he deserved it.

Prudence had slipped away to get the tea, and the pair were alone with Prudence's mother.

"So you didn't expect me here?" Virginia repeated. "When the cat's away, the mice will play. Not that you'll ever be caught, Bert, my dear fellow!" She turned, laughingly, to Mrs. Page. "This young man's a Gay Lothario. We call him 'The Flapper's Delight' in town, you know."

Simple-hearted Mrs. Page had not a word to say. 'Flapper's Delight,' indeed! He—he looked it! Oh yes, he was well featured, and his clothes were well-cut . . . but with such a foppish air! Prudence—her Prudence—loved this fellow . . . why had she ever let the girl go near the Towers? What happiness could ever come of the affair?

And wasn't this society beauty clearly hinting that he wasn't in the least dependable? That kind, with the shining, scented hair, and manicured finger-nails, and the 'haw-haw' manner, never were!

Prudence came back into the room again, and Miss Dale laughingly called out to her:

"Give him an extra strong cup. He needs it. He didn't expect to meet two sweethearts in one afternoon!"

In To-morrow's Instalment Peter is Again The Knight-Errant.

TORONTO ARCHITECT DIED THIS MORNING.

G. F. Price Piloted the City Through Greatest Building Expansion In History.

TORONTO, March 20. Canadian Press. — G. F. Price, city architect, died at his home here this morning shortly before two o'clock. His death came suddenly, although he had been in poor health for about a year.

Although Mr. Price ocupied the city architect's post for only four years, he had been in the civic service for nearly twenty years. His was the distinction of having directed the civic supervision of building operations during the years which marked the greatest building expansion in the city's history.

Born in Belfast, Ireland, 56 years ago, Mr. Price received his early education at Coleraine Academical Institution.

At 80 Years of Age Was Troubled With Shortness of Breath Palpitation of the Heart And Fainting Spells

Mrs. M. O'Connor, Whitestone, Ont., writes:—"I have been troubled, most of my life, with shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and fainting spells. I was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I did, and at once found relief, and I have never had a really bad spell since.

I am 80 years of age and always keep them in the house, and when I feel any symptoms of my old trouble coming on all I have to do is to take a few doses. With the help of your Pills I expect to see many years yet. I always recommend them to any one who is suffering from heart trouble."

LIQUOR INQUIRY AT VANCOUVER

Sir Henry Thornton Orders Investigation Into Reports That Canadian Government Steamers Have Been Carrying Wet Goods to San Francisco.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 20.—R. S. M. Temple, Regional Counsel in Manitoba for the Canadian National Railways arrived in Vancouver yesterday to institute an inquiry into a number of charges regarding the operation of Canadian Government steamships out of this port, according to Wednesday afternoon's Province, which continues:

"Liquor smuggling in large figures is alleged to be done by Canadian Government steamers operating between here and California .

"It is understood that Mr. Temple has come to Vancouver at the personal suggestion of Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Government Railways.

"He has said that if any official wrong-doing is proved, no delay will be tolerated in removing the offender from the Government service.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are absolutely harmless, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A box is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat, but can reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet or fear of bad effects.

BROWN A SHOCK TO EDINBURGH

But Cleric Writes That Appointment of Miner to Church Assembly Has Touched Imagination of the People.

LONDON, March 20.—(Canadian Press). — The prediction that a miner, James Brown, Labor M.P., will be appointed as the next Lord High Commissioner of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, has shocked the good people of Edinburgh almost out of their skins, though it has not yet been substantiated.

A contribution on the subject has been made by a prominent Scottish churchman in London, Archibald Fleming, in the British Weekly.

A cleric writing on the matter in the same journel says: "I am cruelly mistaken if Brown's succession to the office of Lord High Commissioner has not touched the imagination of the Scottish nation as it rarely has been touched. It is the old historic, patriotic blend—King and people—among the race that has always been ardently democratic, always ardently monarchial.

"In our church courts duke and blacksmith sit side by side, mutually respectful, on an equality, and together they shepherd the flock. Amid the highland hills, right down until to-day, our Kings and Queens have worshipped with the people and have shared with them, when the opportunity offered, the emblems of the redeeming passion. It will be no new thing then at Holyrood Palace, just the old, old Scottish thing in a new, arresting way."

EXPRESS RATES HEARING ENDED

Railway Commissioners Engaged On This Case For Six Months — Dismissal of Application Asked By Counsel — Farmers Want Reduction.

OTTAWA, March 20 (Canadian Press). — The work of taking evidence and hearing argument in the application of the Express Traffic Association for an increase in express rates, was concluded here last night by the Board of Railway Commissioners.

The Board has been engaged in the express rates case for the past six months.

G. McGee, counsel for the Government of British Columbia, G. Yule, counsel for the Province of Saskatchewan, and ohn H. Ward, the secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, presented arguments at the final hearing.

Special Committee On Old-Age Pensions.

OTTAWA, March 20. — Canadian Press. — Old age pensions will be the subject of an investigation by a special committee this session, it was stated yesterday in answer to a question.

The question of superannuation and retirement of employees of the Canadian National Railways is at present under consideration by the railway management. When the matter is settled between the representatives of the employees and the board of directors, the government will provide the requisite legislation.

MOTHER OF LARGE FAMILY

Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Other Mothers

Hemford, N. S.—"I am the mother of four children and I was so weak after my last baby came that I could not do my work and suffered for months until a friend induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Since taking the Vegetable Compound my weakness has left me and the pain in my back has gone. I tell all my friends who are troubled with female weakness to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I think it is the best medicine ever sold. You may advertise my letter."—Mrs. GEORGE L. CROUSE, Hemford, N. S.

My First Child

Glen Allen, Ala. — "I have been greatly benefited by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for bearing-down feelings and pains. I was troubled in this way for nearly four years following the birth of my first child, and at times could hardly stand on my feet. A neighbor recommended the Vegetable Compound to me after I had taken doctor's medicines without much benefit. It has relieved my pains and gives me strength. I recommend it and give you permission to use my testimonial."—Mrs. IDA RYE, Glen Allen, Ala.

Women who suffer should write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for a free copy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Text-Book.

TOUR OF FIRPO IN ABEYANCE

Manager Believes Argentine Boxer May Yet Alter His Decision — Had Planned Trip Through Canada.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Although he received confirmation today of Luis Angel Firpo's intention to retire from the ring next month, William McCarney, the Argentine battler's representative here, said to-night he would not yet abandon arrangements for a extensive tour of Canada and the United States by Firpo next summer. Thus, he pointed out, if Firpo changes his mind in response to numerous appeals, the tour can be carried out.

"I have notified promoters in about two dozen citizens to hold in abeyance fight dates we have arranged," said McCarney. "I am convinced that Firpo is sincere in his present desire to retire, but he may alter his views when he considers the situation more fully. I have written him detailing the effect it might have if we are oblige to cancel the extensive plans laid for this season. I will withhold final action until after April 5, when Firpo boxes Al. Reich at Buenos Aires."

Firpo, it was learned to-day, contemplated retirement for some time before making an annoucement. Observers also saw a possible indication that Tex Rickard was aware of this when the promoter signed two new prospects, Erminio Spalla, of Italy and Quintin Romero-Rojas of Chile, for heavyweight campaigns to fill a gap which Firpo's retirement would leave.

LOU GEHRIG

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 20 A capable substitute for every position on the ball ficid is the aim of Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees in his effort to put over a fourth consecutive pennant.

Fior first base, in case of injury to Wally Pipp, Huggins is prepping Lou Gehrig, former Columbia University star. In the Eastern League last season in 59 games, Gehrig made 24 home runs.

UMPIRES APPOINTED.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The reappointment for 1924 of the staff of nine umpires with wihch the International League finished last season was announced to-day by President John Conway Toole. No arbiter was named to fill the vacancy created in the middle of the 1923 campaign by W. G. Phyle, whose dismissal resulted in a brief strike by four other indicator men.

The umpires for the coming season are: Harry C. Geisel, Daniel J. McDevitt, William B. Carpenter, John F. McBride, Wm. T. Gaston, Doll Derr, George L. Hagerkurth, Gormer James, and Roy Vangraflan.

BOWLING

ROLLS HIGH SINGLE

While rolling last night at Solomon's Alleys, Miss J. Moffat grabbed the high single score for the lamp prize when she rolled 232, beating Miss V. Heard who was leading with 228.

Yesterday the alleys were packed all day with ladies rolling for the beautiful electric lamp which is being given to the lady rolling the highest single. The lamp is on display at Solomon's Alleys, and is well worth competing for. That a great number of ladies will take advantage of the last couple of days to win this prize is not doubted. The rolling ends Saturday.

GAME IS TONIGHT.

A mix-up in the dates caused the Examiner to make the announcement that the important game between the Bell Telephone and Red Ferns was last night, when it should have been tonight. A large number of fans were over at the alleys last night, and were a little disappointed in not seeing the game, but, however, the game will be played to-night for sure and it should draw a great crowd.

EXAMINER LEAGUE.

Last night at Solomon's Alleys in the Examiner League six teams were in action.

Some great game were rolled, especially the three games turned in by the Casters who rolled a total of 2255 for three games for a four-man team. They had one game of 805. The Casters took three from the Jobbers; the Comps two from the Linos and the Proofers two from the Directors.

Alan Whyte was high man of the evening with 725 and Gordon Long was right on his heels with 646. Whyte had the high single of 288.

Dancing An Olympic Sport

By MINOTT SAUNDERS.

PARIS, March 15. — (United Press).—At last there looms a chance for the "cake eaters" to do something for their country. A movement has been started here to put dancing on the program of the Olympic Games. If it goes through the dear boys of Broadway can come tripping over and cloud the fame of Pat Ryan and Ted Meredith as point winners for their flag—if any.

And why not? asks La Liberte. "Why ban, in a manifestation designed to present men of the greatest speed, greatest agility and most vigor, the virtuoso of movement that is found in dancing. Is it because the movement of elegance and charm is not wanted?"

It is pointed out that the ancient Greeks, who first started the games, greatly stressed the harmony of gesture in their athletics. The writer insists that dancing is a sport, since grace and endurance are required.

A canvass of popular artists and writers indicates a preponderance of opinion in favor of dancing as an entry on the games' program.

One advantage of including dancing is the fact that it would keep the games running for twenty-four hours, or nearly so. The white-collared competitors could not be expected to take the floor before 4 o'clock in the afternoon, but they could keep the cheering going until dawn.

Victor Margueritte, author of "La Garconne," is strong for the dance as a sport. He says: "The modern dance has become a veritable exercise and a sport demanding great training. With both hands I applaud your initiative."

Mlle. Regina Camier, actress, thinks the dance merits a prominent place on the Olympic program. "If the dance is a difficult and charming art, it is also a sport, and many mothers have come to understand that their children practice it as a sport."

"The dance will complete in grace and harmony the program of the games," says Henri uvernois, writer. Myye. Parisys, actress, says it is not only a sport, but the one sport that permits a woman to remain exclusively feminine.

Max Dearly, comedian, and Darius Milhaud, composer, favor an Olympic dancing contest, but insist that it must be classical dancing. M. de Baroncelli moving picture producer, says dancing was an Olympic attraction with the Greeks, and therefore no Olympic can be complete without it.

Clement Vautel, writer, says: "If this proposal refers to the dance before the buffet there need be no alarm—it will be on the program."

But Count Clary, head of the French Olympic Committee, so far refuses to get into step.

Allan Cup Finals In Toronto March 27-29.

WINNIPEG, March 19.— Finals in the Allan Cup, representative of Canadian amateur hockey honors, will be played in Toronto on March 27 and 29 between champions of the East and West, it was announced today at Portage La Prairie by W. R. Sexsmith, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. The semi-finals will be played at Ottawa on March 22 and 24 by teams representing Quebec and Ontario.

FRANCE AND GERMANY EXCHANGE CYCLISTS

PARIS, March 20. — (United Press).—The first gesture for bringing France and Germany together again in sport has been made by cycling enthusiasts. On March 23 a German cyclist, Karl Wittig, will ride in a race in Paris, and on the same day, Jules Miquel, a Frenchman, will compete in Berlin. Such international sportsmanship has not occurred for ten years.

SARAZEN'S ALONE IN MATCH SKILL

Game Offers No Finer Co mbination of Match Play and Medal Play Efficiency on Links.

BY JOE WILLIAMS

SARAZEN

Probably the game offers no finer combination of match play and stroke play genius than is embodied in the stock makeup of Gene Sarazen, Italian graduate of the caddy ranks. Sarazen proved his mettle as a stroke player by winning the open championship at Skokie at the age of 21 a year ago; the same year he established his match play qualities by winning the professional championship at Oakmount.

Sarazen has yet to lose an important foe at match play since reaching the championship levels. Last season he repeated in the professional tournament, and was the only major champion to do so. Thus, in two years the little Italian has won all his matches in the professional tournaments. On top of that he won every special match in which he played. On three different occasions he has beaten Walter Hagen in the past two years and only recently he trimmed Arthur Havers, visiting British champion, in a special 72-hole match on the Pacific coast.

Sarazen has the brilliancy that makes for success in medal play and the square jaw that routs timidity in the man-to-man tests. This is a rare combination, and he has developed it to a higher point than any player the game has known in years.

The year has opened auspiciously for Sarazen. It will be interesting to check up the total a year from now. Sarazen will go gunning for all the big title, the American open, th, professiona land the British open.

Sarazen is an enthusiastic apostle of the straight left arm.

"On all shots remember to keep the left arm as straight as possible," says the professional champion. "I do not mean it is necessary to hold the arm so rigid as to be uncomfortable, but you will find that if you acquire the habit of keeping the left arm straight throughout the swing throughout the swing you will get better results all through the fairway.

"A straight left arm helps to produce power, direction and accuracy. In order to make sure of keeping the left arm straight in the swing turn the left hand over on the shaft of the club so that all four knuckles are in full view. If you find this produces a tendency to hook bring the right hand also well on top of the shaft.

"Make sure also of retaining a firm grip on the club throughout the swing, from start to finish. Do not relax your grip with the left hand during any part of the swing."

LAST FLIGHT!

Brooke Hyde Pearson, 31, U.S. air mail pilot, saw service with the British forces in Egypt, Mesopotamia and on the French front and escaped without a scrtach. But while flying into Cleveland with the mails from New York, his plane crashed to the ground near Bellefonte, Pa. His body was found beside its charred ruins.

EASTERN BALL LEAGUE RUMOR

Montreal, Quebec and Ottawa Mentioned With Vermont Cities For New International League.

MONTPELIER, Vt., March 19.—The formation of an international baseball league of six teams, including Montreal, Quebec and Ottawa with Rutland, St. Alban's and Montpelier, Vermont cities, is under consideration here. The issue rests with the decision of Rutland and St. Alban's, which probably will be known on Saturday, according to Arthur W. Daly, who last season managed the Montpelier-Barre Club of the Green Mountain League.

President Page of the Eastern Canada League was present at a conference of baseball men in Barre yesterday and spoke strongly in favor of the establishment of the proposed international league.

The directors of the Montpelier-Barre Association are understood to look favorably upon the proposition, but are said to regard with equal favour a proposal to establish a six or eight team league among Vermont towns for independent summer baseball. The decision of either Rutland or St. Alban's against the international project will prevent formation of the League, but both towns are allegedly in favor of the scheme.

OWEN SOUND TEAM ROMP TO VICTORY

O. H. A. Memorial Cup Game Was Drubbing For Westmount to Tune of 18 to 3.

TORONTO, March 20. — Canadian Press. — Owen Sound's grand Junior team just romped to victory in the O.H.A. memorial cup game here last night against Westmount team, the champions of Quebec.

The visiters from the east took a real drubbing gamely. They never gave up trying but nevertheless the final score was 18 to 3, Owen Sound's highest total of the season. Westmounts were outclassed just as decisively as the score indicates. They never had the semblance of a chance to stop the flying Greys. It was a fitting wind up of the most successful eastern season that Owen Sound ever had.

They went through the O.H.A. games without suffering a defeat and then eliminated the North Bay and the Quebec title holders. Immediately after the game they packed their uniforms and started on a jaunt to Winnipeg where they have a great chance to regain possession of the memorial cup and the Canadian championship for the East.

The fast Owen Sound forwards dominated the play last night. They had too much speed for the purple and whtie clad players and whenever they cared to they back-checked their opponents into submission without much effort.

"Butch" Keeling led the marksmen with eight tallies. He ran wild throughout the game.

THE ACCUSING COUNTENANCE.

'Ma asked me if I had been stealing jam and I told her 'Yes'."

"Why didn't you say 'No'."

"I hadnt the face to deny it."—Judge.

THRIFTY COLLECTORS OF POSTAGE STAMPS ENVISAGE RICH GAINS

NEW YORK, March 20.—(Associated Press).—Stamp collecting can now be listed among the hobbies of the rich. In the opinion of prominent New York collectors and dealers, the stamp hobby bids fair to supplant fine paintings and other bulky works of art in the estimation of those who make collections for collections' sake.

One reason advanced for the change that is taking place is that modern living conditions do not afor space for bulky collections. Whereas a collection of valuable canvasses requires spacious halls and corridors, with proper lighting, a very valuable stamp collection can be carried in the vest pocket. Even the largest and most valuable collections are contained within a few volumes which fit a bookcase.

Stamp collecting first became a really international hobby, dealers here say, in the early nineties. From 1893 to 1900 the hobby had a great following. Then it died down until 1912, since when the ranks of stamp enthusiasts have been steadily augmented. Today there are in the United States alone 50 or more collections which are worth between $100,000 and $200,000 each, dealers say, while there are almost any number of collections valued from $25,000 to $75,000 each.

The most valuable stamp in the world is said to be the British Guiana stamp now owned by Arthur Hind of Utica, N.Y. He competed with the King of England for this stamp and won. At the present time it is valued by dealers at about $38,000.

About five years ago stamp collecting received a great impetus, since when prices have advanced greatly, placing some issues entirely out of reach of any but wealthy buyers. This has driven many collectors into the field of post cards and envelopes, but prices on these too, it is said, are advancing rapidly.

Lately, there has been a big demand for stamps of the Confederate government, issued during the war of the rebellion. Old ramshackle buildings on the lower East Side have produced many rare stamps of the early days of the United States.

Collectors say that the craze has extended to Europe, especially in England, where there is a particular demand for stamps of the United States.

Hardly a day passes in which there is not a stamp auction in New York. The same is true in London, and in Paris there is a regularly established stamp exchange.

PA GETS AN EARFUL.

The telephone in a well-known surgeon's office rang. When the doctor answered, the voice at the end of the line inquired, "Who is this?"

The doctor, recognizing the voice of his seven-year-old son, replied, "The smartest man in the world."

"I beg your pardon," said the boy. "I have the wrong number."—Tit-Bits (London).

ONTARIO COUNCIL IN SESSION HERE

Officers Elected and Resolutions Adopted by Religious Educational Council.

The Ontario Religious Educational Council, for the County of Peterboro, met in convention in the Y.M.C.A. parlor on Tuesday at 10 o'clock.

Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. H. B. Harrington, Cordova Mines, and Rev. W. S. Edgar of Gilmour Memorial Church.

The following members introduced themselves at roll call: Samuel Armstrong, Otonabee; Thos. E. Sargent, Peterboro; Rev. C. W. De Mille, Toronto; Rev. H. B. Harrington, Cordova Mines; Rev. W. S. Edgar, Gilmour Memorial Church; Wm. Paul, Smith; F. F. Bell, Smith; Wilbert Bell, Smith; David Edwards, Keene; David Armstrong, Keene; Enos Kent, Otonabee; Andrew Knox, Asphodel; Mrs. Geo. Patterson, Otonabee; Miss M. A. Hanbidge, Otonabee; Mrs. Thos. Rose, Otonabee; Mrs. Forsythe, Dummer; Mrs. David Miller, Dummer; Miss M. Swinton, Peterboro.

The minutes of the last County Council meeting were read by the secretary, and on motion were received and adopted. The treasurer's report showed the County Association in splendid financial condition, having paid their full apportionment to the head office, Toronto.

Reports of work from superintendents were given. Mr. W. Paul, temperance superintendent, reported a number of schools in the county using temperance literature and pledge signing. Rev. C. W. De Mille, commenting upon this report, strongly appealed to the convention to continue in the fight, stating that we must constantly be telling our boys and girls that that thing which makes their 'hands unsteady' and their 'brain cloudy' must be avoided.

Miss M. Swinton, home department superintendent, reported a lack of information regarding this very important work throughout the county.

Miss M. Hanbidge, missionary superintendent, gave a very encouraging report upon missionary work. A number of schools having missionary Sundays observed and special offerings taken in aid of missions.

At 12.30 o'clock the convention adjourned to Hooper's Palm Parlors for lunch.

The convention again met at 2 o'clock, and the following officers were elected:

President—S. Armstrong.
Vice-President—Wilbert Bell.
Secretary-Treasurer—T. E. Sargent.
Children's Division—Mrs. C. H. Roberts.
Boys' Work—Rev. H. B. Harrington.
Girls' Work—Mrs. Alfred Metcalf.
Adult Division—Mr. Stephen Harrison.
Home Department—Miss Medda Swinton.
Missionary—Miss M. Hanbidge.
Temperance—W. Paul.

The followed resolutions were passed:

Moved by Rev. H. B. Harrington and Rev. W. S. Edgar, that the arranging of the itinerary for the spring township tours be left to the president and secretary for final arrangements.

Moved by Rev. H. B. Harrington and Miss M. Swinton, that the final arrangements for the township programmes be left to the township executive, but that the county secretary be asked to forward suggestions for a uniform programme for all the townships.

Moved by Mr. Andrew Knox and Rev. Edgar, strongly urging the township secretary to fill in the "standard wall reports" from every school in their respective townships and these reports be preserved and used at the next County Council meeting.

SIGNATURE WANG NOT SUFFICIENT

(By John Graudense, United Press Staff Correspondent).

MOSCOW, March 20.—China's repudiation of the signature of her Foreign Minister, Wang, on the Chino-Russian recognition agreement signed recently at Peking is unjustifiable and liable to lead to the most serious consequences, for which China will be responsible, it was declared in official Soviet circles to-day.

The Russian Government was prepared to ratify the agreement which her Emissary, Karakhan, signed with Wang and had demanded that China do likewise, within three days. Up until to-day the Chinese Cabinet had withheld ratification. The agreement provided for reconciliation of the Soviet Government by China.

MOSCOW, March 20.—(Canadian Press).—The action of the Chinese Government in refusing to conclude an agreement was Soviet Russia's denouncement by the official newspaper Isvestia as wholly unjustified and entirely incomprehensible.

The paper predicts that the question will cause an upheaval in China, as masses, it says, will not allow the jeopardization of their own interests.

GROWING OPPOSITION TO UNION OF CHURCH

Recent Votes Indicate a Change in Sentiment --Several Congregations Have Voted Again.

The publicity that is being drawn to Church Union through the fact that the Church Union Bills will shortly come before the Dominion Parliament, and have already been submitted to most of the Provincial Legislatures, appears to be creating an increased interest in this matter. Wherever possible those opposed to Church Union in Presbyterian churches are making canvasses of congregations or arranging for congregational votes. Recently a considerable number of congregations in the Central Ontario district have voted. In some congregations strong opposition to the taking of votes has been manifested with the result that no action has been taken.

The results of votes or canvasses in congregations in the Central Ontario District have been as follows:

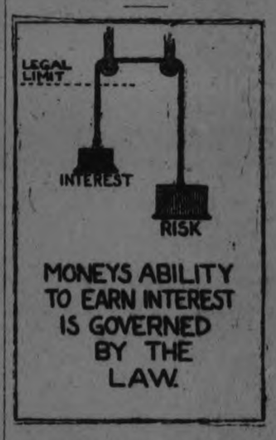
At a meeting of the members of the Presbyterian Church at Hastings, at which it had announced that a vote would be taken, 105 hands were held up in opposition to Church and none for it. St. Peter's Church, in Madoc, registered 80 per cent. against church union. Out of 132 members in the Colborne Presbyterian church 94 voted against church union as well as 63 adherents. In St. Andrews' church, Lindsay, 75 per cent. of the members expressed opposition to church union. In Belleville the members of St. Andrew's church voted 75 per cent. against church union, and in John St. church, 80 per cent. against church union. In Cannington out of 165 communicants 139 have expressed their opposition. Out of 502 communicants in St. Andrews' church, Kingston, 421, as well as 38 adherents have expressed their opposition. The Presbyterian church at Collingwood when a vote was taken in 1915, voted for church union. At a recent vote, 404 members voted against church union and 23 for it. Of the adherents 22 voted against and 5 for church union.

Last week a canvass was made of the Presbyterian congregations of St. Andrew's, Creemore Dunedin and East Nottawasaga. According to the past, Rev. John Davey, all members and adherents expressed themselves. There were 210 votes of members against union and 96 adherents, a total of 306. For church union there were 25 members and 8 adherents, a total of 33.

It was proposed recently to make a canvass in Knox church, Peterborough. It was finally decided not to do so, and to accept instead the result of a vote held last summer before the meeting of the General Assembly, when a majority of about two-thirds of those who voted was found to be against church union. Owing to the different methods in which the opinions of the congregations have been secured, it is not possible to make accurate comparisons in every case, as in some congregations some of the non-unionists may have refrained from voting. In the churches that have been heard from there appears to have been a great increase in the sentiment against church union.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.



Interest is compensation or hire for the use of money. Money's ability to earn interest is governed by law.

A man may use his money in a business of his own, or he may let it work for the other fellow and be paid for the work it does.

This recompense varies according to the amount involved, the period of the loan, and the risk of loss. The rate set by law is usually 6%, and the legal rate governs where there is no contrary agreement or provision. Parties in most places are allowed to contract for higher rates, but there is a usual limit of 8 or 10 per cent.

Usury means an illegal rate of interest. Every business man should know the laws in regard to usurt for his jurisdiction. Compound interest is not usury, but compound interest will not be allowed by a court of equity.

Pawnbrokers are allowed to charge usurious interest. It seems unjust, as they are amply secured, and their patrons are generally poor and ignorant people.

Man has begun to use high explosives in his war against insects. Dynamite, which we usually think of in connection with the destruction of big things, is now being employed against little mosquitoes. It is used to blast these dangerous disease carrying pests out of existence by digging ditches which drain the mosquito grounds.

OVERFLOW CROWD AT THE EXHIBIT

Second Showing Last Night to Accommodate the Crowd - - Women Only for Rest of Week

Four hundred and seventy-three men and boys passed the exhibit entrance in the Public Library Hall, yesterday, before the doors closed last night at eleven o'clock. It was necessary to lock the doors at 8:30 and start another showing at nine in order to accommodate the crowds comfortably. "Is it not morbid curiosity that attracts so many men and boys?" is the question on every side. Whatever attracts them, however, is not an issue to be considered. But it is interesting to relate that after the most interesting posters are read dealing with the constructive side of the question, and then they listen with marked eagerness and rapt attention to the doctors who are lecturing at each case of wax models, even the ones who came to scoff have assumed a most serious attitude and a deep realization of the fact that Social Hygiene means right living and healthful living. They also realize it their duty and right as citizens and fellowmen to do their part, which is by no means a small one, in upholding everything that tends to better the physical, moral and social life of each and every one.

Mr. Roper, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., spoke from his fund of knowledge on the problem of boys. Probably his audience was not composed of as many boys as fathers, as many had come in to the exhibit from the other men's meetings held in Peterboro yesterday, but his facts struck home to many.

During the evening session, Dr. G. S. Cameron spoke very frankly, giving a description of the venereal diseases of the men and their effects.

The film was shown twice during the evening.

Open to Women.

Last night closed the exhibit to men, and starting this afternoon at 3:3, the doors will open for women only. The exhibit has been changed slightly to be of more interest to girls and mothers, the wax models are also changed, and a slightly different film shown called "The Gift of Life." This film which is loaned the exhibit by the Provincial Board of Health, whose cooperation in this work has been so helpful, is shown by Miss Edna Moore of Toronto, who will be in Peterboro the rest of the week from Spadina House, Provincial Board of Health, Toronto.

Mrs. E. Pankhurst, the world renowned woman orator and speaker for the Canadian Social Hygiene Council, will also be in Peterboro for the remainder of the week, and will speak each day during the afternoon and evening to the ladies attending the exhibit. Mrs. Pankhurst needs no introduction in Peterboro as she has spoken here on several previous occasions and has always charmed her large audiences with her eloquence. She speaks on Social Hygiene from a Woman's point of View, especially the Mother's point of view. It is to be hoped that during the remainder of the week every mother will endeavor to hear her and see this exhibit and bring with them their daughters over 16 years of age. In Toronto many mothers who had been timid about discussing this important health question with their daughters brought them to the exhibit and with the nurse in charge saw that this knowledge was imparted to them in a very helpful and scientific manner.

Nurses will be in charge each session. The Peterboro Graduate Nurses' Association have very kindly offered their assistance by volunteering for each session.

The Local Council of Women are assisting Dr. Sutton in the choosing of assistants from their affiliated organizations during the week. Mrs. Brewer of the St. John's Church Women's Aid and her helpers, will be in charge this afternoon, and some of the enthusiastic members of Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., will assist to-night.

Miss Estelle Hewson, Ontario Secretary, will be at the exhibit each session and will be glad to welcome the Peterboro ladies interested.

AT THE CAPITOL

JACKIE COOGAN COMING IN MAMMOTH CIRCUS FILM

Jackie Coogan is coming to town in "the greatest show on earth!" No, gentle reader, don't get excited, Jackie hasn't left the films to join a circus, but his latest First National picture, "Circus Days," which opens at the Capitol Theatre to-day is a circus picture.

"Circus Days" is a free adaptation of James Otis' world famous story, "Toby Tyler, or Ten Days With a Circus." In it Jackie takes the role of Toby Tyler, who runs away from the farm to join a big tent show. His accidental rise from a vendor of peanuts and lemonade to the hit of the circus makes one of the best screen stories that has yet been given to the popular young star.

Several of the country's leading circuses, wintering in California, were used in the making of many of the scenes and the "big top" atmosphere, it is said, was never more faithfully registered on the screen.

A strong cast appears in support of Jackie, Peaches Jackson, a diminutive child actress, who portrays the role of Jeannette, tiny equestrienne, is to be seen as his leading lady.

Barbara Tennant plays the role of Toby Tyler's widowed mother. Cesare Gravini, who was the old musician with Jackie Coogan in "Daddy," is again to be seen with the little star, time as Luigi, an old clown, who befriends the runaway lad.

In addition to "the world's fattest woman" and "the world's skinniest man," namely Nellie Lane and William Barlow, the cast boasts such celebrities as Russell Simpson, Claire McDowell, Sam De Grasse and De Witt Jennings.

The production, which is hailed as the most lavish in which Jackie has yet appeared was made under the direction of Eddie Cline.

AT THE ROYAL

STREETS OF LONDON BUILT FOR BIG SCENES IN "THE STRANGER."

Whole blocks of London came into existence in Hollywood recently for the exclusive purpose of serving as background for much of the action of the Joseph Henabery production. "The Stranger," with Betty Compson, Richard Dix, Lewis Stone and Tully Marshall featured.

Althought no attempt was made to duplicate any of the famous scenic points of London, the various streets public squares, alleys and exteriors of houses are careful reproductions of actual British scenes.

"The Stranger," with Robert Schable, Frank Nelson, Clarence Burton Robert Broyer and others appearing in the supporting cast, comes to the Royal Theatre for a run of three days on Monday next.

THREE STARS IN "LOST AND FOUND" AT ROYAL

Three favorite players are included in the cast of the R. A. Walsh production "Lost and Found" which opened a three days' run at the Royal to-day, House Peters, Pauline Stark and Antonio Moreno. This is the first motion picture ever made in the South Sea Islands. Director Walsh and his cast spent tyo months among the Moira chiefs and natives Thousands of warriors take part in the thrilling rescue scenes. While the native pastimes and dances lend atmosphere to the exciting narative William Duncan in the Steel Trail and a clever comedy entitled "A Movie" phantasy comprise the picture portion of to-night's program.

AMATEUR NIGHT GETS LARGE CROWD AT ROYAL

Last night Peterboro local talent again made their bow at the Royal and 'went over" with a bang. Little Jack Cullen led off with an Irish comedy song and recitation. Frank Doris sang "When Frances Dances With me", Scotty Eagleton, clog dancing, bones and? Willis and Bates in a harmony duet and The Hemp hill Sisters in Scotch dancing. All of the acts were well received by the large audience.

TWO NEW VAUDEVILLE ACTS AT ROYAL TO-NIGHT

A complete change of program at the Royal to-night includes two new acts coming direct from Detroit, Al Kimbal, formerly of Kimbal and Clark the Brazilian Nuts, calls himself "The Snappy Entertainer" and the trio, Spoor, Parsons and Co., in a singing, dancing musical novelty entitled 'What Next". Acts billed for future appearance include Barney O'Mara and Co. the famous Irish tenor and Eddie Hill, the dapper comic.

AT THE REGENT

JACK LONDON HIMSELF WAS AS INTERESTING AS HIS STORIES.

Although many of Jack London's popular stories have been filmed it remained for Hal Roach to put on the screen what the majority of critics consider his best work. This is "The Call of the Wild," which caused such a furore in literary circles some years ago. London himself is a tremendously interesting figure.

Jack London was born in San Francisco, July 12, 1876. His father was a professor of psychology at the University of California, and his mother was a talented musician. At the age of 20, after attending the University of California for two years he shipped before the mast to Alaska during the gold rush, and never completed his course in school.

After the rush for gold was over he returned to California and made up his mind to devote his time to writing. He did this for more than a year but did not succeed in selling any of his brain children until he wrote "The Call of the Wild." It was the story of a dog's return to the primitive that paved the way to fame for London.

With the royalties from this book he made a tramping tour of the United States and upon his return to California he wrote a series of socialistic articles on conditions in this country. They were not very successful. The public demanded more about Alaska and London wrote "White Fang." This yarn written from necessity, and not from inspiration, was popular, but could not compare with "The Call of the Wild."

Following "White Fang" there appeared "The Abysmal Brute," "Tales of the Fish Patrol," "The Valley of the Moon," and others equally as well known, several of which have been filmed since his death.

London died in 1916 in Hawaii after living one of the most varied careers of any known man.

"The Call of the Wild," which opens at the Regent Theatre to-day is Hal Roach's first attempt at a serious picture and features Buck, a huge St. Bernard belonging to the producer. The cast includes Jack Mulhall, Walter Long, Laura Roessing, Frank Butler and Sydney D'Albrook. Fred Jackman adapted the story to the screen and directed it. It's a Pathe picture.

GERMANS USE TENNIS BALL WITH COVERING OF RUBBER

BERLIN, March 20.—(Associated Press).—The very latest of the season's novelties among tennis players are tennis balls bearing the monogram of the owner. The initials are made into the covering, which is of rubber, at the time of manufacture, and the cost is only slightly increased. These particular balls are stitchless, and it is asserted by players that they will outlast the other balls by many games.

PEANUT MACAROONS.

Nut cookies are just the thing to have in the house over the week-end. Beat the whites of three eggs until stiff, then add one-half teaspoon cream of tartar. Gradually beat in one cup of granulated sugar and when mixed fold in two cups of chopped peanuts and one tablespoon flour. Drop from teaspoon on buttered tins, sprinkle with granulated sugar and bake for six minutes in a hot oven. Any nut preferred may be substituted for the peanuts.

LOS ANGELES, March 20. Canadian Press. — Mrs. Elizabeth Goodrich who journeyed west from Beaver Dam, Penna., in a covered wagon in 1842, and had her hair bobbed in Los Angeles barber shop in 1924, celebrated her 100th anniversary at her Montebello home here to-day. What distinguishse the girl of 1842, from the 1924 flapper, said Mrs. Goodrich, is not the latter's hair cut, but the former's habit of taking her evening spin on the spinning wheel.

A DEMONSTRATION AT J. C. TURNBULL

Expert Advice on the Proper Method of Corseting.

A demonstration of the product of the Canadian H. W. Gossard Corset Company is taking place during the last three days of this week at the store of the J. C. Turnbull Company, Limited. Mrs. E. L. Gibbons, of Toronto, is in charge of the demonstration and is also available during store hours for expert advice as to proper corseting, with the "personalized" method which aims to give individual satisfaction to every wearer of a Gossard corset. Mrs. Gibbsn' stock includes ninety-seven different styles of the corset and its variations, in the many types of brassiere, the belvideres, of elastic and material combined, and the 'longer line' brassiere, that useful garment that is fashioned to cover up the ugly line at the waist where the ordinary corset sometimes bulges. The fashionable pale pink that has been in vogue for some years now is still in the foreground in the different styles.

Elastic bands and inserts are an indispensable portion of the up-to-date corset. The old garment of twenty years ago with its multitudinous stays, its back lacing that brought the pressure line at the wrong point, in a tight band about the waist, and the sharp bones that hurt the hip bone and bore into the bust occasionally in such a manner as to cause, according to physicians, much of the breast cancer trouble in women, has been relegated to the ash heap. Modern women, according to Mrs. Gibbons, are coming back gradually to the corset which they practically discarded some years ago, but they want comfort, and are no longer content to tie their waists in, in an uncomfortable manner. The desire of the young girl, for a fashionable thinness is responsible for many of the long-lined corsets in vogue just now.

The distinctly modern tendency seems to be for larger lines for women. Collarless and sleeveless gowns make for larger necks and arms, low shoes increase the size of the ankle, and looser corseting gives a larger waist, all of which, so it is said, make for better health. A recent fashion note from Paris recorded a demand for French women for high-top shoes, to help to stay the tendency of the modern ankle to increase in circumference.

WE WOULD HAVE MARRIED ANYWAY.

Says a Student Bride Who Made a Good Showing With Her Bridegroom.

BERKELEY, Calif., March 19.—"Of course," comments Mrs. Malcolm MacKenzie, world's first "psychological bride," "we would have married each other no matter what the test showed."

But the searching pre-nuptial examination she and her bridegroom took recently under the supervision of Professor D. Jau Don Ball of the University of California assures them a life of happiness and compatibility for the future.

The couple answered 224 questions, covering all possible tendencies, habits and beliefs Professor Ball thought important considerations in marriage. And they came out with a high rating.

"We were shown by the examination to be on the same mental plane," the young bride reports. "A most important point, in my estimation," she adds. "People in different mental spheres are apt to become only tolerant of ane another after the first glamor wears off.

Same Tastes.

"Already we are discovering the advantages of mutual inclinations.

"We both want to live the same way, furnish the same way and are each interested in the other's conversation.

"Malcolm is studying medicine and I psychology. But each is interested in the other's study.

"Also we both like athletic sports, swimming, sailing, hunting and hiking. With all these interests in common, how could we be anything but happy and congenial?"

Reassured

The romance of the MacKenzies started a year and a half ago, amid the glamor of campus life.

"After a friendship of that length of time we felt quite sure we were phychologically congenial," says Mrs. MacKenzie. "But we decided to take the test anyway just to assure ourselves.

"And you can't imagine what a delight and reassurance it was to be pronounced ideally mated."

LADY AT ONE HUNDRED HAD HER HAIR BOBBED

The Curling game between W. R. Widdess and R. G. Sturgeon won by the former was wrongly announced by the Examiner as being for the season's championship whereas in reality it was to decide which rink would have second and which third place. The schedule competition was won by Mr. H. J. Foote's rink composed of F. J. Overend, Jas. Richmond, J. E. A. Fitgerald and H. J. Foote skip.

IN MEMORIAM.

MANLEY. — In loving memory of our dear Mother, Susan Manley, who passed away on 20th March, 1922.

The depth of sorrow cannot tell
The loss of one we loved so well;
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall always keep.
Her smiling face to us so dear,
Her gentle footsteps no more we hear,
Her willing hands and face so sweet
However long our lives may last,
Whatever joy or grief be ours,
We will remember you.

Canadian Stock Exchange and Mines | New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

TO-DAY'S QUOTATIONS AND OPINION AND REVIEWS OF THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 20 (Special to The Examiner). — Reports from industrial centres demonstrated that general business continues prosperous despite the pessimism in Wall Street over the unfavourable conditions in certain lines.

Industrials maintained the rallying tendency in evidence in the previous session. Studebaker was the principal feature of the early dealings coming back to 96 in response to a despatch from South Bend which said the factories were working at capacity, and unfilled orders in the hands of Studebaker dealers exceeded those of the corresponding time last year.

Confused price movements marked the first hour. Professional drivers against industrials supposed to be invulnerable trade positions proceeded simultaneously with aggressive operations for the rise in high-grade rails, especially Norfolk and Western, which went into a new high on the movement at 103, and Atlantic Coast Lines which jumped 5 1-8 to 120 1-2. The latter advance followed an analysis showing the possibilities in this stock. Coast Line has paid 7 per cent. annually on its common since 1917, and there seemed to be an excellent chance of stockholders receiving a large return either in the form of higher dividends or a strong dividend.

HON. JOHN MARTIN LED AGRICULTURAL FIELD DAY IN LEGISLATURE

Whole Afternoon Devoted to Discussion of Rural Needs and Problems — Minister of Agriculture Advocates Better and More Intensive Methods of Production on Specialized Lines.

Symposium of Ideas.

TORONTO, March 21. — Agricultural affairs in the Province of Ontario were discussed all afternoon in the Legislature on Thursday. Every part of the province was heard from. Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, opened the debate by explaining that the increases in the estimates this year for Agriculture were due to the cutting off of the Federal grant.

"If there ever was a time when agriculture needed government assistance that time is now," said Mr. Martin. He was hopeful that the committee to be appointed would be of great value to the agricultural industry. He could not agree with statements that production could not be improved. Taking apples alone, he stated that only ten per cent of those produced in Ontario were number one. There was also a long way to go in dairying and live stock before the top was reached. In Ontario the average milk production per cow was below 4000 pounds, and in Denmark and Holland it was above 8000 pounds. He also thought there was much ahead in the poultry business before a good average production was reached. The average Ontario hen only laid 70 eggs a year, which was not sufficient to pay for her food.

Probe Price Spread.

The committee would, investigate that mysterious spread in prices between what the farmer got for his produce and what the consumer paid. The members of the committee he said would be chosen from all parties in the House and the experts of the departmental staff of the Ontario Agricultural College would be at the disposal of the committee.

A. H. Acres (Con., Carleton), said he thought the grants to agriculture should be immediately increased in large volume. He wanted better sires for cattle herds. He would reduce taxation on the farmer, but save road maintenance costs by prohibiting large trucks to run on the roads. He thought the province should assume one hundred per cent. on the cost of provincial roads. He made an appeal for more hydro development for Eastern Ontario, and especially for the rural districts who now only had two per cent. of the power developed. He also advocated an embargo on pulpwood and a higher tariff for Canada.

A. P. Mewhinney (Lib., West Bruce) said he thought the farmers were trying to farm too much land, and that there would be better results with less acreage. He also advised the Minister to speed up the distribution of good seed.

Shipping Costs Heavy.

T. J. Mahoney (Con., South Wentworth), said that the agricultural estimates at Ottawa should be more than they were. He also thought the rural districts were paying too much towards roads. He explained the difficulty of the fruit growers in figures. At the shipping stations last year the grower was paid 18c a basket for plums. The plums sold in Winnipeg for $1.20. The express company got 54c for taking them there. The grower netted three cents a basket. He did not think it worth while to try any more experiments in putting tender Ontario fruits on the British market.

McCausland Irvine (Con. South Perth) said he thought too much had been paid for good roads thereby increasing the taxation burden of the farmer.

H. W. Trewatha (Con. South Huron), in common with the other Conservatives who spoke advocated an increased tariff declaring that such a procedure would better the home market for agricultural products.

Exclude U. S. Products.

J. G. Lethbridge (U.F.O. Middlesex) opposed higher tariff, contending that it would not better the farmer's conditions but injure them. He was favorable to a committee to investigate agricultural problems.

T. A. Thompson (Con., North Lanark) said he would put the tariff up as high as Haaman's gallows, and prevent U. S. products from entering Canada. There was no market in the U. S. he said for Canadian agricultural products, as they had a surplus of such products in their own country.

Hon. D. Carmichael (U.F.O., Centre Grey) said that experts from the Department of Agriculture might carry on a better and certainly a cheaper investigation than a committee could.

Windsor Epidemic Has Been Wiped Out

TORONTO, March 21.—Just before the Legislature rose at 6 o'clock yesterday, Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health and Labor, made a statement regarding the smallpox situation at Windsor and the border cities.

"I am glad to announce," said Dr. Godfrey, "that the border cities are free of smallpox. When the epidemic started we thought it would be very serious as it was a very malignant type and there were 19 deaths in a few days. But through thorough vaccination and the co-operation of the health officials, Windsor is now the safest place in the province in which to go as far as smallpox is concerned."

Earlier in the day Windsor and its neighbors were given a clean slate by the provincial health department.

FORECAST GOLD RUSH TO ROUYN

New Quebec Gold Fields Attracting Attention and Record Office Has Been Opened at Ville Marie For Prospectors.

QUEBEC, March 21.—A considerable rush is forecast for the end of next month to the north-western gold fields of the province.

A record office has been opened at Ville Marie, but if the developments warrant the opening of similar offices elsewhere in the vicinity of the gold fields, this will be done, Hon. J. E. Perrault, Minister of Colonization, Mines and Fisheries, stated yesterday.

In connection with transportation facilities, it was learned at the mining bureau, that the Inter-provincial and James Bay Railway, a subsidiary of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which has built a line as far as Anglier, at Lake Des Quinze, has asked for additional powers to its federal charter, so as to extend the line as far as Rouyn if thought advisable.

MORE SCANDAL IN HOME BANK ISSUE

Special Report Has Been Received by Attorney-General.

TORONTO, March 21.—(Canadian Press). — Developments even more sensational than those in connection with payments for commissions on Home Bank deposits, made public yesterday, are promised. It is learned on the best authority that criminal prosecution is being considered by the Attorney-General. A special report has been received by Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., from the auditor, H. D. Lockhart Gordon, employed by his Department to examine Home Bank books. This information was conveyed to Hon. Mr. Nickle at the same time as the details about the alleged payment of "commissions" for Home Bank deposits of the City of Toronto and the Provincial Government. Sums involved are admitted to be smaller than $50,000 odd paid out on "commission" account, but it is said that the methods were more reprehensible than anything that has yet been revealed in connection with Home Bank irregularities.

Aylmer Citizens Ask For Inquiry Into Town's Books

Allege $45,000 Borrowed Without Authority For Housing Scheme, and Interest Arrears to Bank Are $80,000 — No Sinking Fund For Five Years

OTTAWA, March 21. — An investigation into the municipal and finacial affairs of the town of Aylmer, Que., is to be opened this evening by Hon. Oscar Morin, Minister of the department of municipal affairs for the province of Quebec.

The holding of the investigation which was announced yesterday, is based on a request of some of the citizens of the town to the Quebec government. In connection with the request for an investigation it is stated that a lengthy memorandum containing 18 charges of alleged irregularities in connection with housing loans and the financial condition of the town, was sent to the Provincial department of municipal affairs.

Among the complaints registered, it is stated, is one that $45,000 under the housing scheme was borrowed without the authorization of the ratepayers, and that the town is in default of interest to one of the banks on a debenture issue of $80,000. Another of the charged irregularities is that the town has not had any sinking fund for five years.

CHAMBER OBJECTS TO LOWER TARIFF

Executive Council Meeting of Local Chamber of Commerce.

A resolution was passed at the Execeutive Council meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, to petition the Provincoal Government to advertise the Province as a resort for tourists at the National Outdoor Sports Exhibition, to be held in New York, May 26th to 31st.

This was considered an excellent opportunity to develop the tourist traffic to the Province, of which the Lake district in the immediate vicinity would secure a fair proportion.

Canadian National Exhibition

Owing to the diversified nature of the city's industries, it was considered inadvisable at the present time to place a Peterborough Exhibit at the 1924 Canadian National Exhibition. Stratford, Owen Sound and Dundas will exhibit this year. Belleville exhibited in 1923.

Tariff.

The proposed lowering of the tariff on certain commodities was considered and the following resolution was adopted.

Whereas, we have learned through press reports that the Dominion Government is proposing to lower the tariff on articles of production,

Therefore resolved, that we, the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, would strongly recommend that no action be taken at the present time in the lowering of customs duty on manufactured articles, until such time as a Committee or Federal Advisory Board be established to review the entire tariff situation, with the object of making scientific recomemndations on the same.

Income Tax Exemptions.

A proposal to exempt from Income Tax premiums paid on Life Insurance policies to a maximum of one-sixth of the total income was considered, and referred to a committee of President Mr. J. W. Fraser, Mr. W. R. Morris and the Secretary.

Trent Canal Completion.

The support of the Chamber was promised to the Manufacturers' Committee of the City Council in forming a deputation from all municipalities throughout the Trent Waterway to urge upon the Government the necessity of completing the construction of the system.

Automobile Ferry.

Communications from Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., advised that negotiations for the establishment of a convenient automobile ferry service from Cobourg to Rochester were being carried out between the Canadian National Railways and the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg Railway.

The Rochester Automobile Club also advised that they were doing all in their power to ensure this service.

Those present at the meeting were as follows: President J. W. Fraser; Vice-President G. A. Gillespie; Tresurer W. R. Morris; Thos. Barrie, R. A. Brown, R. L. Dobbin, J. J. Duffus, J. Hamilton, F. C. Hungerford, R. Wren, W. A. Richardson, J. J. Turner, P. P. Westbye.

ABSOLUTE HOME RULE FOR CANADA PROPOSED BY WINNIPEG LABORITE

J. S. Woodsworth Interjected Motion That Canada Should Have Plenary Power to Amend Constitution — Ample Liberty Now Enjoyed, Premier and Meighen Reply — Britain Would Not Refuse Further Change If Canadians Were Agreed — The B. N. A. Protects Minorities.

Contract of Provinces.

OTTAWA, March 21 (Canadian Press). — Constitutional questions held the house of Commons yesterday on a motion by J. G. Woodsworth, Labour member for Centre Winnipeg, to give to the Canadian Parliament the same powers as are now possessed by the British Parliament, in regard to the affairs of the respective countries.

Supporters of the motion urged that there was no desire to loosen the ties between Canada and the Mother Country, but that Canada was now grown up and entitled to the fullest measure of home rule. It was urged in this regard that Canada should have power to amend her constitution herself instead of, as now, by way of amendment to the British North America Act through the British Parliament.

Discussion occupied practically the whole day. At one point there was a motion to give the resolution the six months' hoist, but the motion was ruled out of order by Deputy-Speaker Gordon.

Premier King, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, and Robert Forke criticised the resolution, opponents of it taking the ground that the Canadian Parliament had the right to legislate for the Canadian people.

Woodsworth's Motion.

Mr. Woodsworth's motion was: "That in the opinion of this House the governing powers of Canada as constituted by the British North America Act, as amended and altered from time to time hereafter, ought to possess under the British Crown the same powers with regard to Canada, its affairs and its people as the Parliament of Great Britain possesses in regard to Great Britain, its affairs and its people."

The form of the resolution was derived from a suggestion of Sir Clifford Sifton. Although Sir Clifford was not aware that he (Mr. Woodsworth) was going to introduce it in the Commons.

Two Distinct Features.

There were two distinct features to which the resolution was applicable. The first was in regard to Canada's relations to the Motherland; the second, the relation of the Federal Government to the Provincial Governments. In the first case, Mr. Woodsworth felt that Canada was now grown up and entitled to the fullest measure of home rule. This country must be given the right under the British Crown, of deciding the destinies of the Canadian people. He had no intention of suggesting that the ties binding Canada to the Mother Country should be loosened.

The difficulty of getting eight-hour day legislation put through was cited by Mr. Woodsworth as an illustration of how the Provincial and Federal powers sometimes interfered.

When members in the Federal House tried to get action on the eight hour day they were told that it was a Provincial matter. The reform or abolition of the Senate was sometimes suggested after measures passed by the elected representatives of the people were thrown out by that Chamber, but again Commons was found to be constitutionally incapable of action unless the Senate was prepared to consent to its own annihilation.

B.N.A.A. Is Right.

All authority should be invested in the people and not in a Government some thousands of miles away. While South Africa could amend her constitution in matters of internal affairs, and Australia could amend her constitution by referendum, Canada could not amend the British North America Act. The United States constitution was regarded as rigid, yet it was probably much more easy to amend than the Act that was the constitution of Canada. Because of the British North America Act Canada was compelled to go back to the England of a hundred years ago for matters of precedent. It would be better to guide this country by the Britain of to-day.

Traffic in London Faces New Strike

LONDON, March 21.—Several conferences were held yesterday between representatives of the tramway, omnibus and underground railway services and their employees, in an endeavor to settle the dispute between them over the question of an increase in wages which threatens to culminate in a strike at midnight Friday unless the demands of the workers are met.

No agreement was arrived at. The employers, who previously had refused to arbitrate the dispute, yesterday agreed to refer the situtaion to an arbitrator, and the Ministry of Labor decided to appoint a court of inquiry, hoping thereby to avert a walkout. The Transport Workers' Union, however, decided last night that the strike notices must take effect Friday at midnight.

WALL STREET IN FLOOD OF MONEY

Loans Made at Two Per Cent. — Renewal Rate Lowest Since July, 1922 —Banks Offer Premium For Accounts.

NEW YORK, March 21. — Overflooded with money, Wall street on Thursday saw loans contracted on the "Outside" market as low as two per cent., while call money on the Stock Exchange ruled at three per cent. The renewal figures at that rate was the lowest since July, 1922.

A number of the New York banks were said to be feeling acutely the "pinch" of cheap money. In an effort to attract deposits from the thousands of out-of-town banks who find an outlet for their surplus funds in New York, some of the newer and more aggressive institutions here, it is reported, have been paying a premium for these accounts.

Although paying interest one-half to one per cent. higher than the prevailing rates, these banks have been able to make satisfactory profits with normal money market conditions. The recent easiness in money has brought the quotations below interest rates, and was followed yesterday by a swift shifting of funds to the bond market in order to obtain a larger return.

Treasury operations, leaving a large surplus of funds here after the debt refunding and collection of taxes last week, were blamed for the decline in money rates. Bankers expressed belief that the condition would be only temporary.

FIFTEEN PERSONS DEAD . . WHEN HOUSE COLLAPSED

LONDON, March 21 (Canadian Press). — Fifteen persons were killed when a four-storey house collapsed here to-day.

Thirty persons were buried under the ruins.

C.P.R. RE-UNION.

NORTH BAY, March 21.—Over two hundred executives of the Canadian Pacific Railway, travelling in special train of 12 cars passed through North Bay last night en route to Quebec, where the annual get-together meeting will be held.

A French Cap'ain Sentenced as Spy

BERLIN, March 21. — The Supreme Court at Leipsic on Thursday sentenced the French captain, Darmont, to twelve years' penal servitude and a fine of five thousand gold marks for espionage. Darmont was the head of the French Espionage Service at Basel, Switzerland, and was accused of buying secret documents concerning the German Reichswehr.

The French are holding three prominent Germans from the occupied area as hostages for Darmont.

Australia Will Develop Navy Under Own Control

Will Form Unit of Imperial Navy In Wartime Premier Bruce Declared at Banquet to Officers of Visiting Fleet—Abandonment of Singapore Deeply Regretted In Antipodes.

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 21.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—Australia is taking stock of the new situation created by the imperial government's abandonment of the Singapore naval base scheme.

The Melbourne Age says the decision of the British government on the matter will have a very important influence on the coming session of the Australian federal parliament.

The discussions by the members indicate that the adequate defence of the commonwealth is regarded as by far the most important question forimmediate consideration. The cabinet is stated to be faced with difficulty because Singapore was the central point in the scheme of the re-organized Australian naval defence It is understood that Australia's contribution to the proposed Singapore base was to have been £1,000,000 if necessary.

In the meantime E. K. Bowden, Minister for Defence, already has voiced the necessity of considering an alternative means of defence in the Pacific, while Major General Sir Granville Byrie, assistant minister of defence, now favors the establishment of a naval base in Australia.

In connection with the suggestion of a base in Australia the Melbourne Herald suggests that it be at Port Stephens, New South Wales. The Herald points out that without a naval base in the east ships of the Hood class could never operate in the Pacific—a fact also noted by the Cape Town Argue.

Deeply Regretted.

Premier S. M. Bruce, speaking at a banquet here in honor of Rear-Admiral Sir Frederick Field and officers of the visiting special squadron, declared that the British government's abandonment of the Singapore naval base scheme had caused the deepest regret to the overwhelming bulk of Australians. It was difficult, he said, to see how the construction of the base wold cause international anxieties.

Australia, however, was prepared to continue to explore with the imperial government, Premier Bruce said, all the ways by which the peace of the world might be ensured and armaments be further reduced.

The premier said Australia recognized her obligation to assist in the task of imperial naval defence, but she was resolved that her aid should take the form of an Australian navy, completely autonomous in peace time, but acting in co-operation with and forming a unit of the imperial navy in war time.

Build Cruisers.

Sir Frederick Field, replying to the toast in his honor, advised Australia to build cruisers to help in the defence of the trade routes. Some of Australia's present cruisers, he said, were nearly obsolete. He also advocated constructing several overseas submarine patrols as such craft, in time of trouble, would assist in delaying the enemy until the arrival of a superior British force.

Sir Frederick recommended Australia to look around her own shores for a suitable location for a naval base, especially in the north-west part of the country. He said he considered that Port Darwin had been meant by providence for a naval base.

Berlin Stocks Crash as Franc Soars And Money Gamblers Run to Cover

BERLIN, March 21.— "Germany has lost another battle." That is the general comment in business and banking circles as a result of the continued rise of the French franc.

German banks and business men who have been speculating on a further drop have been forced to heavy selling of securities to cover their losses. Stocks have crashed. The air is full of rumors of impending bankruptcies.

Foreign holders of German securities are also dumping, increasing the disturbance.

The present success of France against the speculators is fully admitted, but Berlin refuses to believe in the permanency of the stabilization.

GRAIN INQUIRY VERY EXPENSIVE

The Government Has Paid Out For It $105,586 Up to March 1, 1924.

OTTAWA, March 21—(Canadian Press).—The royal grain inquiry commission has cost the government $105,586 up to March 1, 1924.

A statement tabled in the house yesterday shows that the chairman, Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon, receives no salary but is allowed living and transportation expenses. The other three commissioners, D. A. McGibbon, W. J. Rutherford and J. G. Scott receive $25 per day salary and $15 a day allowance plus transportation expenses. R. J. Beachman receives $15 a day and expenses.

D'Arcy Scott, chief counsel, received $100 a day up till September 16 last and $50 per day from then till October 3, plus $15 per day living allowance. S. B. Woods, senior counsel, received $75 a day from October 4, and $100 a day during sittings of the commission, plus $15 a day living expenses. Salaries of four junior counsel are graded down to $25 a day.

'BUS DRIVERS STRIKE.

LONDON, March 21. — (United Press).—A strike of London 'busmen and tram conductors and motormen, involving 40,000 workers, will start at midnight to-night, it was announced officially at union headquarters this afternoon.

SOMEBOD'' FORGOT HIS CUE!

It was a sleepy sort of day, the class was about half the usual size and the "Prof" was calling the roll in a half-absent manner. To each name someone had answered "here" until the name of Smith was called. Silence reigned for a moment only to be broken by the inspector's voice.

"My word! Hasn't Mr. Smith any friends here?"—Humbug.

LABOR COUNGIL HELD A MEETING

The Postponed Election of Officers—Many Present.

The regular meeting of the Trades and Labour Council was held in the Labour Hall last evening with a full attendance of members, a large number of new delegates present.

The Toronto Trades and Labour Council forwarded a resolution, which the local body endorsed, requesting the formation of a body to defend persons charged under the Criminal Code who were without means to defend themselves against such charges.

There has been quite a lot of discussion lately in the Labor Hall of holding an open meetiing and bringing some prominent labour men to town to address the various labour organizations and all others interested in the labour questions of the day, and last evening it was decided to hold such a meeting on April 2, and invite any person who is interested in the labour movement to attend.

The postponed election of officers took place and the following were elected for the ensuing term:

President—Bro. T. McMurray.
Vice-President—Bro. Trussler.
Financial-Secretary—Bro. F. Wallwork.
Recording-Secretary—Bro. B. Halpin.
Treasurer—Bro. H. Webb.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Bro. Law.
Auditors—Bros. G. Stenton, G. Johnson and B. Sloan.
Trustees—Bros. H. Gainey, Huott, G. Johnson and B. Sloan.

The retiring officers, some of whom have performed their duties faithfully for a number of years, were given a hearty vote of thanks at the close of the proceedings, and th meeting adjourned, to meet again on Wednesday, April 2, when the general public are invited to attend to hear addresses from prominent labour men.

ONLY OFFICERS UNFAITHFUL TO THE FREE STATE

Rank and File of Army Had Been True to Their Oath During Unrest of Irisl. Demobilization — Cosgrave Assumes the Ministry of Defence.

Fraternities In Army.

DUBLIN, March 21. — President Cosgrave will assume the office of Minister of Defence, from which Richard Mulcahy, resigned Wednesday. The Dail Eireann last night, after an exciting debate, adopted without division the motion of Kevin O'Higgins, Minister of Home Affairs, that the president be appointed to the post. Mr. O'Higgins added that during Mr. Cosgrave's illness, he himself would act for him as Defence Minister.

A striking feature of the debate was the testimony of Major Bryan Cooper, who was the British press censor in Ireland during the war, that the rank and file of the army had been absolutely true to their oath, and that the insubordination had been limited to the officers. Demobilization had nearly provoked a mutiny in the British army in 1919, but in Ireland, he asserted, the men had stood firm.

The Army Council had put themselves indefensively in the wrong. Remarking that Ireland was not yet out of the woods, Major Cooper appealed for unity and the banishment of personal considerations.

Can't Expect Miracles.

Prof. John MacNeill, Minister of Education, contributed a moderating speech to the discussion. Anybody expecting unusual or abnormal things not to happen in the new Irish State he said expected miracles. Secret combinations in the army were once necessary, but the Government's task was to enable the army to grow out of that state. Mutiny by subordinate officers might be bad, but the deliberate and conscious setting aside of the authority of the government by the army council, was worse than mutiny and a defence minister who stood for it had no option but to resign.

General Mulcahy then gave his version of the incident. Neither the Chief of Staff nor the Quartermaster-General, he said, had anything to do with the raid, which was carried out under the direction of the Adjutant General. He intended to deal before the Cabinet Tribunal with the question of brotherhoods and secret societies in the army, and he considered that the personnel of the tribunal should be extended to include members other than the Ministerial party.

Discipline Lax.

Kevin O'Higgins, winding up the debate, announced that Major General Joseph Sweeney of Donegal has been appointed acting Chief of Staff in place of General MacMahon. He said he could cite instances showing that Mulcahy had not followed the line of strict discipline, but citing such cases would be discreditable to the country.

General Mulcahy interrupted to say that this was a mean innuendo and he wanted all the facts ventilated at a public inquiry.

Mr. O'Higgins, resuming, declared that the inquiry would be private.

The tactics of the raid, he went on, were deliberately calculated to set the heather afire and were in defiance of the Executive Council's orders. It was hoped to reconsitute the Executive Council netx week.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, March 21. Special.—Industrials were strengthened in the early dealings on the stock exchange by the remarkable showing of the weekly statements of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, whose ration rose to 89.5 per cent. against 86.7. This figure was less than one per cent. below the highest attained since the close of the war, explaining the recent pronounced tendency towards easement in the local money rate.

Stocks, like Steel, Can, Studebaker, Bethlehem and oth issues,which had borne the brunt of the previous day's selling, scored fractional recoveries in the initial trading.

No recurrence of the general selling pressure took place in the first hour; the bear leaders were apparently contented with the results of the week's work and the market as a whole showed a considerably improved tone. The Washington developments were responsible for the recent raid on securities, it is now generally admitted. The political operators concede as much. They are used to so called political hysteria to undermine the business confidence perhaps throw many out of work and frighten the public into selling these securities at a great sacrifice. The action of Steel common has been disappointing .That most of the decline has been due to professional raids there seems to be no question, but the discouraging feature has been the lack of support since the last dividend was deducted from the market price.

5 Operations—15 years suffering with constipation—Kellogg's Bran restores health

Mr. Lancing's case is typical of thousands of others. He found permanent relief from constipation in Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. Read what he says:

Dear Sirs:

I have been afflicted with constipation for the past 15 years, and during that time I have been in four different hospitals and submitted to five different operations that were the result of constipation. I was getting so bad that every meal I ate soured on my stomach. Two months ago I was advised to eat your Kellogg's Krumbled Bran. I tried it, as I was trying everything I could hear of. From that day on I have never taken a physic. My stomach does not sour any more and my bowels move regularly morning and evening.

Your sincerely,
Frank Lancing.
(Address on Request.)

For permanent relief, eat Kellogg's Bran regularly. Two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will return your money.

You will like the delicious nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran—so different from ordinary brans, which are unpalatable. Eat Kellogg's Bran with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in the recipes given on the package.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is served by leading hotels and clubs in individual packages. Made in Toronto, Canada. Sold by all grocers.

ABSOLUTE HOME

Hon. Charles Marcil (Liberal, Bonaventure) suggested that the British North America Act was a contract between the Provinces and could not be amended by the Federal Parliament.

Mr. Woodsworth denied he aimed at any disintegration of the system of separate Provincial Governments. Asked by Thomas Vien (Liberal, Lotbiniere) what reforms he would make if the change in the constitution were accomplished, Mr. Woodsworth said he did not wish to go into that larger question now. It might be necessary to call a convention of Provincial representatives to decide such changes.

Valuable Safeguard.

Mr. Vien asked further whether Mr. Woodsworth did not think the appeal to the Imperial Parliament was a valuable safeguard.

"I cannot see," replied Mr. Woodsworth, "why we should have such absolutely colonial minds as to go to another Parliament to tell us what to do. I have a good deal of the old British spirit in my veins."

T. H. McConica (Progressive, Battelford) considered the resolution ill-advised. "The people of Canada," he said, "are as free as any people on the face of the globe. There is not a man, woman, or child in Canada, who has felt the least restraint in the last 25 years."

Mr. Vien said that if the Dominion Parliament and the Legislatures were united on change in the constitution, there would be no doubt of it being passed by the Imperial Parliament.

"Is it consonant with the dignity of the Sovereign state?" asked Andrew McMaster, Liberal. Brome, "to go to another state for permission to change its constitution?"

Curious About Motive.

Mr. Vien admitted that there was a great deal to be said for the position that Canada had passed the age of tutelage. Nevertheless it was well to preserve a safeguard in view of the peculiar perplexities of Canadian conditions. Some students had said that Canada was not one country but five. What he desired to know before forming an opinion on the resolution was the motive behind it. That motive appeared to be restriction of the rights of the Provinces.

Mr. Vien was opposed to appeals to the Privy Council of Britain, save in constitutional cases. The Supreme Court of Canada was quite capable of dealing with other appeals. He thought it humiliating that Canada had no accredited representative in Paris, and must work through the British Embassy.

Mr. McMaster (Independent Liberal, Brome) said that the question was a non-party one. He felt that the greatest welding power this country had was the spirit of nationhood that was grownig constantly. He proposed an amendment to Mr. Woodsworth's resolution providing that no amendment of the majority of Provinces in which majority New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Ontario, and Quebec must be included. These Provinces, Mr. McMaster pointed out, were the original parties to the contract.

Right Hon. A. Meighen, Opposition leader, said that British Columbia was no less a contracting party to the B.N.A. Act than any of the four parties mentioned.

Canadian Rights Recognized.

Premier King opposed the resolution. He quoted four instances where the British Government had readily assented to amendment of the constitution. There was little doubt that if Provincial and Federal Governments in Canada decided that any further change was necessary the British Government would not refuse to make the change. He quoted from the reports of the Imperial Conference to show that Canada's right to decide for itself was recognized by everybody there. Canada had already what the resolution ostensibly asked for, namely the right to legislate for its people in exactly the same way as the British Government legislated for the British people. The passage of this resolution would create a false impression abroad and at home that Canada suffered under a sense of inferiority, which was not true.

Mr. Woodsworth asked if reference of legal points to the British Privy Council were not an implication of inferiority.

Premier King replied that if the Canadian people as a whole wanted that changed it could be changed.

Mr. Irvine asked if the recognition by British of the Soviet Governmnt did not commit Canada to the same thing.

Premier King replied that Canada had a right to separate action in such matters. The matter of defence also of course, was one entirely for Canaad to decide.

Mr. Woodsworth asked if the wording of the resolution on defense adopted at the Imperial Conference, did not commit Canada to "Imperial responsibilties."

Premier King returned that he hoped the time would never come when Canada wanted to ignore all responsibility to the rest of the British Empire. The extent of that responsibility however, was a matter for the Canadian Parliament to decide even if it decided that Canada would take no action at all in the defence of the empire.

Mr. Meighen's Comments.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen said that Canada had all the rights in regard to her domestic affairs save that of amending the constitution. Canada's right to determine whether or not she should engage in empire wars had not been questioned for decades.

"All talk of this being a recent achievement is a dramatic attempt to burst through an open door," Mr. Meighen declared.

"For the last half century Canada had had ample rights. The strength of the present position lay in the fact that the rights of minorities were not only in the care of the Federal and Provincial Governments of Canada, but also in the care of the British Government. He felt that minorities in Canada regarded this as an additional security and would not readily relinquish it. But Canada was in no sense subordinate to anyone on earth. When the minority and majority in Canada agreed that they desired amendents to the constitution and so expressed themselves, there was no doubt that they would begranted.

Written by Canadians.

Hon. E. M. MacDonald, Minister of National Defence, warned the House against taking too seriously such resolutions as loosely drafted as the one introduced by Mr. Woodsworth. The B.N.A. Act, he said, was drawn up by the public men of Canada after due deliberation. Every line of it was written by a Canadian hand and we should hesitate before making any changes in it. The rights of Canada to make treaties were no longer questioned. There was no instance of the Imperial Parliament ever interfering with the Canadian Parliament in dealing with matters arising under the B.N.A. Act.

J. T. Shaw (Progressive, West Calgary) held that the present constitution of Canada might have been desirable in 1867, but self-governing dominions created since that time had control over their own constitutions. There was no doubt that the Imperial Government would grant any request that had the unanimous approval of the Canadian Parliament. But how could the Senate be reformed while the unanimous approval of Parliament was needed before the B.N.A. Act could be amended?

Dardanelles Crisis.

Mr. Shaw urged the need of better methods of keeping the Dominions informed in regard to foreign affairs and pointed to the Dardanelles crisis of 1922 as an example of the welfare of the present system. At that time Mr. Meighen had advised that Canada should say "ready, aye ready." Apparently Mr. Meighen had been under the impression that Canada should support the treaty of Sevres. If his advice had been taken, Canada might have been plunged into a war for a treaty that did not exist, for the treaty of Sevres was being ignored by everyone else.

Mr. Meighen asked if Mr. Shaw thought it was fair to bring this matter up at a period of the debate when it was clear that Mr. Meighen could not speak. Mr. Shaw replied by suggesting that the House might give Mr. Meighen unanimous consent to speak. No further action was taken, however.

GEN. ELECTRIC CO. IS CHARGED WITH BREAKING THE LAW

Conspiracy in Restraint of Trade and Violation of the Anti-Trust Law Is the Charge.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 21. — Conspiracy in restraint of trade and in violation of the anti-trust law, was charged to the General Electric Co., and its entire system for manufacturing and distributing electric light bulbs, late yesterday, in a suit filed in the Federal Court here by United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein.

The petition demands that a system of contracts existing between the General Electric Company and the several companies engaged in the distribution of lamps manufactured by the company, be adjudged a violation of the anti-trust law and that they be ordered annulled.

With the General Electric Company The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, and the Westinghouse Lamp Company, are named as co-defendants.

The latter corporation is characterized in the suit as "but a bureau or division of the parent company's (the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company) business." Three companies are alleged to form a combination of monopoly of the electric light business.

This suit was filed under the direction of Attorney General Daugherty.

The suit harks back to patent rights claimed by the General Electric Company for exclusive manufacture of tungsten filaments used in the better type of electric light bulbs.

The General Electric's exclusive control of them, the petition avers, vests in them a practical monopoly of the manufacture and sale of electric light lamp bulbs.

NEWS OF INTEREST IN NORTH MONAGHAN

NORTH MONAGHAN, March 21.—Mr. Hunter of 30 George street, Peterborough, has rented the farm lately vacated by Mr. Webster Sage.

This is the most perplexing time of the year to farmers and others living in the country districts in the matter of getting to the city, as while sleighing is still good in the country districts, the sleighing has completely gone in the city and where possible wheels are perhaps the best to use.

A large number of North Monaghan residents will be pleased when they can use Park street south again.

Apparently there is not much frost in the ground as the snow seems to soak in as it melts, instead of running off and causing floods.

MEYERSBURG COUPLE'S WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. James Jones Surprised By Children on 35th Anniversary of Marriage--Campbellford High School Will Likely Be Opened on May 1st.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 21.—The children of Mr. and Mrs. James Jones of Meyersburg surprised their parents Wednesday evening when they gathered at the parental home to celebrate the 35th anniversary of the marriage of the old folks Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. William Moore and little son, Ralph of Morganston, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Isaac of Warkworth and Mr. and Mrs. D. A. McCook of Campbellford. Mesdames Moore, Isaac and McCook are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jones. William Jones a son lives with his parents on the homestead. Another son, R. E. Jones of Toronto, who was unable to be present, telephoned his congratulations.

After the serving of lunch Mr. and Mrs. Jones were presented with a bouquet of carnations and a handsome gas lamp, the gifts being accompanied by best wishes for a long and happy life. The daughters had prepared a large wedding cake which was decorated with candles and roses The evening was pleasantly spent in games and music.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones, who have lived in the vicinity of Meyersburg, all their lives, were married at the home of Mrs. Jones, 35 years ago by Rev. Mr. Anderson who at that time was pastor of the Campbellford Methodist Church. Both are enjoying excellent health and have the prospect of many years of life before them. Mrs. Jones, whose maiden name was Maud Doxsee, is a member of a family well known in Campbellford. Her brother, the late Captain Will Doxsee, who lost his life in the World War, was the first mayor of this town. Another brother, Ernest Doxsee, also fell in the war.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones enjoy the esteem of a large circle of friends who will join in wishing them many happy returns.

SAWING TO BEGIN

McKelvie and McCook are this week operating a saw mill near Havelock, where they purchased a stock of logs some time ago. They will start their mill here next week. This season's cut will be unusually large as every available foot of space in the yard is filled with fine logs of different varieties.

Work on High School

Architect Coon of Toronto, who prepared the plans and supervised the construction of the new High School was here yesterday to look over the building. He found everything satisfactory, the material used being of the highest quality. It is expected that the work will be completed in time to permit of the formal opening of the building by May 1st.

News Notes

J. A. Smith is hauling bricks with which to veneer the handsome residence which he erected last summer on Sebastapol street.

The Mother's Conferences, to be conducted by Miss Reba Veitch, provincia health nurse, will begin next Wednesday afternoon and be held weekly on that day until further notice. Indutrial instruction will be given in the care of infant's and children up to school age. As the weight of a baby is regarded as the best index of its physical condition scales have been provided for weighing the little one. This is an excellnt opportunity, especially for young mothers, to obtain practical advice on the feeding and care of their children. The sessions will begin at 3 o'clock every Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Veitch is engaged during the day working in the schools of the town, where she finds the general health of the children fully up to the average. For the convenience of those who may wish to consult with her, she may be seen daily at her office in the Ferris block from 1.30 to 2.30 p.m.

Twelve O'Clock Club

The Twelve O'clock Club held another successful dance last night in the Regent Theatre, a number of visitors from outside points being in attendance. NEW CANADIAN OFFICE ANNOUNCED AT OTTAWA

OTTAWA, March 21.—(Canadian Press.)—There was a brief discussion in tthe House of Commons last night on motion of John Miller (Progressive, Qu Appelle) that the standing committee on railways should inquire into the matter of saving that may be effected on transportation of grain by deepening the St. Lawrence river apart from any saving that may be effected through deepening of the Welland canal. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways, remarked that the Canadian Government had already announced its intention to appoint a national committee to study the St. Lawrence waterway scheme and suggested that Mr. Miller withdraw his motion. To this Mr. Miller agreed. Announcement regarding purchase of new Canadian offices in London, England, was made by Hon. J.H. King, Minister of Public Works.

Government has secured Union Club building at Cockspur street and Trafalgar Square on lease for hundred years. Ground rental is to me £2,850 and Canadian Government is paying £225,000 to present holders of lease for their rights.

NEWS EAST EMILY AND THE DISTRICT.

Contract Let For Making Cheese and Butter — Personal Mention.

EAST EMILY, March 21.—Mr. Harry Deyell made a business trip to Frazerville on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Harrison and children have moved to the house at the cheese factory. Mr. Harrison has taken over the contract of making cheese and butter for this season.

Mr. Eugene Switzer and sister, Miss Ida, spent the week-end at the home of their sister, Mrs. Alvin Drain at Clarina.

The young people of the neighborhood gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ellwood Deyell last Monday night and presented them with a miscellaneous shower. A very pleasant evening was spent in music and dancing which was very much enjoyed.

Mrs. Alvin Drain has returned home to Clarina after spending the past two weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Switzer.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Magee were visitors to Peterboro on Saturday.

Mrs. Wilbert Fee and little daughter Francis, spent the past week visiting friends in Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Wylie Guthrie and two children Margaret and Jim, have returned home to Mumford, Rochester, after spending the past week with the latter's mother, Mrs. Chas. Mills, Sr.

Mr. Cecil Casey spent the week-end visiting with friends in Peterboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Sayward Switzer were business visitors to Peterboor last week.

Mrs. L. Wilson spent a few days last week at the home of her brother, Mr. Bert Mills of Smith township.

Quite a number from the neighborhood attended the play in Coronation Hall in Omemmee on Monday night which was given by the young people of Omemee Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Wilson spent Sunday visiting at the home of the former's daughter, Mrs. S. J. Sluggett in Peterboro.

Mrs. H. Jackson has returned home to Peterboro after spending an extended visit at the home of her son, Mr. Wilfried Jackson.

Mr. C. Peacock of Springville attended the funeral of his brother-in-law, the late Mr. Joseph McConnell on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. J. Pogue of Lindsay attended the funeral of her brother, the late Mr. Joseph McConnel, on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Fee were visitors at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. anu Mrs. J. D. Hunter of Cavanville recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Armstrong attended the funeral of the latter's father, the late Mr. James Wood of Bailieboro last Friday.

SCIENCE DEMANDS UNIFORMITY.

Careful research made in recent years in the study of dietetics has shown the great importance to the human system of purity and uniform quality in foods. It is a great blessing that to-day so many delicious foods as well as tea and coffee can be produced in tins and sealed metal packages. "SALADA" Tea was one of the first pure food products to become widely popular in Canada. The flavour preserving aluminum package keeps the tea fresh and delicious. Skilful blending maintains the quality absolutely uniform.

SPOILING A GOOD PARTY.

A shy young hostess, in an effort to be genial, led aside the comparative stranger, whose name somehow, had eluded her.

"Look," she said, "I've paired you off with that lady in the corner. Will you take her in to dinner? My husband says she is a regular bore, but she's got lots of money, and one of his clever friends just married her for it, so we must be nice to her."

"I am sorry, madam," replied the guest, "but I am the clever friend in question."

PROTECTING THE FISH.

Some time ago the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association passed a resolution calling attention to the necessity of greater protection for game fish during the spawning season.

It is to be hoped that this matter will be brought before the attention of the Provincial authorities and pressed vigorously.

The spawning season is close at hand, and if anything is to be done to ensure a closer supervision at that period it will have to be done at once.

It is obvious that there are not enough permanent overseers to patrol the whole district effectively during spawning, and the only practical solution would seem to be the employment of temporary officials in sufficient numbers to enable an adequate watch to be kept.

The slaughter of spawning fish each spring is doing an immense amount of harm, and unless it is checked the waters of this district will be depleted of game fish.

If tourists are to be brought here on a large scale it is obvious that our fishing resources will have to be developed and protected, and just now the principal duty is to see that the spawning period is not taken advantage of by the pirates who make yearly raids.

THE MISSIONS' CONFERENCE.

The World Missions' Conference which opens in Peterborough today and continues until Monday evening, will be notable for the number of leaders in mission work that it will bring together.

Probably no gathering in the history of this city has seen the presence of so many prominent missionary workers as will take part in the local conference.

The object of the conference, of course, is primarily publicity.

It is felt that the congregations of the churches of Canada are not fully awake to the opportunity that the various mission fields offer Christianity.

It is realized that to the majority of church-goers the events that are taking place in other lands mean little or nothing.

They give to missions or they don't give—and in either case few of them know anything of the real conditions.

The present rally is designed to throw some light upon the foreign fields, to give publicity to some of the principal facts in connection with foreign missions and to bring to the front some of the opportunities that present themselves.

The speakers who will be heard at the various meetings are at the top of the mission ladder in their respective churches.

They will have a vast store of unusual information to impart regarding people and conditions in far off lands, and every session should be full of interest.

NECESSITIES—NOT LUXURIES.

The Examiner not long ago took the attitude that the Government would not be justified in adopting the suggestion of the Vegetable Growers' Association that a heavy tax should be put on fruits, salad plants and vegetables coming into this country from the United States.

The Hamilton Spectator, however, sees in the proposal a possible restruction of what it terms the extravagance of Canadians in purchasing fruits and vegetables out of season.

But is it extravagance? Is it not common sense?

The doctors and dietitians declare that Canadians do not eat enough vegetables, especially during the winter and early spring.

They would be much better oft with less meat and pastry and substituting fresh vegetables.

Then why prohibit these articles of diet by a heavy tax, thus classing what are now regarded as necessities as luxuries?

As a matter of fact, Canada would have everything to lose and nothing to gain by a policy such as the Vegetable Growers propose.

The contention of the Globe that, seeing that the varieties of the climate throughout North America makes a continuous supply of fresh vegetables available, a tax would be a needless rejection of the bounty of Providence, will be generally approved.

ON THE RIGHT PATH.

While it is apparent that all the Ministers have not been equally keen in reducing expenditures, the main estimates brought down by Hon. J. A. Robb in the House on Wednesday should give satisfaction to the people generally in the evidence they afford of a genuine and successful effort on the part of the Governmen to retrench.

Canada's estimated expenditure for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1925, is $400,571,850.24, as compared with $446,945,565.82 in the fiscal year ending on the 31st of this month, a decrease of $46,337,715.58.

In other words, the cost of government in Canada has been reduced at the rate of $5 per head of the population.

Only in five items in the whole list is there an increase indicated, while the greatest saving is found in the cost of operating the railways and canals, which has been cut down from $77,452,000 to $58,116,000.

The withdrawal of grants to assist the agricultural work of the various Provinces is responsible for a big saving, the Department of Agriculture estimates showing a drop of $1,269,000, while other large cuts are $3,714,000 in the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment Department, $2,400,000 in Soldiers' Land Settlement and $1,144,000 in the Militia Department.

A good start has been made, and the Government should be persistent in its efforts to eliminate unnecessary expenditure wherever a chance to save is indicated.

The people, regardless of political affiliations, are looking for such a policy to be consistently followed by all spending bodies.

MAKE CONSTANT STUDY.

Ald. Frank McKay, during the discussion of a tariff resolution at the London City Council, declared that he favored a tariff commission, on which would be representatives of various parties, it being their particular duty to secure information at all times as to the workings and results of tariff measures, and to keep the Government constantly informed of changes needed, says the London Advertiser.

There have been tariff commissions in Canada, and they gathered information extensively. Public sittings were held at various points throughout the country, where men might meet with them and place their views and the needs of their different establishments or vocations.

Too often at these sittings the whole affair turns into a debating society, where the pros and cons of tariff are argued. The real value of such a body would come from their power to secure first hand information, backed up, not by opinions, but positive facts from the books of the companies concerned.

It might be argued that this would be shirking Government responsibility, and departing from the principle that a Government should adopt a policy and stand or fall by it. The latter idea is sound politics, but it is not sound business unless the policy of a Government is based on a positive knowledge of the manner in which a tariff is doing the things it was intended to do. That positive knowledge can best be secured by constant and unremitting study of the conditions of industry, agriculture and the position of the consumer.

For these reasons there is considerable force to the suggestion of Ald. McKay, not that there is a desire to add to the number of commissions or to shift responsibility from any Government, but that information might be placed at the disposal of the present or any other Government, as free as possible from political bias, and of such a nature that it could be regarded as a reliable basis on which to discuss tariff changes.

AMERICA AND EUROPE.

"Blessed are the peace-makers, for they shall be called the children of God."

With this quotation from the Beatitudes, Sir Esme Howard, the new British Ambassador to Washington, closed his address last night to the Pilgrim Society in New York. He had been appealing to the Americans not to "leave Europe to stew in its own juice." He based his appeal, not purely upon moral grounds, but upon the argument that "so much of America's own future prosperity" depends upon peace and recuperation in Europe.

All intelligent Americans see this. To paraphrase an old saying in reference to Austria, "if Europe did not exist, the United States would have to invent it." The standard of living, the scale of comfort—to say nothing of the degree of culture—in the United States would fall by at least fifty per cent. if Europe were either to disappear or to plunge into another mediaeval abyss. Mere disintegration and chaos in Europe might not hit the Americans so heavily; but it would hit them hard.

However, the question of intervention is really only one of degree. The Americans are intervening now. Their charity to the hungry children of mid-Europe and of the war-infected sections of Asia has been and is enormous. They have sent unofficial "observers" to many of the international conferences—not, we imagine, merely to pass the time. The Dawes Commission on German ability to pay is to report this week, and all Europe awaits its findings. They are intervening as far as their rulers think would be effective and profitable. Europe, of course, wants very much more help; but Europe has been amazingly inept in helping itself and so winning American confidence.

* * * *

But when we come to talk of "peace-making," no one can make peace in Europe but Europeans. The late President Wilson thought otherwise. He set out to spread-eagle prostrate Europe into a permanent rigidity, and tie it down so tight that it could neither "pull" a revolver nor lift a finger. But Europe refused to be "spread-eagled." Disagreed on everything else, it was agreed on that. The consequence was that when Wilson got his patent plan through at Paris, it was so wrenched and disjointed and truncated that he would have disowned it himself if he had dared. As it turned out the American Senate disowned it for him—and incidentally drove him and his party from power.

The possibility of American intervention by force in Europe disappeared for this generation when Wilson failed in Paris. If that was a loss to Europe in the last analysis, the clever gentlemen who so neatly "euchred" the Princeton schoolmaster must enjoy the credit of having caused that loss. It was the feeling in the United States that Wilson had been played with and fooled and "outclassed" in Paris which had very much to do with damping down that irresistable wave of enthusiasm which was carrying the Americans, confident and cock-a-whoop, into "the peace," just as they had betn swept into the war. But when they lost confidence in the Wilson leadership and the noble unity of the Allies, their impulse was to turn their backs on an unregenerate and ungrateful Europe. And they "obeyed that impulse."

Ever since then, the amazement has not been that the United States has abstained, but that she has fidgetted about so much in her obvious desire to intervene. Harding was no sooner in power than he called the Disarmament Conference. He was always sending unofficial "observers" to gatherings, where they generally did quite a lot of advising. And, in spite of the fact that he had won his election by black-painting the horrors of "European entanglements," almost his last act was to propose an entanglement which looked very like the League under another name.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Juvenile crime seems to be on the increase. Witness the arrest of eight-year-old Hamilton youngsters on a charge of playing marbles.

Winston Churchill has been rejected again. But it is still too early to write his political epitaph.

Stratford's Chamber of Commerce secured 275 new members in a two days' campaign. There should be that many new members in the Peterborough Chamber this year.

Recent investigations in Ontario, says the Globe, have disclosed the fact that the habit of serving the public for nothing has not become widespread.

It is evident from the Public Accounts Committee probe that Mr. Douglas K. Ridout is not a dollar-a-year man.

The Legislature session is expected to be over by April 10th. That will establish a new record and along the right lines.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 20.— Export business in corn served to bring about higher prices to-day both for corn and wheat. Strength was developed independently by oats. Wheat closed firm at the same as yesterday's finish to 5-8 and 3-4c. higher, May $1.04 7-8 to $1.05, and July $1.06 to $1.06 3-8, with corn 3-8c. to 3-4c. up; oats, showing 1-4 and 3-8c. to 3-4c. gain, and provisions varying from 2c. decline to a rise of 10c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 20. — The wheat market continued dull and featureless to-day with only a light volume of trade passing. After a fairly steady opening values showed an easier tendency, the May future touching a low of 99 1-4. Later there was a little short covering in evidence and prices worked higher, the closing being quiet and firm at around the high for the day, and recording a gain of 3-8c. for May, 1-2c. for July and 3-8c. for October.

DOCTOR KING ON STAND IN CASE AGAINST HIM UNDER NARCOTICS ACT

Expert Medical Witnesses Called For Defence and Alibi Entered — Motion For Dismissal Refused By Magistrate on Close of Crown Case.

ALL EVIDENCE IN.

Dr. De Courcy King was the first witness for the defense in the case against him charging illegal trafficking in drugs which lasted all day yesterday.

Following the closing of the Crown case Mr. Strickland, acting for Dr. King, asked for dismissal on the ground that the crown had not made out a case, but this was refused by Magistrate Langley after argument which His Worship himself decided by citing a recent decision ruling on the point in issue.

The courtroom was crowded throughout the hearing, the spectators overflowing from the public benches to the police quarters, draping themselves over doors, standing in the aisles and crowding the stairway.

Mr. Harry Rush, J.P., sat with Magistrate Langley for part of the afternoon.

Prosecution Closed.

Constable Puffer, recalled on the re-opening of court yesterday afternoon said he identified the bottles produced as those which he brought from Dr. McNair's office after he had made his analysis of the contents.

Edmund Quinlan, a laborer, said he had been to Dr. King's residence last in March 6. He had gone for drugs and asked for them but was not given any. The doctor said Collins and Yorke were pinched and he would not sell any. One the previous day he had obtained drugs from Dr. King. "I asked him if he had any morphine and I got 5 tablets for $1.

Before that, the witness said, he had been at Dr. King's office frequently for drugs and obtained them. Dr. King did not ask regarding his health or examine, he said.

On March 6 the only reason Dr. King gave for not supplying the drug was that Collins and Yorke were "pinched." The witness had seen Collins, Yorke and Alkenbeck going in to Dr. King's office. "When they came out I asked if the doctor had any drugs and I went and got some for myself."

"You are a drug addict?"

"Yes."

"Are they?"

"Yes. They are drug addicts."

Mr. Strickland cross-examining asked how long Quinlan had been an addict.

"Six months."

He admitted he had been a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital under Dr. Hewitt and was treated by Dr. Loudon for the drug habit.

"You went to Dr. King and told him you had been getting morphine from Dr. Loudon and he was not in the city and you asked Dr. King for morphine?"

"Yes."

"And you got 2 tablets?"

"No, I got laudanum the first time."

"What were you in the habit of getting from Dr. King?"

"Morphine and sometimes laudanum."

The witness said he was in the hospital 16 or 17 days when Dr. Hewitt discharged him, he being anxious to get out. He got out on March 4 and immediately tried to get more drugs.

"How is it you weren't gathered in with the rest of your friends?"

"I must have just missed. I was there between twenty minutes to eight and eight o'clock."

"You do not know another man was gathered in at 8 o'clock that night?

Where as a matter of fact were you on March 6?"

"I met Dr. King before he went into the office and went around the corner to let him get into the office."

This closed the case for the Crown.

Defense Ask Dismissal.

Mr. Strickland declared the Crown had failed to make out a case. The drug had not been analysed by the proper authority. The bottles had been around the police station not sealed. The utmost case should be taken with all samples submitted as evidence, he said.

Magistrate Langley: "There is the evidence of the man that he had obtained laudanum."

Mr. Strickland: "That may be true but you have the evidence of Hargrove that a drug addict will lie to get the drug. This is a very serious case and my client is entitled to every protection."

Magistrate Langley: "He is entitled to the protection given him by British law."

Mr. Strickland said the Crown had failed to show that it was laudanum that was prescribed for or given to any of the witnesses. He objected to the evidence of Alcombeck, Quinlan, Killenbeck, and to the recalling of Detective Carey and Constable Puffer.

Replying, Mr. Hatton said to his mind, the proof of the contents of the bottle being laudanum was sufficient, and that the Crown had absolute control of the bottle throughout.

"If we hadn't found any drugs the evidence still is that the accused had been supplying drugs to Collins," Mr. Hatton said.

Magistrate Langley said he could not accede to the motion, believing the evidence of Collins regarding the laudanum, and said the onus is on the defendant to show that the drug is permitted under the narcotic drug act. For the present, he said, he thinks the evdence objected to by Mr. Strickland is admissable.

Defense Started.

Dr. King was the first witness called by Mr. Strickland for the defense. He said Collins is a patient of his and explained a patient is one who consults a doctor in any way. "Collins came to me and told me he had been in the habit of taking drugs for some time. I continued to treat Collins for a little over a year. I have treated him once this month. On March 5 Collins was in my office and asked for heroin. I didn't have any. I did not supply him with laudanum that night. Previously when prescribing laudanum I told him to take 15 drops of it. I never heard of taking laudanum hypodermically."

When Collins came to Dr. King first he was very ill and weak, and had been taking five or ten heroin tablets a day. Dr. King admitted that he supplied heroin tablets in the first part of his treatment. "The treatment was working satisfactorily in regard to heroin and I switched him to morphine. From that I took him to laudanum. He would get half an ounce every day or two. I consider I was breaking him off the habit. He was looking better. My candid opinion is that he was getting drugs elsewhere."

Dr. King said he did not see Collins at noon on March 5. He did see him that night. Dr. King could not tell how Collins came into possession of the laudanum.

"I consider Hargrove was an addict," Dr. King said referring to another witness, "and treated him as such."

Hargrove was a patient for some time and Dr. King considered him a good patient who tried to break off the habit.

"Did you ever supply him with any drugs other than for medicinal purposes?"

"I did not. Hargrove had been taking large doses of heroin, but under treatment he progressed very well. There were never more than three of four occasions when he showed evidence of having too much."

Dr. King said he had treated Killenbeck for the drug habit, and Alcombeck was another patient. The doctor denied Alcombeck's statement that he had been supplied with drugs three months ago.

Quinlan called on him once when he said he had been getting drugs from a doctor and had been in the hospital. Dr. King telephoned to the doctor but he was not in. "I gave him 2 one quarter grain tablets to put him over the night. He came back on the 6th and I told him I wouldn't give him any as there had been some trouble."

"What is the medical opinion of men addicted to this habit?"

It is not very good. The authorities are Tyson and Osler. They say these addicts cannot be relied on and will tell all manner and shape of lies to obtain drugs."

Judged By Appearance.

Mr. Hatton cross-examined Dr. King.

"These patients you refer to are not the only patients you have."

"No."

"You have known most of them for a year?"

"Yes. I have only known Quinlan about three weeks and he gave his name as Quinn."

"These people told you their condition and you believed them?"

"Yes. I could see at a glance that was what ailed them. I knew from my personal experience of drug addicts."

"What is a patient, in your opinion as a medical man?"

"Anyone who consults a physician by telegram, telephone or person."

"Well take the patient who calls you by telephone. He tells you his symptoms and you believe him?"

"Yes."

"Then you trust him?"

"Not everyone. They are like clients of lawyers. They promise to come around on paynight——"

Mr. Hatton: "Never wait for them—they never come."

"Did you ever diagnose his condition?"

"Yes, by his facial expression and what he told me."

"Dr. King said he treated Collins up to March 4 when he got an ounce of laudanum. Next day he called and asked for heroin but was given none. He had given Collins a half ounce every two or three days.

Dr. King had told the man he must cut out the habit. He had no heroin in the office on March 5. He advised Collins to go into St. Joseph's Hospital and stay a couple of week to break him off.

Mr. Hatton: "It takes at least six months to break a man completely of the habit?"

"Yes."

"Then there wouldn't be any use in going for two weeks?"

"It all depends on their condition."

"If they couldn't get any drugs that would tend to break them off?"

"Yes."

"But your treatment breaks them off gradually?"

"Yes. Its the only treatment possible."

"Regarding their veracity you believed them when they told you their symptoms?"

"Yes, but I was able to check them up by their condition."

Asked whether he would believe a drug addict who had been without drugs for a month, Dr. King said it depended upon his condition.

"But if they hadn't had drugs for a month would you believe them?"

"I might and I might not."

"It just depends on you?"

"Yes."

"An ounce of laudanum is a liberal prescription to sell to a drug addict?"

"I wouldn't consider it so. I never give out more than five heroin tablets a day. I never sold more than an ounce of laudanum in a day. That is all I thought they should have to keep them out of misery."

"That is you gave them this to keep them addicts?"

"No I did not.

Dr. King described from his case card the treatment given Collins from February 1923 and Hargrove from March 1923.

Referring to the cards on which Dr. King kept his case records, Mr. Hatton asked whether the cards were copies of the originals Dr. King denied that they were and said they were made out at the time the calls were made. He could produce the remainder of his pile in a few minutes, he said.

"Donnelly you didn't sell to?"

"I never saw him from ten years ago."

"Didn't any of the addicts tell you he was being treated?"

"No."

"You treated Killenbeck also?"

"Yes, as an addict."

"And Alcombeck?"

I started to treat him a year ago but he has not been in my office for six or seven months. He may have broken off completely."

"And Quinlan?"

"I only saw him once, when he said Dr. Loudon was out. Next day he wanted more drugs and I wouldn't give him any."

"He told you he had been getting drugs from Dr. Loudon?"

"He did. He said he had been in hospital."

"He had just got out of the hospital and you gave him—"

"No I didn't know he had just got out."

Collins was in Dr. King's office on the 5th and was refused drugs. Yorke was the only other one who was there that night, the doctor said

"You say you were not in your office from 10.15 to 1 on the 5th?"

"No I was not. I was in a barber shop between 12.30 and 12.35

"What shop?"

"Well, it was a cigar store—McAuleys. Then I went to the Nut Krust."

"When you speak of the veracity of these drug addicts you don't mean they never afterwards tell the truth?"

"Oh no. I find they lie only in regard to getting the drug. They will do anything at all for an excuse to get it."

Dr. King could not identify the bottles produced, since he has various makes of bottles and there are many other use the same kind of bottles. There were no labels on the bottles he gave the patients under his care.

"If it should happen that this was the opium you gave to Collins could you tell us the strength of it?"

"No. They vary some."

"Do you know where you got that?"

"No."

"What strength do you expect to get when you order?"

"The standard would be one-fifth of a grain in 29 minims. There would be abut 3 grains of morphine in an ounce of laudanum."

"Do you dilute it to give to the addicts?"

"No."

Dr. King did not know the amount of opium in an ounce of the laudanum. He remembered an interview with Collins in the police station but didn't remember telling Chief Newhall that Collins was not in his office on March 5.

"Do you remember telling the chief that you did not sell a speck of drugs to any person that night?"

"Yes. I had not prescribed any narcotic drugs that night?"

Mr. Strickland: "The chief has the happy faculty of getting a man in and talking him blue in the face before he gets a chance to see a lawyer."

Dr. King said his office had been broken into several times and he had notified the police on two or three different occasions. Drugs were taken. The other day he missed a half ounce of cocaine he had had in the office many years. Other drugs were stolen.

Sometimes he treated the drug addicts in his home.

Presents Alibi.

Peter Simons said Dr. King was served by him in McAuley's store about 12.30. "The next day he came in and asked me if I remembered the time I served him and I said yes."

Mr. Hatton: "When did he first speak to you about that?"

"Next morning."

"What time?"

"I couldn't say for sure."

"And he dropped in on purpose to ask you?"

"I couldn't say as to that."

"Sometime the next day he called your attention to the time you had served him the day before?"

"No, he did not. He just asked me if I remembered the time."

"When was he in last?"

"Yesterday or the day before."

"You don't remember?"

"No, but I remember that date."

"You don't recollect what time the doctor was in next day?"

"No."

"How did you hear about it or why he asked me."

Mr. Hatton asked that the case cards recording Dr. King's cases be produced, and Mr. Strickland objected and refused to produce the case, being sustained by Magistrate Langley.

William Earl Green said he is a barber, carrying on business in rear of McAuley's tobacco store. On March 5 between 12.30 and 12.35 Dr. King was in the store. He remembered this because on the following day Dr. King came in and asked him if he remembered.

Answering Mr. Hatton Green said he could not recall at what time Dr. King called next day. It was in the early hours of the day. He would call early hours around noon. He couldn't remember whether it was just before or after he returned from dinner.

"Where did the conversation take place."

"In the barber shop."

"Were you there at the time the doctor asked Peter."

"I was there at the time, but I didn't overhear the conversation."

Medical Testimony.

Dr. T. W. H. Young said Dr. King's treatment of drug cases was very good.

"People who take drugs get into such a condition that they are not to be depneded upon," he said.

There is a gram of opium in every 15 minims and one-fifth gram of morphia in 30 minims of laudanum. There would be 32 grains of opium in an ounce of tincture of opium, in common language, laudanum.

"In this laudanum that is merchantable today there are 64 grams in a two ounce bottle.

"Had you every any of these addicts before you as patients?"

"No."

"You heard Dr. King's statement of his treatment of these patients over a year. Would you have treated them in this way?"

"I would have become disgusted and thrown them out. I would not treat them if they did not follow my instructions."

"Would you have given them the same quantities of opium and heroin as Dr. King for a year?"

"I wouldn't have treated them a year."

Dr. Young said he had experience with drug addicts in an institution.

"When a patient has got into that state where he must have the drugs do you think it right to treat him at large for a year and a half?"

"You have to do the best you can. There are no special institutions for them in Canada."

"Having been away from drugs for a month would you believe them?"

"I wouldn't say a person who has been an addict is a confirmed liar all the rest of his life."

Was Best Treatment.

Dr. J. A. Morgan said nothing could be done in the case of ambulatory addicts but what Dr. King had done.

In cross-examination Dr. Morgan said he had treated a few—probably a couple of dozen, most of them in jail.

"The physician's duty is to cure the addict?"

"If he can."

"And one way is to remove the source?"

"Yes."

"Take your patients in the jail, how long does it take to cure them?"

"I can cut off the supply in a few days. They eat well and are on their feet."

In jail, addicts are given a grain the first day; three quarters the second day; half the third; quarter the fourth day and none the next day.

The addicts whom he treated lately in the jail seem to be alright now, Dr. Morgan said.

In re-examination by Mr. Strickland, Dr. Morgan said he does not think these men are cured. They are improving because they are in custody and unable to obtain the drug.

This closed the case and court adjourned until this morning for argument by counsel.

You'll Get Rid of Blackheads Sure

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxines powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dirt and dust and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxino powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

NOVA SCOTIA PASSED PARENT ACT IN HOUSE

HALIFAX, N.S., March 20 (Canadian Press). — An increase in the financial responsibility of the father of an illegitimate child to the maximum of $500.00 and a minimum of $150.00, and the law legitimatising a child born out of wedlock, providing the parents ultimately married, were the outstanding clauses of an Act passed in the Provincial Legislature in yesterday's session.

SENATE SCANDAL EVIDENCE BEING SOUGHT FOR NOW

Frank A Vanderlip Has Organized a Big Investigating Agency.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(United Press).—Frank A. Vanderlip, New York financier, has organized a big investigating agency to get evidence for the Senate scandal investigators.

Aroused at the criticism directed at him for relating rumors, Vanderlip has offered his great financial resources for the organization of what he calls "Federal Research Bureau," to investigate the conduct of the Federal departments and bring the truth before the public.

Conscious of the extreme enmity against him for this independent step, Vanderlip, it was revealed today, has taken out a personal accident insurance policy for $10,000,000. The proceeds of the policy are made payable to his wife, and two men associated with him in the Research Bureau, John Pearmain and Boyd Fisher.

His headquarters are the Shoreham Hotel here. There his agents come to report to him in his big suite and the documentary evidence handed over is stored by him in the largest safety deposit vault in Washington, which he has just obtained.

WORKERS COMPENSATION .. ACT IS TO BE AMENDED

TORONTO, March 21 (Canadian Press). — After considering the terms of the Bill sponsored by Attorney-General Nickle to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act, union labour, at a meeting in the Labour Temple yesterday, declared itself as unalterably opposed to the amendments which will be created by the Bill, and announced its intention of acquainting every Trade Unionist in the Province with the changes.

"No O.T.A. plebiscite will be allowed to obscure the changes which it is proposed to make in the administration of the Act. Its pernicious details will be placed before every Trade Unionist," said an official of a large union as he left the meeting, expressing the opinion that the Provincial Government might be attempting to persuade the wage earner with beer to accept detrimental changes in the Act.

HANNAH MISUNDERSTOOD!

One evening, after finishing work at the mill, Hannah, with Martha, her friend, went to the clerk of the parish church to give notice of her intended marriage.

The clerk proceeded to fill up the usual forms and ask the necessary questions, which were timidly but correctly answered, until the clerk asked, "Are you a spinster?"

"No, sir, I'm a weaver," replied Hannah. "Ain't I, Martha?"—Tit-Bits (London).

Snowy Bed Linen— fragrantly clean

Clothes washed with Sunlight Soap are naturally cleansed, not chemically cleaned. The pure Sunlight lather goes through and through the clothes, loosening dirt and restoring each thread to a natural state of cleanliness.

HOW sweet and wholesome is that welcome sense of fragrance which comes from well washed linen. How refreshing it is to lie between clean sheets, to rest one's head on a snow-white pillow case; to breathe deeply in an atmosphere of purity; to feel and to know that the things around you are absolutely clean.

To bring about this refreshing sense in the mind of guest or family is a triumph well worth the attention of any housewife. It is best accomplished by using Sunlight Soap.

To get bed clothes snowy white it is not necessary to boil them or rub holes on the wash board. The sure power of Sunlight Soap itself extracts every trace of soil while the things are soaking. In the rinse it all comes away—all the dirt and every particle of soapy matter, leaving not gray-whiteness, not yellow-whiteness, but snowy white purity and cleanliness.

Millbrook Debaters Won by Margin of Eight Points -- News of Interest.

MILLBROOK, March 20.—Miss E. Grandy, Miss M. B. and Miss Francis Turner, Miss Gertrude Gray, Miss Pearl Lamb, Miss Theo M'Bride, Mr. A. A. Needler and Dr. J. L. Stewart went to Peterboro on Monday evening and attended the debate held in St. George's Church in connection with the district cup series. The subject was: Resolved that steam of more value than electricity, the negative being upheld by Miss Theo M'Bride and Dr. L. J. Stewart, of the A.Y.P.A. of St. Thomas Church, Millbrook. By a margin of eight points the negative won, the total score being 162 and 170.

The next in the series will be held on April 8th, when Millbrook must come up against St. John's A.Y.P.A. of Peterboro, for final honors. The community generally will be unanimous in their hope that the cup comes to Millbrook this year. All Saints', Peterboro, had the honor of winning it last year, but three successive wins are necessary to its permanent possession.

Women's Auxiliary.

The regular March business and devotional meeting of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of St. Thomas Church was held on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. A. Smith. The president, Mrs. (Canon) Allen, took the chair, and conducted the opening prayers and litanies for auxiliaries, which are always an inspiring part of the monthly meetings.

There was a good attendance, one new member, Mrs. (Rev.) M. G. B. Williams, being warmly welcomed, as were also the secretary, Mrs. White, who has been in Toronto for some weeks, and Mrs. A. Witten, another member, who has spent the winter in New Jersey.

This was the first meeting at which the new "Bulletin," a printed record of the business and addresses of the monthly meeting of the board of managers, Toronto, was received and read. The general expression of appreciation of the new paper, which can be conveniently kept on file and used for reference purposes, followed its reading by the secretary.

Arrangements were completed for sending the annual bale of clothing, quilts, etc., for the Indian girl at the Blackfoot Home, Alberta, the first week in April. The girl, for whose outfit of dresses, underwear, boots, coats, hats, bedding, etc., the Auxiliaries of the parish hold themselves responsible each year, is thirteen everything in the bale being new, is approximately $65.00. For boots alone ten dollars are contributed. Sewing meetings are held throughout the year until the work is completed.

The chapter in the study book, "Japan in Transition," which has proved most interesting and profitable, was read by Mrs. Allen, and discussion of its contents followed.

Mrs. Smith, assisted by her daughter, Miss Muriel, served delicious refreshments, and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed before the guests dispersed after a hearty vote of thanks had been unanimously tendered the hostess for the hospitality of her home.

Successful Banquet.

A very successful banquet, under the auspices of the Tuxis Boys' organizations of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Anglican Churches, was held in the basement of the Methodist Church on Tuesday evening, with thirty-five guests in attendance.

The special object of the gathering was to receive a report of the third Older Boys' Parliament, which convened in Toronto, December 26th to 28th, 1923, from Mr. Oakley Carley, the member-elect from Durham County.

The tables were arranged as three sides of a hollow square, and the menu included hot pork and beans, bread and butter, tea biscuits, cake, pie, tarts, and coffee. The decorations which had been used for the St. Patrick's Day social the night before were still in place, and the large room looked most attractive for the occasion. The boys were quite independent, and allowed no feminine representatives present at all, laying the tables, presiding in the kitchen, doing any necessary waiting themselves, and finally washing the dishes and clearing away all remains of the feast with masculine assistance entirely.

There was a goodly representation of the Tuxis Squares of the three churches present, Rev. G. S. Gervan, Rev. S. T. Tucker, and Mr. F. W. Fallis, superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School, being also among the guests. Rev. M. G. B. Williams and Mr. E. E. Doxsee, of St. Thomas Church, were unavoidably absent.

At the conclusion of the banquet, Mr. F. N. Alcorn, president of the community association, took the chair, and proposed the toast to the King, Mr. Howard Lancashire, of the Presbyterian group, making able response. The toast to Our Country was responded to by Mr. Ewart Tucker, of the Methodist Square, and that of The Ladies by Mr. Jim Larmer, of Grace Church. The guest of the evening, Mr. Oakley Carley, responded to the final toast, The National Boys' Work Board.

After a jolly sing-song, Mr. Carley was called upon for his address, which was not only remarkably well delivered but full of interesting and helpful information as well. The Boys' Parliament is one of the most significant gatherings ever held in Toronto, composed as it is of hand-picked older boys, who come together from all parts of the province to discuss how best they can help the churches in the promotion of Trail Rangers" and Tuxis Boys' work. Owing to repairs on the legislative chamber at the Parliament buildings, the gathering was held in Convocation Hall, but exact parliamentary procedure was followed throughout. It is not a make-believe, but a real gathering for business, and a number of prominent city lawyers who attended some of the sessions, out of curiosity partly, and partly out of a real interest in boys' work, gave their undivided opinion that the actual Parliament can scarcely equal the alacrity, ability, and careful attention to detail with which the boy "premier" and his "cabinet," as well as the elected members, perform their work.

Over seventy constituences were represented, and it is expected that a larger number will elect members this year. Men of vision see that the task of governing the province, and ultimately the Dominion, will be revolutionized within the next ten or fifteen years as the result of this practical experience in the work of government. The four-fold development of the life—physical, intellectual, devotional, and social—which is emphasized by the boys and their leaders, will bear fruit in settling permanently the liquor traffic, the gambling evil, and kindred wrongs which now blot our national life.

A hearty vote of thanks was unanimously tendered Mr. Carley for his unusually interesting address, and after another sing-song, music with cornet, piano, and saxophone by Messrs. Ernest Barnham, Ewart Tucker, and H. Janes, the gathering was brought to a close with the National Anthem.

Apart from the town of Port Hope, which elected its own member last year, Mr. Oakley Carley represented the county of Durham, but it is expected that there will be a close contest for the honor of member this year, as several new Squares have been organized and a wider interest is being taken. Rev. S. T. Tucker was the returning officer for 1923

Personal Mention.

Mrs. J. R. Eakins and Mrs. E. White returned from Toronto on Saturday. Mrs. White has been in the city visiting her sister, Mrs. J. Fitzgerald, for some weeks, Mrs. Eakins going up for a few days in order to return with her.

Messrs. J. H. Paul, H. Roddy, and M. Todd are in Peterboro this week attending the convention of the Royal Black Preceptory for Ontario East. Rev. R. M. Paterson, of Frazerville, who has been Grand Chaplin for the past year, is also in attendance.

Rev. S. T. Tucker and F. N. Alcorn, president of the Peterboro District Young People's League, attended an executive meeting in the Reid Street Hall, Peterboro, on Wednesday. Among other important items under discussion was the arrangement of inter-League debates, these to be followed by an inter-district series, a silver cup to be the prize for the final winners. Definite steps will be taken in the immediate future to carry out the proposed plans.

PREMIER IS MUM ON LIQUOR VOTE

Half Million Dollar Item Passed in the House Yesterday.

TORONTO, March 21.— (Canadian Press.)—With one more futile effort on the part of W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., Liberal leader, to draw from Premier Ferguson an intimation of when the O.T.A. plebiscite might be held, the item of $500,000 in the supplementary estimates to meet the expense of the vote was carried in committee of supply in the Legislature last night. The House had spent practically the whole day in supply on the item of $10,000 for a special committee which is to investigate agriculture and in that pursuit to visit Great Britain and Denmark and it was almost 11 o'clock when the $500,000 item was reached.

When the vote was taken up Mr. Ferguson said: "It is only the vaguest estimate. We may not require it at all. When the Government makes up its mind that the people desire a vote we will have the machinery available.

Mr. Sinclair asked if this expense might not be obviated altogether, if the Government gave the House some indication of when the vote would be held, so that municipalities would be getting their lists ready.

Premier Ferguson said the government desired to know what time of year would prove the most economical to take the vote and was conferring with chief election officer on that and other means of keeping down expenses.

Mr. Sinclrai — If municipalities know now that there was to be a vote at the end of October or some time early in the aFll—

Premier Ferguson—If vote were not before Christmas there would be no trouble.

Mr. Doherty — You can't draw him.

A CHICAGO WOMAN WAS WALKING BAR

Left Trail of Hilarity in in Her Wake Until Police Stepped In.

CHICAGO, March 21. — Mrs. Josphine Kumtinan, aged 36 years, was arrested yesterday. At the police station detectives declared that she was the most complete "walking barroom" that they had ever seen. The detective sleuths noticed that Mrs. Kumtinan left a remarkable trail of hilarity in her wake and had been watching her for several days.

It was all explained when the police dismantled her.

Around her waist she wore a copper container, constructed in half moon shape, with a capacity of a gallon and a half. It was supported by harness over her shoulders, and around her neck. To conceal it she wore a long cloak and specially constructed corsets that fitted tightly down over it.

At the bottom and convenient to a pocket in the side of her cloak, there was a spigot, equipped with a valve and cut off so that the exact amount of liquor could be released by pressing a button. In one pocket of her coat she carried a "three finger" glass. She retailed at 50c a drink, and had established a regular beat where her customers could find her at stated hours.

Mr. Krumtinan furnished $1000 bail and the police impounded her perambulating saloon.

THE ADVANCED DOPE.

FATHER—Has that young man who is calling on you given you any encouragement, Emily?"

DAUGHTER—Oh, yes. Last night he asked me if you and Mother were pleasant to live with.—Selected.

SHAMROCK DAY IN LAKEFIELD

Sum of $63 Received For Girls' Orphanage By the Collectors of Catholic Women's League.

LAKEFIELD, Mar. 20.—The first annual "Shamrock Tag Day" held in Lakefield on Saturday last under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League was a great success. The amount of $63.00 was raised for the Girls' Orphanage, the young girls who tagged being so persuasive and faithful to duty that nearly everyone was "awearing of the green" before the day was over. One winsome little girl said "I'd be ashamed if I wasn't Irish," so, with enthusiasm such as that behind, success was assured. Miss E. Kennedy, president of the C. W. L., was in charge of the committee, and expressed great satisfaction at the result of the day.

The girls who tagged were: Misses Elmsley, Margaret Darcy, Margaret Charlton, Margeret Allen, Isabelle White Bridgetta McManus, Mary McFadden, Josephine Allen, Genevieve Allen, Helen McFadden and Margaret Lawless.

Misses Margaret Darcy and Theo. Elmsley were the winning team.

Personals

A. M. Fitzgerald, of Toronto, spent a few days in the village.

Mrs. J. N. Chant is visiting friends in Toronto.

Mrs. O. A. Langley was in the village from Peterborough on Tuesday.

Walter Nugent, of Peterborough, spent Tuesday in the village with friends.

At the meeting of the A. Y. P. A. held on Tuesday evening, Rev. Walter Cox gave an interesting and most instructive address on the early history of the church and its sacraments.

Mrs. Cheney and children, of Gore's Landing, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Waldon.

NEWS FROM WARSAW AND THE DISTRICT.

Roads Are Beginning to Break Up — Farmers Looking For Spring.

WARSAW, March 21.—E. H. Brown, Smith township, was in Warsaw Thursday.

Robert Tedford, Norwood, was in the village Wednesday.

Rev. Mr. Atkinson conducted the funeral services of a very old lady on a former charge last Wednesday.

Mr. Foster returned home on Thursday evening.

Glen Crowe is visiting in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen went to their new home on Monday. Tuesday.

Mrs. W. Forsythe and Mr. David Miller attended the Ontario Religious Education Council meeting last

Social and Bazaar.

The social and bazaar given by the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid last Tuesday evening was successful in every way; the receipts at the door and from the sale were good. There was a good attendance and Rev. Atkinson was chairman. Besides the sale and refreshments there was a good program consisting of solos by Mrs. Chas. Foster, Mrs. Munro, Misses Freena Cooper, Olga Miller and Vera Taylor; duets by Misses Lily and Olive Russel and Henry and Ernest Batten; recitations by Misses Cressa Crowe and Della Tucker; instrumental by Dr. Munro. Rev. F. G. Weir spoke on "The Oils of Life." At the close two quilts were put up at auction.

Church Service.

At the Sunday morning service at the Presbyterian Church, Rev. Mr. Atkinson preached a very strong temperance sermon. There is no mistaking his stand. Temperance requires earnest work and vigilance.

At the evening Methodist service Rev. F. G. Weir preached on sacrifice speaking of the superstitious sacrifice to appease spirits, selfish sacrificing of something or some one else. Up to the perfect sacrifice of Christ, who freely offered himself a perfect sacrifice.

The pie social held in Cotessloe Bonday was gratifying to the ladies of the Missionary Society which got it up. There was a good program, mostly local talent. Dr. Munro gave an address on "St. Patrick." He said he was not speaking as belonging to any sect, but as a citizen of the world.

The snow went rapidly last week and roads are quite bad in some places. The road to Peterboro has many pitch holes. A few places are bare.

Inspector Lees was at Warsaw school on Wednesday.

Several cars were in the village Wednesday.

AUTOMOBILE CRASH HAD FATAL RESULT

DETROIT, Mich., March 21. — (Canadian Press). — Robt. J. McCallum, 40 years old, Vandyke Avenue, a wealthy manufacturer and real estate man, and a native of Georgetown, Ontario, received injuries from which he died a short time later, and his eleven-year-old daughter, Eleanor, sustained a fractured skull yesterday when his automobile crashed into a taxicab at the intersection of Agnes and Seminola Avenues. The child's condition is critical.

No Heart Action For Half Hour Woman Lives

SUNBURY, Pa., March 21.—(Canadian Press). — Revived after her heart action and respiration had ceased for half an hour, Miss Mary Marcone, aged 20, of Kulpmont, is on a fair way to recovery at Shamokin State Hospital, said Dr. George W. Reese, chief surgeon, last night. The girl was undergoing an operation for goitre when she apparently died. Dr. Reese made an incision in her breast, and with his hands massaged her heart. He also applied adrenalin.

FUNERAL WENDED WAY OVER TRAIL

The Body of Mrs. Wesley Dulmage Conveyed Fifteen Miles to Lasswade Cemetery.

APSLEY, Mar. 20—The funeral took place in Lasswade Cemetery on Monday of Mrs. Wesley Dulmage, who passed away at the family residence at Oak Lake on Saturday last, in her sixty-sixth year. The body was conveyed to Grace Methodist Church, a distance of fifteen miles, over a hard trail, where the funeral service was held by the Rev. E. McTavish, Methodist minister of Apsley. The deceased lady leaves behind a sorrowing husband, four daughters, Mrs. Leslie Carl, George Monaghan, Mrs. Fred Whitmore, Mrs. Geo. Oinment, and two sons, Edward and Stewart.

Personals

Mrs. J. Buchanan, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is recovering and is now convalescent.

Miss Mackenzie has gone to Montreal after a visit with the Rev. and Mrs. McTavish.

Miss Lulu Knox has returned home after a long visit with her sister.

Miss Charlotte Tucker has returned home after spending the winter in Keene.

Mrs. Charles Tanner has been the guest of Mrs. Dean for a week.

Mrs. C. Windsor was in Peterborough a few days last week.

A Correction

In the minutes of the last council meeting of Burleigh and Anstruther the name of Mr. Harry G. Stubbs was mentioned among those in arrears of taxes who would be proceeded against. This was a regrettable error as Mr. Stubbs has never been in arrears for the taxes on his island.

DELORO CHILDREN ARE VACCINATED

No Smallpox In Village But Serum Was Injected As a Precaution.

DELORO, Mar. 20.—Nurse Watt and Dr. Crawford of Marmora vaccinated the children in the separate and public schools to guard against the outbreak of smallpox. Free vaccination is also being given all the employees of the company. No cases have been reported.

The 17th was celebrated by a jolly dance in the hall on Monday evening. Quite a number of young people from Marmora were present.

Mr. N. Kilpatrick is in Madoc attending the funeral of his father, Mr. J. Kilpatrick, who died very suddenly.

Mr. A. Quinn is in the hospital suffering from an attack of "flu."

St. Lawrence River Soon Be Navigable.

QUEBEC, March 21. — It is being freely predicted in marine circles that the first ocean arrivals this year will be in a position to proceed through the Gulf of St. Lawrence with little or no trouble from ice, due to the almost unprecedented conditions existing at the present time. Everything points to the river being free from ice from two to three weeks earlier than last season, which should make one of the earliest openings of navigation for a great many years.

The St. Lawrence River was officially declared entirely free of ice last season on April 29.

SETTLERS FROM NORTHERN ZONE

British, American, or Scandinavian Immigrants Recommended By Deputation to Hon. Mr. Robb.

OTTAWA, March 21.—(Canadian Press).— With recommendations regarding the selection, assimilation and employment of imigrants representatives of the Federated Boards of Trade of Ontario waited on Hon. J. A. Robb, minister of immigration and colonization here Thursday afternoon. The opinions presented to the minister were the result of a convention of the Federated Boards of Trade and were presented by Hon. George P. Smith, former minister of education in the province of Alberta.

In presenting the case to the minister, it was said that as large a percentage as possible of new settlers should be of British, American, or Scandinavian extraction. Those incapable of good citizenship in a vigorous northern clime should not be brought to our shores. In regard to centage as possible of new settleds even remotely approaching the "open door" would be more acceptable if accompanied by an assurance that the federal authorities would assume a greater responsibility in the future to make sure that uniformity of opportunity of education would be given to non-English settlers who are brought in. A national council on citizenship should be created. It was pointed out that in only one year between 1900 and 1922 did the percentage of non-English speaking immigrants exceed 25 per cent of the total number entering the country.

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSES SCARCE

Victorian Order's Directors Approved Admission of Graduate Nurses For Two Months' Probation and Intensive Training to Supply Need.

OTTAWA, March 21.—(Canadian Press).—The acute shortage of public health nurses was repeatedly emphasized at the 28th annual meeting of the board of directors of the Victorian Order of Nurses here on Thursday. Steps to overcome this difficulty were taken by the passing of the following resolution:

"That the chief superintendent be given authority to take certain steps to alleviate the present acute shortage of nurses, and to this end requests be made by her to certain university centres of the Order to admit well qualified graduate nurses for two months' probation at minimum salaries, during that time such probationers to be given intensive education and supervision in Victorian Order methods of work. On satisfactory termination of the period of probation such nurses to be admitted to the Order as regular staff nurses at a salary of $115 per month. If in the judgment of the Executive Council undue demands are being made in this connection upon any local association for supervision in excess of local requirements, financial assistance not exceeding $500 may be granted by the Central Board."

Govt. Collected Many Millions on Customs.

OTTAWA, March 21.—(Canadian Press).—The Dominion Government collected $20,325,438 in Customs duty on agricultural and vegetable products, mainly foods, imported during 1923. The value of these imports was $122,620,442, and the percentage of duty 16.6. In addition to these, agricultural and vegetable products other than foods were imported to the value of $60,027,698 on which Customs duty amounted to $15,141,270, a percentage of duty of 25.2. Animals and animal products worth $46,423,862 also were imported, on which Customs duty amounted to $4,555,821, a duty percentage of 9.8. These figures were tabled in the House yesterday in answer to a question from Donald Sutherland, South Oxford.

Indian Chief Staged Mob Scene on Reserve.

HULL, Quebec, March 21. — Chief John S. Chabot, of the Maniwaki Indian Reserve, and another Indian named Wabi, were on Thursday sentenced to 8 days in jail, at the Hull criminal assizes for committing act calculated to cause a breach of the peace, in inciting Indians to riot.

The charges resulted from the demand made to the Charles Logue Company on January 29 last by Chabot and six other Indians that the company vacate its lumber camp on the Indian Reserve within 24 hours. They followed this up with a visit the next day, when 40 Indians threatened violence if the company did not accede to their demands.

STRENGTH AND NERVE POWER ARE CREATED BY RED BLOOD

To Build Up Vitality We Must Enrich the Blood Which is the Driving Force of Life.

What gives the athlete his strength? Red blood. What drives the worker, and the business man, also, up the steep hill of success? Red blood. What makes the glowing, vital beauty of woman? Red blood.

Rich, red blood is the supreme driving force of life. If our bodies no longer respond to Nature's processes that should rebuild strength and vitality, then we should look to our blood. We should enrich it, nourish it. Red blood feeds the body tissues, stimulates the nerves, makes our systems tingle with the pulsing of life.

If we lack strength and nerve power we should always think first of our blood. Discouraged or exhausted men and women should get from their druggists to-day a generous size bottle of Wincarnis. Start this home treatment at once. It costs less than ten cents a day. In twelve days see the improvement Wincarnis, the blood builder, brings. No need to worry. Wincarnis will give you new strength, vitality, nerve force.

SAFETY FIRST ON BELLEVILLE LINE

Stirling, Ontario, Man Had a Narrow Escape From Death.

The Lindsay Post published the following in the interests of "Safety First."

Dear Sir,—As conductor of a way freight, I run from Lindsay to Belleville. Coming west from Belleville on the morning of March 17, and when nearing Stirling, a serious accident was narrowly averted owing to the prompt action as well as watchfulness of Engineer Phillip Elmhurst and Fireman Patrick Murphy, as Mr. J. B. Belshaw, of Stirling, and his team of horses would undoubtedly have been killed at the crossing. I received the following letter on my return trip to Belleville from Mr. Belshaw, which speaks for itself:—

Stirling, March 18th.

To Train Crew on Way Freight:

My Dear Friends,—Words cannot express my appreciation for your promptness in bringing your train to a sudden stop and saving my own life and that of my horses on March 17th. Kindly accept this small token as a recognition of your action and spend it on a treat. I will ever remember your prompt action with gratitude.

Yours very truly,
J. B. BELSHAW.

Although Mr. Belshaw gave credit to myself for averting the accident, I will waive all my rights to that. Had it not been for the prompt action of Engineer Elmhurst and Fireman Murphy, the fortunate Mr. Belshaw and his team would have been killed. I write this simply in the interests of 'Safety First,' and I might add to this that Mr. Belshaw mailed the way freight crew a handsome purse for their prompt action, proving himself a man among men.

Yours very truly,
H. PERRY,
C. N. R. Conductor.

Indians Ask Repeal of Repressive Laws.

DELHI, British India, March 21—The Legislative Assembly, by a vote of 68 to 44, yesterday adopted a resolution introduced by the Swarajists, or Home Rulers, calling for the repeal of all "repressive" laws which they argued had been used to foil their political aspirations.

The Government members of the Assemby strongly opposed the resolution. Sir Malcolm Hanley declared he saw signs of a mass movement which the Government called by a more sinister name.

TORONTO MAN CRUSHED TO DEATH BY ELEVATOR

TORONTO, March 21.—(Canadian Press).—Walter Young, of Jones Avenue, died in the General Hospital at 10.30 last night of injuries received in an elevator accident on Saturday. OSHAWA NEWS

OSHAWA, March 21.—Building activities in Oshawa opened up week in earnest, permits valued at $31,500 being taken out at city engineer's office. The permits are chiefly for residences. In 1923, Oshawa experienced a record year in the building line, the permits amounting to more than $2,000,000. Several new sub-divisions have been opened this spring, and another heavy year is anticipated.

NEW POLICE COMMISSION.

OSHAWA, March 21.—Following Oshawa's elevation to cityhood, the Police Department will in future be controlled by a Police Commission, which will be composed of Mayor W. J. Trick, Police Magistrate Major A. F. Hind, and one of the county judges, who will be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. This board will elect their own chairman annually and strike their own estimates. This previously came under the jurisdiction of the Council.

PASTOR TO WHITBY.

OSHAWA, March 21.—Rev. A. M. Irwin, pastor of the King Street Methodist Church, has accepted an invitation to become pastor of the Whitby Methodist Church at the close of the present conference year. At a meeting of the board of the King Street Church last evening, Mr. Irving's request for a release from his acceptance of an invitation to remain here for a sixth year was granted.

INTRODUCTION OF THE "DREAM BABY"

The Lords Heard Mrs. Kussell Appeal Against the Divorce Granted Her Husband.

LONDON, March 20.—(United Press).—The case of the celebrated Russell "Dream Baby," was introduced in Houpse of Lords today. The session was closed to the public.

The Lord heard Mrs. Christabel Russell's appeal against the divorce granted her husband by the courts last year. She is fighting to establish the legitimacy of her conceived, she claims on an occasion when her husband walked in his sleep into her bed chamber.

Russell named several men as corespondents. Legal argument as to the admissability of certain evidence occupied the Lord's to-day.

NEWS OF BURNBRAE AND THE DISTRICT

BURNBRAE, March 21.—The W. M. S. of St. Andrew's Church held a successful social evening in the Church basement on Tuesday evening. Notwithstanding the very bad condition of all the side roads, the basement of the church was well filled.

Rev. J. J. Black acted as chairman for the evening, and gave a short address. The programme was as follows:—

Instrumental music—Miss Irene Thompson.
Reading—Miss Borland.
Song—Harvey Donald.
Reading—Miss Eva Milne.
Duet (Instrumental)—Murray and Edna Hutcheon.
Reading—Mrs. Murray Meiklejohn.
Missionary Pageant: "An Afternoon in a Chinese Hospital"—A number of Girls.
Reading—Mrs. William Hutcheon.

After the programme, ice cream and cake was served to all present.

Mrs. William Rannie (Menie has returned from her visit with her sister, Mrs. (Dr.) Bissonette, of Stirling.

Mr. James Borland, of Campbellford, is having a visit from his nephew, Mr. A. E. Borland, from Ayr (Scotland). Mr. Borland was a soldier in the British Army, in the Royal Scots Fusiliers. He is a cousin of Miss Borland, teacher at Burnbrae School. Miss Borland drove home to Campbellford to meet her cousin, whom she had not formerly seen—she being a child when he went to the Old Country.

Mrs. John Oddie, who has been away for two weeks visiting her daughter, Mrs. Victor Tufford, of Beamsville, returned home to-day.

St. Andrew's Church, Burnbrae, and Rylstone congregations passed resolutions to be sent to the Government to give longer time to the O.T. Act, to prove its full force and value.

Miss Jean Rannie and Master Stewart Milne have returned from visiting in Brighton, Ontario.

Miss Else Hume has returned from Walkerville, Ont., where she has been spending the winter months with her sister, Miss Annie Hume, B.A., librarian, Walkerville.

Mr. Alex. Donald has left this week for Campbellford, and has removed most of his furniture to his new home.

American Plumbers Employed in Windsor.

OTTAWA, March 21.— (Canadian Press).— A complaint against the importation of American plumbers, when Canadian plumbers were idle, was made in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon by Sir Henry Drayton. The Union of plumbers and Steamfitters at Windsor, Ontario, he said, complained that American Workmen from Milwaukee were being brought in to install steamfittings in an ice plant at Windor, the plant being erected by a Milwaukee firm.

Hon. J. A. Robb, minister of immigration said that he had no information in regard to the complaint. He remarked, however, that the work being done by these imported workers would provide work for other men.

Sir Henry urged the minister to enquire into the case and give the house a report.

London a City of Both Queer and Historic Clubs

LONDON, March 21 (United Press)—London has more queer clubs than any city in the world!

One of the most unusual is the Crimes Club, whose members, all well-known men, meet several times a year and discuss crime as it appeals to the criminologist.

Recently there has been formed "The Chestnut-Roasters Union," at a well-known literary and Bohemian Club.

Apart from the night clubs, nice and otherwise, and all the political, literary, social, service and women's clubs, which are situated in large numbers all over the West End of London, there are myriads of other clubs, often founded on little more excuse than a partiality for roasted chestnuts.

There is one luncheon club whose members, after devouring their luncheon, indulge in the pastime of making and solving acrostics!

Then there is the "Fireside Club," composed of literary men who just sit around the fire and talk.

A club seldom heard of is "The Quekett Club," named after a Victorian pioneer of research work with the microscope.

A recent institution is "The Garden Club," composed chiefly of well-known society people, who take real interest in the garden. The most recent, "The Mah Jong Club," was inevitable.

A link with the past in club history is the recent celebration of its centenary by the "Athenaeum." Since its foundation, every British Prime Minister, with the exception of Gladstone and Bonar Law, has been a member. Darwin was a member, and Theodore Hook quietly compounded his surprise jokes within its walls, to the accompaniment of many a stiff glass. In this famous club, Lord Lytton wrote popular novels, while Dickens and Thackeray made up their quarrel.

Not far from the Athenaeum are the oldest clubs of St. James's Street, the oldest of them all, "White's Club," dating from 1697, with "Boodles Club," "Brook's" and the "Cocoa Tree," each dating back to 1764.

FAKE PRINCE AGAIN GETS INTO TROUBLE

NEW YORK, March 21. — Prince Michael Alexandrovitch, in whose pretensions flow some of the bluest and most fantastic titles in Burke's Peerage, got into hot water again yesterday. That is quite an achievement for a man who has been isolated on Ellis Island for many weeks awaiting deportation.

The "Prince," whose right name is according to information and belief, Harry Gerguson, is known as "the Man without a Passport."

Heretofore what he lacked in passports he made up in gall, Commissioner Curran said.

The Cambridge police have asked for Gerguson's detention, and an indictment had been found against him there for Grand Larceny.

The "Prince" has claimed many titles. When he came here he said he was cousin to the late Czar. Later he was Prince Oblenski, and Lord Waldingford, but he never claimed the name "Blackie Daw." When he was stranded in Paris in 1922, posing as Prince Alexandrovitch, he appealed to the American consul, who sent him here as an American citizen, but he could not convince the authorities as to his birth.

"But there is no longer any doubt but that he was born in Russia," said Curran to-day.

Keep a "log" showing the points on all dials of any stations you may get.

THE WORLD MISSIONS CONFERENCE

IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH MARCH 21-24, 1924

Two Great Meetings should be specially borne in mind: The Great Mass Meeting This Evening, addressed by Dr. Endicott and Dr. McRae, of China; and the Mass Meeting on Monday evening, Captain Tom Best, Chairman, and Dr. Lovell Murray, Chief Speaker

WHAT FOREIGN MISSIONS ARE DOING ABROAD

The Transformation Of China And The Mass Movements in India and Africa.

MORE PUBLICITY.

Why is it that the churches of this continent are not aroused as they should over the opportunity confronting Christianity to-day in mission fields? Why is it that such events as the sweeping successes of the gospel in Korea, the transformation of China, the mass movements in India and Africa, the changed attitude of the Moslem world have not stirred our churches to the depths? Why is it that the church people do not realize the possibility of a rapid spread of Christianity over the earth? Why is it that they fail to discern the value of foreign missions as a demonstration of the gospel's power, an unanswerable argument for the finality and universality of the Christian religion?

There is just one answer to these questions. It is because the people in our churches do not know. A few may know, those who read the missionary magazines and attend missionary conventions; but the great body of the people in our churches are ignorant of these mighty movements of the kingdom as they are of events in the sub-apostolic age. What we need is publicity, then more publicity, then more publicity still, until the good news of Christ's triumphs among the nations rings through the churches of this land.

The purpose of the World Missions Conference, which is to be held in our city, March 21-24, has as its chief aim giving publicity to some of the facts of modern missions, and some of the opportunities which now confront the Christian church.

The question is often asked: Well, what has all this missionary effort accomplished? Are the results such as to justify the expenditure of life and money which has taken place?

It is impossible to even enumerate in brief the far-reaching effects of foreign missions. Here are just a few of the results:—

They have made the name of Jesus the best-known name in the world.

They are preaching the Gospel statedly in over ten thousand different places.

They have planted in the leading foreign lands the Church of Christ, with a membership of over 4,000,000.

They have created a great system of Christian schools and colleges, having a present enrolment of over two millions.

They have stimulated the governments of the leading nations of the East to establish educational systems of their own.

They have introduced modern medicine, surgery, and sanitation in the darkest quarters of the globe by means of hospitals and dispensaries.

They have been the principal agents of relief in famines, and have made scientific investigation of the causes which lie at their root.

They have taught people habits of cleanliness and the laws of health, thus lessening the spread of plague and pestilence.

They have upheld the idea of the dignity of labor among those who regard toil as menial.

They have established a multitude of trade schools in which development of Christian character keeps pace with growth in manual skill.

They have taught the use of modern tools and agricultural implements, and thus increased the efficiency and wealth of many nations.

They have greatly extended the markets of America by creating in Oriental peoples a thousand appetites which only international trade can supply.

They have helped to abolish human slavery, and shown the Christian way of caring for the aged, orphans, blind, deaf mutes, insane, and lepers.

They have lifted women from a condition of unspeakable degradation and trained a new generation of Christian mothers, wives, and daughters, who are making homes and introducing new ideals of social life.

They have translated the entire Bible, or portions of the Scriptures, into 500 languages and dialects.

They have reduced many strange tongues to writing, and have created a literature for whole races, producing annually a vast amount of good reading in the shape of books, hymnals, and papers for all ages.

They have transformed the people of the Figi Islands, the New Hebrides, Melanesia, and other island groups from cannibals to civilized human beings.

They have furnished the incentives which made possible Japan's peaceful evolution from fuedalism to constitutional government, and from opposition to Christianity to the granting of full religious liberty.

They have been the main agent in the extraordinary awakening of the people of China by which, turning their backs on the history of 4,000 years, they have adopted Western methods in government, education and commerce, and are showing an amazing readiness to receive the gospel of Christ.

They have started a movement in Korea which is going forward with such unparalleled rapidity that this nation bids fair to become Christianized within a generation.

They have held the home churches true to the essential purpose of the Gospel, have broadened their outlook, deepened their devotion, and demonstrated the universal and all-conquering character of Christianity.

In view of these magnificent achievements, there can be no question but what the foreign missionary movement bears the seal of success. The victories of the past, and the opportunities of the present, constitute a sublime challenge to the church for the conquest of the remaining strongholds of Islam and paganism. Such considerations as these should convince the people of our churches that we are indeed living in a new era of missionary work, and that the hour of Christianity has struck for the non-Christian world.

The march of the conquering Christ through Europe, which transformed the peoples of that continent from pagans to Christianity, is an accomplished fact. The majestic movement has now reached the shores of Asia. History on a gigantic scale is making under our very eyes. We see the Kingdom growing apace. We see nations being born in a day. What a time to live! What a time to preach!

The combined total of representatives supported in whole or in part by the Methodist Missionary Society is 1,117.

Are Today's Missions Serving the World?

B. Sherwood Eddy answers.

When I landed in India twenty-three years ago, in 1896, I began to work among a few of the 50,000 English-speaking college students of India. I can remember the first little group of three boys I had. One was a poor, low caste boy, Azaria, from a caste so humble, so low, that his people would be excluded from the temples of Hinduism—not permitted even to worship the idols in these temples. The second boy was Santiaga Paria. His people were among the outcast dregs of society—lower than the dogs. The dogs could go down the Brahman Street, but not these people. The third boy was a poor Syrian.

When I went back in 1919, after years of absence, among others I looked up these three boys. I found that that first boy is now Bishop Azaria, the first Indian (Anglican) native Bishop. I visited his diocese and moved among some of his 60,000 Christians.

The second boy is now Moderator of the South Indian United Church, uniting already in one body the Presbyterian, the Congregational, the Dutch Reformed, the Free Church of Scotland, the Established Church of Scotland, and Boswell Reformed Missions all in one, and this young man the Moderator of the Church.

The third boy is to-day a Bishop of the Reformed Syrian Church. He asked me to come down and speak to his people, and there I saw the palm trees of Travancore, miles from a railway, in that simple palm-leaf pavilion, erected without expense by their own hands, the largest Christian audience in the world.

In that audience were 30,000 Christians. Down one side were 10,000 women; down another side were 20,000 men. All this great work I saw was being done with no missionaries among them—just an indigenous church rising with a new passion for the evangelization of their own country.

These three boys this year led three great churches, with others, into a uniting forward movement, into a nation-wide evangelistic campaign, all pulling together, which covered eleven different languages, and worked through more than twenty denominations, and penetrated all parts of India.

ESKIMO WORK OF ANGLICANS

Big Feature of Church of England Is Home Missions. Foreign Work Too.

The work of the missionary society of the Church of England in Canada may roughly be divided into two fields, the Dominion, and that overseas.

The work in the Dominion comprises the following activities:

1. Amongst the aborigines, who number approximately 4,000 Eskimo and 105,000 Indians.
2. Orientals in B. C., who number about 17,000 Japanese and about 17,500 Chinese.
3. Among the Jews in the larger centers, including Toronto, Hamilton, Montreal, Ottawa and Winnipeg.
4. Among the white settlers scattered throughout the prairie provinces.
5. Among the loggers and scattered settlers along the Pacific coast, and amongst the workmen on the Welland canal, and at the mining camps.

The work overseas is concentrated chiefly on the following areas:

1. Mid-Japan, with a population of approximately seven millions.
2. The province of Honan, China, with a population of approximately fifteen millions.
3. Districts of Kangra, India, with a population of approximately one million.
4. The Mount Carmel hospital in Palestine.
5. Some work in Egypt.

Indian and Eskimo.

Among the Indians and Eskimo, they are responsible for the administration and for a very large part of the maintenance of 17 residential schools. Some of these are very remorely situated, such as the one at Carcross, in the Yukon, Hay River, on Great Slave Lake, in the Northwest territories, Lac La Rouge, North Saskatchewan, and Moose Factory, at the south end of James Bay. Others less remotely situated include the Alert Bay Industrial school for boys, and the Alert Bay girls' home on the Cormorant Island off the B. C. coast, the Lesser Slave Lake, the White Fish Lake and the Wabasca schools, in Northern Alberta, the Onion Lake and the Mackay schools, in Central Saskatchewan. Those which are situated within areas reached by different railway lines include the Blackfoot, the Blood, and the Peigan, in Southern Alberta, the Elkhorn in Centra Manitoba, the Shingwauk, at Sault Ste. Marie, and the Chapleau school at Chapleau, Ontario

The Church of England has other Indian residential schools in Canada, but they are administered by the missionary society.

In addition to the Indian residential school work, the Church of England in Canada has undertaken very large responsibility in the way of Indian missions and Indian day schools.

The Indian and Eskimo mission land, in the far north.

The Indian day schools, numbering about 70, are scattered throughout practically all the tribes in Canada, with the exception of those in the Maritime provinces.

Oriental Work.

The Orientals in British Columbia come under the work of the society in Vancouver, Victoria, Vernon and Prince Rupert. The society is of the opinion that if there is any question as to the wisdom of the government in admitting these people to the Dominion, no such question can exist as to the duty and responsibility of the church in dealing with them after they are here, and is doing its utmost

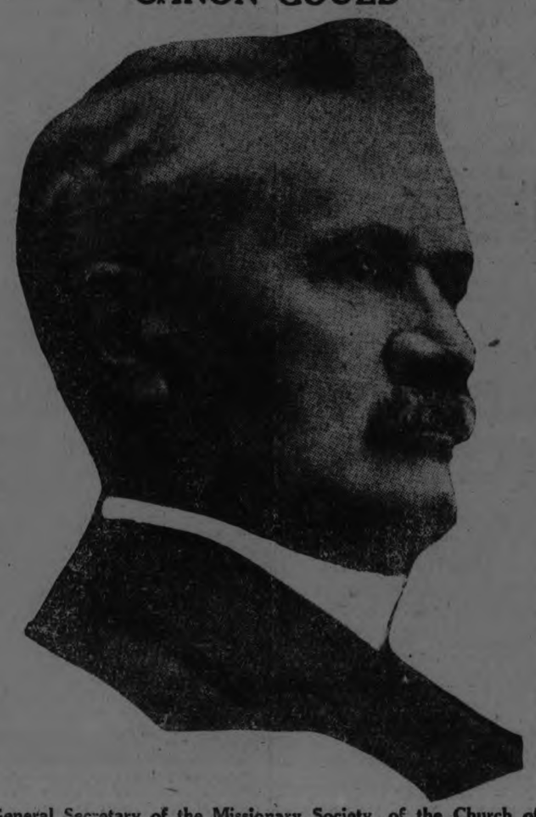
The Woman's Auxiliary is responsible for all the work among women and children in the overseas and Canadian fields carried on by the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada.

CANON GOULD



General Secretary of the Missionary Society of the Church of England, has just returned from the Orient. He was for some years a missionary in Palestine. Will speak at the Layman's Banquet Saturday evening.

WOMEN PLAY SPLENDID PART IN FOREIGN WORK OF MISSION SOCIETIES

All Churches Represented at the Conference Here Have Live Women's Organizations---Hospitals and Schools.

WORTHY OF SUPPORT.

In all the Churches the women have been among the foremost in their devotion to the missionary enterprise. If it were possible to discover, it would be interesting to know how much of the missionary awakening that has characterized the Churches of recent years is tracable to the work done by the women in the missionary instruction of the young, and in the unflagging zeal they have shown in their efforts to bring the missionary cause to the attention of the congregations.

With the development of the work on the mission fields, there came a call for women workers to meet the needs of women and children and to serve in various capacities. The response was immediate, and to-day women teachers, doctors, nurses and evangelistic workers form an important part of the staff on all the mission fields.

All the churches have their women's missionary societies co-operating with the general board of the church, and bearing large responsibilities, both financial and administrative.

PRESBYTERIAN W.M.S.

The women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada is in two divisions, the eastern or Maritime provinces and the western. The society of the Martime provinces was organized in 1878, and is under a separate board. The W.M.S. (western) represents the union of three organizations which took place in 1914, the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, the Women's Mis-Women's Home Missionary Society. The W.M.S. was organized in 1876 to assist the foreign mission committee of the chrch in the work among women and children in the foreign mission fields, and also to work among the Indians in Western Canada; the W.M.S. of Montreal worked in connection with the Church of Scotland; the W.H.M.S. began with establishing pioneer hospitals near the goldfields of British Coumbia, and later took up educationa work, establishing school homes in foreign settlements.

On the shoulders of the W.M.S. rest immense responsibilities; the support of 31 lady missionaries in Central India, 12 in Korea, 9 in Formosa, 27 in Honan (China), and 10 in South, China, besides 14 hospitals in Canada, 12 school homes, accommodating about 200 children, 8 boarding schools and 5 day schools, accommodating about 700 Indian children and 7 school homes among our own people in the province of Quebec. There are forty deconcesses doing social service work in our needy centers and at ocean ports.

For all the work is required a budget of $414,000, raised largely by voluntary contributions from the 93,000 members of the W.M.S.

METHODIST W.M.S.

In 1881 a small group of women organized in the city of Hamilton he Methodist Women's Missionary Society, an organization that has become a mighty factor in the life of that church. The following year it sent out its fitst missionary to Japan. In the first year of its existence this society contributed $2,916 toward the extension of the Kingdom of Christ. Last year the income was $457,707.

In our own land, missionaries representing this society are working among the new Canadians. In work among the Indians of Manitoba and British Columbia about $30,000 is spent annually in the maintenance of homes for Indian girls, in which housekeeping, sewing, and the ideals for true Christian womanhood are taught.

In addition to the money contributed for this work every year, a large amount of clothing and bedding is made and contributed to the cause. The society is also doing a most effective work among the Chinese and Japanese in British Columbia.

The foreign work is confined to China and Japan. In China it is carried on under three departments: evangelistic, educational and medical. In Japan the missionaries are seeking, through kindergarten, day school, boarding school, normal school and college, to help the children and young women of these lands to a knowledge of the religion of Jesus Christ and to obtain privileges enjoyed by women of Christian nations, which are denied them.

BAPTIST W.M.S.

The Baptist Women's Foreign Missionary Society of Ontario was organized in 1876. Some years later a similar organization was formed for Home Mission work. Six years before, the Baptist Women's Missionary Society of the Maritime provinces had been organized. There are also similar organizations in Quebec, British Columbia, and the prairie provinces.

The home mission work is carried on in the cities and outlying districts of our own province, and extends to Slavic, Scandinavian, German and Hungarian in western provinces; French work in Quebec; and in Toronto, Hamilton, Welland and St. Catharine work is carried on among the Polish, Russian, Italian and other foreign-speaking people.

In South India, among the Telugus, and in Bolivia, South America, representatives of the society are engaged in all forms of missionary service—evangelistic, educational, medical, industrial, and leper work. Their staff of women missionaries in India numbers thirty-four. Last year the Ontario society raised for foreign work $35,000, and for home work $23,000, a total of $58,000.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY OF THE M.S.C.C.

In April, 1885, seven women in the city of Ottawa, led by Mrs. Tilton, offered the services of the women of the church as an "auxiliary" to the "board of domestic and foreign missions," with the result that steps were taken which led to the formation of what is now known as the Women's Auxiliary to the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada, which came into being at the meeting of the general synod, held in Montreal in 1902. Prior to that date the missionary work of the church was carried on by the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society, the Canadian Church Missionary Society, and the Women's Auxiliary. At this meeting the D. and F.M.S. closed its books and handed over all its obligations to the newly-formed M.S.C.C., to which the W.A. became auxiliary.

From this small beginning of seven in 1885, the Woman's Auxiliary in 1923 had a membership of 81,162 members in 2,690 parochial branches of the diocesan boards now extending from sea to sea. The amount of money which passed through the hands of the Dominion treasurer was $183,739. In addition to this, $68,890 was expended on bales of clothing for Indian schools and missions, making a grand total of $252,630.

METHODIST MEN CARRY EVANGEL

Missionary Society Completes Hundredth Year Of Effort---Success Attained.

The Missionary Society of the Methodist Church of Canada is completing this year its one hundredth year of missionary effort. It was organized at the first session of the Canada conference, which met in Hallowell, now Picton, August 24, 1824.

Its field was originally confined to the new English-speaking settlements and the Indians of Upper Canada, but with the development of the Dominion the responsibilities of the home mission department were enlarged, and now include missions in every province of Canada, in Newfoundland, in Labrador, and in the Bermudas. Methodist missionaries to English settlers went to British Columbia in 1852 and to Manitoba in 1868, but missionaries to Indians had been in the western field before that. The first Protestant missionary to work west of Manitoba was the Methodist, Robert Terrill Rundle.

In 1873 the first foreign mission of the Methodist Church was opened, when two men were sent to work in Japan. Twenty years later another mission was founded in the populous and fruitful province of Sze-Chwan, some 2,000 miles in the interior of China.

In the home mission field the Methodist Church at present conducts work as follows: Among Indians, 58 missions; in connection are six hospitals, five industrial schools, two boarding schools, and 55 day schools; among English-speaking, 448 missions, ministering to some 1,900 communities; among non-English, 36 missions, including 12 social centers, one schoolhouse and (in cooperation with the Presbyterians) the publication of a Ukrainian weekly newspaper; among French, four missions, including the French Methodist institute, a popular residential school for boys and girls; among Chinese, 18 missions, with eight night schools and four dormitories; among Japanese, seven missions, with seven night schools and four dormitories.

Altogether in the home mission field, among white, red, black and yellow races, the Methodist Church has 527 missions, with a total employed force of 544.

In the foreign field the Methodist Missionary Society has contributed largely to the establishment of a self-governing and almost self-supporting Japan Methodist Church, with two conferences, 235 native pastors and evangelists, 27,868 members and 45,092 Sunday school scholars. Kwansei Gakuin, the Union Methodist College, has 1,600 young men in attendance, and last year, for lack of accommodation, had to refuse 1,200 applications. The Canadian Methodist foreign force is 21, with 75 native helpers.

In the West China field, the Methodist Church of Canada has 10 central stations and 94 out-stations; 117 Sunday schools, with 11,163 scholars; 44 guilds and young people's societies with a membership of 2,000. In the mission schools are 6,160 pupils. There are eight mission hospitals, which treated, in 1923, 34,676 patients. In addition to having a share in the West China dental university, the Methodist Church has four schools for nurses, one dental college and is assisting in the establishment of a medical college. The Methodist Mission Press issues annually over 20 million pages in four languages. Including native evangelists, teachers and assistants, the total Methodist missionary force in West China is 477.

The Methodist Church of Canada spent on its mission work last year a total of $1,180,000, and its missionary income from all sources was $1,100,000. Special efforts are being made this year to balance the budget, and there are indications of success.

Christianity Alone Adequate for World

By Dr. Robert E. Speer.

For us, Calvary closes this question. All the non-Christian religions, except Mohammedanism, which, in actual consequence rejects and supersedes Christ, and therefore condemns itself—all the non-Christian religions, except Mohammedanism, were here when Jesus Christ came. If the missionary enterprize is a mistake, it is not our mistake; it is the mistake of God. If the laying down of life in the attempt to evangelize the world is an illegitimate waste, let the reproach of it rest on that one priceless life that was, therefore, laid down needlessly for the world. Nineteen hundred years ago, to the best of all the non-Christian religions—the religion between which and all the other non-Christian religions a great gulf is fixed—Judaism, Jesus Christ came; and that the best of all religions he declared to be outworn and inadequate. The time had at last come, he taught, to supplant it with the full and perfect truth that was in Him. It will be enough for us to-night, quietly as men and women who love Jesus Christ, and to whom He is no sham and unreal way Master and Lord—it will be enough for us to recall His own great words, "I am the good Shepherd," "All that come before Me are thieves and robbers," "I am the light of the world," "I am the way, the truth, the life, no man cometh unto the Father but by Me," "No one knoweth the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son willeth to reveal him." We bow our heads, to-night beneath the cross on which our Saviour hung, and for us no other words needs to be spoken regarding the absoluteness of his faith and the inadequacy of the half-teachers who have gone before Him, or who were to come after Him. No word needs to be spoken to us beyond His word, "I came to save the world," and the great word of the man who loved Him dearly, whose life had been changed from weakness into strength by His power, and who was to die in His service: "And in none other is there salvation; for neither is there any other name under heaven, that is given among men, wherein we must be saved."

Congregationalists Are An Active Body

Started by Helping Swedish Settlements in Alberta-Work Overseas too.

The Congregational missionary's work in Canada includes the various types of missionary effort common to all the Canadian churches. Some help is given the old churches in rural parts of the older provinces where the population is rapidly moving to the cities and to the west. In the west the new settlers are followed with Sunday school and

In work for new Canadians of other languages than English, the Congregationalists began by helping several Swedish settlements in Alberta, and these now have fine, self-supporting churches. Until broken up by the war, there was a work for Armenians in Brantford.

At present a very interesting group of Russo-German churches in Alberta and Saskatchewan is under the mission department. These people were German colonists in South Russia, a century and a half ago, but, being later denied liberty of worship and freedom to buy land, were driven to emigrate first to the north-western states and later to Canada. They are thrifty and successful farming communities, whose religious life is marked by evangelical fervor and a strong missionary spirit.

BAPTIST WORK FOR MISSIONS A BIG RECORD

Missionary Work Constitutes the Great Work Of All Denominations. Jubilee Year.

STEADY PROGRESS

In view of the Church's Charter it would be strange if missionary work did not constitute the great work of all the Communions. Every church a missionary church and every Christian a missionary is the ideal toward which all are striving. The history of our Canadian churches gathers largely around the story of their missionary development. Few of our people realize the immense work being carried on at the present time by the Mission Boards of our churches both in our own land and in those beyond the seas, and the large contribution that work is making not only to world evangelization but also to world peace and world welfare. The following summary will be of interest:

The Canadian Baptist Foreign Mission Board celebrates this year the jubilee of its work in India and that of its organization as an independent board. Previous to that time, the Baptists in Canada had carried on their foreign mission activity in India in association with the Baptists of the United States. Jubilee celebrations will be held in Toronto, Montreal and in various centers both in eastern and western Canada. A spirit of deep joy and gratitude will mark the celebration as the splendid record of work accomplished is passed under review.

These years of work in India have been marked by steady progress. From the first, emphasis has been laid on evangelistic work and the development of a native church with trained leaders. The little group of 150 native Christians with which the mission started, has grown until the report for 1923 shows 80 churches, with a membership of 18,000 and a force of 1,000 workers.

The educational work, which began with the establishing in the early days of little village schools, primarily for the children of Christians, has developed until there are now 400 day schools, with an attendance of 15,000, 10 boarding schools with a enrolment of 900, 2 high schools with 900 and 400 respectively, a normal training school, and a theological seminary.

The board sent out its first medical missionary in 1893. To-day eight missionary doctors and eight hospitals are giving expression to the compassion of Christ in language that can be understood by all, and are opening the hearts of the people for the gospel message. In 1890, leper work was started with one leper in a little leaf hut. To-day, two leper homes, splendidly equipped, with a qualified doctor in charge, are caring for two hundred of these unfortunates.

In addition to their work in India, Canadian Baptists carry on a mission in Bolivia, South America, where they have a staff of twenty missionaries. One of the most interesting departments of the work in that field is the splendid industrial work carried out in connection with a farm of one thousand acres. A new college building is now in process of construction, named in honor of the pioneer of the mission, Reekie college, for which the Sunday schools of Toronto raised during the past year, $12,000.

Baptist home mission work in Canada is carried on under the direction of three separate boards, that of the Maritime convention, the board of the western provinces, and the board of Ontario and Quebec. Much attention has been given to work among the non-English speaking peoples in our Dominion, particularly in the West, where work is carried on, and churches have been established among Norwegians, Germans, Swedes, Russo-Ukrainians and Hungarians.

The foreign mission activities of the Presbyterian Church in Canada began seventy-five years ago in the New Hebrides group in the South Seas. Rev. John Geddie, one of the great missionaries who adorn the glorious records of the Church of Christ, was the first missionary.

Mission Conference Opportunity

It will do us all good to recall the fact that missionary work in foreign fields, India, China, Japan, Africa, Korea, and many other parts of the world, is only a matter of a little over one hundred years. The first English missionary to go to India went out in 1793, to China in 1807, to Africa in 1813, to Japan 1858, and to Korea in 1884.

Dr. C. W. Rose.

The great missionary societies which have supported and directed many thousands of missionaries have, at longest, only a history covering one hundred and thirty years. The London Missionary Society was organized in 1795, the Church Missions Society in 1801, the Wesleyan Methodist in 1813, twenty-one missionary organizations came into existence in a very short period.

This Conference will enable the Christians of Peterborough to proclaim, in a manner which will be heard, the fact that to be a follower of Christ is to be missionary in spirit and activity. It will also give an opportunity to secure, from the most reliable witnesses, facts concerning the remarkable growth of the Kingdom of God in distant lands, and also to anticipate with confidence the time when the churches of all denominations, composed of natives, "sanely independent, splendidly evangelistic and securely self-supporting, will take their places as the brightest gems in the diadem of Christ."

A further advantage of this Conference will be the opportunity it will afford to manifest the unity of the people of God and, at the same time, to strengthen it. Every Christian in the City of Peterborough is invited to share this fellowship in the furtherance of the Gospel.

Horse Sense In Foreign Missions

By BISHOP WILLIAM LAWRENCE, OF MASSACHUSETTS.

"Why do not business men use the same psychology in missionary business that they do in their offices?

"Now and again a horse-sensed, hard-headed business man tells us in his office that he has no use for foreign missions; there is plenty to do at home. 'Why,' he goes on, 'two-thirds of the people of this city are not Christians. There is a lot of wickedness, atheism, and degradation right here around us. We have got to concentrate our Christian work right here and clean up this city before we begin on Tokio and Hankow. Why should we be sending out strong young men to preach the gospel to Japanese and Chinese when there is so much for them to do at home?'

"How does he think out the same kind of a proposition in his own business? Perhaps he is the manufacturer of a breakfast food. According to his advertisements his food is essential to health of everybody, so he sets up a factory and an office in his city and gets to work. Singularly enough, before a quarter of the people of the city have begun to eat his breakfast food, just as soon as he can raise the capital, he has planted a half-dozen agencies in other cities and before those cities have more than begun to nibble his breakfast food he has thrown his advance offices over to Chicago, and two or three years later his fellow-citizens traveling in Tokio find the breakfast food advertised there, and in Hankow too.

"Suppose we turn on him and say, 'Why are you sending good breakfast food and young men to advertise and sell it all over the world before half the people in your own city have begun to eat it?'

"His answer is, 'I can't wait for the people in my city to catch up. If the breakfast food is good for them, it is good for the Japanese and the Chinese, so why shouldn't I send it over to them? Are you going to confine my benefactions to my own town?'

"Now, as for capital, the work of the gospel is inexhaustible. So long as the spirit of Christ gets into young men there is business to be done. Why shouldn't the hard-headed, horse-sensed business man carry the business of the gospel to Tokio and Hankow in the same businesslike way that he carries his breakfast food? If the apostles had waited for every man inside the walls of Jerusalem to be converted before they struck off for other cities, the hard-headed business man in this country would never have heard the name of Christ."

WHAT THE FESTIVAL MOVEMENT HAS DONE

For Scottish Songs and Singers

By Hugh R. Robertson, Conductor of the Orpheus Choir, Glasgow, Scotland, in an interview.

Why am I so keen on every big and little town in Scotland having its own musical festival?

The question is readily answered. Thanks to the festival movement, it looks as if Scotland is going to take a premier place a a musical nation To-day in no part of the British Isles is music in such a healthy condition.

Contrast the situation today with that of only about a dozen years ago, when the festival movement was inaugurated. Then not one in a hundred fitted by Nature to take part in the development of music was taking any interest in music at all. Now, as I have indicated, Scotland is on the crest of a wave of splendid enthusiasm.

To the high standard set by the Scottish Festival movement is mainly due its almost phenomenal success. We have profited from the experiences of England and Wales, where, particularly in the latter country, singers are still striving at festivals for money prizes.

Neither for Money Nor Baubles.

It is to the credit of the Scottish movement that not a single money prize is offered at any recognized festival. Even medals and other baubles are being done away with in some of the most progressive festivals, the whole movement being placed on an educational basis.

Singers and players and readers are more and more coming forward not with the object of beating others, but solely to have their own capacity tested, and to seek improvement through the advice of the adjudicators.

We trust that before many years are over every district will have its festival, and every township will have its confined festival, from which the best competitors will go forward to the district festival. Then, when the ring is complete, we hope to establish in Scotland a great national festival, where only the best talent from the minor festivals will appear.

Unique and Unexampled Record of Perthshire.

Is any part of Scotland more musical than another? This is a question frequently put to me. To say that any particular area in Auld Scotia is superior to any other in this regard would be absurd. For example, a few years ago, when a festival was started in Perth, we were told that there was nothing in the county of Perth to warrant the promotion of the movement there. Yet within three years so wonderfully has the Perth festival developed that it now occupies seven days, and attracts well over one hundred choirs from Perthshire alone.

This record, of course, is unique, and probably unexampled in any part of the country, but it indicates what can be done when a few men of vision and understanding put their hands ungrudingly to the wheel.

A recent development in connection with festivals has been the prominence given to poetry reading, and we have the authority of no less a personage than John Masefield, the poet, for the stament that the most beautiful speakers of pure English come from Scotland.

Masefield, perhaps, through a sudden gush of emotion may have been led into expressing his feelings a little extravagantly, but that there is truth in it I, who appear at festivals all over the country, cannot doubt.

The Scot's Inherent Love for His Native Songs

This year the festival movement in Scotland extends from Wick in the North to Galloway and the borders in the South, and the only untapped regions today are Argyllshire and some of the remoter Northern counties.

To account for such a rapid development one cannot dissociate the inherent love of the Scot for his own national songs. A few generations of sloppy ballads had almost obliterated the inherent sense of style and feeling for truth in the Scot.

By sloppy ballads I mean that type of song that is written for sale's sake and not for art's sake, and is exploited by singers who are paid to sing them.

The big run on songs that rhapsodise about roses and wax sentimentally enthusiastic over bright eyes and kisses beneath the moon's pale beam, culminating in the last verse in rapid ascents to Paradise on a top note—well, that sort of thing with its musty Victorian flavor is now being put in its rightful place. Such songs will be utterly down and out when audiences are sufficiently educated to see the joke, and to laugh outright at them.

Our Great Heritage — The Scottish Folk Song.

In every festival great prominence is given to Scottish folk songs—and rightly so. No other country in the world has a greater and loftier heritage, and it is along these lines that we must look for musical development. The young lady who goes off at a tangent in her musical studies to Italian arias belongs to a bygone age. More and more today are our singers realizing that musical sensibility, like charity, begins at home.

If I were asked particularly to indicate in what way, musically, one part of Scotland differs from another, I should say that the Lowland singer is more naturally rhythmic than the Highland singer. Why this should be so I do not know. But there it is. Perhaps the Highlandman has followed so long and obsequiously over the moors in the wake of English stockbrokers, carrying guns and other heavy impediments, that he has lost the tread of rhythm. Speaking seriously, however, it is probably due to the fact that the Highlander, being more naturally mystical in outlook, and more highly emotionalised, has allowed these other qualities to affect the esthetics of the art.

No Great Scottish Composer—Yet!

Curiously enough, while Scotland has produced her great poets, philosophers, novelists, and thinkers—men like Burns, Carlyle, Stevenson, and Adam Smith—she has not yet given to the world a great composer.

It may be that all the musical activity in Scotland today is creating that atmosphere from which the great Scottish composer of the future will emerge. At any rate, we who are working on present-day music in Scotland are content to cast our bread upon the waters. It is in that spirit that the festival lives, moves, and has its being.—Glasgow Sunday Post.

There's Nothing to Equal 'Dr. Wood's" Norway Pine Syrup For Coughs and Colds

Mrs. David Thompson, West River St., Paris, Ont., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

For myself and children I use nothing else.

My little girl, five years old, has had bronchial trouble ever since she had the "flu" a few years ago, and, now, whenever she gets a slight cold she develops a very nasty cough, but all I have to do is to give her a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Also for myself, and the other children, I can find nothing to equal it, in fact, it was only a short time ago that I gave it to my ten months old baby, and could immediately see the difference it made in her. Now, I always keep Norway Pine Syrup in the house, as I feel there is nothing to equal it."

Price 35c. a bottle; the large family size 60c.; put up only by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MAKE MILLERAND DICTATOR IS CRY.

Look Around France and See What Other Man You Can Name.

By MILTON BRONNER.

PARIS, March 21.—If France is to pull herself out of her present difficulties, she will have to invest President Alexandre Millerand with the powers of a dictator for about a year!

This is the theme Gustave Herve has been expounding in his paper, "La Victoire." It is all the more surprising because Herve had been a militant Socialist. Opponents of Millerand have been referring to Herve as the chief of the President's fuglemen and have said that his editorials accurately reflected the wishes and hopes of the man who sits in the Elysee Palace.

Emergency Act.

"What I advocate is not destruction of the constitution," he repeated, "but adaptation, which both bodies of our Parliament have the right to effect in times of stress. With our franc at almost four cents, the cost of living going up, thousands of useless officials on the payroll of the Government, it is high time that something radical be done.

"Just as Clemenceau was the man to win the war for France, so Millerand is the man to win the peace for France.

"Look around France and see what other man you can name. Poincare has been tried and has failed. Poincare is a lawyer, an 'avocat' devoted to the letter rather than the spirit.

"You can get nowhere with such a man. He has no vision. He is honest and stubborn, but lacks breadth."

Opposition.

"But," I suggested, "Senator Coty, in the 'Figaro,' says Millerand is too friendly to England and Leon Daudet, in the 'Action Francaise,' also attacks the President."

Herve replied:

"With Coty it is a personal matter. Coty has the presidential bee in his bonnet.

"It is not true to say any responsible statesman is a close friend of England. Our differences are inevitable. Our whole trend of thought and of life is different.

"As to Daudet, he attacks Millerand because the President is cutting the props from under the feet of the Royalists. Daudet and his friends have one formula. They say the Republic means disorder, lack of firmness, want of stability.

Kings? Bah!

"Daudet prates that what France needs is a King. Pooh! Look at them. The King of Italy, subject to his Mussolini; the King of Spain subject to his Riviera; the King of England a figurehead. The Hohenzollerns and the Romanoffs gone—weaklings, when they are not dangerous idiots.

"Millerand as dictator would put France right in a year. He would get things done, whereas now, with things pressing for solution, we have Parliament with its eternal palaver. I believe in democratic government as much as any American does, but we must all recognize that one of the weaknesses of parliamentary government is the eternal talk.

BERNICE PHELAN

By Nea Service

FRESCO, Calif., March 20—The Pacific coast senior fancy diving title is not enough for Bernice Phela, twelve-year-old aquatic marvel of this city. She's already started training for a few world titles.

Under tutelage of Phil Patterson, San Francisco Olympic Club swimmer, Miss Phelan is preparing herself to enter the Olympic games at Paris next June.

With one possible exception, Viola Hartman of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, Miss Phelan is declared to be far in lead of all other women divers on the coast. Which would triumph in a competition between Miss Hartman and Miss Phelan is problematical, as the two have never met.

Miss Phelan started her career in local tanks at the age of 7 years, even then showing an aptitude far beyond her years.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

The real estate mortgage enjoys one of the best records of any class of investment. Why?

There are three reasons why some of the real estate bond houses and banks have been so successful in real estate mortgages:

1. The houses are managed by men who have been in the business for years and consequently have become expert in choosing good security.

2. The mortgage itself is inherently safe. It is easy for any one to understand that land is fundamentally good security.

3. The selling house keeps the property under continuous supervision. The installments to pay the interest and sinking fund on the bonds are usually paid monthly by the owner of the property, although the interest to the bondholder is only paid semi-annually.

MOUNTAIN WOLVES MIGRATE TO ESCAPE THE RIGOR OF WINTER

SALONICA, March 20.—(Associated Press).—The wolves of the Carpathian mountains, driven south by the severe winter, are threatening the sheep folds on the shores of the Aegean sea where millions of sheep are gathered to pass the winter months. The present invasion exceeds all previous records. Bulgaria and the Macedonian district north of Salonica report many attacks by wolves, hutinging packs.

In the villages around Novo Selo, north of here, the villagers have organized a series of cooperative hunts. When a locality is reported to be infested by wolves, the hunters send out a party of beaters, who drive the predatory animals toward a common point. Here the hunters open fire upon them.

The neighborhood of Salonica and the coastal strip between Porto Lagos and Dedeagatch, where snow seldom falls, is the centre of the sheep wintering industry of the Balkans, and many large flocks are driven from Serbia, Rumania and Bulgaria to crop the dry grass.

Toward these flocks the wolves are evidently tending. The dogs are the most valued possession of the shepherds, and there have been several instances in which the wolves have not attempted to raid sheep folds, but have pounced upon the dogs, evidently to clear the locality of the natural protectors of the sheep.

The mean annual temperature of the British Isles is 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

COUPLE SEPARATE FOR YEAR'S TIME.

Neither of Them Want to Be Half Or We, They Want to Be I's.

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS.

NEW YORK, March 21—"The dependent woman is the only type who is suited to conventional matrimony; and marriage, as the average persons interpret it, is almost impossible for the independent, self-supporting, thinking individual.

"That's why my husband and I are experimenting to find the plan which just suits our needs."

Thus Thyra Samter Winslow comments on the fact that she and her husband, after 12 years of happy married life, are to take a year's absence from each other.

In a story this plan would sound preposterous but, as Mrs. Winslow explains the situation, it sounds quite plausible.

Want to Be I's.

"Neither of us wants to be half of 'we'," she declares. "We want to be 'I's.' That was our agreement when we married. We were writers and were to go on with our careers.

"We've never had a vacation, either of us, in 12 years. We are convinced married couples should have at least a month's vacation from each other each year. So we are taking it all at once."

I couldn't help asking Mrs. Winslow if she wasn't just a bit afraid some vamp might take a fancy to her husband while he was vacationing. And she replied:

"A married man is always in danger from vamps. But think of the time he has away from home under the ordinary circumstances. He sees pretty girls at his office, at luncheon and on the street car. If he wants to wander away from his marriage vows he can do so very conveniently and still spend most of his evenings at home.

"A husband and wife should believe be absolutely loyal to each other in big issues, and free in the smaller ones.

Dislike Quizzing.

"No man wants to be asked every day with whom he has lunched and to account for every minute of his time And a woman doesn't either.

"My husband is the finest man I know. That's why we are able to make this experiment.

"Our plan however, would not be advisable for the woman who is not economically independent and who cannot think for herself."

Mrs. Winslow's latest book, "Picture Frames," was received with great enthusiasm and one of the stories, "The Cycle of Manhattan," is being dramatized for Broadway.

TAKE TIP FROM BEAUTY WINNER.

Miss Stanley Won Chicago Beauty Contest Three Years Ago, When She Was a Perfect Figure.

By A. H. FREDERICK.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21—If you are thin—BEWARE—unless you don't mind getting fat!

This is a direct tip from Miss Aileen Stanley, who has reason to contend that the price of figure, like that of liberty, is eternal vigilance.

Miss Stanley won a Chicago beauty contest three years ago, at which time she was adjudged of perfect figure. And today—

"Look at me now," says she. "I weighed only 152 pounds in 1921 and was considered perfect for my five feet seven and one-half inches. But today—178 pounds!

Can't Be Done.

"And all because I thought I could take things easy and still retain my figure. It can't be done!"

Miss Stanley, who is a singing comedienne, decided that her rate of gain was much too much. So she turned to various ways of taking off excess weight.

"I tried everything," she says. "But long-waisted dresses, side and front panels, soft materials, corsets and girdles all failed to bring back my slim looks. You can't fool nature."

So, as a last resort, Miss Stanley recently turned to hard work as a reducing process. And she's getting results—slowly but surely.

Simple Program.

Her program of regaining slimness may come in handy for others who have had her experience. Simple as it is, here it is:

Morning exercises: Roll up and down the floor of your bedroom. Fake stretching exercises; bending over and touching the floor and bobbing up and down, bending the knees. Then a few more rolls.

Eat but two meals a day and when possible take a morning plunge and a healthy swim after your morning's routine housework is finished.

Don't eat foods that are notoriously fattening.

Don't learn to drive a car. If you already know how, forget it and put your car up. That'll make you walk more.

"Back to normalcy" is Miss Stanley's slogan just now—and she's on the way via her reducing rules.

Horse Collar Fight Results Court Case.

Arthur and Clarence Blodgett were charge on information laid by their father, J. A. Blodgett before Magistrate Langley Wednesday for assault the evidence of the father being that in a scuffle over a horse collar Arthur kicked him in the face and Clarence kicked him in the side which was corroborated by William Hulme the hired man who, however, admitted that the kicking might not have been altogether intentional. The result of the scuffle resulted in the father retaining possession of the horse collar at the expense of a back eye and a bloody nose.

Mrs. Blodgett called by the defence, told the story of the scuffle and was certain that neither of the boys kicked the father although the father kicked Clarence in the stomach. All three she said used bad language and she finally got them all separated after a lot of scuffling. Hazel and Ethel Blodgett both testified that Arthur owned the collar which had been purchased with prize money won at the Peterborough Exhibition. The case adjourned until next Monday morning at the Court House. J. A. O'Brien appeared for the prosecution and Joseph Wearing and B. D. Hall for the defence.

THE NEWS THAT WOMEN LOVE!

What woman does not read eagerly every new and authoritative word about the changing fashions of the things she wears and uses in her home?

It is our duty and privilege to seek out and secure all these things, and in the seeking and finding, we must gather fullest and earliest knowledge about them, before we buy them and bring them here for you to see and possess.

Hence our ability to supply you promptly with the latest and most authoritative News about the apparel you are to wear and the furnishings that you are to live with.

That is why our advertising columns provide the liveliest and most fascinating, as well as the most authentic news in the paper, for women especially.

Fascinating Footwear!

This season shows expert craftsmanship and denote discriminating tastes. New designs in both street and dress wear. Buckle and strap styles argue with each other in smartness.

Brown Calf Oxford, tuxedo pattern, in medium shade of brown calf, low rubber heel, square toe, welted sole, in widths A to D, $7.00.

1-Strap Patent Shoe, grey silk stitched, low heel, welted sole, for street wear, $7.50 pair.

LADIES' SHOE DEPT., SECOND FLOOR.

Now is the time to brighten the Home. Our third floor offers every opportunity. New Wall-papers for every room—drapes also are to be found to suit every whim and then too the wood work must be looked after by Martin Senours' Paints. There is a paint for every purpose from inside and outside of your house to the automobile or the carriage.

Accessories chosen here are in the height of the mode and ensure the success of the new Spring costume. The "Imponderables" is the name the French give these little "weightless things" that mean so much to the tailored suit or chic frock.

Lingerie — wonderful you'll say when you see it. Never any better time than the present to replenish the wardrobe and at the same time attain that goodish pleasant feeling everything you own is a la mode, that even your undies are the newest in style.

Our Organization

"Take from me everything I own, ships, railroads, mines, money, but leave me my ORGANIZATION, and in two years I will regain all that I have lost," said Andrew Carnegie. We believe, as he did that the heart and soul of a business are the men and women who carry it on from day to day. We are proud of the organization this store has built up. Its loyal, helpful workers in all departments have helped to make it known as the Store of smiling Service and unfailing Courtesy, and they will continue to make shopping for the women of Peterboro as pleasant and profitable as possible.

THE SOCIAL HYGIENE EXHIBIT

The Social Hygiene Exhibit at the Public Library commenced yesterday in its three-day session for women, with Miss Estelle Hewson in charge, and Mrs. E. Pankhurst and Miss Edna Moore, of the Provincial Board of Health staff in Toronto, assisting in the addresses and explanations that accompany the exhibit.

The hall at the Public Library is entirely taken up with the showing of posters, wax models, lantern slides, films and literature that make up the exhibit, which commences with informative posters that have to do with the educational aspect of the showing, and progresses to the wax models in cases that illustrate the revolting results of venereal diseases, and, what is almost as important, have on view in one case specimens of the damage wrought by unrelated skin affections, often mistaken for more serious disorders.

The posters emphasize in dozens of different ways the campaign being carried on by the Council for more interest in sex hygiene and proper modes of living. They illustrate the value of recreation and athletic exercise in the adolescent years, and the importance of attention to pure food, proper amount of sleep, good posture and companionship. "Paint your cheeks from the inside out" is the caption of one of the prettily-colored cards that present in an attractive series the right and wrong ways of living. Happy home life and parenthood, ancient ideas regarding the double standard of morals, the credit due the Travellers' Aid Society for its interest in the welfare of young girls, the necessity for the enforcement of laws and for physical education, and for the imparting of knowledge by the parent rather than by the vicious companion, are treated from every conceivable angle, by means of posters and educational films and lantern slides, the last shown in the colored "Attracta-scope," that portrays the story of youth led astray, with the inevitable consequences.

The supply of literature is varied and suited to every need, covering every phase of the Social Hygiene question, and adapted to the wants of youth and its teachers, in the home, the school and the pulpit.

One of the most striking portions of the exhibit is the wax model showing, depiciting in horrible forms the consequences of folly and indiscretion and ignorance. The ravages of social disease, to the victim and to his offspring, are here illustrated in a manner calculated to inspire a wholesome fear of consequences in the minds of the youthful excitement-seeker. Looking at these models, one doesn't wonder at the statement that the young boy or girl, coming in here with a jaunty and derisive attitude, to get a good deal of fun out of some of the posters, leaves with a different and more thoughtful aspect. To paraphrase an ancient maxim, one might say that "the fear of the consequences is the beginning of wisdom" might well be the motto of the Social Hygiene Exhibit.

Build Strength to throw off the cold take SCOTT'S EMULSION

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

The Eyesight Conservation Council of America has lately made the astonishing statement that 25,000,000 Americans who are workers have defective vision.

In other words, through disease conditions which have been ignored, mainly during the years of childhood, a great number have defective eyes. Other conditions which prevail in adults result from eye strain in some special occupation which calls for strenuous work during long hours.

The eyes are over-worked and many never try to effect a remedy. Glasses are often neglected and the eyes become the cause of severe nervous headaches, dizizness, brain fatigue, floating specks before the eyes, and at times, severe cases of bodily fatigue.

There is also the trouble of blurred eyes and redness with frequent styes. This condition is frequently caused by some catarrhal or diseased nasal sinuses. But if nothing is done to correct such eye troubles, they become worse and worse.

If the disease conditions which produce so many defective eyes were properly looked after, the percentage of such eyes in the industrial world (about 47 per cent) would be materially reduced.

On the other hand, the industrial conditions have become so exacting in many occupations that the real value of eyestight is often destroyed in a few years.

Have your eyes examined when any trouble occurs.

RICE AND CHEESE.

An appetizing casserole for a chilly night is made of two cups cooked rice, two eggs, two tablespoons butter, one cup milk, one cup chipped sharp cheese, one teaspoon salt. Beat eggs slightly, add milk, and mix with rice, cheese and melted butter. Sprinkle bread crumbs over the top, dot with butter and bake 25 minutes.

KITCHEN KINKS.

Bacon fat is excellent for frying potatoes.

Roast chicken will go further with plenty of good filling.

When a cake rises and cracks in the centre, too much flour has been used.

A tablespoon of cooked tapioca placed in the soup plate before filling it with hot consomme makes a pleasant change.

GOOD FOOD FOR REFLECTION

(By J. ABRAHAM.)

Dear Mr. Editor:

I would like to pass a few remarks on the speech made on Wednesday, 19th inst., by the Hon. J. S. Martin, the part dealing with breeding and keeping of poultry by farmers of this Province, and to those that availed themselves of the privilege to hear it. I must in all fairness admit it was food for reflection and not hard to digest, but were plain facts, "and facts are stubborn things."

Adverting to my article of 1923—A Much Neglected Side-line:

I also maintain fowls are a very profitable side-line on the farm, as they will if allowed a free run, find and use much food that would otherwise be completely wasted. I should estimate on a reasonably large farm the wastage is enough to provide a hundred laying hens about one-half of their rations six months of the year. Moreover, many of the really serious soil pests are spasmodic in their appearance. The use of poultry as insect pest eradications most certainly deserves every consideration from farmers. There is ample room in this country of ours to increase this valuable and rather underrated form for producing home-grown food.

From this statement I do not mean to infer that every person should rush out and hire or purchase a piece of land upon which to keep fowl, thinking that they are on a fair way to make a fortune. But I do think there is great scope for farmers to use this as a side-line on their farms to their own very great and prosperous advantage.

It is, however, a mistake to keep more fowl than can be properly managed, as overcrowding invites disease and disaster, on dairy farms where separated milk and grass are available, quite a large flock can often be kept with great profit.

Many farm flocks today are still mixed fowl of no special breeding; and such flocks can be speedily and profitably improved by the introduction of pure-bred male birds frome well-known laying strain, the process being year after year. The necessary pure-bred male can be purchased or raised from sittings of pure-bred eggs specially obtained for that purpose, where this grading-up system is adopted, it is important never to use a cross-bred male bird, no matter how apparently perfect he may look, as judged by appearance. "Blood must tell."

The flock needs proper shelter, though it need not be costly or elaborate. The essentials are protection against storms and very cold winds, but it is also necessary that there be ample ground space. It is also a good plan to leave the care of the farm fowl to one person who will make it his or her special business, and who will derive a direct pecuniary benefit from success.

The capacity of pullets for winter laying depends upon the strain, and largely upon the care they receive, and the three main essentials to my mind are, comfortable shelter, good feeding, and good range. Some poultrykeepers affect to sneer at the "balance ration" yet they have only to feed their stock in haphazard way to realize that paying egg production can only be attained by taking heed as to the nature of the food given, and that it is fed to the birds in the right quantities, due attention must be given to the amountof albuminoids, the chief flesh forming factor, composing as it does about three-quarters of solids in an egg, the carbohydrates or heating material, and the fats so essential to all birds or animals during winter, for winter eggs is a very paying proposition. And it is well to bear in mind the fact an egg contains 13 per cent. albuminoids, 9 per cent. fat, 10 per cent. shell, 1 per cent. ash.

These constituents being known a well-balanced ration to contain all that is necessary to produce the egg formers must be devised, and fed regularly to ensure success, and good profit will follow. Yours truly,

JAS. ABRAHAM.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE COST OF THE REFERENDUM.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—A few months ago we had the pleasure of reading a great many political speeches on the important subject of economy. The politicians, with tears in their voices, told us that we were on a financial toboggan slide; and while, of course, it was distressing to learn of our perilous position, it was delightful to be told that we were about to be rescued by politicians who loved economy and hated extravagance. They made it very clear that only the most rigid scrutiny of every item of expenditure, even down to the last dollar, would meet the case. Every proposed expenditure that was not absolutely necessary would be avoided. I will not weary your readers with a list of expenses to which exception was taken, but I may be permitted to mention one, namely, a coal scuttle for the Prime Minister's office, the price of which we are told was ruinous to the country and was far beyond our means. I will not say that the members of the Government were carried into office in a coal scuttle, but certainly that little article played an important part in the election, and nobly did its share in helping the party to obtain a glorious victory.

Well, the people were aroused, and decided that in the future there would be a cheap coal scuttle in the Prime Minister's office, even if they had to give away the present expensive one and then buy a new cheap one to replace it.

Now, it is true that all of this occurred several months ago. It was then June—now it is March. And everybody knows that March is not a bit like June. So why should ideas, principles and policies that were said to be good in June be still considered to be good in the following March? This is an age of progress. So we must not be too much surprised to learn that these very politicians, before their tears had time to dry, and when the sound of their voices, as they earnestly pleaded for economy, had scarcely died away, were proposing to spend on one unnecessary and entirely indefensible item of expense not simply the price of one coal scuttle, but (would you believe it?) an amount which, if invested in coal scuttles, would fill up the whole city with them, so that they would not only have coal to burn but they would have coal scuttles to burn, and Toronto would be almost as completely covered with coal scuttles as on a certain occasion Egypt was covered with locuts.

Some people think that the great margin in this instance between profession and performance is attributable to the fact that in June the politicians were hoping to get into office, but that in March they are actually in. But, perhaps, this is rather uncharitable. It is nicer to think that it is simply owing to the onward progressive march of civilization and the rapid acquirement of new and enlarged ideas, new theories, up-to-date information, and more modern methods of doing business. You know we are always changing and improving our methods. Noah's ark was a good boat in its day, but it had no wireless.

But nevertheless, notwithstanding all my charity, I must confess to a feeling of bewilderment. These quick-change artists are certainly hard to understand. Is it really according to Hoyle that there should be so much difference between June and March? If, despite the tears of the politicians, this expenditure is allowed, then there may be other things even worse to follow.

We appear to be on our way, but don't know where we are going; and, I have become apprehensive that although we are now in a different toboggan, we are still on the same old slide. Some people believe that when the politicians were making those pious professions to us, they were, at the same time, giving a secret promise to certain parties that they would, if elected, immediately spend this large amount. But one does not like to believe that any of our public men would be guilty of such rascality.

DR. KING CONVICTED OF SELLING ADDICT DRUGS FOR COMMERCIAL GAIN

Magistrate Langley Imposes Fine of $300 and Costs With Alternative of Two Months in Prison—Counsel Argued Case To-day—Mr. Strickland Complimented.

MAY TAKE APPEAL

Dr. De Courcy King was this morning found guilty on a charge of supplying Joseph Collins with a drug not required for medicinal purposes, contrary to the provision of the Opium and Narcotic Drugs Act, and sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley to a fine of $300 and costs, amounting to $365. The accused was given until Monday next to pay the fine, when in default of payment, a warrant will issue committing him to two months' imprisonment in the common jail.

Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., conducted the case for the Crown, and Dr. King was represented by J. C. Strickland, who was complimented by Magistrate Langley on his representation of his client's case.

Evidence for the defence closed last night, and the argument of counsel was proceeded with this forenoon before the usual crowded court.

Mr. Strickland, in opening his address, said Collins had gone to Dr. King for several months for treatment, and while there was a great difference between Collins' testimony and Dr. King's evidence, the latter was borne out by Constable Puffer and other witnesses. "There is not a tittle of evidence," Mr. Strickland said, "that the amounts of laudanum supplied by Dr. King to his patient were excessive. The dose was approved of by both Dr. Young and Dr. Morgan. There is no evidence of an overcharge; in fact the charges made for this treatment were very modest, the men paying $1 an ounce and 50 cents for a half ounce, whereas the accepted tariff among physicians is $3 for a consultation and a prescription."

Mr. Strickland objected to the testimony of Hargrove, Killenbeck, Alcombrack, Donnelly and Quinlan. "Hargrove," he said, "is the most dangerous man of them all, both as a witness and as a menace to the community. On his own admission he says he is not an addict but obtained drugs for Donnelly. Donnelly says, and he impressed me as the most truthful of the witnesses, that he had not been to Dr. King for ten years, and he did not think Dr. King would give him the drugs.

"He got Hargrove to get the drugs as Hargrove was a sick-looking man. Donnelly apparently is telling the truth. He is not charged with any offence and that gives further weight to his evidence, since he has nothing to gain or lose. As to Killenbeck, he has been convicted of robbery with violence; he has been before you on many charges of B.O.T.A., and has also been here on drug charges. I consider the introduction of his evidence is a systematic attempt to blacken this doctor's character by calling a man of that stamp.

"Alcombrack did not obtain drugs for his own use, but he did supply Donnelly.

"Collins says he took the drug at his own home — he did not supply others. His actions are those of a man to whom it is necessary, and who is taking it under the direction of a doctor. If these men took the drug hypodermically they did it without the doctor's knowledge. There is no evidence before the court that it was being taken hypodermically.

"Quinlan admits coming out of hospital and going to Dr. King and discussing other doctors with him. Dr. King is not contradicted when he says the doctor referred to was out of town when he called him on the telephone. If Dr. King is in the unfortunate position of having prescribed for these addicts it is a dangerous position, but I maintain he has done his best for the unfortunate men as their physician."

Clouded the Issue.

Mr. Strickland said that the introduction of the evidence to which he had objected had beclouded the issue, and he again protested against its consideration by the Magistrate. He pointed out the alibi established by Dr. King covering the period when Collins said he obtained laudanum at the doctor's office.

"The question of the veracity of these men is a question of common knowledge, but the medical witnesses are agreed that they are not to be relied on.

I say these men in the witness box are going to say what they think they will better their positions. The question is to be carried further than merely lying to obtain drugs. They think if they convict the doctor they will get off and get their drugs.

Regarding the identity of the bottles there is no evidence to show the fluid seized on Collins was that analyzed by Dr. McNair. Then there is the question of the qualifications of the analyst. I'm not attacking Dr. McNair in any way but I submit it is the duty of the Crown to have had the fluid analyzed by a qualified analyst.

You will remember the police evidence attempted to show the marks had been put upon the bottles intentionally to mark them.

It is simply a cheap trick to cover up the mistake they made at the time. The marks are simply defects in the cheap grade of bottle.

What was required was the sealing of the bottles and their careful keeping in that condition until forwarded to a competent analyst.

Collins was a bona fide patient of Dr. King, and the doctor had a duty to perform, in the carrying out of which he is entitled to protection.

Might Have Been Tea

Crown Attorney Hatton said it was alleged in the prosecution that the drug was opium and that it came from Dr. King's office. There was the evidence of the doctor in charge of the provincial laboratory and accustomed to make an analysis who declares the drug is laudanum and that laudanum is opium. The drug in the bottles was taken from Collins' pocket by Sergeant Wigg given to the Chief, passed by way of Detective Carey to Dr. McNair and back by Constabl Puffer to the Chief of Police. There is the conclusive proof that the drug which was taken from Collins is the very bottle produced in court after analysis.

Magistrate Langley: "Wasn't it possible to have taken out the cork and exchange the liquid?"

Mr. Hatton: "Oh yes. Newhall might have done it or Carey or Puffer. Their duty was to keep the bottle as it was and there is no reason to presume it was not. If the presumption is that it was changed or interfered with by the police that should be bolstered up by some kind of evidence. It might have been cold tea in the bottle at first."

Magistrate Langley: "I don't like your suggestion that I am making a absurd suggestion." His Worship pointed out that under the O.T.A. the bottles must be sealed and the crown attorney contended there is nothing requiring this to be done in drug cases.

The Crown Attorney pointed to Collins evidence that he got the drug in Dr. King's office on March 5 and the circumstantial evidence given by the other addicts showing that they had obtained drugs at Dr. King's.

"These men go into the box some weeks after March 5, their minds clear as to what took place between them and doctor and they are now back to normal and are stating clearly what took place in the doctor's office. That is strong corroborative evidence of Collin's story.

With reference to the veracity of these men the doctors say the lies these men tell are for the purpose of obtaining the drug and outside trying to get this drug they are not more likely to lie than another person.

These addicts stop at nothing to get the drugs—they will steal it or get it in any possible way. That is when they are under the influence and it overcomes every other thought.

These men are awaiting sentence; there is no way in which their punishment can be avoided; they have pleaded guilty. A pretty severe punishment it is too —too severe to my mind."

Referring to the cards produced by Dr. King as exhibit from his card system showing the treatment given Collins, Mr. Hatton said: "I don't seriously make any statements that would place the doctor in a position of not telling he truth when he said these were made out a year and a half ago, but I wish to call Your Worship's attention to the cards themselves and the condition they are in and you can take that into consideration.

Challenges Alibi

We have the evidence of Dr. King that he was not in the office at the time Collins said he was there. There is of course Symons' evidence which is not so specific that there would not have been time for the doctor to have been there and in his office about that time.

Surely if they were asked next day what time the doctor had spoken to them the day before that should have impressed the time on the second day on their minds, but neither even pretended to know. They were positive to the minute on the fifth of March but could not even approximate the time of Dr. King's call on the sixth."

Mr. Hatton referred to the markings of the bottles, and Mr. Strickland said he had just referred to the marks on the bottom of the bottles and not to the painted numbers.

Chief Newhall: "I'll show you how they were made."

Mr. Strickland: "You had better not interject remarks now; the magistrate is in control of the court."

Mr. Hatton: "It seems to me that the same quantity of drugs was given throughout the year, and about the same time apart.

Dr. Morgan says that within four days he can get an addict back to normal, provided he is under restraint. Dr. King should know that if he is treating a case he should reduce as Dr. Morgan said. As Dr. Morgan said, if the source wasn't there they would continue without it.

With that knowledge, which he must have had, why did Dr. King not pursue that course of treatment. Instead of that it was given from day to day without evidence that any effort was made to break them off.

Treatment to my mind, is after five days to do like Dr. Morgan did, to say, 'No; I'm treating you; I won't give you any more. If you can get it anywhere else, alright, but I won't give it to you.' That would get rid of the drug addict.

It's abominable, these men who have become addicts to the habit and the government is doing nothing to stop it.

The Summing Up.

Magistrate Langley, in summing up said:

"This act makes it an offence to supply any drug to any person unless such drug is required for medicinal purposes. It is alleged that he supplied Collins with a drug within the meaning of the act, that it was not required by Collins and was not part of professional treatment.

The questions to be deduced are: Did Collins get the drug, and if so did he get it as part of medical treatment?

Collins swears he went to the defendant and that he got this bottle; Bromley says he saw him go there, and come away, and he arrested him. Sergeant Wigg swears he found the bottle of liquid in Collins' pocket, and gave it to the Chief, who passed it by Carey to Dr. McNair.

Although it is submitted that confidence cannot be placed in these drug addicts, I feel Collins' testimony as to getting the liquid that night is corroborated to some extent by the police evidence, and the doctor admits he had been giving this man laudanum, although not that night.

I find as a fact that Collins did get the liquid on that night of March 5th.

This bottle, although it was not sealed, and I think it would have been wiser in an important case of this kind to seal the bottle, has been traced.

While there were opportunities of changing the liquid, yet in tracing the bottle and hearing Dr. McNair's testimony, I find as a matter of fact that the bottle contained laudanum.

The defence deny that any laudanum was given that night, but on my finding as a fact that it was given, they fail to show that it does not come within the meaning of the act, and I find particularly in the evidence of Dr. Young that the laudanum contained much more opium than necessary to bring it within the act.

All of these addicts said they simply got the drugs and paid for them without examination, and I am bound to find that the doctor was not treating the men medicinally but was commercially disposing of the drugs for profit, and there must therefore be a conviction."

Mentions Appeal.

Mr. Strickland said there would be an appeal, and suggested that the second charge of selling drugs to Yorke should be left over until after disposal of the appeal which he believes will definitely settle the matter.

The minimum penalty in this charge is $200 fine and a maximum of $1,000.

The Crown Attorney pointed out that the unfortunate drug addicts are subject to a minimum fine of $250 and imprisonment, whereas the physician who has been found guilty of supplying the drugs is liable only to a fine or imprisonment.

Mr. Strickland said this is Dr. King's first conviction and the first blemish on his character. He referred to the O.T.A. case which was withdrawn a few days ago.

Magistrate Langley said the O.T.A. case should never have been laid.

Mr. Strickland said his client is not in a position to pay a heavy fine as he would have been had he been trafficking in drugs.

Magistrate Langley remarked that Mr. Strickland is always a gentleman in court and conducts his cases particularly well.

Mr. Hatton said if the Magistrate thought in the interest of the State a small fine without imprisonment would be a deterrent and give notice to others that this, one of the most serious crimes in the country, must be stopped, then the Crown is not pressing for the maximum penalty, but would be satisfied with a reasonable sentence.

Mr. Strickland said the object of the prosecution was to put a stop to the business, and in that event he could assure the court the end had been reached so far as his client was concerned. Although Dr. King had treated the men bona fide he said he would not take a chance of being again hailed into court.

Magistrate Langley said he had personally very little sympathy with the doctor who will make a profit out of these poor addicts.

In view of a second charge pending against Dr. King, he set the fine in this case at $300, and costs, to be paid on or before Monday next.

The five men who pleaded guilty to charges of having drugs and who have been in custody almost a month, were again remanded with their consent for one week. Magistrate Langley said he will not grant another remand, irrespective of any other cases in which the men may be wanted as witnesses. He did not think the time spent in jail under remand would count off the minimum prison sentence of six months.

Ed. Alcombrack, who was heard as a witness for the Crown, admitted handling drugs, but was granted the protection of the Dominion and Provincial Evidence Acts, no charge being laid against him.

WOMEN'S CANADIAN CLUB

Before an audience of about one hundred people, Dr. Maurice Hutton, M.A., principal of University College, Toronto, delivered an address on "The Gilbert and Sullivan Opera" at the Collegiate Institute hall last evening, under the auspices of the Women's Canadian Club. The president, Miss A. Lancaster, introduced the speaker of the evening, whose address was illustrated in a charming manner by a musical programme arranged by Mrs. W. W. McKee Bingham. Dr. Hutton's scholarly, humorous paper was delivered in friendly, talkative fashion that appealed immensely to his hearers.

Dr. Hutton opened his discourse with a definition of the essential differences between the humorist, the satirist, the cynic, the misanthrope, the comedian and the wit. The humorist is the man, like Dickens or Thackeray, who makes people see the difference between a man's profession and his practice. Lowell and Goldwin Smith also belong in this category of what might be termed humorist moralists, making us laugh at the spectacle of man's ideals coming to grief in a very prosaic world. The story of Cervantes and Don Quixote is a splendid example of a type of humorist cynic. Jane Austen, in "Sense and Sensibility" has painted a picture of ideals as contrasted with the facts of life.

The satirist is the man who shows the seamy side of life with hatred and horror of it, like Juvenal, and the misanthrope is he who sees and hates the seamy side with no hope of altering it. Dean Swift was a misanthrope. While the cynic sees the seamy side of life, and, instead of hating it, laughs and scoffs at it. The cynic has always been a man who snarled and scoffed at what other men valued. The values have changed, but the cynic's name remains the same. The ancient Greek cynic was also a moralist, who snarled and scoffed at men whose first thought in life was for wealth, comfort, luxury and civilization. "Diogenes, the cynic's hero, scoffed at these things, which are no longer, theoretically, anyhow, the first things in life." They have given place to character, conduct and Christianity. We find the cynic today is the man who scoffs at character, conduct and Christianity, very different things to those that the ancients snarled at, so that the cynic is no longer a moralist.

The comedian is just a mirthmaker. "What fools these mortals be," is his faith. He only wants to make us laugh. Lewis Carroll was a comedian, but he also had a serious mind, and, as so often happens when an internecine warfare is carried on between a love of fun and a serious mind, the conscience wins out, and the comedian ceases to be a funmaker and commences to preach sermons in his books, which spoil them, as "Sylvia and Bruno" was spoiled by Carroll's final subjection to his serious mind.

"Dickens was a great humorist, but it seems rather awful that he should have, even so soccessfully, been able to make fun of his own father in the character of Mr. Micawber, and it seems rather a shame that he should even have taken off old Mrs. Gamp like he did.

"Wit is chiefly vocal and literary," said the speaker, referring to the famous epigram of Goldwin Smith when he said: 'Give me liberty or give me death,' cried Patrick Henry, and bought another slave.

"Gilbert was a comedian and a wit. He liked to turn everything into laughter. Vivacious per.iflage was his forte and banter his long suit." Gilbert could approach to the sentimental, however, in his work, declared the speaker, instancing the song of Iolanthe to the Lord Chancellor, in "Iolanthe," and some of the songs of "The Yeoman of the Guard." Some of Sullivan's curiously beautiful music, with its atmosphere of church music, was set to several of these more serious and sentimental songs. Phoebe's song in "The Yeoman of the Guard" illustrates the tendency of Sullivan to drown the mock hero's words in beautiful strains. Dr. Johnson once said: "Why should the devil have all the good music in the world?" Sullivan said: "Why should the churches have all the good music in the world?" and so introduced some of it into these operas and into "Patience," which the speaker considered the best of the works.

The ancient controversy as to whether music should be judged by the individual taste of the hearer or whether judgment on what is good music should b e left in the hands of a select few to be accepted by the many, was mentioned, with Ethel Smith's remark that the music of "Tiperary" would have delighted Schubert. The speaker considered that the populer in art or music or literature may be nearly the best in all three.

"Gilbert has been called the English Aristophanes," said the speaker. "Gilbert knocked occasionally at English prudery, but even Bernard Shaw does this sometimes, as in 'Cleopatra.'" Dr. Hutton contended that the English prudery and so-called hyprocisy reduced a recognition of the seamy side of life to a minimum. It was in contrast to the French method, as exemplified in Anatole France's work, of exaggerating that seamy side, and magnifying such evils by presenting them in their fullest light. The English system was to be silent about them, "and so keep them in their own fly-blown and dirty corner, where they belong. It is hard to keep them there, but the English try to, and I say that the psycho-analysts of today are doing much harm. Psycho-analysis is one of the curses of this generation."

The titles of the operas had little attraction. The original name of "Yeoman of the Guard" had been the "Beef Eaters," and Gilbert was rather dubious about "Ruddigore" also, as being too unconventional, thinking of changing it to "Kensington Gore." These titles were in marked contrast to the French "The Clouds," "The Wasps," "The Pacifist Woman," with their difficult analogies between wasps and lawyers, between company promoters and birds, between the city of the dead and the croaking of frogs. "The Clouds" had Socrates for a hero.

The operas were full of wit and mockery. The Lord High Admiral was mocked in "Pinafore," women's education and rights in "The Princess Ida," company promoters and many other things in "Utopia," and two rival curates were taken off in "The Sorcerer."

The speaker referred to the cult, during his term at Oxford, of a weird sort of new religion or mania in color sponsored by Oscar Wilde, which included in its followers such men as William Morris, Burne Jones, the two Tosettis, and one of the dons, Walter Pater. It was in ridicule of this that Gilbert wrote "Patience," taking as his inspiration the words from Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night." "She sat like Patience on a monument, smiling at grief." It was real satire and spelled the knell of a far-fetched Oxford fad.

The patter of Gilbert's jingles was referred to at length, the speaker quoting many instances of its effectiveness. It was mildly political in intention, but much milder than the political satire of Aristophanes. Some jests were levelled at British polity, and at constitutional kings and their manner of living, and the speaker declared that Gilbert might have foreseen the Washington Disarmament Conference and the advent of the Labour Government in Great Britain in his "Utopia," which upsets pretty nearly everything.

"There is little sympathy in Gilbert. A good deal of his ridicule in the operas is aimed at old ladies enamored of young men. It is probably commonplace and vulgar, but then we English are vulgar in our humour. It matches the American type of humour, which has its mainstay in the acient mother-in-law joke, stolen, in the first instance, from Great Britain.

"Is the Gilbert patter poetry?" asked Dr. Hutton, going on to contrast it in a favorable light with much of the vers libre of the present day, which he said would not be considered as poetry at all if written in prose formation. In this way, it was unlike some of the prose poems of the great writers, which he instanced in quotations from the Psalms of David, when the King, lamenting for his son, says: "I will go to him, but he will not return to me," in the words of the Yorkshireman thinking of his Yorkshire moors in far-away India, in "Jane Eyre," and in some philosophic sentences of John Locke.

"Gilbert makes us laugh. His operas are valuable, if they did no more than answer those importunate widows of the world; duty, creed, religion, conscience, science and scholarship, which, listening to Gilbert's jingles, cease to importune and laugh instead, giving us a 'source of innocent merriment.'" The speaker concluded his address with a quotation from "The Gondoliers," "Life's a pleasant institution. Let us take it as it comes."

A sincere appreciation of a "scholarly and beautiful" address was voiced by Miss Lancaster, at the conclusion of Dr. Hutton's discourse.

A pleasant feature of the programme was the illustration with vocal music of several of the operas' outstanding solos, in a programme arranged by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham. Selections were given from "Patience" and "The Gondoliers." Mrs. Bingham's lovely, expressive voice was heard to excellent advantage in Lady Jane' ssong, "The Coming Bye and Bye," and Miss Ethel Kennedy's melodious tones gave a pretty setting to "The Magnet and the Churn." Miss Isabel Donnelly made a proficient accompanist.

FASHION HINTS

"Yes, we have no bananas," but we have a new shade called "banana" that promises to be one of the season's favorites. It is a pinkish flesh shade, verging on yellow, and is seen among sports attire, lingerie frocks, hats, hosiery and undergarments. It adds a new note to the summer pastels.

* * *

One could write paragraphs on scarfs this season, as every frock and costume seems to have an accompanying scarf of some sort. For sports wear there are plaids, stripes and mixtures in brilliant colors, with the background repeating the shade of the costume. Afternoon chiffons have long strips of material attached at the shoulders which fall to the hem of the frocks. Evening gowns either have separate scarfs of self-material about the shoulders, or have scarfs attached to one shoulder. Some of them are beaded in crystals to match the frock; some trimmed in ostrich some fringed.

Double-brimmed hats, with small flowers placed between the brims, are among the spring displays. These are on the cloche order, cut short in back and turning slightly upwards in front.

Low Cuban heels are being worn for street wear in preference to the high heels. Bright-colored shoes are not shown in the smart shops for spring, although light shades like fawn, gray and champagne are highly regarded. Lizard and alligator skins are featured for sports wear by some houses.

Red was one of the leading colors at the French winter resorts this year. Red and white is a favorite combination for sports wear and red and black is favored for dressier occasions.

KIWANIS CLUB HEAR ADDRESS ABOUT GHANDI

TO-DAY'S BOOSTER

Rev. A. E. Armstrong Gave Interesting Talk on India—Booster For Whole Wheat.

TO-DAY'S GUESTS.

Ghandi and British rule in India was the subject of an interesting address at to-day's Kiwanis Club luncheon by Rev. A. E. Armstrong, who has travelled extensively in India, and is in Peterborough in connection with the World Missions Conference. Three fourths of the population of the British Empire is to be found in India, said Mr. Armstrong. India is the major problem before the British government today now that the Irish question has been disposed of. Politically it is the most interesting country we can consider at the present time. The policy of the British Government is to exercise control over the government of India until such time as that country shows capacity for self-government. At present three groups of parties exist in India. Party number one is headed by Ghandi and represents a group that wants self-government right away without waiting for it. The second party is willing to wait a little while for self-government. Here it might be stated that the British government has promised self-government in India in 1929 providing that country is ready to accept the responsibilities that go with self-government. The third party is made up of a group that recognizes the danger of India obtaining self government too soon and are willing to wait for it. Ninety per cent. of the millions who live in villages are illiterate and live below the hunger line. British government in India has brought law, order and progress as indicated by statistics to trade imports and industrial progress .Irrigation has brought wonderful blessings to India and has resulted in a larger and more productive crop acreage. Farming methods are primititve. They talk about the large British army maintained in India. There is one British soldier to every four thousand population, and the majority of them are native soldiers. The army is being Indianized as rapidly as native officers can be trained to take command.

Ghandis' policy is to do away with western civilization such as railways, telegraph, automobiles and other evidences of civilization. Medical science, Ghandi calls "concentrated essence of black magic." If Great Britain granted India Home Rule today she would be committing a crime against humanity, said Mr. Armstrong. Major states would make war on minor states and the whole country would suffer internal strife.

Use Whole Wheat.

The booster to-day was Kiwanian Frank Dawson and in his absence Kiwanian John Meyers, of the Peterborough Cereal Company, favoured the club with a brief but instructiv reference to the milling industry. Mr. Meyers said that whole wheat ground to include the bran and everything made the best bread, but the housekeeper of to-day demands white flour and the millers have to supply it whether it is good or not. The doctors, said Mr. Meyers, would bear out his statement regarding whole wheat bread. Mr. Meyers studiously avoided a reference to his own brand of flour and graciously credited all the mills with making a good quality of flour.

The prize winners were Kiwanians Alec Dick, Billy Williams and Jim Doran.

Miss Mathilde Masson favoured the gathering with a solo, followed by an encore and was presented with a bouquet of flowers with considerable rivalry for the honor of making the presentation.

President John R. Marshall presided and the guests included Rev. W. E. Morrow, Rev. W. C. Rose, D.D., Rev. A. E. Armstrong, Roland Doughty of Belleville and Gordon Pew of Newark.

EVEN "THE TIGER" SIGNED FOR SIR GEORGE FOSTER

Took Four Months to Secure Names of Peace Delegates — Most Unique Autograph Book in World

ACCORDING TO Who's Who, the recreations of the Right Hon. Sir George E. Foster, Canada's senior privy councillor, are set out as follows: "Fond of fishing and boating, a lover of cricket; sits a bicycle in all weathers; and is an enthusiastic gardener."

Sir George's friends in the Maritime Provinces will cheerfully bear testimony to his skill with the rod and line among the Restigouche salmon; but if the biographies of senators had to be passed upon by the upper House it would be resolved that all the words after "fishing" be deleted and that there be substituted in amendment therefor the word "traveling."

Sir Geo. Foster

No cabinet minister in the history of the dominion has traveled so widely and been so consistently on tour. During his long public career he has twice visited the British West Indies, times innumerable, it would seem, has he been in the United Kingdom, sailed the far-away seas to Australia, New Zealand, China, Japan, and has been a prominent figure in the Paris and Geneva conferences during and after the war. He was the first imperial minister to cross into Germany after the armistice. And as for Canada, there is hardly a hamlet in which he has not been heard on the platform.

It is not surprising, therefore, that in his globe trotting he should have acquired an unusually interesting collection of curios and souvenirs. The piece de resistance is an autograph book which contains the signatures of every official delegate at the peace conference in Paris. It took four months to secure the names, and is, so far as is known, absolutely unique, except for an exact duplicate in the possession of his former private secretary, Mr. C. H. Payne.

One page is devoted to a country. Starting with the United Kingdom, one reads the signatures of Lloyd George, Bonar Law, Arthur Balfour, George N. Barnes and Lord Milner. Then comes the French list of delegates comprising Clemenceau, Pichu, Klotz, Foch, Tardieu and Cambon. For the United States one reads Woodrow Wilson, Lansing, White, House and Tasker Bliss, and so on down through Paderewski of Poland, Venizelos of Greece, Emir Feisul of the Hedjas, to the representatives of the smallest Central American allies. The representatives of thirty-three nations of the world, the oldest and the newest, have recorded their names. In some respects it is more interesting than the peace treaty itself, for some of the leaders had left before the end of the conference and the document was signed in the Hall of Mirrors by proxies.

Many other attempts were made to fill autograph books, but Sir George finished an easy winner; in fact, his book was completed some time before instructions were given in the various delegations that autograph hunters would not be countenanced. In fact, so accustomed did the delegates become to refusing to sign their names that some apparently refused to sign the peace treaty itself!

It took four months, as mentioned above, before the last name was recorded, and the French delegates were the last and most difficult to overcome. Clemenceau became a tiger indeed when anyone approached him on that mission. But on the day when the Austrians appeared at St. Germain-en-Laye to receive their peace treaty, the Germans having had their medicine some two weeks previously, it looked as though finis was to be written to the protracted conference, and everyone was in jovial humor. It was then that Sir George, master strategist, in full face of the conference, courteously requested M. Clemenceau and his confreres to complete his book, which they did graciously and without demur. And to crown all, Marshal Foch signed in the very centre of the page.

It is indeed a valuable souvenir of the great war and one which Sir George prizes beyond price.

It is barely five years since the treaty was signed, and yet several of the most prominent figures of that momentous assembly have passed from the scene—General Botha, Woodrow Wilson, Bonar Law, the Right Hon. A. L. Sifton, one of Canada's representatives, and others. Each year inevitably adds to its value as a record of history.

TOSSING FOR A THRONE

HOW the throne of Greece depended once upon the toss of a coin is told by Le Queux, the novelist and secret foreign agent.

When, in 1909, Prince George's (the crown prince's) pranks and practical jokes grew to be a public scandal, his father, King Peter, became furious at the state of affairs, and suggested that he should renounce his rights as Prince Heritier. So he went to his brother, the present king, and said:

"The king has almost had a fit of apoplexy. I'm the bad boy, and old Paschitch has been lecturing me, and says I'll have to renounce my claim to the throne. I don't want it, as you know, but surely we ought to have even chances. I'll toss you for it!"

And they did, with a French louis piece, Alexander winning the toss!

PRINCE WAS CONTENT

A LITTLE while ago, the Prince of Wales was at an informal dinner, and was evidently behaving so naturally that some of those present forgot the distinguished company they were in. Presently, a speaker arose and began an oration.

"Gentlemen——" he started.

Then he paused, and his face colored.

"I beg your Royal Highness' pardon," he said in confusion.

"Carry on, sir," laughed the Prince. "I'm quite content to be called a gentleman."

Trust a Woman to Hit Like Thousand of Brick

Artist-Professor Now Sees Danger of Using Encouragement Not Tested by the Third Degree

MR. ARTHUR LISMER, vice principal of the Ontario Colege of Art of Toronto, tries always to impress his pupils to get the big fundamentals of a drawing or design correct. This, of course, is the hardest thing for a beginner as they simply will not be satisfied, no matter how out of proportion a drawing is, until they have each eyelash in what they consider its proper locality.

"Get the swing and proportion right, any fool can fill in the details," is Mr. Lismer's motto.

He had just finished criticizing the drawing of one sub-deb of seventeen or so, who had succeeded, to his satisfaction, in achieving the setting up of a drawing. He was just leaving her after expressing his approval when he noticed her frowning.

"What's the matter?" he asked.

"I can't seem to get any farther with it," she pouted sweetly.

"Why you've already done the hardest part; any fool can do the details," he encouraged.

She stood there perplexed, very sweet but very uncertain. Then looking up and seeing Mr Lismer still standing watching her she naively said: "I wish you'd show me how, Mr. Lismer."

FOCH AND PETAIN SHUN BURIAL IN PANTHEON

"My Corner of the Earth With My Own People," Says Foch—Joffre Is Mum

WHAT the contemporary marshals of France think of the cold marble crypts of the Pantheon as a final resting place is illustrated in an anecdote related by "Aux Ecoutes." Foch and Petain wish to be buried beside those they have loved, but Joffre apparently will accept the grey splendor of the Pantheon.

At the funeral of their friend General Buat, says "Aux Ecoutes," the three were chatting together, and Foch happened to voice his approval of the fact that Buat was being buried without flowers or funeral speeches, as he had wished. Petain agreed, but Joffre looked as if he heard nothing. Hence, it was to be inferred that the hero of the Marne had no objection to funeral orations.

"Then, above all else," continued Foch, "no Pantheon. I don't like the place, and, besides, I am not over-anxious to sleep my last sleep beside the Berthelot family. No, my corner of the earth with my own people, and the prayers of those whom I love and whom I shall leave behind would be better."

Petain agreed. Joffre continued not to hear. Marshal Joffre will accept the Pantheon.

Third Wife

AN irascible bridegroom of seventy-three, marrying his third wife went into the vestry to sign the register.

After several fruitless attempts to make a mark on the paper, he turned to the clerk and said: "This is the second or third time you've played me this trick! Next time I shall bring my own pen."

"A Fair Exchange is No Robbery," Said Fairbanks and Gest.

MORRIS GEST, the producer, and Douglas Fairbanks, star of moviedom, felt so happy over the signing of a new contract that they celebrated by exchanging hats without really knowing what they were doing, but the photographer caught them before they discovered the mistake and said, "Well, anyhow, a fair exchange is no robbery, even when it comes to signing contracts." The contract in question was one whereby Gest will present the newest play of Fairbanks, a fantastical Oriental production, on which Fairbanks worked sixteen months. In this Gest says he will present American art to Europe, instead of vice versa, as has been his custom.

Baden Powell "Froze" on Ladder When He and Brother Were Spies

Has Had Exciting Escapes—With Aid of Friendly Waiter, Escaped From Hotel—Visited European Country to Learn Secrets of Certain Warlike Inventions

THE railway guard is a great man in a certain country on the continent. He is autocrat of the train—and what he says goes.

Sir Robert Baden-Powell had a practical demonstration of this once. He was visiting this country in order to see what he could find out about certain warlike inventions, of which news had trickled through. He was accompanied by his brother, and the two intended to travel about the country like a pair of tourists.

Baden-Powell

Their entry into the country was unfortunate, for in the train they managed to get into trouble with the autocratic guard, because they wanted a window open, and the guard insisted on shutting it!

The argument settled, "B.-P." began idly sketching a fellow-traveler. Alas! the artist had his back to the window, and suddenly an arm descended over his shoulder and the picture was snatched away—by the guard!

When the train reached the terminus, the two Englishmen were seized by a force of gendarmes and marched off to the police station to account for their misbehavior in—

(a) Daring to open the window when the guard wished it closed.

(b) Caricaturing a high-born man in the train.

We made no secret as to our identity says Sir Robert in "The Adventures of a Spy" and handed our cards to the commissary of police when we were brought up before him.

He was—till that moment—glaring at us fiercely, evidently deciding what punishment to give us before he heard our case at all. But when he saw my brother's name as an officer in the Guards, he asked, "Does this mean in the Guards of Her Majesty Queen Victoria?"

When he heard it was so, his whole demeanor changed. He sprang from his seat, begged us to be seated, and explained it was all a mistake!

Evidently guards in his country were in very high repute.

Sir Robert has had many exciting escapes in his adventures. Once he wanted to have a look inside a big dockyard in which, it was rumored, a new power-house was being erected.

He got inside the yard, spotted the new building, and was half way up a ladder that led to the top of it when one of two policemen who had realized that a stranger was within the gates came round the corner of the building.

Sir Robert "froze"—that is, kept absolutely dead still where he was, half way up the ladder.

In his own words: I was about fifteen feet above sea level and not twenty yards from him. He stood undecided with his legs well apart, peering from side to side in every direction to see where I had gone, very anxious and shifty. I was equally anxious—but immovable.

Presently he drew nearer to the ladder, and strangely enough, I felt safer when he came below me, and he passed almost under me, looking in at the doorways of the unfinished building. Then he doubtfully turned and looked back at a shed behind him, thinking I might have gone in there, and finally started off, and ran on round the next building.

Sir Robert then finished his climb up the ladder, found out what he wanted, and ultimately got out of the dockyard—all thanks to his presence of mind and nerve in "freezing." The slightest movement, of course, would have made the policeman look up.

One other story of "nerve" the famous general tells—this time about his brother.

During some "investigations" Sir Robert was caught, and sent to a hotel where he was kept to all intents and purposes a prisoner. He was allowed out, but was closely followed by detectives.

Then his brother joined him, and the two decided to escape. A ship was found whose captain was willing to take them away provided they could get to him without being observed. With the aid of a friendly waiter they let the detective at the hotel understand that they were tired of being under suspicion, and were boldly going to take train and leave the country.

They got into a cab and drove towards the station. Then they told the driver they'd like to go to another station—the route to which would mean them crossing a ferry over the river.

At the ferry they paid off the cabman and made their way to the quay-side. The ship was lying in mid-stream, and all they had to do was to get out to her.

They called a boatman—and (says the author) at this supreme moment my brother had the temerity to argue with the boatman over the fare. Being now in the last stage of tenter-hooks, I adjured him to give the man double what he asked, if only to be free.

But my brother was calm, and for once—he was right! His display of want of all anxiety quite diverted any kind of suspicion that might have attached to us, and in the end we got safely on board and away.

New Thermometer

"THIS soup isn't hot enough," he grumbled, even before the waiter placed it before him.

"But, sir," said the waiter, "I assure you it is. Wait until you taste it."

"I know it's not hot enough by the length of time you have kept your thumb in it."

Stark Death Staring Her in the Face Is Only Excitement to Mrs. Forbes

First White Woman to Gaze on Sacred Moslem City of Kufara—Intends to Return to the Desert—Slept All Night Next to a Corpse — Fought Engagement With Arab Slavers

SPANISH grandmothers may now become popular. For it is to her Spanish grandmother that Rosita Forbes, the singular woman explorer, coming to lecture for the Woman's Canadian Club at Convocation Hall, Toronto, on March 21, attributes most of her flair as a rover.

Rosita Forbes

"If you can't be humorous without being shocking, be shocking," a kindred spirit has said. Mrs. Forbes can be both on occasion. About her bon mots is the mordant thrill of the unexpected, because she professes to disbelieve what others apparently believe. She professes not to believe in love. It interferes with exploration. Yet, although only twenty-eight, she has been married twice, first to Major Ronald Forbes, who was killed in action, and now to Colonel Arthur McGrath, of the British war office, who stays at home while his wife explores. But men are not even good companions on hard voyages, she has said. They eat too much.

What man ever talked more dashing? "Family ties don't worry me, as I am a loosefoot," she told the assembled press men on one occasion in New York. "Oh, well, I suppose I can say I came by this roving fever honestly. I had a Spanish grandmother that was a continuous rover." And the press men marvelled. They had come to see a regular man tamer, a solid and substantial lady, and were confronted by a bird-like apparition, a tall, lithe, sparkling, bob-haired woman who captured Gabrielle D'Annunzio for an hour and a half, before he captured her with his charming, ironic announcement: "Madame, you must excuse me. I owe myself to the other ladies."

Lady Hester Stanhope, strong-willed niece of the younger Pitt, was an original of her day, but she had nothing on her modern prototype. Settling on Mount Lebanon among the Druses she found stationary satisfaction in overawing thirty servants. But Mrs. Forbes does not anchor. Lady Stanhope used her satiric remarks to make enemies, while Mrs. Forbes uses hers to collect $50,000 from audiences to go back to the desert.

Mrs. Clare Sheridan once bearded the "terrible" Bolsheviki in their Russian fastnesses, and chiseled their busts. Mrs. Forbes did more than that. Across 500 miles of desert, sand, as flat as a gramophone disc, lost three days without water and about to be murdered by a guide to save his reputation, she penetrated to the sacred oasis stronghold of Kufara, the first white woman to walk through the forbidden Moslem city. A party of twenty, her caravan went into the desert, a party of eight they entered Egypt on their return. "The others had died, deserted us, or just disappeared," was the way she described it.

Death staring her in the face seems only an excitement to Mrs. Forbes. "My closest approach was when we were crossing the Red Sea in an open boat," she relates. "We stove a hole in the bottom and had to stuff our clothes into it, to keep the water from swamping us. The water outside was full of sharks. When we landed we were water-logged, and, to make matters worse, we landed at the wrong point and were attacked by slavers, but we could shoot quicker and more accurate than they could, and a dead slave isn't much use to anybody.

"On another occasion I was forced to adopt a native disguise. Had I been caught I would have lost my eyes and tongue and that's not—at least to me—a pleasant experience."

"Once when I was living among Arab women I found the atmosphere unbearable, so I moved to a smaller tent nearby during the middle of the night. It was occupied by one woman only, whom I took to be probably a favorite member of the harem. The air was perfumed in that tent, so I considered my move fortunate indeed. Next morning I found I had been sleeping next to a corpse. The perfume came from the herbs and funeral incense. After that they chased me away from the camp, because they were sure that I would be haunted by djinns. That is, I think, the most amusing experience I ever had."

Dark-Looking Stranger Takes Opportunity When Mourners Miss Opportunity to Praise Virtues of Deceased

IN 1918, Major Beith, better known under his pen name of "Ian Hay," was attached to the American army in the Argonne Forest. One day he was waiting for an American staff car which the authorities were sending for him.

An American military car drove up, and he said to the chauffeur: "Where are you from?"

The driver stood up, his eyes flashing, and said: "I am from Marion, Ohio, the greatest steam-shovel producing centre in the world." His first instinct was to give the old home town a lift up.

Ian Hay

The above is told in "Yea and Nay," a collection of lectures delivered by many well-known people at the London School of Economics.

Another American story told by Major Beith, for the absolute truth of which he did not vouch, was of a funeral party in Los Angeles. The officating clergyman was late in arriving, and a rather painful wait ensued among the mourners, who sat round the remains of the deceased in the front parlor.

Finally the chief mourner suggested that somebody might like to offer some observations on the virtues of the late lamented. Presently a dark-looking stranger stood up and said: "As no one seems to want to say anything about the corpse, I should like to offer a few observations about real estate prospects in the Los Angeles district."

FLAPDOODLE ARTICLE NEARLY RUINED LYND

SOME dismal failures to be funny as a small boy at school were the cause of an oath registered by Robert Lynd, the well-known English editor and essayist.

"I kept my oath till I came up to London and set about looking for work as a journalist," he confesses in the Passing Show.

"Then I met the editor of a weekly paper who asked me to write a funny article about the Oxford and Cambridge boat race and to deliver it a day before the race itself took place.

"My spirits sank, but I hurried home and sat down at my writing table, gloomily determined to think of something funny. I invented an old woman called Mrs. Flapdoodle, who dropped her aitches, as did all the other people who surrounded her on the river bank. I made them all jeer at each other about their personal appearance.

"I sat up working till two in the morning, when the brightest witticism I had yet been able to think of was the remark, "Hullo, old bun-face!" addressed by a small boy to an elderly clergyman. By three o'clock the small boy had called somebody else, "Blue-nose!"

"By four, Mrs. Flapdoodle had had an altercation with a member of the crowd and had ended by shouting at him, "Go 'long, you tin-eyed worm!" By five o'clock my invention was exhausted, and I could not think of another opprobious remark that could be applied to the features of a human being.

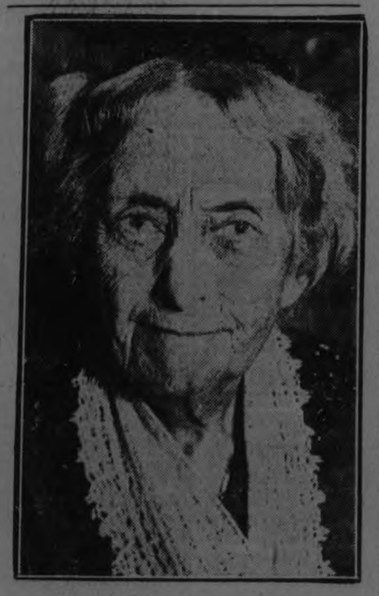
"By ten I delivered at the office of the paper an article called "Mrs. Flapdoodle at the boat race", and slunk off home.

"That article nearly ruined me. The editor did not print it, and for a long time afterwards he refused even to see me. Then he decided to give me another chance and sent me to describe the funeral of a famous writer. "Ah, that's better," he said, as he looked over my article.

"You will see, then, that there is a good reason, why, much as I long to, I never try to be funny, but just write anything that comes into my head."

SHOP Detective: "I'm suspicious of that woman; she seems furtive."

Shopwalker: "Well, keep your eye on the furs."—Tit-Bits.



Nearly Wilson's Stepmother

MRS. ELIZABETH GRANNIS, of New York, the 83-year-old lady shown above, was formerly editor and publisher of the Church Union to which the father of the late Woodrow Wilson contributed. She admitted coyly recently that she might have been the stepmother of the future president, whom she has outlived.

McKishnie, Incognito, Demonstrates How He Can Be a Queer One—Acts Queer Duck Drama

A VERY amusing story has been unearthed anent Mr. Archie P. McKishnie, well-known Canadian author and naturalist, which demonstrates that the gifts which the gods have bestowed upon him are not all in his literary basket. Mr McKishnie's literary success was achieved by periodical twenty-four hour shifts of concentrated endeavor, punctuated with only occasional recreation and it was during one of these semi-colonic pauses that he hied to Temagami for recuperation and nature study.

Archie McKishnie

Hot-foot on his trail there sped a reporter from a certain eastern newspaper, bent upon gleaning for his journal one of those stories for which Mr. McKishnie is famed. Strolling through the forest, the author suddenly came upon his pursuer, whose mission he instinctively sensed. With chameleon-like adroitness, the author instantly became a bushwacker, and in reply to the question as to whether he were Mr. Archie P. McKishnie, answered in his best French-Canadian dialect:

"Non, heem up there in cabin," indicating by a jerk of his head, the habitation of himself and guide, Joe Lebuc—a French-Canadian of those parts.

The stranger thanked him and retraced his steps, while Mr. McKishnie did a marathon, and arriving at the cabin in advance of this disturber of the peace, rushed at Joe Lebuc, between whom and himself there existed perfect understanding:

"Joe, do as I tell you, or I'll drown you!" he said.

"Oui," grinned Joe, "I do dat fer shure!"

"We're going to have a visitor. Until further notice, you're Archie McKishnie, and I'm Joe Lebuc. Mind!" he sternly cautioned.

"Me no got de educate!" Me no gentleman!" Joe expostulated.

"I'll fix that!" promised the author.

"You no do de dirty work! You no wash de deesh!" cried Joe concernedly.

"Leave that to me!" reiterated the author.

A few moments later, the reporter entered and the curtain rose on the first act of this little drama.

The following day the newspaper representative confidentially remarked to the author, incognito:

"This McKishnie's a queer duck!"

"Sure!" he shrugged. "He got two nature, dat feller! In de ceety, he write heem de book, but in de woods, he one wil' man!"

"Huh!" grunted his companion. "He sure is a queer one!"

"You talk books to heem, eh? is dat so?" the disguised author enquired.

"Lord, man! What do you think I came here to talk?" the disgusted reporter retorted.

"That's eet! You talk books, you make heem mad! You talk bears, you make heem glad! Here he know nothin' but shoot, feesh and sleep!"

A day or two later as the reporter began to get wise, necessitating redoubled vigilance, the strain began to tell upon Joe's temper and the author's back, and after entering into solemn conclave, it was resolved that it was easier to write a story than to act one under such circumstances.

The following day the reporter left with a tale under his arm, and Mr. McKishnie reserved for himself the dramatization rights of the little drama from real life, wherein he assumed a back-breaking, if not heart-breaking role.

Only One Stone Saved Canadians From Abyss

LIKE the late "Klondyke Boyle," W. A. Kennedy, the chief commissioner of the Save the Children Fund, is another Canadian whose exploits are sung by foreign mothers in the evening to put their children to sleep, especially the attack of the brigands who robbed the Save the Children workers on the lonely mountain roads of Macedonia a short time ago.
